This store attracts the admiration and surprise of all strangers within our gates and rightly so It is so unu-nal in a town of fifteen thousand people to find such a large, such a well equipped, such a well appointed trading mart that strangers are amazed upon seeing it for the first time and their exclamations of surprise and of p'ewure are seen and heard by all within sight or sound of eye or ear.

It will by remembered that Hales anniversary was observed under difficolties in the hampered quarters of their temporary store on Oak street last year, but in spite of that fact they made of it a fine success.
