Memorial Day Suggestions

Nothing will show such respect for your deceased relatives or friends as a suitable Grave Mark, Headstone or Monument.

The earlier the work is done the better the plot will look for Memorial Day, as that is the time your friends will be there to see it.

Get the most suitable memorial for your plot and surroundings that you can afford, not necessarily the largest for the money, nor the newest, which may not embody either proper proportions or refinement. But get a. design pleasing to the best of taste in Stock and Work and a thing of beauty for all time. In order to get all the above you should select a finished monument at once or the design, which, being compared with the finished one may be changed to suit your own ideas without any risk of loss of proportion or disappointment in size or material. You will then know that you have made the very best selection, as does the purchaser of the monument shown in cut, which was made from photo taken this year, although monument was erected to years ago by

By mutual agreement among the ministers of New England and New York next Sunday is to be observed generally as Tuberculosis Sunday. It is the purpose of the several min sters to deliver discourses in their pulpits up in the general subject of the Prevention and Cure of Tuberculosis. A concerted effort is being made to educate th young prople in the proper care of their bodies in order that they may avert the inroads of this dread fue of the human family. It is beli-ved that a series of sermons upon this subject will con ribute much to the information of the public at large upon the importance and necessity of taking means to stay the progress of tubercul sis and to that end this observance of Tuberculosis Sunday has been planned.

THE MICROSCOPE

It Has Its Prototype in Every Spher-ical Drop of Wiler. Nature offers a free microscope chenever one is wanted. She has been dealing in free optical instruments and optical phenomena ever since the first dewdrop formed or the first raindrop fell earthward. Every dewdrop and raindrop and spherical water drop has all the powers and principles of a microscope. To get one of nature's microscopes in operation take up a drop of water between the two points of two sharpened sticks, eay matches, and hold the drop over the minute object to be examined. The result will be that the object will be magnified about three diameters. The supposed invention of the microscope was nothing more than shaping piece of glass into an imitation of a water drop so as to be easily handled. Spiders have made suspension bridges for ages. The rough edge of sword grass gave the inventor the idea of the reaper blade for the barvester. The buzzard has been using the acroplane for flying a good many centuries By tapping on an end of a long beam the man at the farther end can hear you telegraphing, the sound traveling

EARLY BALLOONING Some Odd Ideas That Prevailed In the Eighteenth Century.

As far back as 1844 the American public were led to believe that the Atlantic had been crossed in a bal loon. On May 28 in that year the New York Sun published a detailed account of an aerial voyage from Liv erpool to Charleston, which purported to have been accomplished by "the steering balloon Victoria in a period of seventy-five bours from land to land." Pive columns were devoted to the de scription of the journey and to a scientific account of the balloon, of which a woodcut was given, and an air of verisimilitude was added by a list of eight passengers, one of the names mentioned being that of Harrieon Ainsworth, who was then at the height of his fame:

At the end of the eighteenth century balloons were all the rage. Then, as now, enthusiasts predicted a time near at hand when war would either be an armies and forts by bombs from above or would cease altogether through the abolition of frontiers and the fusion of nations. Prophecy went even fur-

Some Rules to Follow. To furnish a home satisfactorily one must always consider the style of house, its location, the use to which it is to be put, as well as the cost of its furnishing. Not a single piece of furniture should be bought without some thought as to whether it is suitable for the home and its use; also whether it will be in harmony with furniture already in it.

When a woman has sufficient money at her command and can furnish the house completely from cellar to attic it is an easy matter to give the contract into the hands of a professional, occasionally with good results, sometimes disappointment. Never should it have the high narrow, (ramped rest, frequently seen on crowded city streets, where space is at a premium It should have also roomy verandas and porches, low ceilings, wide, low windows and hospitable looking doors opening into comfortable, homelike ooms. Such a house should be sincere n its furnishings-should not suggest imitation in any way. This impression f genuineness can be given by inexpensive material, even by homemade furniture, very much better than by showy workmanship carelessly per Treatment of High Ceilings.

Some of the houses built forty o ifty years ago have cellings too high to express real comfort. A room li tremely narrow, while a room the same size with a nine foot ceiling may give a real cozy effect. What is to be done with the bigh ceiling? The simplest way out of the difficulty is to

The price paid for the Corning property is not given out, but it is understood to have been a big one, there having been much competition for the site, more than half a dozent to secure it. A novel offer was to take a lease of the land for a term of years and put up a building, from the income of which, according to the property holders stand to lose several feet of their front lawns by having the etreet lines in that section. It will be remembered that according to the survey made by Road Superintendent Ulrich a number of the property holders stand to lose as lease of the land for a term of years and put up a building, from the income of which, according to the property holders stand to lose several feet of their front lawns by having the etreet lines placed upon their grounds; hence the pending htigation in opposition to this action.
