Stealing of Rides.

At the request of the general manager of a large railroad company, Mr. Josiah Flynt, the tramp expert, spent two months recently in investigating the company's efforts to put a stop to the stealing of rides. He found that Low grades 12 @ 13 of all the roads in America this one had the worst reputation among the "hoboes." The "railroad fever" is hard to cure, but it is one that it bebooves the companies to treat heroically. Writing in the Century, Mr. 17 @ 1714 Flynt says: Can the tramps be driven off the railroads? It was to satisfy my own curiosity in regard to this question, and to find out how successful my employer, the general manager, had 274 been in his attempt to answer it in the affirmative, that I undertook the Whits kidney, choice, 1898 1 85 @ 1 90 investigation which I have described. Previous to his efforts to keep tramps off railroads, it had been thought, as he has stated, that it was cheaper to put up with them, nuisance though they were, than to pay the bills which a crasade against them would occasion. It has at last been demonstrated, however, that tramps can be refused free transportation by one of our greatest railroads, with a saving of expense to the company and with great benefit to the community, and the time has come when the public is justified in denanding that all the railroads take a similar stand in regard to this evil. If all the railroad companies would agree upon concerted action against tramps, in a few years the following very satisfactory results would be achieved: First, very few tramps, if any, would try to beat their way on trains; second, an appreciable number of them would give up tramping entirely, because their present railroad privileges are to many the main attractions of the life; third, a few would try to become professional criminals again, partly out of revenge and partly because tramping on the turnpikes would be too disagreeable, and, fourth, a large number would take to the highways, where some might be made to do farm-work, and where all would, at least, be in touch with farm life. The reader may take exception to the third possibility, and think that great harm would come of an increase in the professional criminal class; but as I have said, tramps are really discouraged criminals, and a return to the old life, of which they made a failure, would only land them in the penitentiary. It is probably impossible ever entirely to eliminate the vagrant element in a nation's life, and no such ses; hore is held out in connection with 51% 83% the reform advocated in this article; 40% 41% but this much is certain; had all the railroads been as close to tramps, dur-65% ing my first excursions into Hoboland, as one of them has recently be-..... 4.85c @ 4.90e | come, one man, at least, would not have attempted any free riding, and 716 816 would not have found so many tramps
