BIG AUCTION SALE

OF BUILDING LOTS TO TAKE PLACE AT ORFORD PARK IN THIS PLACE NEXT WEEK.

Valuable Presents To Be Distributed Free including Three Pianos—See Display of Gifts in Ragarty's Drug Store Window—Some Interesting Facts About This Grand Auction Sale.

Edward J. Holl, the well known real estate dealer and auctioneer, will conduct an auction sale of building lots at Orford Park in this place Thursday, Friday and Saturday, May 29th, 30th and 31st respectively, beginning each day at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

In accordance with his usual custom Mr. Holl will give away beautiful presents, chief among which will be a piano to each day of the auction. These three pianos have been purchased from Watkins Brothers and are of the highest quality.

That is of much more significance than people generally suppose is that Mr. Holl is a resident of this place, is one of our energetic young business men, has large financial interests here, takes a personal interest in the properties which he places upon the market, does a great deal himself, toward their development and retains an interest in the whole thing from him. This fact is clearly in evidence in noting what he has done on the tracks which he has already placed upon the market in this manner.

On Ridgewood Terrace, which he sold at auction last year there are already nine new houses and other owners of lots are planning to build there. On the Foster Farm tract which Mr. Holl is developing he himself has constructed six tenement houses and is planning for further buildings there, thus adding to the value of the land owned by persons who made purchases from him and showing his continued interest in the development of properties in which he is concerned, it is Mr. Holl's purpose to do in like manner with Orford Park. He himself will conduct the sale and is determined to develop that tract as he has already done on the others.

The streets on Orford Park are 90 feet wide and Mr. Holl is planning to place wide of popular view on each of these streets during the coming fall. He has already negotiated for the purchase of said trees. It can readily be seen that taking it all in all the purchasing of a home site in Orford Park is a most desirable thing, and is one sure to prove a profitable investment in the years that are to come.

Persons going to the auction sale will get off the cars at McKee street and walk south to Orford Park, which may be reached from McKee street at the junction of West Center in about three minutes time.

NEW JEWELRY CONCERN

LIKELY TO LOCATE VERY SOON IN FACTORY OF EASTERN BISCUIT COMPANY OVER NORTH.

A sub-committee of the New Industries Committee of the Manchester Business Men's Association consisting of E. L. G. Hobelsthal, H. O. Bowers and W. J. McTurk, the chairman of the division, have had a meeting to discuss the outfit of the jewelry manufacturing concern that is contemplating occupying the Eastern Biscuit factory at Manchester. The committee made a thorough examination of the various patents and machinery owned by the concern, studied minutely their manufactured products and returned highly pleased with the result of their investigations. They have a number of specimens of rings and other articles of jewelry made by this concern which may be seen at the bank and which Mr. Russell will be very much pleased to explain to any member of the Manchester Business Men's Association or any other interested in the coming of this concern to Manchester. The committee satisfied themselves fully with reference to the products of this concern and the value of the patents which they possess, and Mr. Russell will be very pleased to convey this information to any persons who wish to secure it. Mr. Hobelsthal and Mr. Bowers in like manner will be pleased to add to the knowledge of any inquirers.

It was deemed best to invite interested parties to come to the bank for the reason that it is centrally located, that Mr. Russell can be found there practically all the time during business hours and that it will be very convenient for any one wishing information to get it from him at that point. There are one or two details that remain to be adjusted with reference to financing the coming of the new concern to Manchester and prospects of the successful issue of these arrangements seem very favorable at this writing.

The sub-committee certainly are very favorably impressed with what they saw and learned on their visit to Providence, and feel reasonably assured that the necessary arrangements can be made with reference to financing the project and bringing the new industry to Manchester in the near future.

A meeting of the committee is to be held next Monday evening, when it is believed that the necessary information will be at hand and doubtless as a meeting of the Manchester Business Men's Association further action will be taken on the matter. Meanwhile all interested parties are cordially invited to call and see Mr. Russell, Mr. Hobelsthal or Mr. Bowers with reference to any plan, but be at some with warm friends.

On your retirement from office the members of this auxiliary have chosen me to perform an agreeable duty for them, so in behalf of my sister officers and members I take pleasure in presenting to you this umbrella as a token of esteem in which you are held by them. One of the strongest specialties of O'Leary's bakery is the home made pie which are now being produced at that well known establishment. The price on these pies has been reduced recently and during the bested term housekeepers will find it much more economical to buy O'Leary's home made pie than to make them themselves. Furthermore, these pies are the product of an expert baker and are sure to give you the best of both worlds. Give one trial order and the pie will do the rest.

The thirteenth anniversary celebration of the Ladies Auxiliary to the A. O. N. was held in Cheney hall last evening and heartily enjoyed by about a hundred persons.

He took occasion to announce that the suggestion had been made by the Ladies Auxiliary to donate a stained glass window for the new baptistry that is at present being built at St. James church.

In conjunction with this announcement Father McTurk also made it known that the local division of the Ancient Order of Hibernians held voted to contribute a statue of St. Patrick to be placed in St. James church.

Father Plunkett spoke a few words of cheer to the Ladies Auxiliary assuring them of his hearty interest in their welfare and his willingness to be of such assistance as he could to them in the beneficent work in which they are engaged.

The following program was then carried out:

Contralto solo, Anthea. Mary Keating; Emma Keating at the piano.

"Three years ago you were chosen president of this auxiliary, and the officer who performs her duty, however light it may be, is worthy to receive her own share of the good things of your work as president of this society, you have some pleasing recollections of pleasant times spent in the faithful discharge of your duties, and when you visit our lodge room, we trust you will not feel like a stranger in a strange place, but be at some with warm friends.

On your retirement from office the members of this auxiliary have chosen me to perform an agreeable duty for them, so in behalf of my sister officers and members I take pleasure in presenting to you this umbrella as a token of esteem in which you are held by them. Their general plan is so far as they are able to employ local people in the operation of their proposed new industry in this town.

We close Saturday from one o'clock 'till six o'clock. Kindly let us have your orders before 11 o'clock Saturday morning to insure delivery, as we shall not deliver after we open at six o'clock, O. F. Toop.

HOW IT WORKED HERE.

The West Haven Herald in its issue of last Saturday published the following:

"At the last meeting of the Business Men's Association it was voted not to do any newspaper advertising for a month or so but to have the exhibition of the air ship. It was stated that the press agent could probably secure a lot of free notices in the state papers on promise of doing advertising later—if there is any money left after the $2,100 has been paid for the air ship.

"It was conceded that the daily papers would have to be paid for a space ad, before any notices would be run, but the press notices will be sent to the smaller papers with offers of free rides on the flying horse and other attractions when they come to Savin Rock. If they will run the notices free.

"As the West Haven Herald exchanges with every newspaper in Connecticut, it is a matter of amazing anticipation to know the editors will receive such a glorious proposition.

"As a ride on the flying horse in the White City costs but a cent, the offer to the country editors may not be so readily declining after all."

The matter to which the above alludes was brought to our attention last week by a letter from the press agent of the Savin Rock Business Men's Association, Mr. A. J. Stoen, in which he requests the publication in our column of about one column of free complimentary matter relative to the attractions at Savin Rock, in exchange for admission to the attractions at Savin Rock and the White City.

Mr. Stoen was promptly informed by us that he could have the notices published in our column at our regular advertising rates and that cash for same should accompany the notices.

We did not hear from Mr. A. J. Stoen since we did not receive the check nor the order, nor do we expect that we shall.

The only reason his request for free notices in our column was not complied with was the waste basket, where it properly belongs, was that we wished to demonstrate to him, and through him to those with whom he is associated, how "intensely alluring" his offer of a free ride on the flying horse at the White City was to this "country editor." FLAG DAY PROCLAMATION.

Governor Woodruff Designates June 15 For Observation.
Governor Woodruff has designated Monday, June 15, as Flag Day, and urges its observance in the following proclamation—

State of Connecticut.
ROLLIN S. WOODRUFF, Governor.
A PROCLAMATION.
Legislative enactment makes it the duty of the Governor to appoint a time to celebrate recognition of that day in 1777, when the Continental Congress adopted as the national emblem our beloved Stars and Stripes, I therefore designate Monday, the fifteenth day of June as

FLAG DAY.
I recommend and urge the citizens of Connecticut to display the national flag—symbol of a united people appreciative of the heritage of political liberty and awake to its duties—from all public buildings and schoolhouses, from their homes and shops and places of trade, thereby befittingly their loyalty to the flag and to those great principles of which it is the emblem.

By His Excellency's Command: Theodore Bodenwein, Secretary.

BEALE BANKRUPT.

James E. Beale, who conducted a printing business in Wallingford, filed a petition in bankruptcy in the district court of the United States last week. He made oath that he was not possessed of $50 to pay the filing fee. His schedule shows liabilities of $2,049.37, of which $328.12 is unsecured. He claims assets of $6,300, of which $4,000 represents value of machinery and tools and $2,300 insurance policies. Mr. Beale was formerly employed in newspaper work in this town, and for a good number of years published a newspaper in Berlin.

THE SHINING ROAD.

Come, sweetheart, let us ride away beyond the city's bound.
And seek what pleasant lands across the distant hills are found.
There is a golden light that shines beyond the verge of dawn.

So, sweetheart, let us mount and ride with never a backward glance.
To find the pleasant shelter of the valley of Romance.

Before us, down the golden road, float down from heaven's charyng viaduct.
Where two adventurous companies clash in mighty deeds.

So on now, my heart, I see afar the light of welcome shine!
So loose the rein and cheer the steed and let us race away.

To seek the lands that lie beyond the borders of To-day.
Oh, we shall hear at last, my heart, a cheering welcome cried.

As o'er a clattering drawbridge through the gates of Dreams we ride!
—From Meredith Nicholson's Novel, "The Port of Melting Lead."

SELLING LAND.

A. E. Skinner has sold for Elsworth Loomis one of his farms of about 30 acres in North Berlin, in Adams County, to the late Mrs. Elsworth Loomis, widow of the late Elsworth Loomis, deceased.

TRANSPORTATION CHARGE.

The transportation charge on the material entering into a pair of shoes made in a St. Louis factory averages one and one-quarter cent. The transportation charge, to place the pair in the hands of a consumer in any part of the United States is about equal to the postage on an ordinary letter. An ordinary pair that retails at St. Louis at $6, for example, will have paid the railroad about 40 cents. From ten pounds of mail made in Pittsburg the railroad will have obtained a trifle over two cents, and from ten pounds of wire two and one-half cents. An ax made in Wisconsin butler may be sent to New England or New York for half the cost that the bill for it would go by mail. Poultry from Texas for less than a cent and a half a pound; beef from Western ranges at less than a cent a pound.

From a lecture on "The Freight Rate Structure," by Logan G. McPherson, Lecture on Transportation, at John Hopkins University.
Season Thompson in Chicago Tribune says "the high cost of meat is not the result of freight rates, for since 1880 they have declined 20 per cent."

WOMANLY WISDOM.

To free a house of mice, sprinkle red pepper where they are likely to run in it. They will soon leave.
Don't discourage the boy when he comes to you with his car or troubles. Sympathize with him, and thank God he confides in you.

The sweetest, purest ornament that a woman can wear, and of which she should feel proudest, is the clinging necklace of her baby's arms.

You can make pretty and durable table mats of the bottoms of used grape baskets. Tear off the sides and cover the bottom part with white linen or table oilcloth.

Hang a palm-leaf fan by each bed. It is a comfort to have a breeze in command when you lie in the middle of a sultry night, and the cooler air and the regular motion of fanning often soothes one to sleep.

Some folks are troubled by potatoes turning dark after being boiled, especially at this time of the year. If they are peeled an hour or so before they are cooked, and left to stand in cold water, they will keep size and white.

Butter may be kept solid in warm weather if put in a bowl that is covered with a plate and set in a pan of cold water. Then fold a towel and lay across the plate under the corners hanging down into the water, so that the pan is cool, if possible, a drafty place, and the evaporation will keep the butter firm.

To keep flies from roosting on the screen door, ready to come in when it is opened, take a piece of an old window shade, or else a folded piece of manila paper as long as the door is wide and about half a yard wide, and cut into narrow strips to within two inches of the top, then tack across the top of the door.

When, upon the movement of the door, when opened, will keep the flies away. This is why his marriage was a failure. He did all the courting before marriage. He never talked his brains over with his wife. He thought of her with only as a cheap housekeeper. He never dreamed that a wife deserved praise or compliments. He married an ideal and was disappointed to find his person's appearance and his wife's heart were dazed to treat another woman.

PARSONS THEATER.

A ROYAL FAMILY.
A Royal Family, a comedy in which Annie Russell made a success, will be presented all next week at Parsons Theater by the Hunter-Breadford. The production will have a special significance because of the resignation of John Wesley, who has for two seasons been one of the popular members of the organization and played many important roles in the summer plays. He will have the role of Father Anselm, a young clergyman. Last season Mr. Wesley was the leading man for Carolina Wilson in "The Three of Us," one of the big successes in New York and later during the present spring, created a role in a new play that is to be staged at next fall. Seats are now on sale for next week's performance, but it has been found necessary to announce that no seats will be held later than 1 p. m. for matinees and 7 p. m. for evening performances, unless paid for, the rule being to prevent the spending of much time in handling money, when the time is needed for the accommodation of other buyers.

Albert Willis has won University scholarship from the United States Army service and is back to his home in this town.

When Like Cures Like.

Miss Reed almost ran down the steps from the house bearing the sign "Miss Yvonne, Clairvoyant." The lady's communications had upset all her preconceived plans and ideas. Her mother had always opposed her trying anything of the kind, but when she saw the sign an overwhelming desire to inquire into things unknown had beset her. The rest of the party had gone down to the beach and after staying in her room at the summer hotel for an hour with a headache she had slipped out to buy a fascinating kimono she had seen in a Japanese store the day before. The clairvoyant's sign had caught her eye, and for a whole hour she had sat in the darkened, stuffy little room with her nerves all at strained attention.

She went back to her room and, walking straight to the dresser, looked regretfully at the picture of a frail boyish face surrounded by a little plain gold frame.

"I never would have thought it," she whispered. "I thought you were the truest, noblest thing on earth. And she said the man with black eyes, now one of my circle of acquaintances, was deceitful to the core and that if I did not separate his path from mine he would prove the blighting sorrow of my life. Jimmy, dear, it seems impossible to believe you could bring sorrow into any one's life, but it must have been you she meant, for you are the only man of my acquaintance who has black eyes." And, being only sixteen and believing she had come face to face with the big sorrow of her life, she threw herself across the bed and sobbed because she felt that she must immediately take steps to separate Jimmy Kent's path from hers—Jimmy, who had lent her his red ball to play with the very first day she went to kindergarten.

James Kent, unconscious of the heavy cloud of suspicion hovering over him, came from his ocean swim and lay idly on the sand, hoping Minna would get over her headache and walk down to the beach. Finally, sunburned and glowing, he went back to the hotel and found her on the veranda, gazing listlessly at the sea.

"It is as bad as all that, little girl! You are the most forlorn looking specimen I ever saw," he said as he sat on the porch rail and eyed her commiseratingly.

Minna, feeling the sympathy in his eyes, wished fervently that they were any other color than black.

"What on earth made you have black eyes, Jimmy, dear?" she asked sympathetically.

Jimmy opened the offending orb very wide in his surprise.

"By Jove, you are a queer one, Minna. You told me yesterday down on the beach that I had the most beautiful eyes you ever saw. Positively made me bluish to know I was so beautiful. I'm afraid to die in them last night lest I should spoil 'em. And now—Minna, you haven't met any fellow with gray eyes, have you?" he asked suddenly.

"No, I haven't," indignantly, "but black eyes are treacherous—and I never could trust them."

"Whether they were treacherous or not, we left an open question, but they certainly proved persuasive, and finally Jimmy was in possession of the whole story."

"The Reed, you ought to be ashamed of yourself! Do I look like a blighting sorrow?" mimicking her former tone. "I might as well ask for a writ in the book. It's cheap at $10, and if the girl over her fear of black eyes, by Jove, I'll send you another ten tomorrow." And Miss Ardetta, enthusiastic under the powerful stimulus of the girl's words, said fervently:

"If your eyes only weren't black!" she cried. "I look here, my child. I'd give an ideal set of congress to change them to suit you if I could. You know I've done everything to please you, all my life. Why will you believe that I'm not? Did she tell you anything tangible that you absolutely know was true? I'm a lawyer and wanted to contest all evidence in the case."

hopeless verdict upon my eyes from any one oculist. Neither will I have them condemned by any one clairvoyant. I demand a constitution. If I get the party together, will you go to another clairvoyant this evening?" he demanded.

"It would be so glad to find that the first one was mistaken," she said fervently.

"It was a very busy evening for Mr. Kent. He had found a nervous, self-sufficient, good natured and pliable to all his requirements."

LUCKY DISCOVERY

Pilot on Interurban Car Seen Obstruction on Track.

The pilot on the car bound for leaving Manchester at 11:20 Sunday forenoon discovered a heavy iron chain on the steam tracks near William Foulde paper mill and stopping the car had the chain removed, thus avoiding a very serious accident.

It was thought that an attempt was being made to derail the car but investigation made by Chief of Police Sheridan confirmed the belief that it was purely an accidental happening. Inconspicuously caused by a little boy. The chain was dropped from a freight car Saturday afternoon and the boy picked it up but in all probability found it too heavy to drag home and left it in the dangerous position in which it was found by the pilot on the interurban car.

A railroad detective limited on having the child brought into the police court, which was done, the boy being accompanied by his mother. Was the case was explained to Judge Bowers, Prosecuting Attorney Hathaway said that the boy was too young to understand the danger of what he did, and consequently that it was proper to punish him. Judge Bowers accepted this view of the situation and warned the boy to keep off the railroad tracks in the future and avoid the embarrassment which this unfortunate occurrence brought upon him and his mother.

All in all it was a lucky thing that the pilot made the discovery in time as Sunday brought forth very heavy travel on the interurban line to Stafford Springs and if a loaded car happened to strike the chain there is no telling what serious accident might have occurred.

ENTERTAINED VETERANS

Taber Chapter Epworth League Made Hosts Merry At Methodist Church.

The annual reception tendered by Taber Chapter Epworth League at the Methodist church last Wednesday evening and proved to be a very successful affair. The young people did much for the entertainment of their honored guests and sought in every conceivable manner to show the esteem in which they are held.

The following program was rendered: Music, High School Mandolin Club. Scripture reading, Vice President Miss Minnie Florence. Prayer, Rev. W. F. Davis, the pastor. Address of Welcome, Louis St. C. Carr, including reading of poem composed by George Davidson entitled "The Veterans."

Dance solo, Miss Gerda Johnson. Baritone solo, Fred J. Bendall. Selection, High School Mandolin Club. Eury, Miss Ethel Gardner. Piano solo, Miss Gerda Johnson. Reading, Miss Lillian Davidson. Contralto solo, Miss Frances M. Carter. Charles H. Ferris, president of the league was in charge of the proceedings.

All the recent refreshments were served to all present.

An Edison photograph added to the enjoyment of the evening.

It is found that year by year the attendance of the veterans grows smaller and smaller and at these annual receptions by the Epworth League, as the old soldiers do not find it convenient to be out after dark so many guests are invited to the annual entertainments by Taber chapter will not be diminished.

THE FEATHER BED.

It is a Poor Thing to Use Either in Summer or Winter.

"Few people even know the physical reasons why medical science condemns the use of feather beds in winter as well as in summer," said a New York physician recently.

"It is because feather beds are highly hygroscopic—a rather formidable word, but one a nailing simply that feathers readily absorb and condense moisture. The body is constantly throwing off waste matter through the skin and the lungs. The feathers in the bed will absorb this waste matter as readily as it will simple atmospheric moisture. The feather bed during the winter months will absorb the waste matter during the day when the bed is cold, even when it is aired, unless also warmed by the sun during the time it is exposed to the air.

"At night, when the body of the sleeper warms the bed, the feathers renew their hygroscopic action and throw off the waste matter absorbed during the night before. The susceptible body of the sleeper is soon surrounded by a dense and highly poisonous atmosphere, the accumulative effect of which cannot help but be very injurious.

"The skin, like the lungs, is continually breathing and is very sensitive to external influences; hence arises the need for air baths as well as for water baths. The entire body should be exposed to fresh air every day for as long a time as you can make possible, and all beds should be thoroughly ventilated."—New York Times.

COTTON IN INDIA.

The Way It Was Discovered by a Man Who Was an Observer.

A remarkable story is told about the discovery of the cotton plant in India some years ago. Two gentlemen were driving out to dinner near Bombay, one the host and the other his guest. On both sides of the road were hedges all the way along and at length told his friend that he thought it looked like cotton. His friend, who was the native driver to stop, and the two Englishmen got down and examined. The guest was right. It was cotton of an extraordinary strong staple.

Both were cotton experts, and yet the host, who had driven along the same road for years, had passed the cotton without recognizing it. The guest immediately proceeded to buy up these hedges, for except then there were none that he had seen during a twelve years' residence in India.

During his investigations he discovered that natives often had one or two cotton trees in their gardens, but the English club compounds possessed three or four in different parts of India, but nowhere except in Bombay had he seen cotton growing in such luxuriant abundance.

He bought up every tree and plant he could get his hands on, and then he proceeded to the United States.

"The office and the man, you know," he said, "I replied the avowed aspirant, 'but I give it a fair chance, and it seemed different.'"—Philadelphia Ledger.

Lighted Streets in Europe.

The best lighted street in Europe, declares a weekly paper in Lutter den Linden, in Berlin. Perhaps it is, but we would not be sure. In the torrent seemed hills of the Jews, where water power is as cheap as anywhere in the world, there are little French villages in which every tiny cottage has its electric light installation, and the central street, that one could see during the lamp, is flooded by the beams of arc lamps that would do credit to the Strand. However, the Berlin boulevard, otherwise a disappointing one, is aught, is certainly well illuminated. Plate glass, plinthe and policemen are the three most striking features of the boulevard.

The Real Man

By MARTHA COBB SANFORD

Polly was to take part in an amateur play.

"It's such fun," she announced on the evening of the first rehearsal.

The "real men" laughed. There were three of them. Two were old friends and admirers of Polly.

"Well," asked Polly gayly, looking over her shoulder at the men.

"You are all very hands on their hearts, all three bowed.

"You are all very hands on their hearts, all three bowed.

"You are all very hands on their hearts, all three bowed.

MODERN SURGERY.

Its Minute and Elaborate System of Sterilization.

The scene at an operating table in one of our hospitals now would make one of the old masters of surgery stare.

The operator himself and all his staff are dressed like the old physicians of Solomon's temple.

"I don't believe it's all Polly's fault," he said. "Just let me try the scene with her, and then Bert can see how it ought to be done."

But Polly scorned the offer. "I'll try it with Mr. Rogers," she said archly. "You see, he's perfectly safe."

"Everything comes to him who is modest," he paraphrased good naturedly. "I don't believe it's all Polly's fault."

So Polly tried the affectionate welcome scene with Bradley—and a strange thing happened. In each of the two scenes she had rushed into Bert Crawford's arms.

"There," exclaimed the delighted prompter, "that's something like! Now try it again with Mr. Crawford, Miss Noyes."

But Polly wouldn't. "I'm tired of the old scene," she said haughtily. "I've determined that no one should guess how madly her heart was beating."

"Why, that you're married, of course," he said. "For a moment Bradley looked absolutely perplexed; but he burst out laughing."

"Well," quizzed Polly, doubting her senses. "All the world has evidently become a stage with you, Miss Noyes."

"Of course as your father in the play is married, but as you—as Bradley Rogers I'm a single man, on horse."

"Then who are Mr. Rogers and the baby?" demanded Polly, not yet convinced.

"My sister-law and child," Bradley announced. "Surely you didn't think—"

"I did," broke in Polly. "I thought so all along from the night of the very first rehearsal. If I'd known that you were suddenly in confusion."

"The doctor raised his voice, but the man, without answering, went on digging energetically. The doctor threatened, stormed and finally thundered out:

"Do you know who I am?" "The laborer arranged his back, looked at him a minute and, shaking his head, sorrowfully exclaimed:

"Poor chap! I am sorry for you," and went on calmly with his work—London Express.

"You let me marry the man I love, in 666 B. C. It must not be supposed that there had not existed a keen appreciation of the value and uses of money at that time."

"You wouldn't believe this possible," he said. "I believe anything possible," interrupted the doctor. "I've thought with me in my time."

THE NIGHTINGALE.

Coleridge's Defense of the Songster as Not a Melancholy Bird.

The medicinal view of the nightingale's song is supremely given in the familiar lyric by Richard Barnefield.

For the best finds the forlorn bird, with "the breast up till a thorn," earnestly pouring forth her melodious notes.

Milton in his juvenile sonnet apostrophizes the inebriate singer as giving forth notes that proceed successively in love, and when he comes to describe her sobersides in "I Pensee" he appropriately finds the same strains "most musical, most melancholy."

Against this Coleridge enters a vigorous protest in "The Nightingale," May 9, with reference to the "melancholy" of the bird.

There was a tie for the first prize between Mrs. John Hich and Miss Buzzell, both having eighteen points to the good. Lots were cast and favored Miss Buzzell who was presented with a clock. Thomas Brennan won the first prize for gentlemen, which consisted of a gilt edge pair of cards in a case. The consolation prize for gentlemen was won by Robbie Smith, the popular vaudeville artist who contested so capably at the fair. Robbie only figures as a second at whist but he was scheduled as a top notcher in the vaudeville performance at the fair, and has become quite popular as an entertainer. P. J. O'Leary furnished the refreshments. An enjoyable time was had, and the party proved a very pleasant and gratifying success.

DEER IN LAKE.

Pursued by Two Dogs, a Deer Swims Across Lake Wanganung. Several Manchester people who were spending last Sunday at Lake Wanganung, South Coventry, saw the unusual sight of a deer swimming across the lake. Two dogs had been pursuing the deer through the woods on the west shore and had driven it to an open place near the water's edge. The deer jumped right into the lake and swam to the opposite shore, a quarter of a mile distant, leaving her pursuers behind. The dogs did not attempt to follow the deer into the water.

BETTER THAN GOLDEN GATE.

August Bebelak went on a slight seeing tour to California recently but made up his mind that South Manchester was a prettier good place in which to live. He packed up his trunk and returned to "the land of steady habit" where he is now safely ensconced and is likely to remain. The Golden Gate has doubtless many charms but South Manchester is admitted herewith to possess a more desirable climate to cope with these, especially in the Spring and Summer time.

WIDOWED SAILORSHIP

A conference was held Tuesday afternoon between the officers of the Tuberculosis Free Bed Fund Association of Cheney Brothers and the members of the State Tuberculosis Commission including President Geo. Venable and John F. Gunsham. The party visited the tuberculosis ward at the Hartford Hospital and inspected the Wildwood Sanitarium at Cedar Mountain. Three patients from this place are now being cared for at Cedar Mountain. Those from here who went on the trip of inspection were President Howard J. and Mrs. Taylor, Secretary Miss Ethel Brainard and Mrs. Eleanor McCann, a member of the committee. It may not be amiss in this relation to state that the local association not only cares for the patient himself but also assists the family dependent upon him when his assistance becomes necessary. Members of the local Free Bed Fund Association have contributed $2,000 for the work in which the association is engaged, and Cheney Brothers have donated a similar amount giving to the disposal of the officers $4,000 for the care and maintenance of some of the members of the association as become afflicted with tuberculosis or are dependent upon persons so afflicted in the employ of Cheney Brothers.
