BOY MAY LIVE

Contrary to all expectations of one week ago it now seems as though Leander Nelson, son of John Nelson of No. 191 Main street this place may live. Last Sunday he was transferred from the Hartford hospital to the St. Francis hospital, the course of treatment was changed, and now the surgeons and the good Sisters have strong faith that the boy's life may be spared. Not this alone, but they also now believe that amputation of any part of the right leg may be avoided. Unless some unforeseen complication arises they are of the opinion that the blood poisoning may be subdued, and after a long course of treatment the boy may be restored to health. This certainly is cheering news. Last week the predictions were that the leg would have to be cut off at the hip, if the boy had strength enough to stand the operation—which was gravely doubted.

STORES ALLOCCUPIED.

The middle store in the new Johnson block on Main street has been taken this week by the Singer Sewing Machine Company who are now doing business there. E. B. Freeman of the North End is the local agent and his daughter will be in charge of the store.

In addition to this two young ladies from New York City will open dressmaking, cloakmaking and ladies tailoring in general in the store, beginning next week. They are said to be very skillful at their trade and are in a position to supply a high grade of work in their line.

SONS OF VETERANS

Colonel Frank W. Cheney Camp Sons of Veterans was organized at Cheney Hall Tuesday evening and the following officers were chosen: Commander, E. Hugh Crosby; senior vice commander, Austin Caoney; secretary, J. Howard Keith; treasurer, Wilbur Loveland. The new camp starts off with a membership of twenty two. Division Commander Charles W. Roberts of Hartford instituted the camp and was assisted by the degree team of Camp No. 6, Hartford.

GUARDING AGAINST FIRE

In the new House & Hale stores now nearing completion the vaults are built into the walls, are of concrete construction and are fire proof. The experience which Messrs. House & Hale had at the fire last April when their stores were destroyed by fire, urges them more strongly than ever to guard against fires in the future. To that end they are spending much money and putting in up-to-date equipments for safety against fire.

WILLARD HAS AN AUTO

Willard Hunt of Spruce street corner of School is the owner of an auto and now goes back and forth to his work in Hartford in his machine. Willard bought a horse last summer and enjoyed the driving about evenings, holidays and Sundays very much, but the auto will work days, evenings, holidays and Sundays and for all around convenience speed and comfort has the horse clearly outdistanced in the race.

MORE MOVING PICTURES

It is understood that a moving picture concern is endeavoring to secure the temporary quarters occupied by House & Hale on Oak street, as soon as they are ready to release it. It is quite likely that the building will be used by the owners for a time at least to store surplus stock.

DATES FOR TAX COLLECTOR

R. W. Piskin, the tax collector will be at the Hall of Records each week day from March 15 to April 15, inclusive from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m., for the collection of taxes. On Wednesdays, March 10, 20 and 30 and on April 6 and 13 he will be at the Hall of Records from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. to accommodate those who cannot come in the day time.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

James Dunn, who was employed in Vernon by Frank S. Perkins was taken to the St. Francis Hospital last Friday suffering with pneumonia. He was a town charge here during the administration of George Mardock but last summer left there and has managed to sustain himself until the present time.

LIST COMPLETED

Of Those Who Are Permitted To Speak At Graduation

Announcement was made yesterday afternoon by Superintendent Verplanck that the following seniors won in the prize essay contest for the honor of speaking at the graduation exercises of the South Manchester High School Thursday evening, April 7. The winners and essays are: Ruth Nichols, Apples; Van Verplanck, Warren Hastings; Frances Maloney, The Revolution in the Life and Methods of the Farmer; Felix McEvitt, The Merchant Marine.

Those young people were declared the winners by the following judges: William S. Hyde, J. Clement Bushnell and Miss Elizabeth Dean of St. North Main street.

Those who won out because of scholarship and who are therefore entitled to first honors among the speakers are: Jennie Wind, valedictorian; Ernest Brown and Evelyn Thompson.

The graduating class includes: Ernest Freeman Brown, Stephen Francis Dunn, Patrick Joseph McGuire, Edward Frederick Ballinger, Jr., Harold Ward Bidwell, Felix Jeremiah McEvitt, Walter Raymond Olson, Philip Henry Carney, Van Nyes Verplanck, Jennie Bettelme Wind, Edith Anna Waddell, Ruth Marie Nichols, Olive Chapman, Evelyn Louise Thompson, Allen Ira Balch, Gertrude Louise Dugan, John Francis Barry, Hazel May Hunter, Helen Carrier, Marion Jeanette Hall, Sidney Byron Cushman, Frances Ellen Maloney, Hilma Elsie Cushman, Ethel May Brindell, Jennie Corcella Tryon and Margaret Chapin Hayes.

SUBSTITUTES FOR MEAT

Elsewhere in these columns to day will be found an article in The Home Course in Domestic Science which treats on Substitutes for Meat. This is a topic in which a great number of the readers of The News are deeply interested. It is a pleasure for us to be able to present the article at this time. It is from the pen of a writer who is acknowledged as an authority on the subject and therefore is in every way worthy of the careful thought and study of our readers. More than that it should be cut out, preserved for future reference and put into practice. By so doing money may be saved, health benefited and life prolonged.

When it is recalled that approximately 4000 persons in this community signed the pledge cards here recently agreeing to abstain from trust bought meats for a period of thirty days it will be seen that the signers were very much in earnest in their protest against the abnormally high prices of trust bought meat. If this protest and crusade serves to educate the rank and file against the excessive use of trust bought meats it will have performed a useful mission. If the public can be brought to the point of refusing to buy trust bought meats at the present prohibitive prices, and the trusts are told to keep their products or lower the prices, the supply will soon overtake the demand and relief for the poor man with a large family is sure to follow. If the public persistently refuse to pay the prohibitive figures now prevailing it can only be a reasonably short time when the excessive supply of meats on hand will force a reduction in prices.

WILL MOVE PLUMBING SHOP,

William J. Wilson, the well known plumber on Spruce street is preparing to move his shop to West Center street, where he will occupy the west store in the Trotter block, E. L. G. Hohenthal is at work overhauling the Trotter block by reducing the size of the stores and arranging for small tenements at the rear. Mr. Wilson will move in as soon as the store can be prepared for him, which will in all probability be within the present month.

SMALL STORES IN DEMAND

The two stores and the two small rear tenements in the Trotter block on West Center street are let. An occupant for the east store has made application and will probably enter as soon as the premises can be prepared for his use. It appears from Mr. Trotter's experience that there is a demand for small stores as well as small tenements at the Center.

Quaker RANGES

The Quaker Cabinet, with Gas Stove attached, is the most complete, convenient and efficient range ever built. It is actually two ranges combined in the space of one. You can bake equally well with the coal or gas oven, broil over the coals, or use the gas broiler, and when there's a rush double your cooking and baking capacity by using both. This is the ideal range for all the year around, and like all Quakers, its original construction makes it easily superior to all other ranges of this type on the market. The Cabinet is sold with or without the gas attachment.

How Got My Start

Story of a Man Who Made a Little Fortune in One Night. By REGINALD D. HAVEN. Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

I was working for small wages for a safe and lock company. My work was mending locks that had got out of order and doing other odd jobs that required some knowledge of the business. I was anxious to get my affairs in shape to marry my present wife, but didn't see much prospect. The concern I was with kept me tinkering all the while, and when it wanted a man to start a branch office or something like that it would choose one of the clerks in the office.

I had gone home one evening and had my supper when there was a ring at the doorbell and a boy handed me a note. It was written on a letter head of a big manufacturing firm and said that Mr. Farrington, treasurer of the company I worked for, had recommended me for a special job and asked that I come around to the office as soon as convenient.

Catching up my tool bag, which I had brought home with me, I went with the boy to the office of the manufacturing company, pleased with the prospect of making a tender, and found there a tall, handsomely dressed man, with gray hair and mustache, who was sitting on a stool working over ponderous books.

"Can you put that safe?" asked the man with the gray whiskers. "We've got a lot of work to do here this evening, and our cashier, who knows the combination, went out of town this afternoon."

I looked at the name of the maker in gold letters on the safe, made my observations and told the gentleman that I didn't know any way to pick the lock without drilling a hole there. I could get at the tumblers and that would involve considerable expense to put his safe in order again.

"Never mind the expense," he said impatiently. "I've got to put in a bid tomorrow on a hundred thousand rifles for the army, on which I'll make half a million. The specifications are all in there. I must get them out and go over them to see that they are right. The slightest slip in any detail will throw out my bid. Come; get to work!"

I plunged my hand into my bag, got out my brace and bits, adjusted them and was soon at work.

Now, as I worked it occurred to me that here was the opportunity of my life. If this gentleman was dependent on his half million on me to get him into the safe, why shouldn't I have something more than a beggary ten dollar bill? I saw that he was impatient and thought I might get an offer to do the work within a given limit of time.

"I'm afraid," I said, "this is going to be an all night job."

"See here, young man," said the gentleman, "is there anything you want especially that costs a lot more money than you've got?"

"Yes, there is," I replied. "I want a girl."

"Oh, I can't give you a girl!" "I could get you a girl quick enough if I had anything to marry on."

"If I had the gentleman, biting at my hook," I said. "How soon can you guarantee to open the safe if I've made worth your while to bury?"

"Three-quarters of an hour," I said. "If you'll do it in that time I'll give you $2,000. If you do it in thirty minutes I'll make it $5,000."

"Give me a bit of writing for that," I said. And without waiting for him to do so I began to drill furiously, my racket making a terrible sound.

"Mr. Perkins," said the gentleman to one of the clerks, "take the typewriter and write to my dictation."

OUR POOR LITTLE EARTH.

A Mere Speck Compared With Some of the Monster Stars. The main facts of astronomy are highly interesting. It is one dry text book that has made us turn away from them. Read a good popular astronomy and you will gain a dim, returning idea of infinity and eternity. Sometimes you think you see a big star, but you do not. You merely see the light from it which has been 2,500 years in reaching us.

Almost everybody knows that our earth is a third rate planet in our solar system. Jupiter would scarcely condescend to notice us. But they do not know that our sun itself sits below the sea. It would not be admitted to a congregation of important heavenly bodies. Canopus, the largest star that we see, is 10,000 times the size of our sun, and our solar center is hopelessly outclassed by Aldebaran, Rigel, Sirius, Antares, and countless others.

Mark Twain put this fact very well in one of his stories, "Captain Stormfield's Visit to Heaven." When the captain arrived and announced that he was from the earth the recording angel could not remember ever hearing of such a place before. One finally recalled that it was a poor little planet belonging to a dark corner of the heavens—New York World.

I pretended to work all the faster after this incident, but in reality accomplished very little. I didn't dare lessen the pressure of my bit on the steel, for the diminution of noise would have betrayed me, but I bore to make the hole larger instead of deeper. I couldn't see my man's face, but he was evidently at least partly reassured. At any rate, he said nothing.

And while I worked he heard me. I was unwittingly participating in a burglary. Having had no other considerations were lost in my horror of having to share the punishment that these men were likely to get in the end. My whole mind was at once bent on outwitting them. The moment they suspected that I had got on to their scheme I would be obliged to continue my work until the minute of a revolver. What should I do? Anything I should do to attract attention without would be upon me as well as on the burglars.

I saw but one possible way of defeating their purpose. That was to finish the drilling, get at the tumblers and put them so out of gear that to get them in order again would require taking out the whole apparatus. On this course I resolved.

Having come to a decision, I was anxious to get through as soon as possible, fearing as much as they that they might be caught in the act. I therefore worked with all my vigor, the typewriter pounding the while. My employer, seeing that I was doing my best, seemed to regain my confidence. He might have lost by his mishap.

"You're all right, young man. You're sure to win. Ten minutes yet to make $10,000. I'll do better. I'll make it $10,000."

He didn't need to make it $10,000 to induce me to hurry. If any one should interrupt the proceedings I didn't see how I would escape the penitentiary. So I worked as hard as I could, but in order to inspire confidence I purposely lost the key for two minutes.

"That's all right," said the chief in response to my look of disappointment. "Two minutes don't make any difference. The specifications are all in there. I must get them out and go over them to see that they are right. The slightest slip in any detail will throw out my bid. Come; get to work!"

I plunged my hand into my bag, got out my brace and bits, adjusted them and was soon at work.

Now, as I worked it occurred to me that here was the opportunity of my life. If this gentleman was dependent on his half million on me to get him into the safe, why shouldn't I have something more than a beggary ten dollar bill? Sinking Spells Every Few Days

"At the time I began taking Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy I was having sinking spells every few days. My hands and feet would get cold; I could scarcely breathe, and I could feel myself gradually sinking away until I would be unconscious. Those about me could not tell there was life in me. After these spells I would be very weak and nervous, sleepless and without appetite; had neuralgia in my head and heart. After taking the remedy a short time all this disappeared and in a few weeks all the heart trouble was gone."

OUT OF THE GLOOM

Many a Gloomy Countenance in Manchester Now Lightens With Happiness.

The aches and pains of a bad back are mostly due to sick kidneys. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys. They have made many a happy home in Manchester.

Read what a grateful citizen says: Mrs. J. J. Barry, Woodbridge street, Manchester, Conn., says: "In August 1908 I gave a public statement in favor of Doan's Kidney Pills at this time, I can say that I have had the remedy myself for a lame back and pain in my head. I never took any more pills that helped me as much as Doan's Kidney Pills and for that reason, I shall continue to recommend them to my neighbors."

Do all dishes requiring cooking the cheese should be subjected to as little heat as possible. There is a large amount of fat in cheese, and cooking it changes its character, breaking it up into glycerine and fatty acid. For this reason all fat used in cooking purposes should not be heated longer or to a higher degree than necessary. A very delicate supper or luncheon dish in which cheese is used in combination with broiled macaroni, eggs and milk is known as macaroni loaf and is made as follows:

Macaroni Loaf. Three-quarters of a cup of macaroni, one cup of cream, one cup soft bread-crumbs, one-quarter of a cup of butter, one tablespoonful of red or green pepper, one-half cup of grated cheese, one tablespoonful of onion juice, one tablespoonful of chopped parsley, three eggs and one tablespoonful of salt. Cook till tender. Drain and rinse in cold water. Scald the cream, add bread-crumbs, butter, pepper, salt, grated cheese, parsley, onion juice, then beaten eggs and macaroni. Line a quart baking dish with buttered paper, turn in mixture, set the pan on a half to three-quarters of an hour. Serve with tomato sauce.

Tomato Sauce. Two tablespoonfuls of butter, two tablespoonfuls of flour, one-half teaspoonful salt, one-eighth teaspoonful of pepper, one cup of stewed and strained tomatoes, slice of onion and half a teaspoonful of capers. Brown flour and butter separate, then combine and add water and pepper. Cook tomatoes with slice of onion for a few minutes, then remove onion and add juice gradually to butter and flour. Cook thoroughly, then add capers.

The macaroni should be broken in small pieces and cooked in a quart of boiling water to which a tablespoonful of salt has been added. Keep boiling rapidly until the macaroni can be crushed between the thumb and finger; drain and pour over it a quantity of cold water to keep the pieces from sticking together.

How to Cook Eggs. The white of egg is almost entirely pure albumen—a substance which is quickly coagulated by heat and toughened by prolonged cooking. Albumen is the protein part of animal foods and when hardened by cooking is rendered much less easy of digestion. It is probable that eggs and meat cooked as carefully as may be are less readily acting upon the gastric juices than either would be in the uncooked state. Albumen coagulates at a very moderate temperature, only a little higher than 100 degrees, and at less than simmering point, 180 degrees. It is hard. Boiling makes it tough and indigestible; hence it can readily be seen that eggs should never be boiled if their digestibility is to be retained in even a moderate degree. The term "soft boiled" or "hard boiled" should be applied to eggs, rather than "over cooked" and "hard cooked" would better be used. The custom of boiling eggs three minutes is an unwise one to follow. This is sufficient to set the white of cooking eggs in the shells, and when it is followed even the hard egg, cooked until the yolk can be grated, will be found perfectly digestible.

Soft Cooked Egg. Allow one pint of water for two eggs. Heat in double boiler until water in the outside part of vessel is boiling. Temperature of water in inner vessel will be 180 degrees. Put in eggs with a spoon, cover and let stand over fire for six minutes. If water is liked soft cooked, thirty minutes for hard cooked. The same result may be obtained by having water boiling in saucepan, slip in eggs and remove saucepan to back of range where water will not boil again. Eggs perfectly cooked should be placed and kept in water at a temperature of 170 degrees.

Nothing is more tempting for breakfast than a light, fluffy omelet, so tender that it almost vanishes at a touch. The secret of a good omelet is to beat much air into the eggs and then apply a moderate temperature in cooking until the yolk can be grated, but not toughened. The air which will expand by the heat and be retained by the albumen as it is hardened. My favorite recipe for omelets, the indigestibility of cheese, and for this reason in:

Plain Omelet. Four eggs, half teaspoonful of salt, a few grains of pepper, four spoonfuls of water and one tablespoonful of butter. Separate yolks from whites. Beat yolks in a bowl with water, salt and pepper, until stiff, cutting and folding the yolks into them until the mixture is blended. Beat whites in another bowl until moderately hot turn in mixture, spread evenly, place on range where it will cook slowly—about twelve minutes. Remove from range, cut into squares, serve with tomato, cheese or oyster sauce, as is follows:

Cheese Custard. Half cup of cheese, three eggs, two cups of milk, one-half cup of butter, one slice of buttered bread. Beat eggs, adding salt, pepper, milk and grated cheese. Then pour over slices of buttered bread and bake in moderate oven to cook the top—put in, until omelet is firm to the touch. Grease, cross the top and fold. Serve at once.

Baked Custard. Four cups of scalded milk, five eggs, one-half cup of sugar, one-quarter teaspoonful of salt and a little grated nutmeg. Beat eggs, add sugar and salt, and pour on slowly the scalded milk. Four into buttered baking dish or into individual buttered baking cups, sprinkle with nutmeg, set in a pan of hot water when the water is at a boil, and bake in moderate oven for one hour. Remove from pan containing hot water and set in cold.

Stews and Soups. A few pounds of the cold or forcemeat can be used for a stew. Cut the meat into small pieces for serving. Plunge into rapidly boiling water, set the pot over the simmering burner, or a very low fire where it will not boil again and cook slowly until meat is tender. Salt and pepper may be added after the meat has been served, and as many folds of paper in a dish of water and bake in a moderate oven for one-half to three-quarters of an hour. Serve with tomato sauce.

In making soup the method is exactly opposite. The meat is cut into small pieces—a shank or shin is best for soups—put in cold water and salt added at once. This will draw out the juices of the meat into the liquid. The water should be not allowed to boil throughout the entire time of cooking. If vegetables are used, they should not be added until the last hour

Home Course In Domestic Science

VII.—Substitutes For Meat. By EDITH G. CHARLTON. In Charge of Domestic Economy, Iowa State College. Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

It has been previously hinted in these articles that meat need not form a part of every meal—in fact, the majority of people will have better health if they abstain from flesh eating often than once a day. The suggestion has also been made that meat substitutes, such as dishes in which eggs, beans, cheese or nuts form the chief ingredient, be served at least two meals a day. The variety of ways in which the materials may be used is numerous, all that is needed being a little ingenuity in combining them with other ingredients in order to obtain satisfactory results. Some people who are fond of hearty foods and meat flavors are loath to give up the habit of eating meat, but the fact may be noted that the fat in the fat may be used to replace some of the fat. For such persons it will be necessary to practice the virtue of patience, make the other dishes substantial and appetizing and occasionally take a few lessons on food values. Beans, nuts and cheese all contain a larger per cent of protein than meat and, combined as they often are with other protein food, are really more nutritious than meat.

Cheese is a food rich in nutrition. It contains more than twice as much its use building material than meat and a large per cent of fat. But because it is a concentrated food it gives the digestive organs considerable work. One reason for this is because the curd of the milk has been hardened by heat in the process of making, besides being closely pressed. Grated or finely broken cheese is more readily digested than that served in larger pieces. Cooking also increases the indigestibility of cheese, and for this reason in:

Plain Omelet. Four eggs, half teaspoonful of salt, a few grains of pepper, four spoonfuls of water and one tablespoonful of butter. Separate yolks from whites. Beat yolks in a bowl with water, salt and pepper, until stiff, cutting and folding the yolks into them until the mixture is blended. Beat eggs, add sugar and salt, and pour on slowly the scalded milk. Four into buttered baking dish or into individual buttered baking cups, sprinkle with nutmeg, set in a pan of hot water when the water is at a boil, and bake in moderate oven for one hour. Remove from pan containing hot water and set in cold.

Stews and Soups. A few pounds of the cold or forcemeat can be used for a stew. Cut the meat into small pieces for serving. Plunge into rapidly boiling water, set the pot over the simmering burner, or a very low fire where it will not boil again and cook slowly until meat is tender. RESOLUTIONS. At a special meeting of Division No. 1, A. O. U. held at 5th Manchester, Conn., Monday evening, February 28, 1910, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted: Whereas, It has pleased Almighty God in his infinite wisdom to remove from the care of this world our late beloved brother John P. Griffin.

Whereas, By his death his wife and children have lost a kind and loving husband and father and a loving and loyal and faithful member. Therefore, be it Resolved, That we sincerely mourn the loss of our late brother whose death and strict adherence to the principles of our noble order have endeared him to his fellow members. Resolved, That we extend to the bereaved widow and orphan our sincere sympathy in this their hour of affliction and be it further Resolved, That through respect to our deceased brother our charter be draped in mourning for a period of thirty days, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the bereaved family and that these resolutions be entered on the records of this Division and published in the South Manchester News. John F. Miner, Daniel F. Rean, Thomas J. Quish, Committee on Resolutions. South Manchester, Conn., February 28, 1910.

EDUCATIONAL CLUB. At the meeting of the Educational Club held at the High School Hall Wednesday evening James P. Haney of New York City spoke on industrial training for boys. He urged the advisability of providing means whereby boys could be kept at their studies until they are sixteen. He pointed out the fact that the average boy at twelve has a strong desire to begin earning money, and eagerly looks forward to the time when he can leave school. Mr. Haney contended that an industrial department should be provided where boys could be taught carpentry, cabinet making, brass making, plumbing, steam fitting, machine shop work, textile work, etc., and thus keep their interest until they reached sixteen. By beginning this when the boys are twelve they would thus have a four-year course in industrial training, would be in possession of considerable skill, and would thus be in a better position to become useful, efficient and self-sustaining workers at sixteen than they now are. Mr. Haney told of his travels among the schools of Germany, France and England studying this subject, and pointed out how much better equipped German schools are in this particular than are ours. He made a strong plea for the establishment of an industrial training department for boys in the school on the Ninth Street.

INDEX FINGER CUT OFF. Adelle Morgan, daughter of Henry and Mrs. Morgan of Bigelow street had the index finger of her left hand cut off at the Hartford hospital last Sunday in order to arrest the progress of blood poisoning. Miss Morgan is a student for the position of trained nurse, at the St. Luke's hospital, New York, and while on a visit here with her parents was called in to assist during the illness of Mrs. Robert Smith of Maple street, who recently died of purpura septicemia. Through an inadvertence the poison entered Miss Morgan's finger and prompt and heroic measures were necessary to save her life. It is believed that the early and scientific treatment given will prevent further spread, and that in due course of time Miss Morgan will be out of the danger zone.

SOUTH METHODIST CHURCH. Rev. W. S. Macintire of Hartford will preach at the outdoor service in the South Methodist church next Sunday. Rev. W. F. Davis, pastor of the South Methodist church, has been greatly distressed this week with influenza. He is very much relieved now, however, and was able to be out of doors this morning.

William Rubnow, proprietor of Rubnow's Specialty Shop has leased the three rooms at the rear of his store that were used for tenants and intends to put in a ladies tailoring shop there. He purchased such equipment as The Boston Tailoring Home used in this building and will use them in his new department. Mr. Rubnow is constantly enlarging his stock and serving a steadily growing trade. Peter Calhoun, one of our milkmen, saw a blooded rat Monday. It was the first of the season in so far as made known to us.

BASKET BALL G. O. CRITERIONS 18

The Critterions of Hartford were defeated by the G team of this place at the Armory last night in a fast and rough game by a score of 42 to 18. The city chaps were out for the state championship but G put a spring in that notion last night. The locals were in great form last night and they played the Critterions to a standstill. During the excitement of the game Smythe and Kelley got mixed up in a scuffle and the crowd surged onto the floor exclaiming 'Has Anybody Here Seen Kelley?' The excitement was over in a minute however and the game went on. The summary: G Critterions: Scorer, G. O. Critterions 18; goals from floor, Ferris 8, Horan 5, Scoble 3, Martin 2, Smythe 1, Carey 1, H. Lombie 1, Rolan 2; from fouls, Scoble 2, Rolan 2; referee, Quish; time, two 15 minute halves.

PURGE DEFEATED. The purge of the Pierce team was scuttled in the first game when they were defeated by the Manchester team 11 to 5. The Pierce did not take the M. M. Champs' seat until before the game. They have different opinion of their worth now. The state Pierce: Quish, Manchester; Finckler, Manchester; W. Rogers, Dunn; Mahoney, Manchester; B. W. Wilkie, Manchester; T. Rogers, Oson; Alford; Scour, Manchester 14; Pierce 5; goals from floor, Quish, Wilkie, Faulkner 2, W. Rogers 2; from fouls, Quish 1, Faulkner 1; referee, Ferris; time, two 15 minute halves.

ALHAMBRA 34-23. The Town Hall in West Hartford was the scene of a very fast and rough game of basket ball last Tuesday evening when the G team of this place played the Alhambra quintet of Hartford in the fourth in the series of five games arranged between the two teams. There was a large crowd present, many going from this place to cheer on the G boys. The game started with a rush and during the first period the score was tied three times. The half finally closing with the Alhambra leading 12 to 10. In the second period the Alhambra steadily increased their lead and the game closed 34 to 23 in their favor. The game was the roughest ever played in the hall, teams were being thrown to the winds. Martin, Curry and Abern were forced to quit owing to injuries. Curry received the worst injury when his eye came in contact with Scoble's head. The injury required the services of a surgeon and six stitches were necessary to close the wound. He will be out of the game for the rest of the season. Both teams now have two games to their credit. It is possible that the deciding contest will be played on the local floor. The summary: G. O. Alhambra: Horan 8, Ferris 1, C. G. Quinn 1, Nelson 1, Abern 2, Martin 1, H. G. O. Critterions: Scoble 3, Martin 1, Cross 2, Lombie 2, Wilkie 2, Abern 3, McConehale 2, Ferris 2; goals from fouls, Oson 1, Scoble 2, Nelson 1, Abern 3; referee, Clark; umpire, McCarthy; score, 34 to 23; timekeeper, Tassilo; two 20 minute halves.
