No time is saved by ironing napkins doubled before first ironing them single all over, if the primary consideration be a glossy, rich appearance. Damask requires a great deal of ironing to bring out its beauty. If we are desirous of having our table linen look its very best we should iron it until not a particle of dampness can be detected. Damask which the ironer thinks has been faithfully ironed often disappoints when unfolded, because linen holds dampness a long time and groups of people give from time to time. A company of eight women have found it possible to give in turn ample and appetizing luncheons to this number for the sum of two dollars. With a little discretion in marketing and a little care that a simple dish be perfectly cooked and served, the luncheons have proved gastronomic successes as well as pleasant occasions of friendly intercourse. One of the hostesses save that until the matter is looked into, it is not understood how much the non-essentials of a luncheon cost-the salted almonds and bon bons and various similar thingswhen ordered carte-blanche from a caterer. For example, most grocers sell the ordinary almonds shelled at about thirty-five cents a pound. Half a pound salted at home is an ample allowance for a luncheon of eight, and the cost is eighteen cents, the few drops of oil and the pinch of salt costing too little to estimate. The question of flowers was a serious one with the poverty luncheon hostesses, but it was solved by choosing Japanese blossoms which were subsequently used also, and consequently cost very little for one occasion. > The proposed Lutheran University probably will be built in Chicago, or, at least, very near that city. The purpose of the church is to found an institution on the model of the foremost foreign universities and to endow it with at least $2,000,000. The fund will be raised according to systematic plans already devised. According to a recent discussion of the project, Chicago was selected as the site of the institution on account of its central location. The strongest Lutheran cities in the country are New York and Philadelphia, neither of which was selected, for fear the Lutheran spirit in the other would be blighted with jealousy. The university is intended to unite all the Lutherans of the land and, as the Northwest is largely peopled by foreigners who are members of the sect, Chicago was deemed an admirable location for the institution. The honor of originating the idea of a Lutheran university belongs to the
