Contrast the death scene opened to let in amid the great throng of of a man who has measured life by the opened to let in amid the great throng of departed centuries the soul of the dying year. Under the tweifth stroke of the bruzen hammer of the city clock the patriarch fell dead, and the stars of the night were the funeral torches. It is most foriunate that on this road of life there are so many milestones, on which we can read just how fast we are going toward the journey's end. I feel that it is not an inappropriate question that I ask to-day when I look into your faces and say, as Pharaoh did to Jacob, the patriarch, "How old art theu?"

Not dead. Contrast the death scene of a man who has measured life by the worldly standard with the death scene of a man who has measured life by the Christian standard. Quin, the actor, in his last moments said, "I hope this tragic scene will soon be over, and I hope to keep my dignity to the last." Malesherbes caid in his last moments to the confessor: "Hold your tongue! Your miserable style puts me out of conceit with heaven." There are many who estimate their life by mere worldly gratification. When Lord Dundas was wished a Happy New Year, he said, "It will have to be a happier year than the past, for I hadn't one happy moment in all the twelve months that have gone." But that has not been the experience of most of us. We have found that though the world is a perished they shall band the monuments have crumbled the world has perished they shall band the world has perished they shall band the monuments have crumbled and the world has perished they shall band the monuments have crumbled in a perished they shall band the monuments have crumbled in a perished they shall band the monuments have crumbled in a perished they shall band the monuments have crumbled in a perished they shall band the monuments have crumbled in a perished they shall band the monuments have crumbled in a perished they shall band the monuments have crumbled in a perished they shall band the monuments have crumbled in a perished they shall band the monuments have crumbled in a perished they shall band the monuments have crumbled in a perished they shall band the monuments have crumbled in a perished they shall band the monuments have crumbled in a perished the points of the world is a false god.

Lord Wolseley is a splendid artist. He paints very well indeed, and makes pensative which is a perished to the top the paints very well indeed, and makes pensative which is a series of the paints very well indeed, and makes pensative which is a splendid artist. no hostility between the gospel and the merriments and the festivities of life. I do not think that we fully enough appreciate the worldly pleasures God gives us. When the worldly pleasures for gives us. When measuring life and the worldly way of measuring life and the worldly way of you recount your enjoyments you do not go back to the time when you were an infant in your mother's arms, looking up into wheel of time has turned very swiftly, the heaven of her smile; to those days when and it has burled us on. The old year shone down to you from the stars and river, that one word aroused his soul? It chanted to you with the voice of soaring was that one word, so long, so broad, so bird and tumbling cascade and booming sea and thunders that with bayonets of fire charged downthe mountain side! Joy! Joy! Joy! If there is any one who has a right to the enjoyments of the world, it is the Christian, for God has given him a lease of creathing in the reamles. "All are yours." everything in the promise, "All are yours."
But I have to tell you that a man who estimates his life on earth by mere worldly gratification is a most unwise man. Our life is not to be a game of chess. It is not to be a game of chess.
