A NEW PULP MACHINE.

Gray and Charles H. Case have recently patented a pulp machine which patents are now pending.

The machine is capable of making paper from the thickness of tissue up to a thickness of three and one-half inches.

It makes the sheet without any rollers and will work any pulp, either rags, wood, wool or leather.

A company is being formed for the purpose of manufacturing leather binding for shoes.

There is a great demand for this kind of material. There are very few mills in the country that can handle 100 per cent leather skinning, and this particular machine is capable of making from two to three times as much as any other machine during the same period.

George C. Piton of Rockville, who is an interested party, is organizing the company. Gray and Case are both young men and after much hard work their efforts have been crowned with success.—Post.

THE SALVATION ARMY'S 10th SELF-DENIAL WEEK.

The Salvation Army stands as a powerful spiritual and social factor among the Christian nations of the earth. With their characteristic energy and thoroughness they are extending year by year their work into territories yet untouched, especially in the matter of financial questions by voluntarily depriving themselves not only of comforts, but even of necessities, in what is known as the "Week of Self-Denial." The money thus secured in this great annual effort is spent directly in the extension of their field of labor both at home and in the foreign missionary field.

Besides their regular missionary and relief work, the Salvation Army has for many years another and most urgent work of relief on hand. A desperate cry for help comes from India, where a fearful famine is raging at the present time. Not less than thirty million of Hindus are on the verge of starvation.

Salvationists are linked together in all lands in a strong bond of true brotherhood and there will be during Self-Denial Week of this year a great rallying force to the relief of those famished-stricken people in India.

A glance at the annual report for 1929 reveals a development in the Social operations of the United States of which the Salvation Army may well be proud. Their Shelters, Rescue Homes, Children's Homes and kindred Social institutions are highly commensurate for clean, neat and comfortable.

DEATH OF JOHN O'DONNELL, C. C. NAUGHAR, POMEROY, IRELAND.

The following clipping from an Irish newspaper, dated November 19, 1929, is reproduced in these columns at the urgent request of friends here who knew Patrick O'Donnell intimately and deeply mourn his passing away by death. (Ed. News.)

The Rev. John O'Donnell, C. C. Naughar, Pomeroiy, Ireland, died at his residence at Tullyallen, dist. of the parish of Tullyallen, dist. of this residence, Angharagh, yesterday morning after a brief illness. Father O'Donnell was slightly indisposed for the last two weeks of his life, and he attended to his duties up to a few days ago. On Thursday night, however, his illness took a serious turn. Medical aid was summoned, but he passed away at five o'clock on yesterday morning, attended in his last moments by the Rev. P. McElenny, C. C. Ballygavley. The deceased priest was born in the parish of Maghera, and completed his ecclesiastical studies in the Irish College, Paris, being ordained in 1872. He spent the last years of his life in the parish of Tullyallen. Needless to say, his demise has caused intense grief and a gloom over the entire district, which he worked so assiduously for the spiritual benefit of his people. He was a man of high character, and his death is a heavy charge. Though taking no part in politics he was always a strong Nationalist, ready when called upon to take his stand with the people. By his death we are losing a most generous benefactor, a cheerful and affectionate friend. May he rest in peace.

THE SALVATION ARMY'S 10th SELF-DENIAL WEEK.

The Salvation Army stands as a powerful spiritual and social factor among the Christian nations of the earth. With their characteristic energy and thoroughness they are extending year by year their work into territories yet untouched, especially in the matter of financial questions by voluntarily depriving themselves not only of comforts, but even of necessities, in what is known as the "Week of Self-Denial." The money thus secured in this great annual effort is spent directly in the extension of their field of labor both at home and in the foreign missionary field.

Besides their regular missionary and relief work, the Salvation Army has for many years another and most urgent work of relief on hand. A desperate cry for help comes from India, where a fearful famine is raging at the present time. Not less than thirty million of Hindus are on the verge of starvation.

Salvationists are linked together in all lands in a strong bond of true brotherhood and there will be during Self-Denial Week of this year a great rallying force to the relief of those famished-stricken people in India.

A glance at the annual report for 1929 reveals a development in the Social operations of the United States of which the Salvation Army may well be proud. Their Shelters, Rescue Homes, Children's Homes and kindred Social institutions are highly commensurate for clean, neat and comfortable.

"THE LAND OF FLOWERS."

CHARMING LETTER FROM MR. R. N. STANLEY.

Description of the Beautiful Places he is Visiting, The Handsome Hotel in the Quiet Forts, The Glorious Sunshine, Rainy Air and Blooming Flowers.—Meeting Friends from South Manchester in Florida. Many interesting observations. That we are Sure Will Entertain as well as Instruct Our Readers.

ENTIRE OF THE NEWS.—

Since our stay here we have had two slight frosts, that is, two nights the water froze in the pipes in the yard, but thawed out of itself during the day.

The peculiarity of this section is that if the thermometer stands at the freezing point at night, when Old Sol comes out in the morning he warms the air up very quickly and it is soon very comfortable out of doors.

I saw by the Herald that one Manchester man who had been down town Tampa was coming home to get warm. If he had crossed over to the east coast of Florida, he certainly would have gotten warm very quickly. Flowers are blooming here of dozens every day, and while some days are a little cool if it is cloudy, most of the weather has been very pleasant and delightful.

A few days ago we went over to St. Augustine, which is 27 miles from Jacksonville. We reached there about eleven o'clock, and wishing to see what there was to be seen, we took a carriage for the day, and was so fortunate as to secure a very intelligent negro driver, who knew all the points of interest.

Before dinner we rode about the city, visiting the Old Huguenot cemetery, the famous and quaint City Gates, with their little sentry boxes on the side, also "the oldest home in the country," and the houses are built of coquina, a natural shell stone quarried on Anastasia Island. The hotels are built of a formation of sand, Portland cement and horse coquina.

We visited Fort Marion a quaint old fort built of the coquina stone by the Spaniards and finished in 1735, covering more than 22 acres. The fort contains many dungeons and some of them have been used at different times for the confinement of prisoners. The British in the Revolutionary war used the fort as a prison for the Spaniards and the Spaniards kept in the fort a number of British prisoners. One of the prisoners was a man named John, who was kept in the fort for five years. As we ascended the steps to the top of the fort, we saw through the grated window a negro soldier in one of these apartments. One of the ladies remarked as we passed, "There's a prisoner now," and he hearing the remark replied "Yes, I'm a prisoner." We learned that he was sentenced to the fort for shooting another soldier through the hand during a "game of crap" in the late Spanish war.

The very narrow streets with their overhanging balconies were very curious and interesting. The old monument erected by the Spaniards in 1815 and the "old slave market," both in the Plaza. Fronting the Plaza is the old cathedral containing the oldest bell in the country, which bears this inscription: "Sancti Joseph Ora Pro Nobis 1512"

We went inside the Memorial Presbyterian church erected in 1829 by Mr. H. M. Flagler, an elaborate structure in the style of the Venetian Gothic of its prettily confident ways and bright eyes, maybe because of the legend of the "Robins in the Wood." There are instances, known to be true, of robins covering the bodies of the dead with their wings.

Another pretty myth is that the color of the robins is infinitely connected with the crown of thorns worn by the Savior, while still another legend is that the robins are the material for his robes. We saw the beach and saw the hoofs of the horses made but little indentation in its surface, while the noise of the wheels was very much as if they were on a paved street. We carried the leather so many miles on the beach and felt that we would have liked to have done so, but as the day was drawing to a close we were obliged to return to the city to take the train for South Manchester, if the cars are on time.

These cross-toe connections are arranged, as the running line is located at Rockville Junction.

We had the pleasure of receiving invitations to, and attending, a few evenings ago, a reception given by the local chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy to their National President, who resides here. The reception was given at the Windsor hotel and about 500 invitations were sent out. It was an elegant affair and carefully arranged in all its details.

We have made the acquaintance of some of the users here of the Cass private wheel, patented by Mr. A. W. Ellis, and had them very satisfactorily in their practice of this wheel. One gentleman who had one on his yacht, and liked it exceedingly well, wanted me to meet his engineer. He introduced me to him and I soon found that the engineer was "wound up" for a long talk on the subject, he liked it so well. In the course of his conversation he said that a friend of his, who had not tried the wheel, said that it was not so good for lack of it. The engineer replied if you will stand on deck when the yacht is going, I will reverse the wheel and I will guarantee to "stop the yacht so quick that I will throw you on your face." It was certainly the Cass wheel had established itself here.

Last Saturday I met Mr. Lawrence Case who is stopping with his mother and sister at the St. James hotel; they will soon be moving to the new hotel. I met Mr. John S. Cheney and S. Leslie Cheney at the same hotel, who are both on route for Havana, I believe. It was certainly very pleasant to meet some of our friends who are so far away. I brought with me a few dollars and a few cents, and I was very glad to see them. I met Mr. John S. Cheney and S. Leslie Cheney at the same hotel, who are both on route for Havana, I believe. Animals Entirely Different Stick Together. Horses and dogs are gentle and so it is not surprising to find friendship between them and smaller animals. It is not surprising to find that the choice of their companions is not a little strange. Many are the cases of dogs and cats who are inseparable friends. Compare the tissue paper houses of Japan, which like a tent tentures perfect ventilation, with a modern steam-heated apartment in New York. Some people are not content with lace curtains, but have three curtains at some windows. They are made of fine fabric and are very beautiful. They are made of fine fabric and are very beautiful.

MR. HOWELL HUMORIST AND IMPERSONATOR. Mr. Augustus F. Howell of Boston who is to appear in Cheney hall on Friday evening, March 24, under the auspices of Orford Lodge No. 35 Ancient Order of United Workmen, is said to be one of the most clever humorist and impersonators on the American platform at the present time and the press notices of his impersonations of the characters in "David Harum," that well known modern book that is making millions of people laugh all over the world, wherever the English language is spoken, is receiving special mention from press and from private individuals.

Regarding Mr. Howell's handling of "David Harum" the Haverill, Mass. Gazette says: "The impersonations of the several characters involved brought out strongly Mr. Howell's versatility, all of the parts being assumed in a manner that showed that the reader has added the cultivation acquired through thorough and painstaking study to a strong natural talent for mimicry and recitation. His powers were especially evident in his handling of the poetical songs. As the conception and description of such a character as David Harum could only be performed by a mind able to discern between true wit and ordinary coarse-grained humor and also to understand closely to observe human nature, so the artistic presentation of a character given by Mr. Howell indicates a character which is similar to that on his part.

A WRONG DATE NAMED. In our notice last week of the lecture to be delivered by Rev. Walter J. SURPRISE PARTY. About thirty boys and girls called at the residence of Miss Lillie Lestholdt on South Main street last Saturday evening and gave her a surprise party. It was clearly evident that she was unaware of the intentions of her friends, as she had retired for the night before the merry makers arrived. She had to respond to their calls however and join them in the pastimes of the occasion. They came well supplied with good things to eat and served a delightful course of refreshments. Accorded's orchestra furnished the customary music for the dancing and Professor Shout-the-Loudst did the prompting. Every emergency was provided for and a very merry time ensued until it was time to break away. In order to avoid breaking the Sabbath, a feature of the evening's entertainment was the clever elegant band work performed by Professor Taft, who amused the youngsters for about an hour and a half.

"SHAMROCK AND CROSS" AT ST. BRIDGET'S CHURCH SUNDAY LAST. The religious part of the Feast of St. Patrick was observed at St. Bridget's church last Sunday. The Rev. F. J. Murphy reviewed the life and works of the Saint, and especially noted the fidelity of the Irish people to the Catholic Faith. Among other things, he said, in the sixteenth century, a bloody and lustful tyrant Henry VIII. because he could not work the church and the Pope for his own base ends, determined to separate his dominions from their spiritual allegiance to the Chair of Peter. England, the apostate nation, obeyed his order, but the Catholics of Ireland obeyed God rather than man. When St. Patrick was among his Irish converts to the faith, he told them that if they were to be Christians they must be Roman. Father Murphy would apply the same words to men and women of today. If they are intelligent and consistent, and read the Scripture rightly they cannot follow Christ without obeying Peter. The Irish people, with the assistance of a few renegades or heretics, have never understood how they could be a secular herd to a religious body. Shame on the Irish who have bartered away their birthright of faith for a morsel of heretical potage. Such people have sold their souls for the sake of the great Saint, and spoiled any chances for entry in race or religion.

Using improper or defective lenses they imagine they see well, or if aware that their vision is below par, think it impossible for anyone to improve their eyes.
