AT CHENEY FARM

BUY PLACE AT PRESENT TIME. OUTDOOR CROPS WELL UNDER CULTIVATION. ENLARGING OUTPUT OF PRODUCTS.

Some interesting features of Hethouse Farm, to be seen there now—will build new and larger greenhouses at once—making specialty of French, English and General Market.

The Cheney farm is a busy place at the present time and the spring work has started there in full swing. Notwithstanding the backwardness of the season, a number of crops are already well advanced in the fields and are being cultivated day by day.

Thomas L. Brown, the farm foreman has about a dozen men at work under Mr. Cheney's superintendence and already the young crops are progressing well. It is the purpose of the farmer to cultivate the farm more extensively this year than last and he expects to be in a position to supply vegetables, etc. for the general trade about town in much excess of the amount required to enrich the Cheney family.

Mr. Cheney has rows of peas and cabbage planted and fairly well advanced in the field at the present. He also has about a quarter acre of Noroton Beauty potatoes under cultivation now and are growing nicely.

Mr. Cheney expects to put out 10,000 sprague plants this year and in two years hence will doubtless be in a position to supply the local market with this succulent vegetable in great quantities. Mr. Cheney also has beds of lettuce, celery, beets, and tomato plants which will be ready for the market in a short time if the weather continues warm.

An inspection of his greenhouses at the present time affords an attractive sight. In one compartment he has tomatoes in bearing, the vines carrying bunches of fair sized tomatoes. During the cool nights and sunless days artificial heat is employed, but when there is sunshine such as we have been enjoying this week the natural heat is ample to push along the plants at a satisfactory pace.

The most interesting growth of all is seen in the greenhouses devoted to cucumbers at this time. The earth in this compartment is strongly fertilized and the plants give forth an amazing growth. They reach for almost half a roof and fill the space completely with vines which are in bearing at the present time and from which very choice cucumbers are being called day by day.

Mr. Cheney has been picking cucumbers from this greenhouse for the past two weeks and the supply is steadily increasing. Another interesting exhibit under glass is the rhubarb supply of what is known as the wine variety of rhubarb. The stalks of this rhubarb are white colored, are not so large as the mammoth cream kinds that grow in the open field, but are very much more choice, tender and palatable.

Mr. Cheney intends to try the experiment next season of growing these wine varieties of rhubarb in total darkness. This is an experiment of somewhat recent invention and is said to give a very delicate and delicious flavor to the rhubarb and to furnish it without the excessive acidity which is characteristic of the wine varieties grown out of doors. The season for the wine varieties of rhubarb is about past now and the mammoth varieties out of doors are coming along to take the place of the wine varieties.

Mr. Cheney is making a specialty of growing French endive under glass, and is the first person in the United States to grow this succulent vegetable in this manner for the general market. He is planning to enlarge his output of French endive for next year's use. This is grown in the field and afterwards placed in the greenhouse and kept in a dark place until the leaves become bluish and crisp, tender and appetizing.

Mr. Cheney also during the past winter has kept a supply of mushrooms which are grown in the dark. His mushrooms from three to four crops of mushrooms during the year. At this time his supply of the present crop is practically exhausted.

Mr. Cheney is making preparations for the construction of a new greenhouse directly south of his present one. This will be 200 feet long and 100 feet wide, which will be more than double the length of his present greenhouse, and will enlarge his capacity for producing hothouse vegetables during the years that are to come. Mr. Cheney is very enthusiastic in the work on the farm and in the greenhouse and is giving his business his entire attention. He very courteously showed a representative of The News about the place this week furnishing the general information regarding same as outlined above.

EXCURSION TO SAVIN ROCK

Committee Have Selected Saturday, August First as Date.

The St. Mary's Young Men's Club have appointed the following committee to make arrangements for their annual excursion to Savin Rock: John H. Hyde, chairman; Robert J. Smith, Thomas J. Rogers, William Fleisch, and Samuel Turkington.

The excursion will be held on Saturday, August 1st. For a number of years past the St. Mary's Young Men's Club have made a practice of taking an excursion from here to Savin Rock, and have always selected Saturday as the day for their annual outing.

They have always been very successful on these occasions, except in one or two instances when down-pour rain prevented. Given suitable weather there is little doubt of the success of their present undertaking.

They have always put on efficient committees whose foresight and energy enabled them to achieve successful success as the years roll by. That they will have a similar experience this year admits of no doubt as the young men in charge are all capable, and have sufficient enterprise and executive ability to carry on the project to a successful issue.

OBITUARY

WILFRED HESTON. Wilfred, the infant son of John and Mrs. Heston of Spruce street died of bronchitis last Sunday and was buried at five o'clock Monday afternoon.

Rev. Manning B. Bennett, pastor of the St. Mary's Episcopal church officiated. Interment was in the East cemetery.

Mrs. NELSON SKINNER. Mrs. Martha Gleason Skinner, wife of Nelson Skinner of Highland Park, died Saturday in her 92nd year. Her funeral took place Tuesday afternoon.

Rev. W. F. Davis, pastor of the South Methodist church officiating. Burial was at the East cemetery. The bearers were: Town Clerk Sanford M. Benton, E. T. Carrier, George H. Barber and George Davidson.

Mrs. Skinner was a devoted member of the South Methodist church, in the welfare of which she had labored continuously for almost half a century and retained an active interest in its well-being until within a very short time preceding her death.

Besides her husband she leaves a son, Alfred Skinner of Bridgton, a brother, William Gleason of Bridgton, and a grandson who has been making their home with her at Highland Park. They will return to their mother in Bridgton.

ANNIVERSARY SALE. Palace Furniture Company Use Year in Business. The Palace Furniture Company is the Trotter Block on West Center street has rounded out one year's business and in their large advertisement which appears elsewhere in our columns today will be found a statement by the firm in which they call public attention to this fact.

They are celebrating their first anniversary by a marking down sale of more ordinary importance. The goods they designate in their advertisement are such as housekeepers find them in the greatest need of at the present time when they are in the throes of house cleaning. Ranges, carpets, furniture, mattresses, door screens, window screens, hammocks, blue flame oil stoves, table lamps, dinner sets, kitchenware, clocks, and such like articles are included in the list, and for all of these different lines they are naming prices that are very attractive indeed.

They are endeavoring to make it worth your while to go to the advertisement where there are many others which neither time nor space permit to be catalogued in their advertisement.

TRANSFERRED LARGE MILLER. Patrick Calhoun of Oak Grove street, the well known truckman and horse dealer, had the contract to move the large boiler from the Manchester freight station and place it in position in the new boiler house which is being constructed at the St. James church.

The boiler weighs three and one half tons and was heavy proposition to handle. Mr. Calhoun with a heavy truck, a strong team of horses and with the aid of four able bodied men managed the job easily, and the boiler is now securely placed in its location in the new boiler house. O. Trass has the contract to build the brick foundation under the boiler. The boiler room will have a concrete floor as one of the necessary arrangements for same can be made.

SOCIAL SERENADE

Concluded From Page One

Friendship that existed between the groom and his best man, and also of the loyal and kind hearted acts of Foreman Cheney. Some reminiscences were also related. Mr. Watkins extended, on behalf of the active and honorary members of the company their best wishes and felt sure that Foreman Cheney's wedded life would be a happy one.

Mr. Watkins then presented Mr. Cheney with a mahogany high-boy which had been consigned in one corner by the Stars and Stripes, and hoped that it would serve as a gentle reminder of the kind regard the friends of the bride and groom had for their friend.

He also presented a roll of the active and honorary members of the company and said that the roll was written in ink and might fade away, but the spirit of true friendship that had prompted them to assemble there would last as long as life itself.

Foreman Cheney responded very graciously and alluded to the loyal friendship that he had for the boys and thanked them for the handsome testimonial of their esteem. He assured them that it would find a prominent place in his new home. He spoke very feelingly and said that when he came out on the steps of his home and saw all the boys there, he couldn't have felt more proud if he was nominated for president of the United States.

Three cheers and a trow were given for Foreman Cheney at the conclusion of his remarks, and a toast was drunk to the future happiness of Mr. and Mrs. Cheney. A buffet luncheon prepared by Catherine O'Leary was then served.

The band played several southern melodies; Edward F. Taylor sang "Virginia" and the Welman Brothers sang a medley of southern airs. Toastmaster Burke then took his seat at the foreman's desk and called for remarks from almost everybody in the room. Some of the remarks were of a jocular nature and the foreman was

MEMORIAL DAY

LARGE ADDESSIONS MADE TO WAGON RANKS BY F. OF A. AND VETERANS OF LATER WAR.

Order of Exercises at Cheney Hall Which Will Begin Promptly at 2 O'clock—Salvation Army Brass Band in New Uniforms Will Head Procession—Right of Way Streets Given for Parade.

Memorial Day exercises will begin at Cheney hall at two o'clock Saturday afternoon, May 30th, with the following order of exercises:

- 1 Singing, Cover Them Over with Beautiful Flowers.
2 Service by Drake Post.
3 Singing, The Vacant Chair.
4 Address of Welcome.
5 Singing, Tinting on the Old Camp Ground.
6 Prayer, Rev. Manning B. Bennett.
7 Singing, Nearer My God.
8 Oration, Dr. H. E. Peabody.
9 America, Quartet and audience.
10 Benediction.

Rev. Dr. Geo. W. Reynolds, W. W. Green, Commander of the Cheney hall last evening by a good sized assemblage of his friends. The evening's exercises opened with an address of welcome by the president of the lodge, Oscar L. Anderson, after which an entertainment was furnished. The Scandia quartet sang several numbers which were heartily enjoyed. Charles G. Wides, of Worcester, Mass., known as the "bobo juggler," furnished lots of amusement and his efforts were loudly applauded.

Admission program of fourteen numbers followed the entertainment for which Johnson & Wetman's orchestra furnished music and Prof. C. Foley provided refreshments. The program was finished during the intermission and the eighth anniversary went down in the history of the lodge as a very pleasant affair.

CONTRACT LET. Last evening the board of directors of the Washington Local Orange Lodge let the contract to W. W. Green to furnish new chairs for Orange hall. There are to be 100 single seats and 100 double seats. The chairs are to be made to order and of maple. The order was secured under competition among the local furniture dealers. It was deemed necessary to have these new chairs here before the coming of the convention of the Orangemen which is to assemble here, as soon previously noted in these columns.

WILL MOVE TO TOWN. Dr. George W. May of Williamstown, who has had an office in the Cheney block for the past few years, and who has been coming to town every week has decided to move to this place and will take up his residence here about June 1st. Dr. May has been in the habit of coming here every Thursday, but his patronage has grown to such proportions that he has found it incumbent upon him to locate here.

MOUNTAIN LAUREL
The mountain laurel (Kalmia latifolia) will blossom this summer, for the first time as the legal state flower of the state of Connecticut. The legislature at its 1907 session passed the following brief law, probably one of the shortest passed at that session:

"The mountain laurel, Kalmia latifolia, is hereby made, constituted, and declared to be the state flower of the state of Connecticut." The bill was approved April 17, 1907, but it did not become a law until September 1, following, and consequently the laurel has not become the state flower until the latter date, so that its bloom, which is the only part of the laurel of state significance, will come this summer as the legal floral representation of the state for the first time.

The selection of the laurel as the legal flower of Connecticut has a peculiar appropriateness. It is a Connecticut flower, although not unknown elsewhere, and it seems to thrive the best in the immediate vicinity of the rocks and ledges which are so characteristic of Connecticut hills.

The laurel tree or bush is also an evergreen. It also is a wild flower in all that the name implies. Its natural home seems to be among the hills and rocks and woods, and it is said that it absolutely refuses to be tamed.

Various attempts have been made to domesticate the laurel. The leafy mould from its native woods and rocks have been taken with it and every attempt possible made to give it all its natural elements in the way of nourishment for its roots, but it has persistently refused to be domesticated; so that, although it is now the legal state flower, it must be sought mainly in its native wilds. But it comes in the most beautiful part of the year, and now that it has been made the state flower, there will be an additional incentive to seek the woods and rocky hills in search of the most beautiful wild flower that has for centuries made the state of Connecticut one of its homes.

There would seem to be an appropriateness in making some public recognition of the first blooming season of the mountain laurel, as the flower of the state and we can suggest no better way than to have its legal advent recognized in connection with the closing exercises of the schools of the state. It may necessitate a romp by the children in the woods and among the rocks and ledges, but they will return with rosy cheeks and the attendant nature lesson which they will have learned will not be without value.—E. S.

GRAND ARMY NOTES
Drake Post, No. 4, G. A. R. will attend Memorial service at the North Methodist church on Sunday, May 24th, and Rev. W. F. Taylor, the pastor of the church will preach a sermon suitable to the occasion. The members of the Grand Army will assemble wearing citizens' clothes and Grand Army badge and white gloves. The services will take place at 10:45 a. m.

The Epworth League has invited Drake Post, No. 4, G. A. R. to be their guests at the South Methodist church Wednesday evening, May 27, at their usual custom. The members of the Grand Army will assemble at the South terminus at 7:30. It is an annual practice of the Epworth League to have members of the Grand Army as their guests shortly before Memorial Day. A collation is to be served, vocal and instrumental music rendered, short addresses made and a general pleasant social time furnished the aging veterans. It is expected that the gathering this year will rank favorably with its predecessors in all respects.

NEW DELIVERY WAGON
P. J. O'Leary, the well known caterer, has put a team on the road for the purpose of delivering goods from his bakery and ice cream parlor. Mr. O'Leary now has three delivery wagons at his disposal, one at his bakery and ice cream parlor and one at his residence. It is therefore very convenient for persons needing any of his supplies to give their orders for bakery goods or ice cream by phone and Mr. O'Leary will see to it that they are promptly delivered. This addition to his service will doubtless be greatly appreciated by his many patrons throughout the city.

SUNDAY TRAVEL
A goodly number from this place took occasion of the delightful weather last Sunday for their first interurban trip to Stafford Springs. It is quite likely that during the coming months many pilgrimages will be made from this place to Sny Lake and to Crystal Lake on the Stafford Springs interurban line. The travel was so heavy on the Stafford Springs line last Sunday that cars had to be run half hourly between Rockville and Stafford Springs in order to meet the requirements of the case and give the public the traveling facilities needed.

ORFORD PARK
ORFORD PARK is situated on West Center St., near the corner of McKee St., has a frontage of 900 feet on said street extending back towards the Hartford road about 1200 feet.

It has been rightly named a park and it is the intention of the promoters to develop it along the lines that the name denotes. It is high, dry and slightly, every lot being as level as a table. Five wide streets have been laid out on the property and it is the intention of the company to plant an avenue of poplar trees on each of them in the fall of the year.

Most of you probably know this tract of land as the Foley Farm and the Lyness Farm, but you do not know it today as Orford Park and it is to get the people of Manchester to visit our tract that we decided to advertise it in the manner we are now doing. We want your cooperation in the development of this beautiful tract of land, and we promise you an enormous return on your investment if you join us at this time. If you do not join us now you will later, but you will pay more for the privilege. We desire to sell about 30 lots at this time and the proceeds of the sale will be put back into the property to enhance the value of our property (and your property if you join us now.)

We fully realize that we could get more for our lots next year, but procrastination is the thief of time, we believe in doing things NOW. And again, we are firm believers in the growth of these United States and especially South Manchester. The present sewer system runs along Hartford road in close proximity to our property as also do the water mains of the South Manchester Water Company and we are at present negotiating with the company with a view to having same extended through the tract. We are about three minutes from the trolley and 15 minutes easy walking to the Cheney mills. We are also on the west side of the town, the most exclusive section today and the part of South Manchester that will grow more rapidly than any other in the future.

One has only to visit this section and see the beautiful homes that have been built there in the past few years and the many houses now in course of construction to be convinced of what we claim. We have the courage of our convictions and we want you to get the same conviction. The courage will come naturally enough. Visit Orford Park on Thursday, May 28th, our opening day and remember you do not have to buy a lot in order to get a present. They are given away free merely to advertise our property.

A JUDICIOUS INVESTMENT

A judicious investment is worth a lifetime of labor. Not what a man earns, but how he invests his earnings is what makes him rich. What are you doing with your money? Where are you keeping your savings that you have accumulated for a rainy day? These are questions every thinking person should answer for himself and those dependent upon him. If you have deposited in a bank and are satisfied with the rate of interest you receive we have nothing to say. If not we can help you.

The man whose money is earning him no more than 4% is robbing himself. He defeats his own objects. The average man cannot save a fortune. Fortune must be sought. It does not come to him who waits. The man who would have things must go after them and get them. It costs nerve, courage, manhood and work—nothing more. If you cannot do it yourself, your money must do it for you. Your investment is your surplus energy working with another man's hands and brains. If you are utilizing your opportunities in life, every dollar you own should be working for you, and you should own 100 cents on its earning power.

When you take part in this great sale by becoming a purchaser of a lot in Orford Park, you simply make possible what you alone could not do—but you receive the profits from every cent of investment you may make. You do not risk or jeopardize your money. You put it where it will work and earn for you. What can you get that is safer than good real estate? What that is capable of earning you more profit?

The Standard Syndicate

By Annie Hinrichsen

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press

Mr. Harrington wore a broad brimmed felt hat and a white lawn tie and dress almost as well as if he had a good tailor. He wore his hair in a pompadour before he met Della. Without it he couldn't make a speech. In no man's house he sweeps it off his noble brow. In frenzied moments he catches it wildly, and dazed eloquence results. The distinguished young southern congressman has struck a happy medium between a pompadour and a Fourth of July orator. He has the profanity, the all-wise know-it-all of the college,udent and the cheap wit, staid statesman, I work-to-please-the-public manner of the Independence day speaker.

Mr. Harrington read the article several times. He was not nervous at reading about himself but in this sketch was a personal rebuke which at once amused and stung him. It had been cut from a provincial paper by a clipping bureau. It was not signed, but under the heading "News From Washington" were the words "Copyright by the Standard Syndicate."

That night Mr. Harrington visited a friend in the city of Boston. A famous young man intimated that Ramon had met Della, and a battle followed. The following morning Mr. Harrington was badly beaten and the hot tempered congressman somewhat disgraced.

The bureau sent another clipping from the Standard syndicate's news, Washington.

Mr. Harrington refused to discuss his black eye, but a story is being told concerning the affair. There are several aspirants for Mr. Harrington's seat in congress, and he is making strenuous efforts to strengthen himself with the leaders of his party in his district, many of whom are old Confederate soldiers. At the Army and Navy club a few days ago Mr. Harrington conferred with an ex-Confederate colonel his intention of introducing a bill penalizing the soldiers who fought under Jefferson Davis. The ex-Confederate colonel resented Mr. Harrington's proposed legislation as an insult to the south and proceeded to average the heads of his best case. Mr. Harrington's friends regret that in his eagerness to make a grand stand play he has shown so little political shrewdness.

The congressman wore picturesque and called his secretary.

"Smith," he thundered, "wire the editor of that paper for the address of the Standard Syndicate and the name of the editor who writes the 'News From Washington'."

The editor's reply came: "Standard Syndicate, Washington, D. C., H. W. Carleton, president, Don't know who writes 'News From Washington'."

The city directory did not contain the name of the Standard syndicate nor of H. W. Carleton, and at the postoffice the clerks did not know the address. The mail for the syndicate was placed in a lock box. The clerks did not know who called for it.

One morning the congressman read in the "News From Washington" Mr. Harrington was a most chivalrous gentleman. It said that he promised his fair constituents to introduce and secure the passage of a bill providing for the free distribution of hairpins and toilet pretenses. With such a measure tend to curtail our supply of free government funds, if we should give the matter serious consideration. A new issue may confront us and result in the formation of two new parties—the hairpin-party and the toilet party. We call the attention of our constituents and thinkers to this proposed bill of Mr. Harrington's."

The Standard syndicate's secretary entered the room.

"I've found the Standard syndicate," she announced triumphantly. "I've tracked them down at last."

Mr. Harrington picked up a riding whip.

"Where are they?"

"In the Cairo."

"Who are they?"

"I don't know. A girl—a stunner—came out of the postoffice. I was waiting and walked up the street ahead of me. She had a handful of letters, and one of them dropped. I picked it up on the sidewalk. I picked it up, and the address was the Standard Syndicate."

"I followed her, and she went to the Cairo. The elevator boy told me her name was Carleton and gave me the number of her suit. She's probably the daughter or sister of H. W. Carleton. The elevator boy didn't know anything about him."

Mr. Harrington went to the Cairo. From the elevator he walked rapidly down the corridor to the door of the Carleton suite. He pressed the electric button and took a lighter grip on his riding whip.

"Who are they?"

"Mr. Carleton?"

"He's not in."

"Where is he?"

STEPS FROM ROMAN ROAD

And Injured On State Street Last Sunday Evening

While Patrick McCarthy of Eldridge street was returning from the St. Francis hospital last Sunday evening on the car due here at 8.45, he was carried past his destination, and when in front of Teachers' hall attempted to alight from the car which was still in motion, and falling on his head was rendered unconscious. He was picked up by David Warnock and assisted by James Roberts, who happened to be following the car with his team, carried to Dr. Sloan's office.

Mr. McCarthy regained consciousness soon after being brought into the doctor's office, and Dr. Sloan washed his wounds in an antiseptic solution and stopped the flow of blood. It was found that Mr. McCarthy had a small cut on his right eyebrow and that his forehead was somewhat swollen, but no other bones were broken. He was coming in contact with the macadam road. He was more or less dazed but apparently not seriously injured. There was no answer, and he opened the door and went in. He sat down and waited a few minutes. Then he walked restlessly about the room, looking at pictures and bric-a-brac.

In his wanderings he came to a table on which were several long, bulky envelopes and a mimeograph. Each envelope bore in Miss Carleton's handwriting a copy of a newspaper.

Beside the mimeograph lay the article from which the copies had been made. He read the heading: "News From Washington." Copyright by the Standard Syndicate.

There was a soft rustle behind him, but he did not turn.

Mr. Harrington. She walked around the table and stood opposite him. "Mr. Harrington?" Her voice trembled with emotion.

"You wrote this?" he asked coldly. She nodded.

Mr. Harrington's new home directly south of the charming Rogers street is progressing and in a reasonably short time will be ready for occupancy. It is a very beautiful home, perched upon a hill with picturesque, congenial, beautiful surroundings and is altogether a delightful place in which to live. The young bride will find her lines very pleasantly laid in South Manchester, which is one of the most beautiful country places in all New England, especially in the bloom of the year—as now.

RETURNED WITH BRIDE.

Knight E. Rogers of Prospect street returned with his bride last Sunday, from a wedding tour in Europe, where they have been for some weeks past. The work on Mr. Rogers' new home directly south of the charming Rogers street is progressing and in a reasonably short time will be ready for occupancy. It is a very beautiful home, perched upon a hill with picturesque, congenial, beautiful surroundings and is altogether a delightful place in which to live. The young bride will find her lines very pleasantly laid in South Manchester, which is one of the most beautiful country places in all New England, especially in the bloom of the year—as now.

GONE TO MAINE.

James and Mrs. Sherman left town for Buckport, Me., the home of Mrs. Sherman's childhood, and the place where Mr. Sherman claimed her as his bride, while he was a member of Company G, First Connecticut Volunteers Infantry, at the time of the Spanish-American war in 1898. Mr. Sherman is going to work in a shop there where power boats and gasoline engines are made. He has worked in the Pope factory at Hartford for a considerable period, and his knowledge of mechanics will help him well in his new position in Maine.

INCREASING.

Clean, prompt and courteous attention to customers has increased popularity of the men's sales.

Boston's Boston bread made from Boston's Boston flour. Boston bread has been baked in our own ovens, 18 cents a quart. Why buy canned bread when you can get these for this price at O'Brien's Bakery, Main street, South Manchester.

"Can you give me?"

"What are they?"

The Standard syndicate goes out of business and H. W. Carleton devotes his time to criticizing me—but not on paper.

Mr. Carleton gathered up his envelope and dropped them into the open fire and laid the mimeograph on them. Then she turned to Harrington and held out her hands.

"The Standard syndicate has gone out of business," she said.

The earliest hospitals have been some sort of places which were designed for hospital work, although at first they were little more than shelters, or cheaply built almshouses. In the Roman camps there was a medical staff to look after the wounded.

Among the earliest hospitals on record is that said to have been founded by Valens in Caesarea 370-50 A. D. and the one built in Rome by Fabiola, a Roman lady, although, like most others of that and even later times, both institutions probably were almshouses as well.

The origin of our present hospitals is traced to the monastic arrangements for the care of the sick and indigent. Every monastery once housed the sick and convalescent.

Almost the earliest record of the hospital in England is in the life of Lanfranc, archbishop of Canterbury, who in 1080 founded two, one for leprosy and one for ordinary diseases. In the sixteenth century London, between 1719 and 1747, established five public and five special ones established in Dublin, one in Cork, one in Liverpool, and in 1797

ANNOUNCEMENT. Alexander Atkins, of 15 Winter street, South Manchester, Conn., says: "After several years' use of Don's Kidney Pills have proved to me that they are all that they are represented to be. In 1891 I had such severe pains through my kidneys that I could hardly get around. I found no relief until I got Don's Kidney Pills at Bapley's drug store. They helped me at once and soon cured me of the attack. I have kept them in the house and when I have a light return to the trouble I take a few doses and they never fail to bring relief."

HARTFORD OPERA HOUSE. The inauguration of the two-hour entertainment of moving pictures, and three vaudeville acts at the Hartford opera house on Monday attracted a good attendance. The prices have been reduced for this line of shows, and abundant applause, both for the acts and for the scenes in the motion pictures, showed that the crowd was well pleased. There are nine matinees of the bill, among them being illustrated songs by A. C. Duggan of New York, who is a good singer and has some pretty songs on his list. Baby Eddy, an 11-year-old child, is giving a concert program says halls from Europe, entertained very nicely in a song and dance specialty, and Scott, an actor who does tricks with a violin and also sings a number of Scotch songs, was the star of the evening. The dancing and acrobatic stunts were that of the veteran. They are clever on the boards and very quick on their feet. This act came direct from the Harvard Theatre in Boston, and did that of Scott. Among the picture films shown are Michael Straggles, School Days, Oily Kida, The Scullion's Dream and 'An Mourning for the loss of Oily. The bill will be changed on Thursday of each week. The top end performance is worthy of large audiences. It will be repeated twice daily.

ANNOUNCEMENT. In her address to the young women of Bryn Mawr college on Social Legislation and the Ballot for Women, Miss Jane Addams declared that women must feel that they are responsible for many of the social conditions in the industrial world before any permanent reforms can be effected.

ANNOUNCEMENT. George Meredith, the greatest of living English novelists, was recently interviewed at his home, Box Hill, Surrey, by William T. Stead. Meredith lives all alone, happy among his birds and flowers and regarding all human things through the mellowing perspective which eighty years of experience affords the good and great. Very interesting are the words of this master scholar on the subject of the human mind, the woman question, and the beginning to see—namely, that women are fitted for most of the avocations open to men, and by their attention to the duties of their life they will no longer be open to the accusation of being narrow and craven."

ANNOUNCEMENT. Miss Florence Nightingale, the "angel of the Crimea," who is still alive and clear brained at the age of ninety, has been showered with honors by her grateful countrymen, but has all her life been denied the only privilege which she has asked for—the ballot. This remarkable old lady says: "I ask my reason for believing in woman's suffrage. It seems to me all reasonable and just. A taxpayer ought to have a voice in the disposition of the money he pays, including, as this does, the cost of his education. It is a human right. It would be an appropriate tribute to Miss Nightingale's greatness if before her death the book she has written should be published. It is a book which should be read by every citizen of the English government instead of the empty honors of medals and the freedom of cities."

ANNOUNCEMENT. A Blind College Girl. Miss Margaret Hogan, a blind girl who is enrolled in the second year class at Barnard college, New York, has made a record so brilliant that it is quite possible she may carry off the available honors when she graduates. Miss Hogan has a scholarship which covers the cost of her tuition, and a philanthropic lady pays her board. She states that each blind student in a college should be provided with a reader, and Miss Hogan's plan is to have a reader for each blind student. She has been successful in securing the services of a reader for herself. She has been successful in securing the services of a reader for herself.

ANNOUNCEMENT. The Woman's Henry George League of New York passed resolutions protesting against the proposed amendment to the constitution of the United States which would give the right of suffrage to women. The resolutions were passed by a vote of 100 to 0.

ANNOUNCEMENT. K. O. C. CONVENTION. State Officers Chosen and Reports Read—Change Needed.

ANNOUNCEMENT. At the annual convention of the Knights of Columbus held in Meriden last week, the following officers for the coming year were elected: State deputy, James J. Kennedy of New Haven; state secretary, Lawrence J. Dulan of Hartford; state treasurer, John C. Boland of Torrington; state warden, Margie Fitzgerald of New London; state advocate, James Collins of New London. The principal contest at the convention was for the office of state deputy. Mr. Kennedy's opponents were Martin J. Cunningham of Danbury and John A. Hearn of New Britain. The finances of the order were reported by the officers to be in a healthy and satisfactory condition. The report of the state deputy showed that there are now 64,142 insurance members and 135,000 associate members, making a grand total of 200,248 as compared with 176,908 a year ago. The report shows a gain of 23,340 for the year. There are 42 state councils of the order and 1277 subordinate councils. These figures indicate a gain of two state councils and of 84 subordinate councils during the year.

ANNOUNCEMENT. It is apparent from the above figures that the associate members more than double the insurance members in the order at large. It is time that a revision of the fundamental laws of the order be made to meet present day conditions of the K. O. C., as indicated above. The sense of right and justice of the insurance members should and doubtless in the near future will make the necessary corrections whereby the privileges of the associate members will be amplified to a degree commensurate with their numbers and importance. Taxation without representation is decidedly un-American.

ANNOUNCEMENT. UNUSUAL AGENT. While playing ball on Mt. ## BIG AUCTION SALE

OF BUILDING LOTS TO TAKE PLACE AT ORFORD PARK IN THIS PLACE NEXT WEEK.

Valuable Presents To Be Distributed Free including Three Pianos—See Display of Gifts in Ragarty's Drug Store Window—Some Interesting Facts About This Grand Auction Sale.

Edward J. Holl, the well known real estate dealer and auctioneer, will conduct an auction sale of building lots at Orford Park in this place Thursday, Friday and Saturday, May 29th, 30th and 31st respectively, beginning each day at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

In accordance with his usual custom Mr. Holl will give away beautiful presents, chief among which will be a piano to each day of the auction. These three pianos have been purchased from Watkins Brothers and are of the highest quality.

That is of much more significance than people generally suppose is that Mr. Holl is a resident of this place, is one of our energetic young business men, has large financial interests here, takes a personal interest in the properties which he places upon the market, does a great deal himself, toward their development and retains an interest in the way in which they are developed. This fact is clearly in evidence in noting what he has done on the tracks which he has already placed upon the market in this manner.

On Ridgewood Terrace, which he sold at auction last year there are already nine new houses and other owners of lots are planning to build there. On the Foster Farm tract which Mr. Holl is developing he himself has constructed six tenement houses and is planning for further buildings there, thus adding to the value of the land owned by persons who made purchases from him and showing his continued interest in the development of properties in which he is concerned, it is Mr. Holl's purpose to do in like manner with Orford Park. He himself will conduct the sale and is determined to develop that tract as he has already done on the others.

The streets on Orford Park are 90 feet wide and Mr. Holl is planning to place wide of popular view on each of these streets during the coming fall. He has already negotiated for the purchase of said trees. It can readily be seen that taking it all in all the purchasing of a home site in Orford Park is a most desirable thing, and is one sure to prove a profitable investment in the years that are to come.

Persons going to the auction sale will get off the cars at McKee street and walk south to Orford Park, which may be reached from McKee street at the junction of West Center in about three minutes time.

WILL ENTERTAIN.

Knights of Columbus to Give Whist Party at Foresters Hall Wednesday Evening.

Campbell Council, No. 578, Knights of Columbus are to give a whist party at Foresters hall next Wednesday evening for which suitable prizes will be presented, and ice cream, lady fingers, etc., will be served.

This is a complimentary party to all those who took part or aided in any way in making the late fair given by the Knights of Columbus such a fine success. The officers and members of the Council are appreciative of the very excellent assistance rendered them by the young women and others who took part in the success of the fair.

NEW JEWELRY CONCERN

LIKELY TO LOCATE VERY SOON IN FACTORY OF EASTERN BISCUIT COMPANY OVER NORTH.

A sub-committee of the New Industries Committee of the Manchester Business Men's Association consisting of E. L. G. Hobbins, H. O. Bowers and R. L. Lottis, has just returned from a visit to Providence, R. I., where they were met by the officials of the Eastern Biscuit Company at that city. They have a number of specimens of the outfit of the jewelry manufacturing concern that is contemplating occupying the Eastern Biscuit factory at Manchester. The committee made a thorough examination of the various patents and machinery owned by the concern, studied minutely their manufactured products and returned highly pleased with the result of their investigations. They have a number of specimens of rings and other articles of jewelry made by this concern which may be seen at the bank and which Mr. Russell will be very much pleased to explain to any member of the Manchester Business Men's Association or any other interested in the coming of this concern to Manchester. The committee satisfied themselves fully with reference to the products of this concern and the value of such assistance as could be given to the benefit of their work in which they are engaged.

The following program was then carried out:

Contraalto solo, Anthea. Mary Keating; Emma Keating at the piano.

Beritone solo, Where the River Shanties Flows, Thomas Quinn; Lullie Dalton at the piano.

Soprano solo, Mona, Margaret Moyal; Emma Keating at the piano.

Soprano solo, My Virginia, Willie Quinn; Lullie Dalton at the piano.

Tenor solo, If You Love As I Love, Arthur Keating, Emma Keating at the piano.

Margaret Murphy presented Margaret T. Price, the retiring president, with a beautiful dark blue silk umbrella having a gold and pearl handle. The handle bears the engraved initials "M. T. P." Miss Murphy's address as follows:

"Three years ago you were chosen president of this auxiliary, and the officer who performs her duty, however light it may be, is worthy to receive her own share of the honor. I am proud to have you carry it in having finished your work as president of this society, you have some pleasing recollections of pleasant times spent in the faithful discharge of your duties, and when you visit our lodge room, we trust you will not feel like a stranger in a strange place, but be at home with warm friends."

"On your retirement from office the members of this auxiliary have chosen me to perform an agreeable duty for them, so, in behalf of my sister officers and members I take pleasure in presenting to you this umbrella as a token of esteem in which you are held by them. Their general plan is so far as they are able to employ local people in the operation of their proposed new industry in this town."

We close Saturday from one o'clock 'till six o'clock. Kindly let us have your orders before 11 o'clock Saturday morning to insure delivery, as we shall not deliver after we open at six o'clock, O. F. Toop.

HOME MADE PIES.

One of the strongest specialties of O'Leary's bakery is the home made pie which are now being produced at that well known establishment. The price on these pies has been reduced recently and during the bested term housekeepers will find it much more economical to buy O'Leary's home made pie than to make them themselves. Furthermore, these pies are the product of an expert baker and are sure to give you a trial order and the pie will do the rest.

THIRTEENTH ANNIVERSARY

CELEBRATED BY LADIES AUXILIARY TO THE A. O. N. AT CHENEY HALL LAST EVENING.

Stage Entertainment, Short Address, Presentation of Retiring President, Free Refreshments and Free Dancing. Statue of St. Patrick Donated—Stained Glass Window To Be Given.

The thirteenth anniversary celebration of the Ladies Auxiliary to the A. O. N. was held in Cheney hall last evening and heartily enjoyed by about a hundred persons.

Margaret Murphy, the president of the Auxiliary delivered an address of welcome and introduced Rev. W. J. McTurk, the chaplain of the division. Father McTurk spoke encouragingly of the excellent work the Ladies are doing in this community and gave them all manner of encouragement to continue same.

He took occasion to announce that the suggestion had been made by the Ladies Auxiliary to donate a stained glass window for the new baptistry that is at present being built at St. James church.

In conjunction with this announcement Father McTurk also made it known that the local division of the Ancient Order of Hibernians held voted to contribute a statue of St. Patrick to be placed in St. James church.

Father Plunkett spoke a few words of cheer to the Ladies Auxiliary assuring them of his hearty interest in their welfare and his willingness to be of such assistance as could be given to the benefit of their work in which they are engaged.

The following program was then carried out:

Contraalto solo, Anthea. Mary Keating; Emma Keating at the piano.

Beritone solo, Where the River Shanties Flows, Thomas Quinn; Lullie Dalton at the piano.

Soprano solo, Mona, Margaret Moyal; Emma Keating at the piano.

Soprano solo, My Virginia, Willie Quinn; Lullie Dalton at the piano.

Tenor solo, If You Love As I Love, Arthur Keating, Emma Keating at the piano.

Margaret Murphy presented Margaret T. Price, the retiring president, with a beautiful dark blue silk umbrella having a gold and pearl handle. The handle bears the engraved initials "M. T. P." Miss Murphy's address as follows:

"Three years ago you were chosen president of this auxiliary, and the officer who performs her duty, however light it may be, is worthy to receive her own share of the honor.
