remarks: "We are especially prone, though, to underestimate the good in the Italian portion of our immigration. The Italians in New York have deposited $16,-000,000 in the savings banks and have invested $35,000,000 in real estate. There is an Italian chamber of commerce here, and four papers are printed daily. For the last ten years Italians have built railroads, dug subways and done all sorts of pick and shovel work. If the Italian laborers were suddenly to drop out of our industries their loss would seriously cripple us."
