STRUCK BY A BEGGAR.

George H. Allen of North Manchester was in Hartford last Wednesday afternoon and on approaching the Union station to take the train for home was accosted by a beggar, who appeared to be under the influence of liquor, and asked for money. The beggar was refused PRICES and repeated the request, but this time more in the form of a demand and on being refused for the second time struck Mr. Allen a blow in the face for which slight indignity he was promptly knocked down by Mr. Allen, who is somewhat muscular himself. A companion of the drunken beggar came to the rescue and both men attacking Mr. Allen knocked him down and tried to take money away from him. A crowd assembled however shows it has "the call" to fill situations, and that it remains interested in its graduates. Huntsinger graduates are on the bookkeeping and stenographic force of all the daily papers of Hartford, which is a very strong indorsement of our school. Huntsinger's is always twice as large as any other business college of Hartford and we are enrolling new pupils faster than ever.

We have plenty of capable, experienced, polite teachers who give personal instruction. Nearly everybody knows that the Huntsinger method of Actual Business Practice is the best. If you expect to take a business or shorthand course, you should call now to enroll,
