plans in a general way, a committee consisting of A. Willard Case, George M. Barber, and George W. Ferris was appointed to take into consideration the advisability of changing the tenure of ownership of the borse sheds near the church. Under present arrangements, the ownership of these sheds is vested in individuals, and as a result uniformity of action regarding their use, their betterment, or the necessity of improving their general appearance is difficult to secure. It is de-mad advi-able that the ownership op these sheds be vested in the church, and that there be one person appointed to have charge of same, and direct how they may be used. The opinion was expressed that one third of the present number of sheds could profitably be eliminased, and the
