A RELIABLE SCHOOL

WHERE DETAIL REPORTS ARE RECORDED WEEKLY, TELLING JUST WHAT YOUR SON DOES

Highly Endorsed by Educators.

One of the many points which we would advise parents to take into serious consideration when selecting a school for either their son's or daughter's education is the matter of discipline. This need not be rigid but it should be in such a form that the parents are kept continually in touch with the doings of the son or daughter while in the pursuit of his or her course.

Table listing subjects: BUSINESS FORMS, BOOKKEEPING, COMMERCIAL LAW, CIVIL GOVERNMENT, CORRESPONDENCE, ARITHMETIC, RAPID CALCULATION, ENGLISH, STENOGRAPHY, TYPEWRITING, SPELLING, PENMANSHIP, OFFICE PRACTICE, ATTENDANCE, DEPARTMENT, BUSINESS PROFITS.

Successful and Entertaining Meeting Held Here. A preliminary meeting was held in Foresters hall here Wednesday evening by representatives of Hartford West Order of Owls...

The meeting was called to order by George A. Jones, the local organizer, who introduced Attorney Samuel Kone of Hartford as presiding officer of the meeting.

Mr. Kone gave an eloquent exposition of the principles and practices of the Order of Owls and strongly urged the organizing of a No. 8 of this fraternal order in this place.

Green, editor and proprietor of the Fraternal News; and a third degree story teller, whose reputation is a vastly more than that of the wide and who is known to every fraternal order in the State of Connecticut...

The proposal was referred to a committee consisting of Selectmen Watkins and Kone with instructions to act in conjunction with R. H. R. Superintendent Clitch, make the necessary investigation and report back their findings to the Board.

Mr. Bidwell presented a map showing the proposed new street and wanted the town authorities to give him the grades and the street lines so that he could complete the work and get the street ready for acceptance.

WOMAN

Woman

Features in this Column: The Stout and Slender Secret of Correct Dress Study the Limitations

Any dressmaker can make gowns for the slender woman. It is the fat lady who drives her to distraction. Patterns have a way of being deceptive. Sometimes they appear to make the figure look thin in the picture, but in reality they caricature it out of all proportion. The only road to safety for the fat lady lies in not trusting the dressmaker, but in using her own common sense.

Indeed, madame the dressmaker is a born flatterer. She will picture her self as a certain design of dress which it takes yards and yards of goods to carry out is bound to be so much more becoming than a simple style in which there is not so much profit.

Alas for the perky of human nature! One dressmaker that I know even had a mirror especially for fat ladies. She never fitted them before any other, and the sticky piece of looking glass was of the sort that lengthens out the figure. When the customer had paid her bill and the dress was sent home, she usually had a good deal of a shock and felt like consulting an oculist.

As a rule, it takes a long time for the average woman to realize that she is getting stout. She keeps on buying checks and patterns until one fine day she catches an unusually good view of herself in a mirror or some one makes an unkind remark.

A case in point occurred a couple of years ago when I was in Paris. I bought a black and gold empire dress of chiffon, the skirt being gathered in the excessive short waist, low necked bodice. The first evening I wore it every one admired it, especially one woman who weighed over 200 pounds if she weighed an ounce.

She said: "I hope you won't mind my saying your lovely black gown for myself. I think it would look lovely for me in gray and silver."

Well, she did it, and although the gray and silver was very becoming to her fair hair and complexion, you should have seen her figure! All that shimmering gray stuff showed under her big bust and made her look like a huge dumpling. She wore the costume once, but people goggled at it so she gave it away in the next breath.

Now, if she had only left it black or taken out some of the fullness and

THE ART OF THINNING EYEBROWS. Thoughtful "drop" look, which those which drop at the outer edge and are raised slightly near the bridge give an inquiring expression, much the vogue just now.

Yes, there are expressions which are the style just as much as anything else. Just now it is fashionable to look inquiringly and rather bored. It goes well with the odd, freaky hats and the still freakier costumes we are wearing.

If there is one thing out of date it is an unexpressed expression, or a simple look. You simply can't wear the latest military creations and look like a schoolgirl. A certain world weary air is necessary.

If you want to add a languid expression to your eyes because they are of the bright, popover variety, line the lids close to the eyes with a blue pencil, but do this very delicately and rub in well with the finger.

It is not wrong to improve on nature, but it is wrong to do so perceptibly, so those little touches should always be done in the strongest glare of the sunlight and very ably helped.

LIST OF CANDIDATES

TO BE VOTED FOR AT COMING DIRECT PRIMARY IN SO FAR AS SAME IS COMPLETED

Contents Coming Up the Trail—Selectmen, Registrars of Voters, Constables and Assessors Have Sufficient of Applicants To Insure Struggle for Office—Not Much Money At Stake.

Last Monday marked the time limit for placing in the hands of the Town Clerk nominations for candidates at the coming Direct Primary, a list of whom will be found below.

The Democrats did not put in nomination papers for all the officers for whom they are privileged to contest and in such cases the omissions are supplied by the Democratic Town Committee.

Selectmen C. G. Watkins and George H. Allen are not in the running, this time as both have declined any further honors. It will be remembered that the office of selectman under our new form of town government pays but $100 per year each over and over.

This income considerable of a sacrifice of time and effort for a business man who has many cares and responsibilities of his own to consider, all of which make demands upon his time and talent that are intolerable unless he refuses to act.

It must also be borne in mind with reference to the office of selectman here that no member of the Board is permitted to do anything to the town whatsoever unless in open competition on his own responsibility. This is a radical change from the methods in vogue prior to the new form of town government and of necessity curtails the revenue to be derived from holding that office in this place.

It is quite apparent that if any man to accept the office of selectman in this town under present conditions as to give up the satisfaction which his property demands in addition to the sacrifice of a considerable part of his time and talent that is not at all compensated by the revenue derived therefrom.

The honor of holding the office is a consideration to one who has served in that capacity. Civic pride is another inducement which weighs much in many cases and which calls for heroic sacrifices for the public good which otherwise could not be secured.

By virtue of the fact of Mr. Watkins' refusal to enter the Direct Primary for the nomination of selectman the friends of Edward J. Holl, one of our local real estate men, and of Samuel E. Darr, superintendent of the Rogers Paper Manufacturing Company, have entered their names and have induced them to retire for the nomination.

Because of the large Republican majority in this town it is considered that a nomination in a Republican Direct Primary may be taken as a guarantee of election.

As there are but five Republican selectmen to be chosen and there are six nominees, it is apparent that a contest is bound to ensue and that each candidate's chance for winning will be a matter of dispute. How much of a contest may develop out of this situation remains to be seen.

Two of the Republicans on the list viz: A. B. Kenney and W. E. Alvord have been honored by being selected a number of times. Whether they will feel like putting forth any strenuous efforts to secure any further favors in that direction remains to be seen.

It has been set down on the tablets that "The tree of respect root is found less willing still to quit the ground." Whether this applies in a political sense or not such of our readers may figure out to his or her satisfaction. It is believed in some quarters that a number of years in public life develops an appetite for a continuance of same that is difficult to resist and that can be

OPEN AIR MEETING TONIGHT

Honorable Eugene W. Chapin of Chicago will address an open air meeting in the vicinity of the South Manchester post-office this evening at 8 o'clock, weather permitting. His subject will be the no-license question, of which Mr. Chapin is a strong exponent.

Mr. Chapin is attending the temperance field day of the Christian Citizenship League of Connecticut at Lake Compounce, where he is to deliver an address this afternoon. It will be remembered that Mr. Chapin spoke here during the campaign last fall when he was the candidate of the Prohibition party for President of the United States.

Mr. Chapin also spoke in the Center Congregational church here during the winter, as will be pleasantly remembered by all who heard him. He is a man of much ability as a speaker and is well worth hearing. He always has something to say and knows how to say it. In the fewest possible words, says it directly to the point and says it so clearly that all who hear him may readily understand.

AN APPEAL FOR AID

We have been requested to announce that Mrs. Frank O. Swenson of Pearl street, widow of the late pastor of the Swedish Congregational church on Spruce street is left with twice about 200 months' old and in destitute circumstances.
