SALVATION ARMY

DEDICATION OF NEW CITADEL TO TAKE PLACE HERE NEXT TUESDAY EVENING BEGINNING AT EIGHT

Commander Miss Eva Booth of New York will have charge of Dedictory Exercises Assisted by Other Distinguished Salvation Army Officers—Drawing Effort of Adjutant Blackham's Career.

Tuesday, November 24, has been chosen as the date for the dedication of the Salvation Army Citadel on Main street. The building will be dedicated by Commander Miss Eva Booth and staff of New York, beginning at 8 o'clock. This is Miss Booth's second visit to South Manchester, her former visit nearly two years ago was in the Congregational church. Miss Booth is the daughter of General William Booth, founder and leader of the Salvation Army and is a forceful speaker. She has had varied commands in European countries and commanded Canada before coming to the United States.

The commander will be accompanied by Colonel Alex Damon, field secretary of the United States, Major Page, but private secretary, Colonel Adam Gifford of Boston, provincial officer for the New England Province. Colonel Gifford is no stranger to Connecticut as his early officership was spent in this state. He had charge of the work in Rockville. While in charge of Rockville he had some trying experiences. At one time he was surrounded by a mob with a rope and threatened if he did not leave town they would hang him. However, the leading officers in the country, Brigadier Connet, Colonel Gifford's secretary, is an old time officer of this corps having had command of this corps some fifteen years ago.

There will also be many visiting officers here for the dedication, among whom are Brigadier Joseph Ashburn, former soldier of this corps, Staff Captains Taylor, Stitt Hillman, and Melne; Adjutants Athison, Antrim, Hanson, Guard, Hughes and Tuttle; Captains Parry, Baxley, Pries and McCann; Major Davis of Boston, and Major Simons and Ensign Selzer of Hartford will be here.

The local corps is to be congratulated on having erected so fine a building and a great deal of credit falls on the worthy shoulders of adjutant and Mrs. Stuart, a man who has worked both late and early to make the work here a success. They have had the charge of the local corps here for the past two years and have made many friends. Their oldest daughter is a graduate of the local High School and is now in training in the Salvation Army Training College in New York to become an officer. She will also be here for the dedication.

LATER SPECIAL!

A dispatch received by Adjutant Blackman brings the information that Commander Miss Eva Booth has been taken suddenly ill in New York City and will not be present at the dedication of the Salvation Army Citadel in this place, as noted above. Col. Peart of New York will substitute for Commander Booth, and conduct the dedicatory exercises outlined above.

FOR TUBERCULOSIS

Illustrated Lecture By Dr. B. H. Waters of New York To Be Given Next Week

Dr. Bertram H. Waters of New York will deliver an illustrated lecture on "Tuberculosis, the Crusade for the Prevention and Cure," at the High School Assembly Hall Thursday evening, December 3rd. A powerful stereopticon will be employed to illustrate the points which Dr. Waters seeks to illustrate. It is the purpose of Dr. Waters to give a general review of the whole subject and to endeavor to present it in such a manner that it may be intelligible, easily understood and explanatory to his hearers.

Dr. Waters is an acknowledged authority on this subject as he is in charge of the health department in the New York City Dispensary, lecturer to the State Department of Health, and an instructor at the post graduate school in pathology in New York.

Dr. Waters comes at the behest of the Tuberculosis Free Fund Association of Chandy Brothers whose purpose it is to instruct the people here as much as possible in the dangers of tuberculosis and the means of preventing and curing same. It is a part of the program of the association to endeavor to carry out from time to time.

In order to enliven the occasion and to make it more attractive for all who attend, the famous Tempo Quartet of Hartford has been engaged and will give at intervals during the evening.

The price of admission has been placed at fifteen cents so as to bring it easily within the reach of everybody.

Dr. Waters' lecture alone on this subject is easily worth one dollar each person, and with the addition of the Tempo Quartet, the entertainment should be very popular and attract a gathering limited only by the capacity of the High School Assembly Hall.

K. OF C. BALL

Took Place in Cheney Hall Last Evening—Enjoyable Event.

The eighth annual ball given by Campbell Council, Knights of Columbus, took place at Cheney Hall last evening, and for those who attended proved to be a very enjoyable affair. The music furnished by the Beeman & Hatch Orchestra was, as usual, a rare treat and was heartily appreciated. Professor C. Grand directed the dances. The grand march was led by Robert J. Gorman and Miss Catherine M. Coleman. A number of young ladies were charming in ballroom costumes and some of the gentlemen appeared in evening dress and tuxedos. The attendance was not as large as the event warranted. The committee labored faithfully in the exercise of their duties and did every thing possible for the well-being and comfort of their guests. Hartford and Rockville friends were among the merry dancers. Special trolley accommodations were provided for patrons at the close of the ball.

Kitty, Sam and the Peacemaker.

When it has been 'Sam' and 'Kitty' pass suddenly to the 'Mr. Hastings' and 'Miss Norwood' stage.

At the meeting held last week Thursday evening six candidates were initiated.

With ceremonious politeness each strove to show the other how little it mattered, but Kitty cried herself to sleep after night, and the peacemaker was the last to go.

It was a natural thing for a blusher to say that he had tried not to blush. No individual blusher of his own free will.

OLD VILLAGE LOCKUP.

Several villages in the midlands have their old parish lockups, commonly known as roundhouses.

Brookton, a Leicestershire village, close to the South Derbyshire border, possesses its 'lockup,' a quaint structure of brick and stone.

Messrs Cushing and Brannock, proprietors of the Public Market in Orange Hall on East Center street, publish in today's issue of The News their first Thanksgiving announcement to the people of South Manchester and vicinity. These young men are building up a satisfactory trade and are endeavoring by close attention to business, by carrying a carefully selected stock, by being satisfied with a reasonable margin of profit on their investment and skill, and by giving courteous attention to their patrons to maintain and increase their hold upon the public confidence. Their efforts are proving successful and they report that week after week their circle of patrons is steadily increasing. In their advertisement appearing in another column they have something to say for themselves with reference to their goods and their methods of doing business, all of which is respectfully commended to the careful consideration of our readers.

SWEDISH BAZAR

The ladies of the Swedish Lutheran church are arranging to hold their annual bazar. Committees have been appointed to whom are assigned the various branches of the work. They always enter into these undertakings with much enthusiasm and their efforts are usually crowned with success. It is believed that such will be the case this year. Woman Brothers and other local talent will supply the entertainments at the various nights of the fair.

EDWARD J. WALL TO LEAVE

Will Move To South West Wash As Business Manager

It will be a big interesting information to the many friends of Edward J. Wall of 33 Main street to learn that he will leave town the first of next week to accept a position as business manager to the New England branch of Thomas B. Jeffrey & Co. of Kenosha, Wisconsin, manufacturers of Rambler automobiles.

This branch is located at 93 Massachusetts Avenue, Boston. The appointment came to Mr. Wall entirely unexpected and unthought for. The New England manager for Thomas B. Jeffrey & Co. was formerly in the employ of the Pope Manufacturing Co. of Hartford where he became acquainted with Mr. Wall and offered him this very desirable position.

Mr. Wall has been in the employ of the Pope Manufacturing Company at Hartford for the past seven years in charge of the traffic and shipping department and has found his occupation there most congenial. The inducement to enter another field of activity was so great that Mr. Wall was impelled to accept the flattering offer. He will bear with him to his new and larger field of operations the best wishes of many friends in this place, in Hartford, and in the surrounding towns, where he is well known and deservedly popular.

Mr. Wall is a faithful, efficient, and indefatigable worker, a young man of excellent habits, of considerable executive ability, and is faithful and industrious to a fault. These good qualities doubtless impressed themselves upon the New England manager of Thomas B. Jeffrey & Co. and determined him to seek the services of Mr. Wall as business manager at the Boston office.

STRAW RIDE PARTY.

Hayday of Youth and Jolly Awake Echoes in Newport.

A jolly straw ride party comprising young people from Manchester, Green, Highland Park and Buckland journeyed down to Hopewell last Saturday night bringing with them an abundance of refreshments as well as a generous supply of youthful animation and merriment, and had a dance at Wilbur Hodge's Hall in Hopewell. Professor Robert Meier's orchestra of less than one hundred pieces furnished music for the occasion. There were eleven couples in the party as they made the echoes ring among the peaceful hills and dale of Hopewell. A substantial collation was served and heartily enjoyed. Andrew Healey of Wapping carried the merry party to and from their destination in his four-wheeled open barouche. If there was anything lacking in the way of fun-making in that party the person who reported the proceedings to this office was unable to make the discovery.

LUCKY STARS WIN

In Rapid Game Basket Ball vs. G. G. Team Last Night.

The Lucky Stars Athletic Club of West Hartford defeated the G. G. team in the swiftest game of basket ball ever seen in West Hartford, last evening. The score was 42 to 20. The game was won by the Lucky Stars in the last few minutes of play as it was in a neck and neck contest until entering the home stretch.

The West Hartford Town hall has a polished floor and the Lucky Stars wore suction shoes. The Company G team were not equipped in this manner and were footing on the slippery floor with very uncertain and difficult their rapid playing extremely difficult. They did remarkably well under the circumstances.

REAL ELECTION

OF PRESIDENT AND VICE PRESIDENT OF UNITED STATES WONT TAKE PLACE UNTIL NEXT WEEK

Some Account of Formalities To Be Observed On This Important Occasion—Information On Subject Not Generally Understood—Constitutional Requirements Carried Out.

Although the noise and shouting died away and popular interest passed by the balloting for president and vice president of the United States, it will be three months before the real, though purely formal election of those two highly important offices takes place.

The presidential election is not a presidential election at all in the strict meaning of the constitution. The real presidential election will be held in the hall of the house of representatives at Washington on the afternoon of the second Wednesday of next February. It will be a very formal and strict affair, interspersed with occasional observations from the galleries. It is such a cut and dried affair, and is "pulled off" with such precision and punctiliousness quadrantly, that one can tell beforehand what is going to happen.

For instance, it is entirely safe to say that on the second Wednesday afternoon of next February, at 12:50 o'clock, the senate will form a procession and march along the main corridor of the capitol. It will be headed by Vice-President Fairbank, Secretary Bennett, and Sergeant-at-Arms Bannister. There will be an entry in the Congressional Record of the next morning as to how they "proceeded and proceeded" to the house, and also an entry to this effect:

"What will happen in the case of the death of either the president-elect or the vice-president-elect between the second Wednesday of February and March 4 following?"

As far as known no constitutional lawyer has ever answered that question satisfactorily.

Believing in the simple faith of a God-fearing people whose forefathers braved the perils of an unknown sea, and the hazards of a savage wilderness, who were inspired by Divine Providence to lead a life of sacrifice and death with a fortitude unexampled and a purpose unparalleled in all human history, that they might establish a commonwealth in which all men should be free and equal under the law.

And in recognition of a sacred custom instituted by the pioneers and perpetuated by their children, I hereby appoint Thursday, the twenty-sixth day of November, as a day of

THANKSGIVING.

And I invite all the people of Connecticut to give this time to the solemn observance of prayer to Him who directs the destinies of men and of nations and whose blessings at this present period are manifest in the stability of our country and our state; in the tranquility of our civilization; in the advancement of our industries and the illumination and moral elevation of the American republic. Let us all unite in praise as a people rejoicing and feasting, and so acknowledge by expression of faith, of confidence and of charity that love shall henceforth be the motive of our lives, to the end that suffering shall be relieved and a nobler brotherhood maintained.

Given under my hand and the seal of the state, this twelfth day of November, in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and eight, and of the independence of the United States the one hundred and thirty-third.

ROLLIN S. WOODRUFF, By His Excellency's Command: THEODORE HODENWEIN Secretary.

Re-vitalities at Sea.

Naval punishments were brutally severe in the seventeenth century. They narrowed that is, they set a man above him on a desolate coast of island and left him to starve, to be destroyed by savages or wild beasts. They kept him in that state, they dragged him up the bottom of the ship and drew him up raw and bloody with the harsh wounding of barbed and appalling whistles only to be submitted to a fresh sea and a fresh wind, and then to a full breath. They called a man to the mainmast by driving a nail through his hand. For mutiny that was often manna; they tied the living to the dead, back to back, and they threw them overboard.

WARM AND DRY

SHAKE IT IN BOTTLE—NOTED AUTHORITY GIVES A SIMPLE PRESCRIPTION

Also Tells How To Take—Tells the Readers of This Paper How To Prepare the Mixture at Home and Other Advice

Now is the time when the doctor gets busy, and the patent medicine manufacturers reap the harvest, unless great care is taken to dress warmly and keep the feet dry. This is the advice of an eminent authority, who says that Rheumatism and Kidney trouble weather here, and also tells what to do in case of an attack.

Get from any good prescription pharmacy one half ounce Fluid Extract Sassafras, one ounce Compound Karyoparasparilla. Mix by shaking in a bottle and take a teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime.

Just try this simple home-made mixture at the first sign of Rheumatism, or if your back aches or you feel that the kidneys are not acting just right. This is said to be a splendid kidney regulator, and almost certain remedy for all forms of Rheumatism, which is caused by uric acid in the blood, which the kidneys fail to filter out. Anyone can easily prepare this at home and at small cost.

Druggists in this town and vicinity when shown the prescription, state that they can either supply these ingredients, or, if our readers prefer, they will compound the mixture for them.

PARSONS THEATER

FRANK DANIELS IN "HOOK OF HOLLAND" Frank Daniels, whose very name brings to the face of every theatergoer a pleasant and good humor smile, is appearing this season as star under the management of Charles Frohman, and will be seen at Parsons theater today and to-morrow.

With his discomfiture in such matters, Mr. Frohman has selected for the medium of Mr. Daniels' appearance under his direction, the musical play, "Hook of Holland," last season's biggest success and one of the most attractive musical plays ever brought to this country by Mr. Frohman. The "Mia" has been dropped and the piece is now known as "Hook of Holland," but the story and music remain unchanged. Mr. Daniels, in "Hook," is a happy combination of star and play-acting a delightful combination of fun and music. This musical play belongs in the same class as "The School Girl," "The Three Little Maids," and other delightful pieces that have been popular with American theatergoers in the past several years.

His music and book have both been written by Paul A. Rubens, who gave the public "Three Little Maids." In "Hook of Holland" he is said to have provided as charming and pleasant melodies as his other works are known to have possessed, and to have furnished a decidedly interesting, romantic story, the setting of which is more quietly attractive than that of any of the other plays in the same category.

While "The School Girl" and "Three Little Maids" had English environments, the present play has been located in Holland, its scenes being laid in Amsterdam; and, therefore, the offices, dresses and stage pictures will be oddly beautiful and have that strange charm for the eyes that all Dutch artistic creations possess. Of the twenty old songs there are several that are positive musical gems and that have attained wide popularity, because of their real musical excellence, as well as of the novelty of them and treatment. Among the special favorites are: "Ballad," "A Little Bit of Cheese," "Cream of the Siles," "Tying Dutchman," "Tra la la," and "I Want to be Your Wife."

The big company contains an unusual number of important principals, among them being: Christie Macdonald, whose representation of Sally Hook last season was so highly satisfactory and who returns in the possession of one of the sweetest personalities of the American stage; Adela Rowland, Leslie Stiles, Miss White, Arthur Harold, Will Danforth, William Kent, Tom Collins, Edward Burch, Edith Burch, Fieretta de Maria, Floresta Hope, Emily Lee and others.

"The Merry Widow" One of the most important theatrical engagements of recent seasons is the engagement of the presentation at Parsons theater during the entire week of November 23 of Henry W. Savage's original New York production of the sensational success, "The Merry Widow." In addition to the six evening performances, the company will play a special matinee on Tuesday, Thursday (Thanksgiving day) and Saturday.

It is hardly necessary at this late day to comment at any great length upon the artistic excellence of "The Merry Widow," admittedly the most delightful operetta presented on any stage in the last decade. Originally produced in Vienna, in January, 1905, its fame spread throughout the continent of Europe within a month and three months from the date of the original production was being presented simultaneously in no less than 108 capital cities of the Old World.

It was presented for the first time in this country at the Metropolitan Opera house in New York.

THE WELL GROOMED WOMAN.

She Always is Attractive to the End of Her Days.

"If there is any more attractive quality than being well groomed I should like to know it," remarked the clever woman. "It is the greatest gift a girl can possess." "It is simply a matter of clothes," smiled her companion. "Give me something substantial, like beauty." "Simply a matter of clothes" ejaculated the clever woman. WIFE. "As fond as I am of reading," said a merchant, "I never possess a legal document without feeling irritable over my inability to grasp the real meaning of such paper at a glance. Like many other persons not engaged in the legal profession, I sometimes have to read contracts and other agreements drawn up by lawyers, and I often wonder why in this age of common sense the 'whereas,' 'aforesaid' and 'parties of the first part' are not relegated to oblivion. The technical verbiage employed is a relic of the age when that which was mysterious and could not be understood was esteemed to be beyond the comprehension of the common herd. The use of uncommon English in purely business circles would not be endured. Why, then, should the transfer of a piece of property be a process so labyrinthine and so mysterious that a man of sound sense cannot fathom it? It has been estimated that the clipping of the letter 'e' from such words as numerous, hundreds and the like has added to the world each year what is equivalent to the productive capacity of 500 able-bodied men. What would we not gain if from every legal paper and from every legal suit there should be removed that vast mass of superfluous, that antique verbiage, that needless and solemn senselessness that now intrudes them as the shell wraps the clam?"—Chicago Inter Ocean.

HELEN ALBERT. An open moving van, piled high with furniture, was proceeding slowly up Third avenue to the Harlem section. The driver, whose face denoted contentment and an inclination to doze, sat cross kneeed, holding the reins loosely. The driver had arranged a comfortable support for his back. There was nothing less than a framed oil painting about 2 by 4 feet in size, uncovered, and with the painting unprotected from the cool, raw, weathered shoulder blades. A citizen hailed him from the curb.

"Hey! Don't ruin that picture leaning against the back of your seat!" "Ah, g'wan," said the driver. "Dis ain't de first time I drove furniture. I know me business." "And de van passed on.—New York Globe.

End of Mankind. "Now, boys," queried the teacher of the juvenile class, "can any of you tell me the final end of all mankind?" "Yes, ma'am, I can," promptly answered the boy at the foot—"the letter 'd'."—Exchange.

His Hearing to Come. Old Lady (reading newspaper)—I declared. The poor fellow arrested yesterday. I don't listen.—How do you know? Old Lady.—Why, it says here that he is expected to have his hearing next week.

Big Difference. "Pa, what's the difference between the drama and melodrama?" "The seats, my son. You will never find any empty ones at the melodrama."—Chicago Record-Herald.

A FEROCIOUS EARL.

Alexander of Buchan, Known as the "Wolf of Badenoch."

During the restoration of Dunkeld cathedral the workmen unearthed the remains of Bishop Sinclair, one of those who assisted in the building of the cathedral, and of the notorious Alexander, earl of Buchan, whose ferocity won for him the significant title of the "wolf of Badenoch." A memorial marker at the spot where the "wolf" was buried, and it has often been a subject of remark by visitors that a man who plundered churches drawn up by lawyers, and who treated the clergy should have been laid to rest side by side with bishops and other high ecclesiastics.

Alexander, earl of Buchan, was a younger son of Robert II. of Scotland. During the closing years of the latter's reign the chief powers in the state were delegated to his sons, the earls of Fife and Buchan, and after the accession of Robert III., an amiable but weak prince, this unfortunate delegation was allowed to be continued. The earl of Buchan ruled over the northern part of Scotland with an authority little less than regal. He has been described as scarcely better than a savage—crusading, ferocious and relentless. Among his exploits was the destruction of the magnificent cathedral of Elgin. He carried off the chalices and vestments, polluted the shrines with blood and finally set fire to the noble edifice, the houses of the canons and the town itself. He also laid waste a large part of the country.—Fall Mail Gazette.

LEGAL VERBIAGE. A Kick From a Layman Against its Solemn Senselessness. "As fond as I am of reading," said a merchant, "I never possess a legal document without feeling irritable over my inability to grasp the real meaning of such paper at a glance. Like many other persons not engaged in the legal profession, I sometimes have to read contracts and other agreements drawn up by lawyers, and I often wonder why in this age of common sense the 'whereas,' 'aforesaid' and 'parties of the first part' are not relegated to oblivion. The technical verbiage employed is a relic of the age when that which was mysterious and could not be understood was esteemed to be beyond the comprehension of the common herd. The use of uncommon English in purely business circles would not be endured. Why, then, should the transfer of a piece of property be a process so labyrinthine and so mysterious that a man of sound sense cannot fathom it? It has been estimated that the clipping of the letter 'e' from such words as numerous, hundreds and the like has added to the world each year what is equivalent to the productive capacity of 500 able-bodied men. What would we not gain if from every legal paper and from every legal suit there should be removed that vast mass of superfluous, that antique verbiage, that needless and solemn senselessness that now intrudes them as the shell wraps the clam?"—Chicago Inter Ocean.

HELEN ALBERT. An open moving van, piled high with furniture, was proceeding slowly up Third avenue to the Harlem section. The driver, whose face denoted contentment and an inclination to doze, sat cross kneeed, holding the reins loosely. The driver had arranged a comfortable support for his back. There was nothing less than a framed oil painting about 2 by 4 feet in size, uncovered, and with the painting unprotected from the cool, raw, weathered shoulder blades. A citizen hailed him from the curb.

"Hey! Don't ruin that picture leaning against the back of your seat!" "Ah, g'wan," said the driver. "Dis ain't de first time I drove furniture. I know me business." "And de van passed on.—New York Globe.

Her Version of It. She was a weasel of a thing just three years old, but with a soul of a heroine shinning out of her great brown eyes. It was her first visit to the zoo, and the babel of queer noises and rows of strange big beasts might well have daunted her baby heart. But she scorned to seem afraid. Only when they approached the towering form of the elephant did she draw back. "I'm not goin' too close, papa," she whispered; "I might scare him!"—Woman's Home Companion.

"Seeing" Plants. Professor Darwin is right. Plants can see—some plants. Take corn and eye, for instance. With proper treatment these plants sometimes see double, and frequently they see things that aren't there.—New York Telegraph.

End of Mankind. "Now, boys," queried the teacher of the juvenile class, "can any of you tell me the final end of all mankind?" "Yes, ma'am, I can," promptly answered the boy at the foot—"the letter 'd'."—Exchange.

His Hearing to Come. Old Lady (reading newspaper)—I declared. The poor fellow arrested yesterday. I don't listen.—How do you know? Old Lady.—Why, it says here that he is expected to have his hearing next week.
