An entertainment entitled "Lights and Shadows of a Great City" will be presented in the Swedish Lutheran church, Church street on Wednesday evening, April 23rd. It will consist of stereopticon views and will be managed by Mr. P. R. Johnson who comes here under the auspices of the Young People's Society Idon. The proceeds of the entertainment will be used in paying for the installation of electric lights in the parsonage, a work which is now in progress.

The parsonage has just been painted, papered and generally decorated, and is now greatly improved. The Young People's Society propose to bear the extra content of the services of this organization are accurated and in opium joint, and one of those are rested was a young woman who was a member of an excellent family. She occupted a bunk and was stupid from the funes, of the pipe she had been smoking. That girl but a few years ago had visited Chinatown for the fune with a slumming party.

"Just for fun ahe hit the pipe.' Here friends thought it a good, joke and watched her. She did not particularly like the smoke, but the drug exercised a strange fascination over her. It lingered in her mind for days and disally one night she slipped away from home as the leading musical company of this place. The demands for the services of this orchestra are active and the boys are this or other are active and the boys are People's Society propose to bear the expense of putting in the electric lights, at least. These improvements place the parsonage in the front rank among modern cottages, and add to the comforts of Parson Anderson and his family very much.

The demands for the services of this was done until at last she became a confirmed victim to the optum habit. Her family discovered her secret and made repeated efforts to tre het, but falled and finally gave her up.

"And the girl said: It was that slumming party that ruined my life. Why do not the authorities prevent such practices? Slumming should not be allowed for it will cause others to fall.

DR. BAINE HONORED.

Last week Thursday, Dr.M. M. Maine of this place took a prilgrimage to the Hub of culture and refinement, and to the celebrated seat of learning known as Harvard College, where he received the distinction of being admitted as an honorary member of the Harvard Dental Chapter. This honor was conferred on our fellow townsman at the instance of the first production, which took place here, and that the players merited a much larger audience. The young people put in considerable work in preparing for this second production, and it is to be regreted that their efforts were not better appreciated. They certainly are a capable body of amateur performers, and played to large business in the Armory opera house last winter.
