

All The Women are Talking

HAVE YOU HEARD?

HALE'S CELEBRATION SALE

BEGAN WEDNESDAY NOV. 3RD.

ENDS SATURDAY NOV. 13TH.

This sale is causing more comment among the women of the town than even the right of the selectmen to straighten sidewalks. Why is it? Simply because it deals with the vital things that concern every family in the town. The little needs on which you save a dollar before you know it. Ask your neighbor if perchance you have not been here. Many new additions to the list of sale goods, since our first circular.

WELL RECEIVED
 The first installment of Col. John Speed's "Conversations" on Domestic Problems which appeared in these columns was well received and furnished much entertainment for our readers. The "Conversations" were highly appreciated and approving comments were made on them. Col. Speed discussed so well "Should a Man Smoke at Home," and he certainly gave some sage advice to young wives and others who may wish some profit to the measure of the matter necessary consideration.

WAY IS THIS?
 What's the Matter With Manchester Green? Why is it Blank?
 The examination of school children in the Second School District as compiled by Commissioner John Jensen shows a loss of thirty-two from last year. Last year there were enumerated 145. This year Mr. Jensen found there had been 29 children removed from the district and 16 over the school age, making a loss of 44. Twelve were added, which made a net loss of 32 and placed the total enumeration for this year at 113.

OFFICERS INSTALLED
 The following officers of St. Mary's A. B. society were installed Monday evening by County Director John A. Fox of Hartford: President, James F. Toole; Vice-president, Thomas Shea; recording secretary, William J. Tallon; financial secretary, Theodore L. Champagne; treasurer, Fred H. Wall; executive committee, E. J. Hickey, Fred Chas. Ryan, and George Ryan. At the conclusion of the ceremony of installation an entertainment and smoker were held.

NOT LEGAL PEOPLE
 The Frank Tanser and wife who were reported as having perished at the fire at St. Johnsbury, Vt., were not the persons of the same name who resided here. It will be remembered that Frank Tanser operated a paint store at the corner of the street and Middle Street until recently when he left town and his present whereabouts are unknown in this place.

WE GAINED SOME.
 Thomas Gray has completed the enumeration for the Ninth School District and finds a total enumeration of 1796. This is a net gain of 99 over last year. Mr. Gray finds that 32 families have left the district, some of them having gone out of town. Some families came here from Hartford. The total gain shown was 202 as large as expected as it was not known until an actual canvass had been made that some of the families had moved into other school districts in this town. The fact of their removal from the Ninth district does not prevent parents from sending their children to the Ninth District school, however, even for the lower grades, as children attend the school here coming from Manchester Green and other outlying districts. These, however, cannot be enumerated as being residents of the Ninth District school.

WAS GRANTED DIVORCE
 At a session of the superior court held in Hartford last Friday, Phoebe Converse, who lives in Hartford was divorced from Lawrence E. Converse, who lives in Manchester. They were married in Meriden, April 29, 1900, and Mrs. Converse charged that her husband deserted her March 26, 1906. The decree of divorce which Judge Case granted was not the first divorce the woman had obtained in the court, because it was obtained by a judgment which the judge asked that the woman has a married daughter now 21 years old, and when the daughter was eight years old, she said, she got a divorce from her former husband. Judge Case said that the woman could resume her maiden name of Edwards. Her name under her former marriage was Hall.

ODD FELLOWS TO BUILD
 King David Lodge, L. O. O. F., Saturday morning closed a deal whereby they are to become the owners of a valuable piece of property located at the corner of Main and East Center streets, known as the Hamford property. It has a frontage of ninety-five feet on Main street and 102 feet on East Center street. At present there is a dwelling house on the lot. The house will be torn down and it is the plan of the lodge to have a business block erected there which will have two stories on the ground floor and a meeting hall on the second. The lodge has been without a home since the fire in the House & Hale block last April.

ANNIVERSARY SALE.
 The twelfth anniversary sale of Wise, Smith & Co. is demonstrating most emphatically how fast the firm's business is expanding. All the departments are filled to overflowing and there is demand for many more. There are bargains in all departments, too. In millinery, lines and blankets, dresses, fur coats, druggists, razors, long coats, fur muffs, neck pieces, furniture, carpets, shoes, sweaters, men's and boys' clothing, men's trousers, notions, kid gloves, curtains—in fact, all the things which a well-ordered department store carries are shown in tremendous variety. The firm's twelfth anniversary has been demonstrating to the people of this vicinity that growth in this instance has been synonymous with progress. There has been a constant advance along the line. The store was never so well ordered, never carried so choice a stock and the prices were never quite down to the bedrock of profit as at present. The sale has been a revelation of the surprising capabilities of this firm for catering to the select trade of Connecticut. There is abundant opportunity for finding just what one wants and the price is right and the quality correct.—xxx

EDUCATIONAL ADVANCE
 It seems to us that Mr. Jensen should have made a better report than that with the addition of tricolor facilities for the Green, and also the newly organized and very energetic Village Improvement Society there we don't understand why such a condition of affairs should be permitted to exist. Would it not be well to call a special town meeting to take action upon this matter and ascertain if this leakage can be stopped?

EVERYBODY HAPPY
 The fair committee of Division No. 1, A. O. U. M., gave a reception in the hall last week to the canvassers and others who assisted them in their recent fair. There was merry dancing, Bala's Orchestra furnishing music. Refreshments were served. The fair was a success in every particular and the committee are highly pleased with the outcome of their efforts.

OBITUARY
THOMAS R. RICE
 Thomas R. Rice died at the home of his mother, Mrs. William Rice of Locust street last Saturday. His death was due to tuberculosis, brought on by an attack of pleurisy from which he suffered for about one year.

Funeral services were held at the home of his mother Monday afternoon, Rev. Manning B. Bennett, rector of St. Mary's church officiating. Interment was in the East cemetery.

Thomas R. Rice was born in Tombers, N. Y., in 1871. When only a few months old his parents moved to this place, where he was educated and lived until nine years ago, when he moved to Middletown. In 1892 he was married to Miss Grace Murphy of Brookfield. His union was blessed with two children: Timothy Harrigan and five children were born to them, of which number two daughters, Mrs. Thomas Curran and Miss Elizabeth Harrigan survive, as does a son, Jeremiah. The funeral took place Monday morning, with a requiem high mass at the St. James church. Interment was in the St. Bridget cemetery.

MRS. CARRIE B. JOHNSON
 Mrs. Carrie (Brooks) Johnson died at the home of her mother, No. 3 Kerry street, after a lingering illness with tuberculosis. Besides her parents she is survived by two sons, William F. Rice aged 16 years, and Charles Rice, aged 13 years; his mother, Mrs. William Rice; one brother, Dr. Richard W. Rice of Keedysville, Md.; and one sister, Mrs. James R. Ringrose.

Funeral services were held at the home of the South Methodist officiating and interment was in the East cemetery.

J. PATTER FISH
 J. Patton Fish, who died Sunday at his home in the Goodwin building, Hartford, had lived in Bolton, Manchester and Chicago before moving to Hartford. Funeral services were held at the home of the Goodwin building, Hartford, Wednesday afternoon and the burial was in the Rockland Cemetery, Manchester.

He was born in Bolton, April 5, 1848. Son of Fenton F. and Anne E. (Avery) Fish, and spent his boyhood in his home town. When he lived in Manchester he was superintendent of the Hilliard mill, and when in Chicago he was in the publishing business, leaving at one time the familiar picture of Sherman's march to the sea. He had led a retired life lately. He was a member of the Republican Club. He leaves a widow, a daughter, Mrs. Lillian G. Grant, wife of Dalton W. Grant of Wapping, a granddaughter, Lillian G. Grant, also a brother O. D. Fish, living in Manchester.

James and Mrs. Aileen of Meriden, were visitors in town over Sunday.

WILL ENTERTAIN BASE BALL TEAM
 To Have Gala Time
 Charlie McLeary of Glouster street will have as his guests the base ball team of the Fraternal Benefit League at his residence tomorrow evening. Mr. McLeary was manager of the team for the past season and takes a great deal of interest in them. The festive gathering of tomorrow evening is for the purpose of showing his esteem for the lanky bunch of ball tossers and awardees of the Fraternal Benefit League. It will be remembered that these sturdy players won the prize at the field day of the order held at Light House Point last summer, in a base ball contest against the picked teams of the state within the membership of the order. They promptly bore home as a trophy of their prowess a beautiful silver loving cup which was placed on display in a store window on Main street and greatly admired by the public. A royal good time is promised the players for tomorrow evening. A beautiful collation will be served. Music and general sociability will be the features.

WILL MOVE TO HARTFORD
 Col. John Hickey To Establish Regimental Headquarters in Capitol City.
 It is with regret that many people will learn that Colonel John Hickey has decided to move to Hartford, where employ of Cheney Brothers at their machinery tomorrow evening.

 Colonel Hickey was in command of the First Infantry for the past three years. Official duties caused him to make frequent trips to Hartford, most of which had to be made at night because of his occupation during the day in this place. Of necessity he was kept out late at night owing to the long and tedious trolley ride after the close of business sessions, of military and social functions and such the like that he has been called upon from time to time to attend in the city. He will find it very much more convenient to live in Hartford under existing conditions than here.

Col. Hickey is a native of this town and has lived here practically all his life. He served a term as Captain of Volunteers for the United States government in the Philippines during the Spanish-American War and he is highly respected without serious injury to himself and free from wounds of any sort. On his return he was received with distinction by his fellow townsmen, a banner being formed headed by the Military Band, Company G, First Infantry, C. N. G., a number of citizens, and members of Court Manchester, Foresters of America, of the Forest of America, of the Ancient, Modern and Chapter of the Grand Lodge of the State of Connecticut, and the Republican Town Committee. He expects to move to Hartford next week. Mr. Hickey is chief companion of Mary Lester Circle Companions of the Forest of America.

BOUGHT MARKET.
 William S. Parsons and William N. Spellman, both of Hartford, have bought out the meat and grocery business in the M. P. party block on Pine street, which has been conducted by Edward Lockwood at that place for the past seven years. The firm is now known as Parsons & Spellman and the new proprietors began business here November 1st.

Mr. Parsons conducts a market at 25 Front street, Hartford, and Mr. Spellman was in his employ as a meat cutter. Both are men of ample experience and will doubtless make good. They will operate the two stores the same as Mr. Lockwood has been doing.

Mr. Lockwood has been doing business on his own account in the Mortuary block for the past seven years. He also operated a meat market in O. F. Toole's grocery store for upwards of two years before moving to Pine street. For a time he was associated with Edward Steele in the meat and grocery business on Pine street. It will be remembered that Mr. Steele in a fit of despondency attempted suicide by cutting his throat, but recovered. Following this the partnership between Lockwood & Steele was dissolved and Mr. Lockwood assumed the business in

to. Mr. Lockwood made a fine success of his market and grocery business on Pine street and returns from active duties together for the present.

COMING MARRIAGE.
 Announcement is hereby made of the coming marriage of Charles J. Woodhouse, son of James H. and Mrs. Woodhouse of 59 Birch street, and Miss Loree A. Theresa Fay, daughter of Mrs. Dennis Fay of 79 Adams street. The ceremony is to take place at the St. Bridget church, Wednesday morning, November 17, at 9 o'clock. A reception will be held at the home of the bride from eleven in the morning to three in the afternoon. Invitations for which have been issued this week. The banns of marriage were published by Father Murphy last Sunday for the first time in the St. Bridget's church.

EVERYBODY HAPPY
 The fair committee of Division No. 1, A. O. U. M., gave a reception in the hall last week to the canvassers and others who assisted them in their recent fair. There was merry dancing, Bala's Orchestra furnishing music. Refreshments were served. The fair was a success in every particular and the committee are highly pleased with the outcome of their efforts.

WILL HOLD BAZAR.
 Help Company, No. 2 West To Furnish New Home.
 Center Home No. 2 of the South Manchester Fire Department and planing mill bazar is the Armory open house next April and for this purpose have appointed the following committee to make the preliminary arrangements: A. Henry Simonsen, Charles Bissell and Walter Vermont. The purpose of the fair is in order to raise funds to equal the bazaar house which is now being constructed for Home Company No. 2. In order to suitably celebrate the opening of their new home house an entertainment and celebration is to be given, all arrangements for which have been placed in the hands of the officers of the company as follows: George H. Howe, foreman; Ned Wilson, first assistant; Michael Holleran, second assistant; Henry Morgan, secretary; Thomas Joyce, ex-foreman. It is expected that the new building will be ready about New Year.

Because of the Foresters' fair there will be no roller skating at the Armory this week.
 A row was born to Lincoln and Mrs. Carter of Prospect street last Tuesday.

SELECTMEN MEET

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON AND EVENING SESSIONS—ORDER TOWN BILLS PAID—LISTEN TO PETITIONS.

Question of Sealer of Weights and Measures Given Breezy Hearing—John Cairns Chairman. The selectmen met at the town hall on Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 10, to attend to the business of the day.

WANT FIRE HYDRANT. Thomas Hughes of Newman street asks the Board of Selectmen to have a hydrant placed in front of his property as he is being damaged by the flow of water, mud, etc., through his house.

WANTED GUTTERS PUT IN. William Dandridge of Sumner street asks the Board of Selectmen to have gutters placed in front of his property as he is being damaged by the flow of water, mud, etc., through his house.

WANTED STREET LIGHTS DELETED. James F. Dougherty representing the estate of the late Patrick Dougherty of McKee street came before the Board of Selectmen to have the street lights on McKee street deleted.

In a condition whereby, they could not be used for the purpose which he intended, viz: in measuring vinegar, as the liquid would be absorbed by the cloth thus rendering the measures worthless.

Mr. Cairns claimed that the sealer of weights and measures had charged him fifty cents for fifteen minutes' work upon four common measures. Mr. Cairns held it to be an outrage to have a liquid measure larger than the actual standard and for the reason that in filling these measures he was causing them to weigh less than the actual weight.

Mr. Cairns explained that he had not paid for any work done on the measures since they were taken down and what the charge for that work would be he said he didn't know but that if he had his way about it the charge would be less.

Mr. Cairns also recommended that the sealers of weights and measures establish certain hours when they could be found at the town hall in the same as the charity superintendent and the road superintendent do, and that merchants might bring their measures to him here and have them attended to as required by law.

Mr. Cairns also recommended that the reports of the sealer of weights and measures be printed in the town paper for the same as are the reports of other town officers so that the public might see and be informed fully regarding the work done and all about it.

In discussing the matter further Mr. Cairns said that dry measures are never weighed down when making a sale unless such measures are used.

Mr. Cairns also recommended that the sealers of weights and measures be paid by the town in the same as the other town officers so that they might see and be informed fully regarding the work done and all about it.

NEW WESLEYAN HEAD INSTALLED President Shanklin Inducted into Office. WILLIAM H. TAFT A GUEST.

President Shanklin followed with a brief and eloquent welcome in part as follows: Dr. Shanklin—it is now a little more than twenty years since the Wesleyan has given the college its distinctive place among the institutions of the land.

The gentlemen who have addressed you have each spoken for a constituency. For me I speak for the Wesleyan. I am proud to be its president. I am proud to be its president. I am proud to be its president.

After short addresses by Drs. Abram W. Harris and L. W. Stryker, President Shanklin, representing the New England colleges, greeted the new head of Wesleyan in these optimistic words: "I am glad to see you here."

should be looked into with a view to further economy in that line. He said we have three printing concerns who are doing a good business, but we should be looking into the matter of their printing plants and should be given a fair chance to get their portion of the town's printing.

He said he heard this matter of the town printing commented upon very much. He was not there to find fault but he thought that in view of the fact that the town is working along a line of saving and economy it would be well to take up the matter of the town printing as well as the other features.

At the afternoon session the selectmen ordered the town bills paid, as appears in detail in another column. They approved the appointment of Dr. W. R. Thayer and Dr. Harry W. Sharpe as deputy town physicians. The two books on wills and distribution of estates belonging to the Probate Court were ordered indexed in the general index of land records. The South Manchester Sanitary & Sewer District was granted permission to use West Center street to traffic between the sewer and the water surface drainage sewer being installed.

In response to the repeated requests for an opportunity to see the Sherman brand of moving pictures at a man here, the selectmen have decided to present a choice program of Sherman's best views, Saturday afternoon and evening of last week. These pictures have had a big vogue at the Sunday evening entertainments at the Casino, but many women and children have not been able to take advantage of the Sunday show. Therefore Manager Jennings has arranged for a continuous performance of the Sherman brand of pictures at the Casino on Saturday afternoon and evening of this week.

What may be regarded as the first play of Clyde Fitch to be produced after his death in The City, which will have its premier at the Hartford Theatre, New Haven, next Monday evening. It will remain in New Haven for three evening performances and a matinee and comes to The Hartford Theatre for the last half of the week opening Thursday evening.

There was no moving picture exhibition at the Army last Tuesday evening owing to the fact that the Foresters had held the boards for that night and is continuing to hold them for the balance of the week. The picture show will be resumed again next Tuesday evening and besides the latest pictures will be shown John Tooten, the well known local singer, will sing some of the latest popular melodies.

The dog team of South Manchester Camp, Modern Woodmen of America left town this morning on the 3.22 trolley for Middlebury where they took part in the parade in honor of President Taft. They are to give an exhibition drill on the Green. This is their first public appearance under the command of Chief Forest Captain Harry W. Keagy.

Dropsey Given up by Doctor

"I had dropsey, and was told by my family physician that there was no chance for me. My family also gave me up. My limbs and body were swollen one-third larger than natural, water collected around my heart and I had to be propped up in bed to keep from smothering. I took Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy until I was entirely cured. This was in 1902, and I am now able to do any kind of work on my farm. My cure was certainly marvelous."

Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy has been wonderfully successful in relieving heart trouble. Its tonic effect upon the heart nerves and muscles is a great factor in assisting nature to overcome heart weakness.

Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy is sold by all druggists. If the first bottle does not benefit, your druggist will return your money. MILES MEDICAL CO., Elkhart, Ind.

Our 12th Anniversary Sale Is Proving That This Store Is Getting Too Small For Our Business

No one but a mother familiar with the problem of keeping a growing boy clothed can appreciate the trouble we have in keeping our growing business housed. 12 years ago we gave our infant business the biggest suit of clothes in the state. But the business grew to fit the store in a few years, and outgrew it six years ago. Since then our store has from time to time been greatly enlarged, but this year's Anniversary Sale has proven to us that we must again enlarge, for day after day more people have come here to trade than we could properly take care of. For This Week We've Prepared With Many New Bargains, Many New Souvenirs, Many Additional Salespeople.

The Conquest of the Pole

By Dr. FREDERICK A. COOK
 In the Heart of a Storm.
 New Land Sighted—Mid-
 Polar Basin a Lifeless
 World.
 [EIGHTH ARTICLE]

DURING two days of chilly blast the sleds were forced along with encouraging results, and on the evening of March 28, with a pedometer and other method of dead reckoning for position, we were placed at latitude 84 degrees 53 minutes. The western horizon remained persistently undisturbed. A brisk storm, it seemed, was gathering, but it was a long time in coming eastward. On the evening of the 29th we prepared for the blast and built the igloo stronger than usual, hoping that the horizon would be cleared by a good blow on the morrow and afford us a day of rest. The long, steady marches, without time for recuperation, had led us to check our enthusiasm.

In the daily monotony of hardship we had learned to appreciate more and more the joy of the sleeping bag. It was the only animal comfort which afforded a relief to our list of frights, and with it we tried to force upon the weary body in the long marches a pleasing anticipation.

In the evening, after the blocks of snow walled a dome in which we could

 Amazing Sensations of
 Dr. Cook and His Two Companions.
 [NINTH ARTICLE]

OVER the newly discovered coast lines was written Bradley Land, in honor of John R. Bradley, the benefactor of the expedition. As we passed north of this land there was nothing substantial upon which to fix the eye.

There was at no time a perfectly clear horizon, but the weather was good enough to permit frequent nautical observations. The coast was lined with undulating bleak sheets, but there were distinct signs of land frequent enough to keep up an exploring enthusiasm.

Thus day after day the marches were forced, the incidents and the positions were promptly forgotten in the monotony of the next day's start. The night of April 1 was made notable by the swing of the sun at midnight. For a number of nights it made grim faces at us in its setting. A teasing mist, drawn as a curtain over the northern sea at midnight, had given curious advantages for celestial stargazing. The energy accumulated during the day was expended in the determination of the sun's position at midnight, but there was a spectacular light which interested us immensely.

Now the great bulk was drawn out egg shaped, with horizontal lines over its length. As light was pressed into a basin with flaring stars, burning behind a curtain of frosts; blue at other times, it appeared like a blue at night and a night of blue.

On April 3 the barometer remained steady and the thermometer sank. The water became settled and calm. The pack became a more permanent glitter of color and joy. At noon there was now a dazzling light, while the sun at midday sank for but a few moments under a persistent northerly haze, leaving the frosted hills bathed in moonlight splendor.

In the days we made long marches. The ice steadily improved. Fields became larger and thicker, the pressure was less frequent and the sun appeared more. Nothing changed materially. The horizon moved; our footing was seemingly a solid crust of ice, but it drifted eastward. All was in motion. Often we were too tired to build snow houses, and in sheer exhaustion we hunkered in the lee of a low bank of snow, settling into this habit we were unable to determine sharply the advent of the midnight sun, but there was a spectacular light which interested us immensely.

There was a wide attraction in the anomaly of our surroundings which aroused the spirits. We had passed beyond the range of all life. For many days we had not seen a suggestion of animated nature. There were no longer footprints to indicate other life; no breath appears except from the frosted bosom of the sea.

Even the sea algae of the surface waters were no longer detected. We had now a more progressive mental blank in slow but progressive stages. As we sailed from the barren areas of the frozen north to the outskirts of civilization the complex luxury of the metropolis was lost and the brain calmed for food.

Bygone in the half savage wilderness of Danish Greenland, there was the dawn of a new life of primitive delight. Skill farther along, in the ultimate phase of the aboriginal, the sun rose over the days of prehistoric joys. Advancing beyond the haunts of man, we reached the noontide splendor of thought in times before man's creation.

Now as we pushed beyond the last of our creators, ever onward, life became sterile wastes, the sun grew beyond were night and hopelessness. With eager eyes we searched the black horizon for the glint of life, in spite of life to grace the purple roof of death.

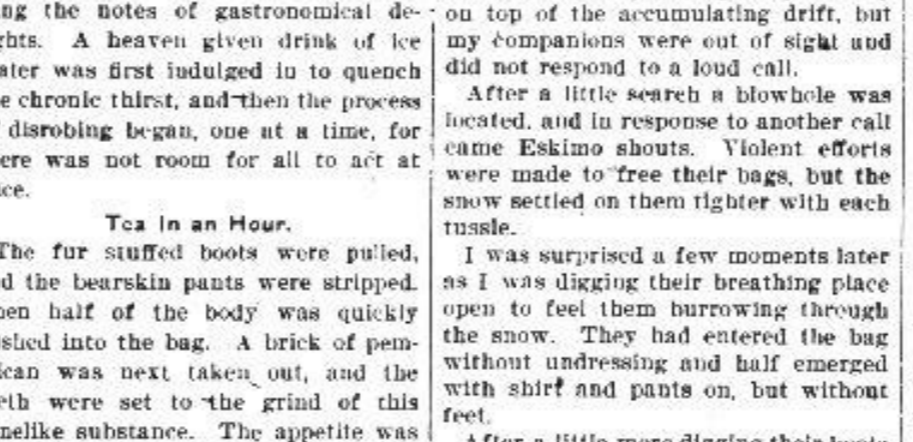

In this mid-polar basin the ice does not melt from the surface. It is probably in motion at all times of the year, and in the readjustment of the fields following motion and expansion there are open spaces of ice, which during most months are quickly sheeted with new ice.

Measuring the ice. In these troubled areas we were given frequent opportunities to measure ice thickness, and from our observations we have come to the conclusion that the ice during the winter months freezes to a depth of more than about ten feet. But much of the ice of the central pack reaches a depth of four or five feet, and the ice is broken up by some of the surface upthrusting. It is very difficult to surmise the amount of submerged freezing after the first year, but the very uniform thickness of the antarctic sea ice leads to the suggestion that a limit is reached in the second year, when the ice, with its drift, appears to be broken up very little is added afterward from below.

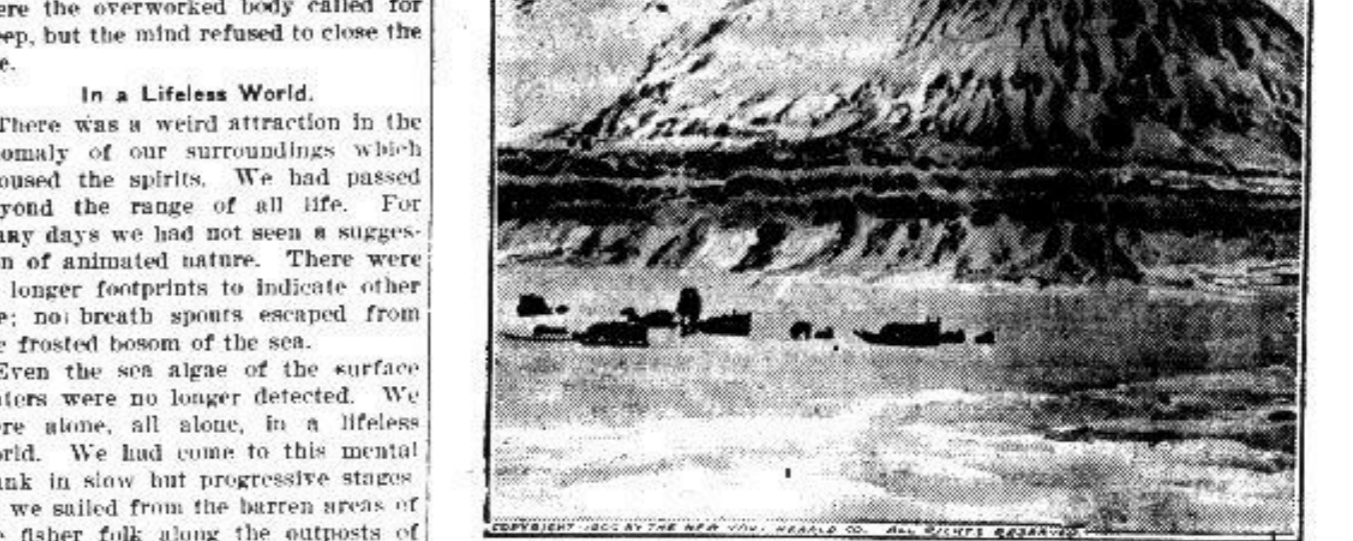

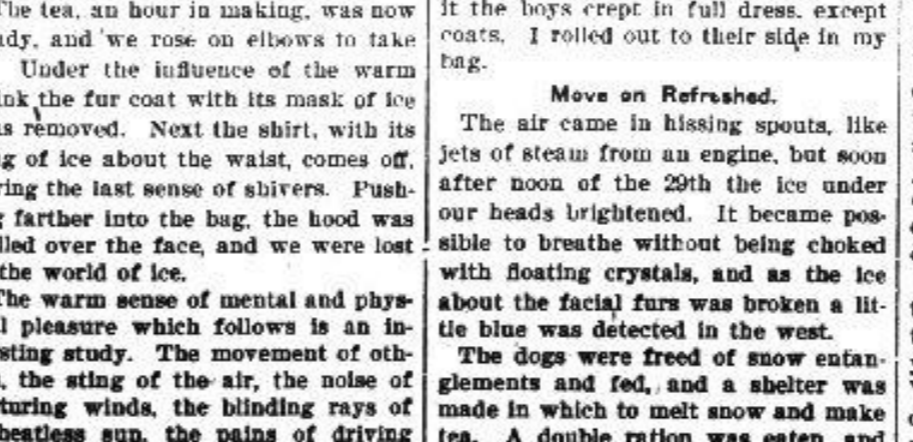

Increase in size after that is probably in the main the result of addition to the superstructure. Frequent falls of snow, combined with the alternate melting and refreezing of summer and a process similar to the upbuilding of glacial ice, are mainly responsible for the growth in thickness.

The very heavy, undulating belts which give character to the mid-polar ice and escape along the east and west coasts of Greenland are therefore mostly augmented from the surface.

THROUGH NANSEN'S SOUND.

man endurance to the limit of the state of every fiber and cell. The hard work which followed, under an occasional burst of burning sunbeams, brought intense thirst.

Setup a line. The camel, we managed to take enough water before starting to keep sufficient liquid in the veins for the day's march, but it was difficult to await the melting of the ice at camping time.

In two mornings—evening and morning—each took an average of three quarts of water daily. This included the tea and the luxury of an occasional soup. There was water about everywhere in heaps, but it was in crystals, and before the thirst could be quenched several ounces of pre-drawn fat, which had been carried thousands of miles, must be used. And still the water, so expensive and so necessary to us, ultimately became the greatest cause of our trouble.

We now changed our working hours from day to night, beginning usually at 10 and ending at 4. The big marches and prolonged hours of travel with which fortune favored us earlier were no longer possible. Weather conditions were more important in determining the day's run than the hands of the chronometers.

When the storms threatened the start was delayed, and in strong blasts the march was shortened, but in one way or another we usually found 10 to 15 minutes in the day during which a march could be forced between winds. It mattered little whether we traveled night or day—albeit we were more likely to be in the sun on Sundays, no holiday, no landmarks or mileposts to pass. To advance and expect the energy accumulated during one sleep at the cost of our pound of pemmican was the sole aim in life.

The observations of April 11 gave latitude 87 degrees 20 minutes, longitude 105 minutes 10 seconds. The pack indicates a drift, but nevertheless the combined tabulations do not warrant the positive assertion of either land or sea for this area.

This ice gave a cheering prospect. A plain of purple and blue ran in easy undulations to the limits of vision without the usual barriers of uplifted blocks. Over a direct air line course was possible. Progress, however, was quite as difficult as over the irregular surface. The snow was crushed with large crystals. An increased friction reduced the speed, while the surface, too hard for snowshoes, was also too weak to support a secure footing. The loneliness, the monotony, the hardship of steady, unrelieved travel were now keenly felt.

It is not often that man's horsepower is put to the test as ours was. We were compelled to develop a working energy to the limit of animal capacity. Day after day we had pushed along at the same steady pace over plains of front and through a mere desert.

As the eye opened at the end of an icy slumber the fire was lighted little by little, the stomach was filled with liquid and solids, mostly cold, and we had to last for the day, for there could be no halt or waste of fuel for midday feeding. We next got into harness and passed the day's pull under the lash of duty. We worked until standing became impossible—longer in light winds, shorter in strong winds, but always until the feet became numb and weary.

Then came the arduous task of building a snow house. In this the eyes, no longer able to find their way, were the empty stomach complained, and it was filled up again—not with things that possessed the palate, only hard food to feed the inner fires, while the outer sought the soft side of ice displacement; no pleasure in mental recreation, nothing to arouse the soul from its icy inclosure.

To eat, to sleep, to press one foot ahead of the other, was our steady routine. The west again beckoned, but we had not its advantage of an agreeable climate and a comfortable start at night.

Words of picture cannot adequately describe the maddening inadequacy of this sameness of polar life, combined with bitter winds, extreme cold and an overworked body. To me there was always the inspiration of anticipation of the outcome of ultimate success, but for my young associate companion it was a torment almost beyond endurance. Their weariness we made evident by a lax use of the white flag and an indifferent attitude toward the march. They were, however, brave and faithful to the bitter end, seldom allowing selfish ambitions to encroach upon the mission seriously to interfere with the main effort of the expedition.

On the morning of April 13 a strain of agonizing torment reached a breaking point. For days there had been a steady cutting wind from the west, which drove despatch to its limit. The west again beckoned, but we had not its advantage of an agreeable climate and a comfortable start at night.

Atmospheric, surface water and low temperatures were taken, the barometer was noted, the cloud formations, weather conditions and ice drifts were analyzed. There was a continuous routine of work which does not appear here. It belongs to the specific details of the history of the expedition.

In the diary of the succeeding days' doings there appear numerous tabulations of work and observations. In the next hours the freezing polar mercury, and, though the perpetual sun gave light and color to the cheerless landscape, the mercury was lowered with any appreciable sense of warmth. Indeed, the sunbeams seemed to make the front of the air piece with a more palpable effect.

There was a weird play of optics, seemingly most impressive at times—hundreds of steam rose from the sun rose into zones of fire and set into burning fields of ice, but with pain we breathe the chill of death.

In camp a grip of the knife left painful burns from cold metal. The ice, frozen from the water was hot. With white aprils the fire was lighted, while oil deluged the stomach in dreams of cold. All nature was white. We seemed to be hearing the chilled tone of a funeral dirge.

Daily Becoming Less Wearisome to Many In So. Manchester.

With a backache that aches all night, Tanning disturbed at night, Annoying urinary disorders, This a weary way, indeed. Doan's Kidney Pills drive weariness away.

Are endorsed by South Manchester Citizens. Mrs. John Postland, 6 Foster street, South Manchester, Conn., says: "At the time I gave a public statement regarding Doan's Kidney Pills in August, 1908, I had just been relieved by this remedy of a severe attack of kidney complaint. My back had ached nearly all the time and I was also subject to frequent headaches. Doan's Kidney Pills had been used in my case for many years previous, and I had been cured by them in my case I procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills and used them. I have never had occasion to take a few doses of Doan's Kidney Pills during the past six months, for my kidneys have given me but little trouble."

Gods of Joy

In the Comfort of Phillip's Strength Jackie Rest-Content.

By TEMPLE BAILEY.

Copyright, 1908, by Associated Little White Ladies.

Out through the Dorningtons Japanese garden led the Little White Lady. There were lotus lilies on the pond, and two great gray lanterned posts, green lighted, guarded the gate. There came the white driveway and the stretch of dark pines, and in the pines the Little White Lady paused.

"There," she whispered and laughed deliciously. "He'll never find me. He did find her, looking like a great ghost in his white linen suit. 'You can't get away from me,' he chanted. The Little White Lady sat down on a log. If you follow young women into a dark stretch of woods you should bring a charpion with you," she reproved him.

"Mrs. Dornington is asleep." "Asleep?" Jacqueline said. "Why, it's only 9 o'clock." He laughed. "Don't let us quarrel any more, Jackie." "Isn't it you quarrel," she said indignantly.

"Then let us say it is I," he murmured, "and having made of myself the culprit, we will return to the original subject." "No, you will ask me to marry you again, and I won't."

"Ah, my Little White Lady," she said and smiled down at her. "I have offered him a place on my North Carolina estate, and wedding bells shall ring for both of us."

"But my father," Jacqueline whispered. "We will send him down south with Von Puttkamer. Those great old forests will heal all disorders of mind and soul and body, and some day we will follow them and work out all our problems together, dear heart." And in the comfort of his great strength Jacqueline rested content.

THEIR OWN DOCTORS.

"Don't joke about it, Minette," pleaded Jacqueline. "I hate!" "Hush!" Minette warned. "Here he comes with father."

"You are sure," said the old man impatiently. "It is all arranged, Von Puttkamer. You are to live here, and we will experiment together, and I will put my knowledge and you with your practical experience—together we shall astonish the world."

"Minette followed Jacqueline up to her room. 'You are crying.' 'Why don't you say that you won't do it, Jackie?' 'You know father,' Jackie responded. 'When he is crossed he stays up late and drinks, and I promised mother I would watch over him.' 'I know,' Minette said. 'For a moment the two girls clung together, and then they went to the room in the sketch that Philip had made.'

"What a beauty! Why—why, the girl looks like you, Jackie!" "Does she?" asked Jackie listlessly. "But when Minette had gone she studied the picture carefully, and all that night she sat up, fashioning a gown of clinging white and weaving pale pink poppies into a wreath. And so it happened that Philip Waldorf, searching among the guests for the one who meant everything to him, found her on the bench in the rose garden."

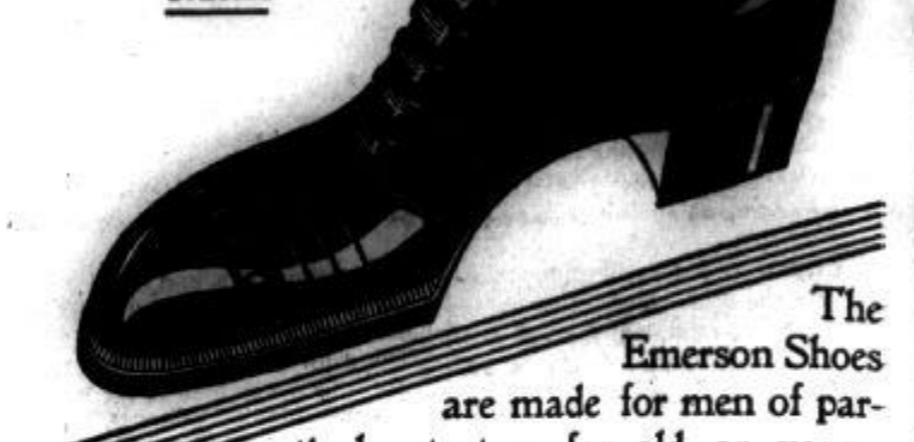

"Jacqueline," he whispered. "Philip," she said, "tonight I want to be one of the gods of joy." "Oh, not what you think! Let me tell you, Philip—let me tell you now. I've got to marry some one else, and you must forget me."

"No," she whispered. "Yes," Philip said, and all at once he smiled down at her. "Oh, Jackie, Jackie," he said, "why didn't you tell me long ago? Von Puttkamer is one of my classmates. He is in love with a pretty fraulein, but they couldn't marry because neither of them had a penny. And he gave her up and came to America. He thought that your money would mend his broken heart, and so he let your father arrange the match. But now he's going to wed for the little fraulein. I have offered him a place on my North Carolina estate, and wedding bells shall ring for both of us."

"But my father," Jacqueline whispered. "We will send him down south with Von Puttkamer. Those great old forests will heal all disorders of mind and soul and body, and some day we will follow them and work out all our problems together, dear heart." And in the comfort of his great strength Jacqueline rested content.

"I am so happy," she whispered. "Oh, Philip, Philip, has the moment come at last when we are really the gods of joy?" "Jackie stood up and faced him. 'But I haven't said that I would, father,' she said. And with that she fled from the room and to the foot of the garden, where there was an old sundial that marked the dividing line between the two places. Beyond was the Waldorf rose garden, and on a stone bench overran with ivy sat Philip sketching.

NO ORDER OF OWLS HERE

GAZETED FROM SOUTH BEND, INDIANA, CONTEMPTUOUSLY REJECTED—ALLEGED TO HAVE NEST SPUN

Committee of Fifteen Appointed To Investigate New and Independent Order of Owls. Meritary Society Under Constitutional Laws—Seventy-Five Men Unanimous in Taking Action.

Seventy five of the sixty-two persons initiated into the Order of Owls in this town Wednesday evening, October 27th, 1909, assembled at Foreman's Hall, last Wednesday evening, for the first time since the Nest was instituted. What of that? Well, gentle reader, just this: These men by vote renounced all affiliation with the Order of Owls; officially refused to accept the charter from the Home Nest, Order of Owls at South Bend, Indiana; voted to incorporate under the laws of the State of Connecticut as a fraternal and benevolent society without capital stock; to pay sick and death benefits in accordance with a ritual, constitution and by-laws presented to the newly organized body as soon after incorporation as practicable. All of this followed a statement of facts made by Harry M. Burke regarding the Order of Owls.

It will thus be seen that provision is made for the development of a new fraternity in this town, which will take care of its members in sickness by paying them $7 a week by giving them doctor's services and medicines free of charge, and paying $100 death benefits, thus furnishing everything promised by the Order of Owls, without acknowledging allegiance to any body of men higher up, and paying no per capita tax to any supreme or other body. Mr. Burke certainly advanced cogent reasons why people here should have no fellowship with the Order of Owls at all, but neither time nor space permitted the giving of details of that feature here.

Proceeding Attorney Harry M. Burke presided at the meeting, and P. M. McNary served as secretary. Mr. Burke related in detail the reasons why secedence from the Order of Owls was highly essential, and his reasons were enthusiastically agreed to by the meeting. It was "Voted," that Harry M. Burke, together with fourteen other persons, to be appointed by him, be and they do hereby authorized to select a name for our corporation, to draw up and file the necessary articles of incorporation, as required by the laws of the State of Connecticut. This committee will shall draw up a constitution, ritual and a set of by-laws to be presented to said corporation for adoption.

This means that as soon as possible after incorporation, this committee will prepare the ritual, constitution and by-laws and bring same before a meeting of the new fraternity for such action as the body may see fit to take thereon.

With a charter of incorporation from the State of Connecticut the proposed new fraternity will have something tangible to go to. It will be responsible for the just and honest payment of its lawful obligations; it may then use and be used and take suitable and honorable rank among the several other worthy fraternities now doing business here.

THE COMMITTEE. Mr. Burke has made choice of the following committee to act in conjunction with him in carrying out the vote: Herman Monte, E. Martin Ogden, Alex's Townsend, John E. Pfeiffer, John E. Hayes, John M. Showery, W. J. Flood, Carl J. Anderson, Samuel Hand, F. E. Donohoe, John Danley, Dennis McCarthy, Oscar Peterson, John H. Russell.
