A PLEA FOR THE TAXPAYER

Will you kindly allow me space for a few comments in regard to this war that is causing so much excitement i Manchester at present, as to who should we a licen-e and who should not. First, as a taxpayer and a lover of fai play-from a moral standpoint-I think our clergym-n did their duty in fighting the town for no-license. They were defeated. Now from a business standpoint. I voice the sentiment of most of the taxpavers of this town that they, the clargymen, are not, or rather should not be in this fight. In some states a man may be a citizen but have no voice in town affairs if he is not a expayer, so I think these gentlemen hould give the taxpayer a chance to speak for himself. If a company of twenty-five men ppoint themselves a committee to reclate the sales of liquor, or abolish the Maro S. Chapman gave a history of the license and no-license vote in Man-chester since the passage of the local option law. He spoke of what he called the unbearable condition, from the existance of the saloons in Manthester during the last three years, which caused the organization of the committee of twenty-five who endeavored to carry the town for no-license last month, with the understanding that if the committee failed in that, an effort would be made to restrict the number of saloons. The committee of twentyfive represent the no-license sentiment of the town and the sentiment that favors the restricting of saloons. Mr. Chapman told of his interest in the town and of his objection to a saloem near the tracks of the Hartford, Manchester & Rockville Tramway Company. Judge Bowers began the examination of Mr. Chapman on a line which was objected to by Judge Wood, on the ground that it was not proper evidence. Judge Bowers thought it was and said he did not want the commissioners to "swallow everything Mr. Chapman said." The commissioners said they would not go into the testimony as to the effort that was made to carry Manchester for no-licence last month and excluded the testimony. Mr. Chapman said he believed Judge Bowers had no right to insult him on the witness stand by assuming he said things which were

And such preparations as there were oing on in the old home for days beore the festival! Why, the whole country about was redolent of spices and savory odors. There must be pumpkin pies, because "our Billy" would never know that it was Thanksgiving if he didn't have one of mother's pumpkin pies, and John would be terribly disappointed if he didn't have all the mince pie he wanted. There must be custard pie for Abby. who was in a distant city terming school, for she said that since she had been away she had never trated rich and golden with eggs and cream. And there was old-fashioned plum cake to be made for the little onesnot the rich kind that would make everybody ill who ate more than a crumb of it, but wholesome, spiey plum cake stuffed fuil of raisins-and the sugarlest of cookies; for the dears would be sure to get hungry before dinner was ready, argued mother, "and they must have something to stay them."

Then how the clouds were watched for days for the promise of snow. It was not Thanksgiving-a real, true Thanksgiving-without a sleigh-ride. Nowadays people think that winter sets in early if there is snow at Christmas, and there is very audable grumbling if Thanksgiving finds the ground with its covering of white. There is as much difference in the menu of the new-fashioned dinner to be served at Thanksgiving and that which was served on the old-fashloned table as there is in the spirit and obbeef was as great a luxury as the turkey was to the visiting children. There was cranberry sauce, mashed potatoes, squash, boiled onions and rurnips, plenty of relishes and pickles, then the plum pudding and all the array of pies. One had to be a valiant trencherman to face all this. Oh! and I forgot the big chicken pic, baked in a four or six quart milk-pan, and Cairly oozing richness.

There could not be a Thanksgiving without turkey any more than there could be an English Christmas dinner without roast goose. Turkey has been the national dish for the day ever since the first Thanksgiving was kept subject: The Power of Hope—No Better

Medicine Did a Man Ever Take—Forgive the Repentant—The Perfect Life is Come—Cultivate Hope.

(Copyright, 1981.]

Washington, D. C.—In this discourse Dr. Talmage would hit people out of degendency and bring something of inture of into earthly depression. The text is librews vi, 10, "Which hope."

There is an Atlantic Ocean of depth and fullness in the verse from which my text is taken, and I only wade into the wave at the beach and take two words. We have all favorite words expressive of delight or abhortence, words that easily find their way from brain to lip, words that have in them mornings and midnights, laughter and tears, thungeholts and dewdrops. In all the lexibons and vecabulaties there are few words that have for me the attractions of the last word of my text, "Which hope."

There have in the course of our life been many good angels of God that have excluded the darkness away, if lifted the curtains of the great future, or pulled us back from the precipiers, or relied down upon us the rapturous miss of the heavens, but there is one of the rangels that has done so much for us that we wish throughout all time and terraity to celebrate it—the angel of Hope. Ralming. "Now abideth foith, hope, charriy." And, though he essys that charity is the greatest of the three, he does not take one plume from the wing, or one surors from the cheek, or one melody from from the voice of the angel of my text, "Which hope."

That was a great night for our world when in a Betthehem caravansary the lamin the Arises of the charting in the skies and a star ropining to the Nativity. I will not solve you with the hask of a definition and tell you what hope is. When we sit libe controlled the properties of the charting in the skies and a star ropining to the Nativity. I will not solve you with the hask of a definition and tell you what hope is. When we sit libe chanting in the skies and a star ropining to the Nativity. I will not solve you with the hosk of a definition and tell you what hope i ing to the Nativity. I will not rising into grander heavens, seas of glass or you with the husk of a definition mingled with fire, becoming a more brilell you what hope is. When we sit liant glass mingling with a more flaming hungry at a table, we do not want fire. "Which hope."

Alytical discourse as to what bread Hope on, and, though you may never and it on; pass it round; give us a hear of your son's reformation and others alice of it. John speaks of hope as a pure hope: "Peter calls it a "lively hope;" Paul styles it a "good hope," a "sure hope," a "rejoicing hope." And all up and down the Bible it is spoken of as in anchor, as a harbor, at a helmet, as a program of the program

When we draw a check on a bank, we must have reference to the amount of mosey we have deposited, but Hope makes a draft on a bank in which for her benefit all heaven has been deposited. Hope! May it light up every dungeon, stand by every sickbed, lend a helping hand to every orphanage, loosen every chain, caress every forlorn soul and tarn the unpictured room of the almshouse into the vestibule of beaven! How suggestive that mythology declares that when all other deities fled the goddess of Hope remained!

It was hope that revived John Knox when on shipboard near the coast of Scotland he was fearfully ill, and he was requested to look shoreward and asked if he knew the village near the coast, and he answered: "I know it well, for I see the steeple of that place where God first opened my mouth in public to His glory, and I am fully persuaded how weak that ever I now appear I shall not depart this life till I shall glorify His holy name in the search and when you will have a resource." "His hope mass are requested to hook shoreward and asked if he knew the village near the coast, and he store the seeple of that place where God first opened my mouth in public to His glory, and I am fully persuaded how weak that ever I now appear I shall not depart this life till I shall glorify His holy name in the search when a check door and did not go in at all.

To another class of persons I introduce the angel of hope, and they are the invalidas. I cannot take the diagnosis of your disorder, but let hope cheer you with one of two thoughts. Such maryelous cures are being wrought in our day through medication and surgery that your invalidism may yet be mastered.

Persons as ill as you have got well. Cancer and tuberculosis will yet give way before some new discovery. I see every day people strong and well who not long ago to say the most review of the maryelous cures are being wrought. On the person is a till.

But if you will not take the hand of hope for earthly convalescence let me point you will not take the hand of hope fo When we draw a check on a bank, we dawn at the feast, while the elder brother, fe till I shall glorify His holy name in His good time you will have a resurrection body, about which we know nothing and for twenty-five years more he expect that it will be painless and glorious preached. That is the hope which sustained Mr. Morrell of Norwich when departing this life at twenty-four years of age he declared. "I should like to understand the secrets of eternity before tomorrow morning." That was the kind of hope that the corporal had in the battle when, after several standard bearers had lallen, and turned to a lieutenant-colonel and said, "If I fall, tell my dear wife that I die with a good hope in Christ and that I am glad to give my life for my country." That was the good hope that the conjugate that I am glad to give my life for my country." That was the good hope that the conjugate that it will be paintess and glorious expect that it will be paintess and glorious beyond all present appreciation. What must be the health of that land which never feels cut of cold or blast of heat, and where there is no east wind sowing preumonias on the air, your feetness greater than the foot of deer, your eye-sight clearer than eagle in sky, perfect health, in a country where all the inhabitants are everlastingly well?

You who have in your body an encysted bullet ever since the Civil War; you who have kept alive only by precautors and self-denials and perpetual watch-I die with a good hope in Christ and that I am glad to give my life for my country." That was the good hope that Dr. Goodwin had in his last hour when he said: "Ah, is this death? How have I dreaded as an enemy this smiling bried!"

No beter medicine did a man even take

I dreaded as an enemy this spailing friend!"

No beter medicine did a man ever take than hope. It is a stimulant, a febrifuge, a tonic, a catholicon. Thousands of people long ago departed this life would have been living to-day but for the reason they let hope slip their grasp. I have known people to live on hope after one mang was gone and disease had seemed to by hold of every nerve and muscle and intery and bone.

Alexander the Great, starting for the wars in Persia, divided his property among the Macedonians. He gave a village to to see, a port to another, a field to another and all his estate to his friends. Then Perdicas salred, "What have you kept for coarsel?" He answered triumphantly, "Hope."

And, whatever else you and I give away, we must keep for ourselves hope—all comporting, all cheering bope. In the heart of every man, woman and child that hears at reads this sermon may God implant this principle right now!

Many have full assurance that all is right with the soul. They are as sure of braven as if they had passed the pearly panels of the gate, as though they were already seated in the temple of God unrolling the libretto of the heavenly chorister. Compritulate all such. I wish I had it, too—full assurance—but with me it is hope. "Which hope " Sinful, it expects forgiveness; troubled, it expects relief; hereit, it expects required; between the first parkets wings to hift; shipwrecked, it expects wings to him the very construction, with all subtracted and surfering sub too-full assurance—but with me it is loope. "Which hope." Sinful, it expects brighted hope." Sinful, it expects brighted hope." Sinful, it expects briefs hift; shipwrecked, it expects lifeboat; bankrupt, it expects eternal riches; a prodigal, it expects the wide open door of the father's farmhouse. It does not wear itself out by looking backward; it always looks forward. What is the use of giving so much time to the releanal of the past? Your mistakes are not corrected by a review. Your losses cannot, by brooding over them, be turned into gains. It is the future that has the most for us, and hope cheers us on. We have all committed blunders, but does the talling of the roll of them make them any the less blunders? Look shead in all matters of usefulness. However much you may have accomplished for God and the world's betterment your greatest usefulness is to come. "No," says some one, "the most of my years are gone and therefore my usefulness." Why, you talk like an infidel. Do you suppose that all your capacity to do good is fenced in hyore grapeity to do good is fenced in hyore capacity to do good is fenced in hyore capacity to do good in fenced in the following hyore capacity to do good in fenced in the following hyore capacity to do good in fenced in the following hyore capacity to do good in fenced in the following hypore capacity to do good in fenced in the following hypore capacity to do good in fenced in the following hypore capacity to do good in fenced in the following hypore capacity to do good in fenced in the following hypore capacity to do

'THE MINER'S DAUGHTER."

"The Miner's Daughter," which the Modern Woodmen of America are to produce in the Armory opera bonse on Thanksgiving night, is one of the best constructed dramss ever written and is meeting with good success on the professional stage to day. In a recent criticism of the play the New York papers spoke very nighly of the piece and aded all their readers to see it. teaches a strong moral lesson.

The play is entirely beyond the reach f amateurs, but in the production o next Thursday evening the parts are in hands of capable persons. Each characer seems fitted to the role assigned and Manager Dougherty feels assured of a smooth production. It will certainly eclipse snything ever attempted on the

The comedy team composed of Mrs. L. J. O'Dowd and Laban B. Adams is a strong one. People who advocate women's rights will be delighted to see the fight Mrs. O'Dowd well make for A pretty woman will come in to the plot, and shatter the warm friendship existing between Mr. Dougherty and

Mr. Ogden. She will cause these two men of broad military experience to fight a duel. 'The Miner's Daughter' is always in the deal and will appear as Dougherty's second in this thrilling Tickets are selling rapidly. Some good seats are yet obtainable. A large delegation of the Rockville Camp of Modern Woodmen will be present to witness the production, with a view of presenting the play in that city at some date in the near future under the auspices of the order there. Watch for the beautiful lithographs which will be displayed this week. Secure your seats early for this soul-stirring play. Re-served seats can be procared at Ogden's studio, at the stores of F. W.
