Red roses shade from bright cherry to dark cardinal, pink roses from white to pale pink, and so through the gamut of shades and colors.

The prospects for ribbons as a millinery trimming are more encouraging than they have been for some seasons. So far, it is always a flat-ribbon trimming, which is generally used in conjunction with flowers. Soft ribbons and delicate soft colors are the chief ideas. Shaded ribbons are used to some extent, but it remains to be seen how the buyers

The lace drapery veil, or piece lac put on a hat so as to simulate this idea, is prominent and novel in the French millinery. It is this graceful drapery idea which will be much seen at Nice and Monte Carlo during the next few weeks, and it is at those watering places that the typical new fashions for spring are first worn.

One material laid on another by way of trimming is a marked feature of the fashion of the day. Cloth bands or applique designs of cloth on velvet gowns, points or patterns laid upon cloth, or with the rain. The bodice is finely taken by the Boers and knows how to obey orders. With her sisthe trimming fabric, as, for instance, Riviera, the trotteuse skirt and the ago, before her cloth edged with siik, are adopted. Ribbon makes good strappings or bands, and can be had in such variety that there is no difficulty in meeting the requirements in the way of color or relief of the -dress material.

The average woman will certainly want a blue serge for the morning, and a black cloth frock of some sort for the afternoons at this time of year. Brown, of course, is some women's color, and hen it may well take the place of black: but a dress of dark hue is a necessity at my rate for those who live in London. It is good news to the woman who has to make the question of utility her first consideration, that Parisians will be wearing a great deal of black, and oches of black on almost everything.

Later on, I would suggest various inpensive materials in the form of ac-rdion-plaited, and even now, if you have bought some remnants of soft gray or black stuff, why not have them ac dion-plaited in preparation for house frocks for early spring? Such a gown may be ever so simple, with a soft band swathed round the waist, finished per-haps with fringed sash ends. This frock so comparatively inexpensive that it worthy of consideration.
