THE HARTFORD THEATER

by the daring of this young actor-entertainer in breaking entirely new ground and presenting pieces and characters hitherto unknown to the American stage. The Heart of Alaska will be presented at The Hartford Theater tonight and twice tomorrow.

THE BACHELOR

Charles Cherry's first appearance here as a star will occur at The Hartford Theater Monday evening, October 18th, the engagement being for three nights and a matinee Wednesday.

When the Shuberts present him in Clyde Hick's latest comedy The Bachelor, Mr. Cherry is an Englishman and a graduate of Oxford. He came to America about ten years ago, playing his first engagement in a Ray of Sunshine. He then appeared successfully with Heartie's Comedians, Mary MacIntyre and Elsie de Wolfe. With Maxine Elliott he played in Her Own Way. Her Great Match and Under the Greenwood Tree. Mr. Cherry has also played London engagements with Ethel Barrymore, Maxine Elliott and Forbes Robertson. The Shuberts admired his work in Girls so much that they decided to advance him to a stellar position.

The original cast, which sent The Bachelor to success in New York, by the way, will be seen at The Hartford.

ARMORY OPERA HOUSE

BILLY, THE KID

One of the important productions of the early season is that of a new melodramatic play, Billy, the Kid, by Joseph Stanley and Walter Woods. There are four acts in the play and the scenes are all laid in New Mexico. Dramatic authors have been known to place the action of their plays and that the public appreciate these localities is evinced by the overwhelming success, which has been accorded such plays as The Squaw Man, The Virginian, Arizona and others of the like. The story told in Billy, the Kid is said to be an exceptionally interesting one, the author having been fortunate enough to retain much of the atmosphere of the locality. Types there are plenty, and strong dramatic situations and climaxes with a deal of comedy relief. This is one of the biggest and most complete melodramatic productions ever presented here. Frank Dickson has the leading juvenile role and is supported, by a strong company of talented and experienced performers. Seats at Johnson Brothers store, 25, 35 and 50 cents.

SCANDIA'S DANCE

Will Take Place at Cheney Hall Next Thursday Evening.

Scandia Lodge Order of Vasa will give their annual dance at Cheney Hall next Thursday evening. The annual concert and dance given by Johnson & Wetman's orchestra will furnish music and Professor C. Foley will prompt. An admission fee of 25 cents each person will be charged. The following committee have the arrangements in charge: Walter Johnson, Gust Hedin, Henning Johnson, Albert Swanson, Tekla Jacobson and Emma Johnson.

The Scandia society is the largest Swedish Benevolent society in town, having a membership of good standing of 150, half of whom are women. It is doing excellent work among its fellows relieving their distress in time of sickness, calamity or misfortune and proving a true friend to many a distressed worthy member at times when the touch of true fellowship is most to be desired. Scandia is well worthy of public support and patronage in the benevolent relation which it is doing in the community. It is deserving popular, and its members are assured of gathering a large and enthusiastic circle of pleasure seekers at their annual social and dance in Cheney hall next Thursday evening.

Johnson & Wetman's orchestra will render the following music: March, Fighting Hope; Overture, Martha; Grand March, The Passing Band; Waltz, Dear Old Denmark; Two step, My Pony Boy; Quadrille, Petunia; Waltz, Ciribiribin; Two step, I Wish I Had a Girl; Lancers, Rounders; Scottische; S. R. Henry; Two step, Storm Center; Two step, How'd You Like to Love Me; Waltz, American Hit; Quadrille, Conviviality; Two step, Anna Schottische; Autumn Leaves; Lancers, National Airs; Two step, Good Will; All Go Home; Waltz, Good Night.

DELIGHTFULLY SURPRISED

Mrs. William Johnson of Sunset street was recently surprised by a number of her neighbors and friends called at her home and presented her with a silver sugar bowl. Choice things to eat were brought along and an enjoyable luncheon was served. Mrs. Johnson spent the past summer in Sweden and her friends and neighbors wanted to welcome her back to South Manchester and took the above means of showing their friendship. Mrs. Johnson was delightfully surprised and all had a very enjoyable time.

Miss Etta German of this place has secured a position with Charles Dillon the milliner of Hartford, and will be pleased to meet her Manchester friends there.

NUSSON-FULTON PICTURES

The Enterprise Moving Picture Co. will feature the naval and military pageants of the Hudson-Fulton celebration at the Armory next Tuesday evening. These are sure to please and are bound to attract a large attendance. John Condon will sing the illustrated songs Admission 10 and 15 cents.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS

Where Take Fourth Degree—Columbus Day Observed

Frank G. Balkner, Robert E. Carney, P. J. O'Leary and Frank Doyle left here last Monday for New Haven and that afternoon were excited to the rank of fourth degree members of that order, and are now qualified to enter the councils of the highest and most distinguished group of men in the order of the Knights of Columbus anywhere on earth. At the conclusion of the initiatory work the large body of fourth degree members enjoyed a banquet.

On Tuesday, Columbus Day, a considerable number of the members of Campbell Council Knights of Columbus of this place went down to New Haven and took part in the state parade of the order held in "The City of Elm" that afternoon. At the time agreed upon for the start from here to New Haven, 7 o'clock that morning, a copious rain fell which prevented a large turnout as was originally contemplated. As the storm passed along on its way and was followed by sun, shade and summer weather the boys sallied forth and took part in the Columbus Day celebration.

Bible services will be held as follows: 10.30 a. m., 8 and 7.30 p. m. At the Battle Front is a song that takes greatly at the meetings. All are cordially invited to attend any or all of these meetings.

Rev. A. Hart, pastor.

MILITARY BAND DANCE

The concert and dance given by the Military Band of Manchester in Cheney Hill Tuesday evening was a very enjoyable affair. The attendance was somewhat diminished because of some other attractions but those who were there certainly had the time of their lives. The band furnished a magnificent program of music for the concert and dancing, some appearing in these columns last week. Their efforts were highly appreciated and heartily applauded by the dancers.

BARN DANCE AND MUSKIEE

Arrangements are also being completed for the fifth annual old time barn dance and prize muskiee to be given by the Grace H. Upper Club of St. Mary's. A. B. Seelye is the Army sergeant Thursday night, October 28th.

As usual, the hall will be decorated with ferns and pine, so as to represent the interior of a well kept barn at the harvest time. In keeping with its annual custom, the Club offers special and novel attractions for the entertainment of its guests, which include a prize wool sewing contest, a muskiee race, and a prize for the most appropriate farming costume in the grand parade, and all who expect to attend are requested to come in their "barn" costumes and country for the prizes.

The wood sawing contest and the potato race give promise of being the most interesting features of the affair.

JOHN F. LIMERICK

Very interesting and exciting, as several have already signified their intention of entering the event. The contest, which will be open to all who attend. In the 75-foot race, punks pin and root beer will be for sale in the hall. The Feature music for the evening will be furnished by the orchestra, which will start at 8:30. The popularity of these dances in the past, together with the fact that the dance this year is in the largest hall in town, assures the Club of a large attendance.

The Ventriloquist

By Temple Bailey. Copyright, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.

It was just a little village street show—a shabby, gray haired ventriloquist sitting between two black faced dolls that turned their heads and jerked their wide mouths and cracked stale jokes for the edification of the crowd that had gathered.

"When the program was finished the old man passed around some thin pamphlets. 'Only a dime,' he cackled. 'Just one dime to learn how to make the dolls talk.'

"Only a dime?" echoed the woolly haired doll, which lay limply on top of a small trunk.

"Ten cents," murmured Irish Paddy from within the trunk. The ventriloquist looked at the little man packed his silent dolls into the trunk, swung it by a strap over his shoulder and tramped down the village street. He turned in at a little store on the very edge of town. It was a remarkable little store, and at the back was a table with a clean white cloth. The old man asked for rolls and milk which he ate at the table. He also asked for a can of sardines, some crackers and cheese to take away with him. When he had paid for these there was no more money in his old pocketbook, but he pulled to himself a small tin of sardines and listened to the talk of the fresh faced little man in charge of the neighbor who had run in for a moment.

"When are you going to marry George?" the neighbor teased. "I shall never marry again, Henry was such a good husband."

"You can't live on memories of good times," said the neighbor bluntly. "No," the little woman agreed, "but Henry would turn in his grave if I should look at anybody else."

"Hah," the neighbor snickered. "I guess you've looked all right." Again the widow blushed. "It can't help it if George will come here," she said.

"You'd better take him or let him go," the neighbor said. "I believe I could like him, but Henry—oh, Mrs. Perkins, Henry would come back and haunt me if I married George Mills."

"Children," said the incredulous Mrs. Perkins. "As if I'd let a thing like that come between me and happiness!"

"Well, Henry was jealous, and he used to say, 'Mary, if you ever marry anybody else I'll come and haunt you.'"

"Henry ought to get over such things when he's been in heaven as long as this," said the neighbor. "Did you think so?" the widow questioned wistfully. "It seems as if Henry would always be just Henry even if he were dead."

"The neighbor nodded. "That's so, Henry was certainly set in his ways." "You see, that's what I'm afraid of," the little widow stated. "I suppose it is silly, but I always did have a fear of spirits, and Henry knew it."

"Back in the dim store the ventriloquist chuckled. But they had forgotten him. And when he finally shambled out they were still talking of Henry and his heaven born possibilities.

"Once out in the street the old man studied the signs, and George Mills, butcher, caught the eye one toward which he made his way. "Hello," he said as the ventriloquist sidled in. "You are the man who was making the dolls talk?"

"Yes." "I don't see how you do it," George straightened up. "I couldn't even see you move your lips."

"That's nothing," the other stated. "Well, it's great," said George. "I don't mind admitting, 'but it's regular hatched to be a success with you. 'Kind of precocious?' "Yes," the old man hesitated, then blurted out, "I wonder if you'd like to have me help you with a lady, a widow."

A GREAT RUNNER.

One of His Feats of Which He Had to Be Proudly Remembered. "I can't," she said. "The neighbors are beginning to talk."

"Marry me and shut their mouths," said George ardently. "Oh, no! I can't marry you, George, and I must go with you any more!"

"I don't see why you are so anxious," she yielded. "Because, look here, Mary, let me go on my walk if you will!"

"Marry me and shut their mouths," said George ardently. "Oh, no! I can't marry you, George, and I must go with you any more!"

"I don't see why you are so anxious," she yielded. "Because, look here, Mary, let me go on my walk if you will!"

STILT WALKING.

In Some Parts of France It is an Ancient Custom. "I'm the real thing as a runner," said Howard James majestically as he stepped himself at the first home dirt race since his return from college.

"I don't see why you are so anxious," she yielded. "Because, look here, Mary, let me go on my walk if you will!"

"Marry me and shut their mouths," said George ardently. "Oh, no! I can't marry you, George, and I must go with you any more!"

DARK DOINGS.

The Reason One Woman is Disgusted With the Voting Proposition. When any one asked little Mrs. Pratt her opinion on the question of equal suffrage she had her answer ready.

"I don't see why you are so anxious," she yielded. "Because, look here, Mary, let me go on my walk if you will!"

"Marry me and shut their mouths," said George ardently. "Oh, no! I can't marry you, George, and I must go with you any more!"

SCHOOL APPROPRIATIONS

One Thousand Dollars Less Than Estimated of Last Year

The joint board of school visitors and school committee last Friday evening and made appropriations for the nine schools of the town.

The Ninth School District was represented by Chairman H. W. Chase, H. V. W. J. McGuffey and H. A. Mary Queen; the town school board by Secretary H. O. Bowers and A. E. Lyall; and the Board of Selectmen by Secretary John M. Williams, William E. Alvord and Clinton W. Cowles.

In view of the fact that the prospect of establishing a state trade school in the former mill building on Main street has vanished in a thin air, the estimated cost of operating the schools of the Ninth District during the coming year was reduced by $1,000.

The appropriations as finally made are as follows:

Table with 2 columns: District No. and Amount. District No. 1: $200, District No. 2: $1,000, District No. 3: $1,000, District No. 4: $1,000, District No. 5: $500, District No. 6: $1,000, District No. 7: $1,000, District No. 8: $300, District No. 9: $125.

Music and drawing in seven districts, $1,000. Free text books and supplies in 1-9, $1,500. Free text books and supplies No. 9, $285. Evening schools, $300.

Total, $64,000. Appropriations in 1909, $65,000. Appropriations in 1908, $66,000. Increase in 1909, $1,000.

THE COLLEGE SINGING GIRLS

Will Be Seen At High School Hall Next Wednesday Evening

The College Singing Girls and Walter Eyles is the attraction which will open the Popular Course at High School Assembly Hall next Wednesday evening, and these jovial entertainers will be accorded a hearty welcome on their first visit to our goodly town.

The eight young ladies of the company are unusually talented and versatile. They are professional singers, having good solo voices which perfectly blend in the concert work. They are of attractive appearance, and whether seen on or off the platform it is readily apparent that they are young women of culture and refinement.

The concert is given with all the dash and enthusiasm of college life. The program is replete with bright and amusing novelties including songs with a twist, good solo voices which perfectly blend in the concert work. They are of attractive appearance, and whether seen on or off the platform it is readily apparent that they are young women of culture and refinement.

MORE ROOM

Thomas M. Trotter finds his store trade growing so rapidly that more storage room is imperative. His present store is jammed so full of stoves of all kinds, kitchen utensils, etc., that there is scarcely room to turn around. His increase of store trade has more than surpassed his most sanguine expectations. Therefore, he is having a new building erected at the rear of his present store to provide space for the large over- flow of stock which he is obliged to carry in order to meet the requirements of his trade. The new building is 20 x 30 feet, strong and built high. It is of wood and is being built by George M. Barber. There is a driveway between the new building and the main store. Stoves, etc., will be trundled on a movable bridge across the driveway as needed.

Besides the increased stove trade Mr. Trotter's steam and hot air heating, plumbing, tinning, etc., is also growing apace. He is employing 15 men at the present time and is able to keep up with his orders. His is a very busy shop and all are hustling like bees in a hive during summer.

THE HARTFORD THEATER

One of the most dramatic comedies in modern literature is the scene in W. J. Locks's great novel "Hoi!" in which Irene Mariani, by committing a splendid perjury, blazes forever her good name to save from the gallows Hugh Colman, her friend and the man who was willing to give his life for her husband. This scene, so graphically told in the novel, has been transferred to the stage in Roy Hamilton's dramatic version of the novel which will be seen at the Hartford Theatre tonight and twice tomorrow. The American production of the play is made by Walter X. Lawrence, one of New York's best known producers. The play follows closely the earlier portions of the novel although the lingering tragedy of the story has been abbreviated and happiness comes with less suffering than the novel does.

The American rights are the property of the Walter X. Lawrence company, who deferred producing it last season because of their inability to secure the actors and actresses desired for the cast. This season, however, they were enabled to obtain them, with the result that the play goes out with complete success.

How a play can be built upon the misdeeds of a football hero, the loss of four front teeth and the replacing of those missing incisors by a set of false ones which he accidentally loses while attempting to propose to his sweetheart, is one of the really delightful things of the present theatrical season. All this is told in Billy the three-act farce comedy which comes to the Hartford Theatre Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week, with a matinee on Wednesday.

Without exception the dramatic critic of New York had something good to say about Billy and the fact that it ran all summer at Daly's theatre in that city is conclusive evidence of its merit. Alan Dale sums up the play in a single sentence, "A combination of the most ridiculous situations with a laugh in every line." In fact if you have never seen Billy you have never laughed.

Billy Hargreaves, the hero, quarrels with the Transylvania football team because of their conduct on the gridiron while he makes the winning touchdown for his team. While the dental surgeons are replacing his incisors he goes into temporary retirement and reappears at the opening of the first act of the play on board the steamship Florida bound for Havana in company with his sister Alice. The trip is undertaken to allow Billy to become accustomed to his new set of teeth.

Mrs. Shone and her daughter Beatrice are also passengers on the ship and Billy is desperately in love with the latter. The complications are made more ridiculous by the presence of Sam Danton, also in love with Beatrice and a hated rival of Billy's.

Soon after the ship pulls out of New York harbor Billy begins to press his suit with Beatrice and just as he is about to propose to her a major bump into him and causes him to lose his teeth. In the embarrassment he rushes to deck leaving the disconsolate Beatrice without any explanation of his unusual conduct. Billy's predicament is tragically funny. His sensitiveness about the loss of his teeth and his sister's endeavors to aid him to replace them combine to form one of the most amusing and laughable plays ever produced.

The teeth are finally found by two seamen who hold them for a reward while Billy makes all kinds of frantic efforts to locate them. The play is produced under the management of the Messrs. Shubert who promise the same elaborate production and excellent cast which were seen in New York.

ter what James T. Powers has done to make it achieve its huge success in this country. It is absolutely Americanized. The piece was staged by Ned Wayburn who is one of the clever stage managers of the day and the result is a production beautifully staged and full of snap and go. There are many catchy musical numbers and the goings of the girls are said to be ravishing. Only one or two cities will be played before the piece goes to Chicago for a long run.

Christmas Presents

"Why aren't there more Christmas gifts that are appropriate for men?" and "Are there any novel presents on the streets?" are questions often heard at this season of the year, particularly by women who do fancy work. And for once the answer may be that there is at least one attractive gift that an ingenious woman who is clever with carpenter's tools can make. This present is a novel pipe rack. To make the rack procure four boards from a carpenter—two eighteen inches long by six inches wide and two eighteen inches long by five inches wide. In one of the latter pieces get a carpenter to bore four holes three-eighths of an inch in diameter and running lengthwise in the board. The two end holes are four inches from the ends of the board, and all of the holes are two and a half inches apart. The two larger boards are joined together by means of braces, which screw on the backs of very small screws. Five inches from the top of the longer side is fastened the board with the holes in it, so that it makes a shelf on the first piece. Then, five inches below this, is fastened the other board in the same manner as the first—by means of screws from the back. The rack is finished as far as the carpentering goes. The upper shelf is for the pipes, the holes being made for them to rest in, while the lower shelf is for tobacco boxes, matches, etc.

PIPE RACK
The search for Christmas novelties that find nothing more charming than the doll workbags and dainty little gifts made from silks and old world brocades. These novelties unalike, ably proclaim their Parisian origin, and, like most importations from the French capital, they are expensive. But from a description of some of these charming trinkets their home manufacture is not difficult. Most attractive is a doll workbag. The head of a pretty wax doll, the size of which depends, of course, upon the size of the working you want to make is purchased. A quaint coil scuttle bonnet of flowered silk is fashioned for the doll's head, which ties in a full bow under the chin. Pieces of brocade standing out to form shoulders is next arranged about the doll's neck, and over this is fitted an old-fashioned felt of silk edged with puffings of the same. This dressed up head forms the top of the bag, the bag itself being a waxy skirt of silk trimmed with silver backed articles on some women's toilet tables. Backing a brush or a hand mirror with Dresden silk is really a very simple matter, and any one with deft fingers can manage it. The silk is glued to the wooden backed brush, and gold beads is glued around the edges. A comb and tooth tray and a powder box can be made in the same manner, and the set makes a dainty present for a woman. The Dresden silk paragon is a little like a pair of bellows. The sides are of silk covered cardboard, and the cushioned edge holds the pins.

TOILET SET COVERED WITH SILK

A Pin Case For the Schoolgirl.
A dainty present for the room of a schoolgirl is the ever useful pin case in a form that appeals to her love of decoration. A small bisque doll head has fastened around its neck two pieces of satin ribbon three inches wide and ten inches long. This is gathered in the center way around the neck of the doll that it appears to be dressed in a long, straight slip of silk.

Gift For the Gaffer.
For the use of the up to date father the golf score and change purse comes in a desirable present. This is a fashion of dark brown leather, the back being stiffened by means of a piece of cardboard. This new bag is very simple in construction. It is a square of a yard or more of any material that is strong enough for the purpose. Bright redness is very good. This square is hemmed and each corner turned back half an inch. On each of the turned corners five holes are sewed a loop of tape four inches long. Small or large loops can be made in the same way.

A New Laundry Bag.
Here is a laundry bag that cannot be made in its depth any other way. The bag is made of a square of a yard or more of any material that is strong enough for the purpose. Bright redness is very good. This square is hemmed and each corner turned back half an inch. On each of the turned corners five holes are sewed a loop of tape four inches long. Small or large loops can be made in the same way.

Engaged girls will appreciate several.
The ribbon holder that we have been keeping in place certain sets of inserts or table linen. The gift is simple enough, being merely a length of ribbon which in the center has a square of linen covered cardboard cut out.

Silk Flower Vase.
Vases covered with brocaded silk are the newest things out for holding flowers, and the idea of these holders arranged together. These vases are made of cardboard, and in the present instance the large ones about twelve inches high are pressed into a circle. About the three tubes is pasted handsome brocaded silk, or plain fabric may be used, studded with sequins and beads of gold. The top of the vase is finished with a gold cord. The vase is put around them in such a way as to make a good balance, and an extra quantity is reserved for hanging the vases.

Not New but Well Liked Present.
Knitted or crocheted ties, though not novelties, will be desirable gifts, for they are serviceable and, being made by hand, are valuable accessories to any wardrobe. In plain green, dark cardinal or made of a combination of two tone effects or of two strongly contrasting colors, such as black and red or orange and blue, they are striking contrasts as neckwear.

The Ever Useful Shaving Case.
An attractive gift for a man is a shaving case. This is composed of white tissue paper cut to the proper size, while the outside case of blue linen, with the seams outside in white silk, is in the shape of a football. The top is fastened with inch wide white ribbon of any color.

Reminiscence of days long ago is a little "dolly" fashioned from paper for whose proudest mission is to serve as a blotter. The face and figure are painted in water colors, the parasol-like drape being made of purple blotting paper fastened with tiny brass headed tacks. This decorative desk adjunct costs $1.50.

FOR THE COLLEGE BOY OR TO DATE MAN has among his numerous belongings. The newest necktie holder that has been brought out for Christmas is oval in shape and about a foot or more in length. It is made of a stout piece of cardboard, which may be purchased already cut in the shops or cut by the maker of the article, as desired. This oval is covered with a piece of grayish heavy cloth, which is embossed in sampler fashion in the center.

FOR SISTER
Dresden silk is so much liked nowadays that it is even used to cover the backs of hairbrushes. Hand mirrors and hairbrushes with Dresden silk backs are beginning to supersede the toilet talismans.

FOR BROTHER
For reasons of sentiment and economy it is often preferable to fashion Christmas presents for brothers at home. A few suggestions are given for articles that combine the three qualities of attractiveness, usefulness and inexpensiveness. There are lots of brothers who own phonographs who will be happy Christmas morning if they find that some member of the family has made them a holder for phonograph disks. This album is made slightly larger than a square that would box a disk. Its pages can be made of any material, and around each page is folded a sheet of heavy paper with a circular opening in the center of each fold. This provides a pocket on each side of the page in which a record disk can be kept.

FOR BABY
At first glance the Christmas gift for King Baby, impregnable as he is in his pink and white well fed contentment, seems the hardest problem of the holiday season. He has no wants that are obvious and patent, and it is evidently quite hopeless to ask him to follow his

FOR GRANDMA AND AUNTIE
Grandmother will appreciate a sewing basket of the straw variety, which will save her the trouble of hunting about in the depths of a bag for her sewing materials. This convenient model is carried out with a straw basket somewhat on the order of a nesting tray, which is to be purchased in the shops for fitting with straw. The basket has an openwork rim of straw, through which ribbon an inch and a half is threaded. On the inside at intervals the ribbon is passed through spoons of silk and then threaded in and out of the straw beading until the nest position is reached. About six spoons of silk or cotton are supplied, and a paper of needles is attached in the same fashion. The ribbon threading ends at the sides of the basket in pretty little bows. The bottom of the basket is fitted with a satchet pad of silk, and in the center is a tonal-like pin cushion of the same silk. To the

THE NEWEST SEWING BASKET.
Inside rim is attached with baby ribbon an ornery, and a small pair of scissors, having their handles decorated with a rosette of baby ribbon, and on the underside is a white dress button which is secured to a loop of silk made in the ribbon. The scissors when needed are merely unhooked and replaced at will.

When Grandma Goes Visiting.
Grandmother will appreciate a sewing bag as a Christmas gift perhaps more than anything else you can give her. This bag is especially suited for a sewing bag, as it is easily folded and can be carried in a small hand bag when she goes visiting. One yard and a quarter each of pink tulle and Dresden silk are required. Both silks are cut on the bias and divided into three pieces, then sewed together alternately, thus—first pink, then Dresden, then pink, and so on. The foundation of the bag is a circle of soft cardboard five inches in circumference. This is covered neatly with pink tulle silk on both sides, for which a quarter yard of pink tulle silk is required. After this is covered, gather silk and sew on to base. This forms the bottom of the bag. To make top, turn in silk about two inches from the top and stitch with a needle, then make another row of stitching one-half inch above this row. This forms a place through which the running string is run. One yard of narrow soft tulle ribbon is used for a running string.

Something Clever in Penknives.
The question of a really attractive gift for a man is solved to some extent by a novelty in the way of a penknife. The new idea is a silver knife of the finest quality, with an emblem worked in in several French engraved inscriptions in the center.

Baby's Bonnet Box.
The baby has his bonnet box as well as his mamma, but it is a cunning little round affair covered with flowered paper in a pretty babyish design of forget-me-nots. This is one of the prettiest new boxes in connection with the infant's hygiene and makes a charming Christmas gift. Inside the box is fitted

Necktie Holder.
Necktie holders are not new things in the way of gifts, but they have the advantage of being useful and always acceptable. Two or three such affairs are not too many for the collection of the college boy or to date man has among his numerous belongings. AT THE OCTAGON HOUSE

It Wasn't a Burglar That the Pretty Intruder Encountered.

By CLARISSA MACKIE. Rosamond Lee walked slowly down the wall that enclosed the deserted house...

Her family laughed at her fondness for the Octagon House and predicted a speedy abandonment when Mrs. Phillips came home again...

She followed the stone wall to an intersecting fence which served as a dividing stone. In a few seconds she had jumped lightly to the soft turf of the other side...

She parted the vines and peeped through to observe the intruder. Her boat to peer into the half drawn shades of the log windows. He stretched upon a sofa and she saw that his clothes were gray and dusty...

"He's wondering how to get in," murmured Rosamond to herself. "If only I were brave enough to go in and frighten him away, but I am fearfully afraid of burglars, and yet if he should break in and steal some of Mrs. Phillips' jewelry..."

"I don't know any one around," Rosamond said to herself. "I don't know any one around."

"The house is well protected," said the man. "It is a good thing that you are here. I am glad that you are here."

"What were you trying to do with that?" asked the man. "I was trying to do with that."

"I am sorry for that. Will you have a cigar with us?" added the man. "I am sorry for that."

THE WARS OF OUR COUNTRY

Independence. An army of 4,000 Mexicans surrounded the fort near San Antonio, Tex., seeking vainly for an indefensible spot to attack. Their cannon pounded the ancient walls and their sharpshooters lay in wait for signs of any defender who might be seen in the distance...

Sloan's Liniment

An aching back is instantly relieved by an application of Sloan's Liniment. This liniment takes the place of massage and is better than sticky plasters. It penetrates without rubbing—through the skin and muscular tissue right to the bone, quickens the blood, relieves congestion, and gives permanent as well as temporary relief.

TAILS OF ANIMALS.

They Enable Their Possessors to Turn. An ingenious model has been constructed to show why a cat in falling always rights on its feet. The imitation cat consists of a cardboard cylinder with four rods stuck in it for legs and a tail divided into similar principles, and the object is to show that a cat's faculty of falling on its feet depends on the rotation of its tail.

What Aired Him. A friend once sent an aged man what caused him to complain so often at evening of pain and weariness. "It ails," replied he, "my neck and my arms, and I have two fawns to take two hours to keep from running away, two hawks to manage, a serpent to tame, and a snake to tame, and a sick man to tend and wait upon."

Had the Effect. "Yes," he said in answer to something he had said, "the old songs are very beautiful."

Who? "Why," Leonard and Beattie. What have I done that you go without us?" "I don't know, I'm sure. But they will be waiting for us below without us."

The Conquest of the Pole

WITH a hasty farewell to Mr. Bradley and the officers and crew, we set out on our journey. The yacht stood off to avoid drifting ice and await the return of the motorboat. When we were set ashore we sat down and watched with added eyes the departure of our friends and the covering of the boat which had held us to the known world of life and happiness. The village of Annotok is placed in a small bay just inside of Cape Ingledale. Its population changes much from year to year, according to the known luck of the chase or the ambition of the men to obtain new bear-skins trousers.

THE MIDNIGHT SUN IN THE ARCTIC.

In the immediate vicinity there were some turf and moss, but everywhere else within a few hundred feet of the sea the land rose abruptly in steep slopes of barren rock. To the westward across Smith Sound in a blue haze were seen Cape Sabine, Beche peninsula and some of the land beyond which we hoped to cross in our prospective venture. The construction of a winter house and workshop called for immediate attention after the wind subsided. Men, women and children offered strong hands to gather the stones strewn along the shore.

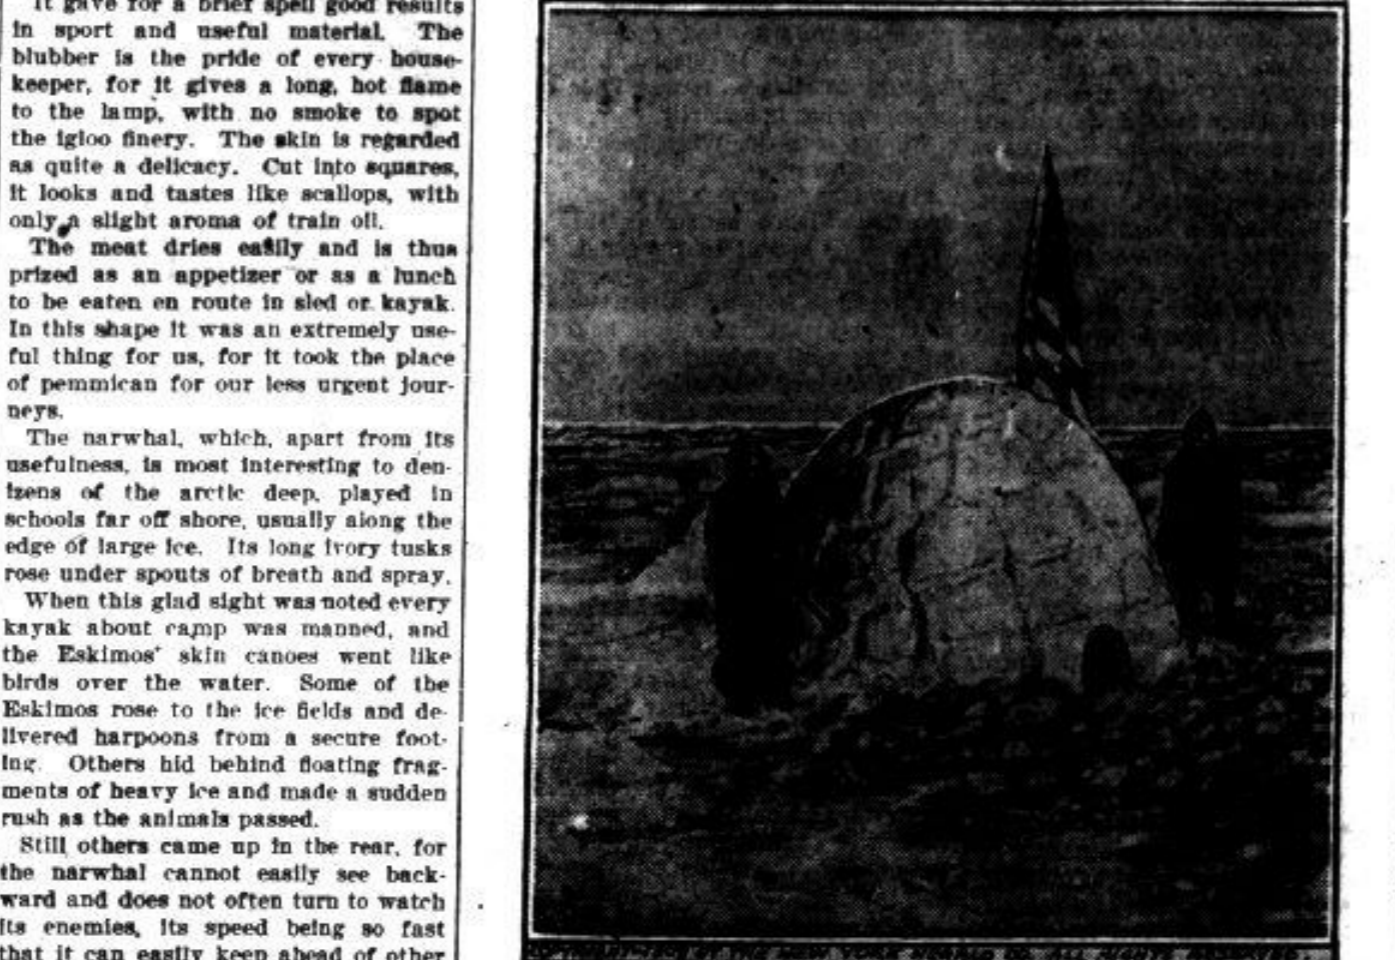

This precaution against ultimate mishap now served a very useful purpose. Including a space 15 by 16 feet, the house was quickly piled in. The walls were held together by strips of wood or the joints sealed with pasted paper with the addition of a few long boards. A really good roof was made by using the covers of the boxes as shingles. A blanket of turf over this confined the heat and permitted at the same time beautiful circulation of air. We slept under our own roof at the end of the first day, and our new home had the very great advantage of containing within its walls all our possessions within easy reach at all times. As the winter advanced with its stormy ferocity and frightful darkness it was not necessary to venture out and dig up supplies from great depths of snowdrift. Meat and blubber were stored in large quantities about the camp.

Much Work in Sight. Our expedition was in need of skins and furs. Furthermore, as men engaged for the northern venture would be away during the spring months, the best hunting season of the year, it was necessary to make provision for home needs here. There was therefore much work before us, for we had not only to prepare our equipment, but to provide for the families of the workers. In the polar cycle of the seasons there are peculiar conditions which apply to circumstances and movements. As the winter season is ordinarily unattended there are but two, a winter season and a summer season—a winter season of six months and a summer season of three months. But for more convenient division of the yearly periods it is best to retain the usual cycle of four seasons. In the usual cycle of the seasons, the months are "sleep." The months are STORMS now came up with much force and frequency that it was not safe to venture out in kayaks. A few walrus were captured from boats; they sea hunting was confined to the quest of seal through the young ice. A similar quest was being followed at every village from Annotok to Cape York. But all sea activity would dreamers, nor was the project handicapped by the small army of noxious.

SCENE AT THE NORTH POLE, PHOTOGRAPHED BY DR. COOK.

How soon he limited to a few open spaces near prominent headlands. The scene of the real hunt changed from the sea to the land. We had as yet no carbon meat. The little seals gathered in nets during the summer and elder duck lagged later disappeared fast when used as steady diet. We must procure hare, ptarmigan and reindeer, for we had not yet learned to eat with a relish the sea-bird-like substance which is characteristic of all marine mammals. Guns and ammunition were distributed, and when the winds were easy enough to allow one to venture out every man sought the neighboring hills. France also took his exercise with a gun on his shoulder. The combined results gave a long line of ptarmigan, two reindeer and sixteen hares. As snow covered the ground, the hunters were forced down near the sea, where we could still hope to hunt in the feeble light of the early part of the night.

No Anxiety For Winter. With the lander fairly stocked and good prospects for other tasty meats we were spared the usual anxiety of a winter without winter supplies, and France was just the man to use this game to good effect, for he had a way of preparing our primitive provisions that made our dinner seem equal to a Holland House spread. In the middle of October foxskins were prime, and then new steel traps were distributed and set near the many caches. By this time the Eskimos had all abandoned their sealskin sleds and were using the reindeer winter igloos. The ground was covered with snow, and the sea was nearly frozen over everywhere.

POLAR BEAR AND ESKIMO DOG ON THE JOHN R. BRADLEY.

During the last days of last summer and the first of this, and at noon on Oct. 24 everybody sought the freedom of the open for a last glimpse of the dying day. There was a charm of color and glitter, but no one seemed quite happy as the sun sank under the southern sea, for it was not to rise again for 115 days. The Eskimos took this as a signal to enter a trance of sadness, in which the bodies of each family and the discomforts of the year are enacted in dramatic chants or dances. But to us the sunset of 1909 was a preparation for the first work directing the shaping of the outfit with which to begin the conquest of the North Pole. Most expeditions have had the advantage of the liberal hand of a government or of a simple private fund. We were denied both. There was no government, and no money to speak of.

Several months for a chance use in the last stages of the return; but, since food supplies are necessarily limited, the delay is fatal. Therefore, when open water prevents progress a boat becomes in the nature of a life preserver. Foodish indeed is the explorer who ignores this detail of the problem. Transport of a boat, however, offers many serious objections. Nansen introduced the kayak, and most explorers since have adopted the same device. The Eskimo canoe serves the purpose very well, but to carry it for three months without hopeless destruction requires an amount of energy which stamps the polar venture with failure.

Selecting a Boat. Sectional boats, aluminum boats, skin boats and other devices have been tried, but to all there is the same fatal objection of impossible transportation. It seems rather odd that the ordinary folding canvas boat has not been pressed into this service. We found it at the situation exactly, selecting a twelve foot Eureka shaped boat with wooden frame. The seats, spindles and floor planks were utilized as parts of sleds. The canvas cover served as a floor cloth for our sleeping bags. Thus the boat did useful service for a hundred days and was never in evidence as a cumbersome device.

Preparation of the staple food supply is of even greater importance than means of locomotion. To the success of a prolonged arctic enterprise in transit successive experience is bound to dictate a wise choice of equipment, but it does not often educate the stomach. From the published accounts of arctic travelers it is impossible to select a satisfactory menu for future explorers, and I hasten to add that perhaps our experience will be equally unsatisfactory to subsequent victims. Now it is safe to listen to scientific advice, for the stomach is the one organ of the body which stands as the surest sever over every other human sense and passion and will not easily yield to foreign dictates. The problem differs with every man. It differs with every expedition, and it is radically different with every nation. Thus when Dr. Gerlach forced Norwegian food into French stomachs he learned that there was a nationality in gastronomy.

Depending on Eskimo Food. In this respect, as in others, I was helped very much by the people who were to live up my forest. The Eskimo is ever hungry, but his taste is normal. Things of doubtful value in nutrition form no part in his dietary. Animal food, meat and fat, is entirely satisfactory as a steady diet without other adjuncts. His food requires neither salt nor sugar, nor is cooking a matter of necessity. Quantity is important, but quality counts only in the relative proportion of fat. With this key to the gastronomic of our lockers, pemmican was selected as the staple food, which also served equally well for the dogs. We had an ample supply of pemmican, made by Armour, of pounded beef, beef, sprinkled with a few raisins, some cranberries and a small quantity of sugar. This mixture was connected together with heated beef tallow and run into the cans containing six pounds each. This combination was invented by an American Indian. It has been used before as part of the long list of foodstuffs in arctic products, but with us it was the whole bill of fare when away from game animals. Only a few palate surprises were carried, and these will be indicated in the narrative of camp life. The entire winter and night were spent with busy hands, under direction of Eskimo and Caucasian ingeniously, in working out the climatic and camp comforts without which we could not invade the forbidden mystery of the polar basin. Although we did not follow closely either the routes or methods of our predecessors, we are nevertheless doubly indebted to them, for their experience has been our guide.

Need for a boat comes with the change of seasons. The sea is now open, and we must have a boat to carry us to the next stage of our journey. We have now a small boat, but it is not yet ready for use. We must wait until the weather is more favorable.

Our expedition was in need of skins and furs. Furthermore, as men engaged for the northern venture would be away during the spring months, the best hunting season of the year, it was necessary to make provision for home needs here. There was therefore much work before us, for we had not only to prepare our equipment, but to provide for the families of the workers. In the polar cycle of the seasons there are peculiar conditions which apply to circumstances and movements. As the winter season is ordinarily unattended there are but two, a winter season and a summer season—a winter season of six months and a summer season of three months. But for more convenient division of the yearly periods it is best to retain the usual cycle of four seasons. In the usual cycle of the seasons, the months are "sleep." The months are CITIZENS MEETING Address meeting has been called for next Monday evening at the Town Hall, for the purpose of discussing the proposed amendments to the act under which we are doing business as a town at the present time. A number of citizens have been asking for information on this subject in order that they may vote intelligently upon the question which is to be decided by "Yes" and "No" ballot at the special town meeting called for this purpose, as may be seen more fully by official notice in our advertising columns today, and also by the editorial notice in this issue relative to this much mooted question. It is quite within the facts to state that many voters are looking for light on this very important question at this time, and to those such a condition the following information has been furnished: It is not intended to make it a decided affair by any means. All persons desiring to be heard upon the subject will be courteously given the privilege of the floor for this purpose. What is wanted is to turn on the light. Whoever has a torch to light the path-way should hold it up with him to the Town hall next Monday evening. It is the people's forum. Both sides will be represented. Please will be made for and against the amendments.
