Balmy Weather. Some New Capes Worn by Fashion's Votaries.

(Special New York Fashion Letter.) "Away from books, away from art, the day erased, the lessons done," fair woman turns to gowns and hats, and with a contented sigh dreams of Aladdin's palace of fashion.

One of fashion's votaries, Mrs. William C. Whitney, attracted my attention one bright morning last week, as she stepped from her carriage, followed by Mrs. John Wright Markoe, in front of a well known book shop on Fifth avenue. Mrs. Whitney were a dark green broadcloth; while over her shoulders was worn a cape of the same material, very prettily braided in black, down the front and around the edges, in a clover leaf pattern. There are two kinds of sarsaparilla: The best - and the rest. The trouble is they look alike. And when the rest lress like the best who's to tell them apart? Well, "the tree is known by its fruit." That's an old test and a safe one. and the taller the tree the deeper the root. That's another est. What's the root, -the record of these sarsaparillas? The with the deepest root is Ayer's. The one with the richest uit; that, too, is Ayer's. - Ayer's Sarsaparilla has a record of alf a century of cures; a record of many medals and awardsating in the medal of the Chicago World's Fair, which, ting Ayer's Sarsaparilla as the best-shut its doors against the rest. That was greater honor than the medal, to be the only aparilla admitted as an exhibit at the World's Fair.
