MANCHESTER BASEBALL

Work of St. Marys Team During Season Shows In Average

Just at this time when baseball averages are epidemic, the fans of Manchester are interested in the performance of the various teams that represent the city during the past season. In line with this desire, the following details concerning the season and co-mission on the part of Manager Albert T. Dewey's men will be perused with interest by the friends of the members of the team. Unfortunately during the period Manager Dewey was neglecting his friends and teammates in the attempt to conquer the British Isles, the St. Marys baseball team suffered a reverse and few victories were won. Up to the return from abroad the team braced up. Teen one Edgar, a former member of the team promised sundry and diverse medals for his services. There was a rejuvenation all along the line. The details of the playing for the season are these:

Arrangements of articles for sale in this kitchen will be a surprise to those who attend the fair in the usefulness of the different articles for sale. A special prize which is on exhibition in Hales large show window on Main street is a bridal doll, cabinet and wedding cake and is a prize that the Woodmen take great pride in giving away to some lucky person. It is one of the great values which has had no equal as a special prize in this town.

The work of arranging, making and drawing of the doll has been done by Mrs. George Johnson of Waller street, a very active member of the Royal Neighbors; and the Woodmen are deeply indebted to Mrs. Johnson for this fine piece of work, and also to Captain H. W. Keenevy for the excellent cabinet that goes with the doll.

The wedding cake that is to go with the doll is presented to the Woodmen by Charles Bechler of Manchester. Miss Jennie Riley in Hales Store will give any information desired on these articles.

Another special prize which will be on exhibition in a few days is a valuable Boston terrier puppy valued at $40, which the Woodmen are giving away to some lucky person. Other articles for special prizes are a very useful and such as Hoosier Kitchen Cabinet, Vacuum Cleaner, one dozen Chesney's wrinkle, barrel of flour, ton of coal, $5, and $10, gold pieces, camera, one dozen photos, one large colored p-trait, one dozen boxes of Chesney's Listerized Tooth Powder.

 Next to the sunlight there is a cheerful face. There is no mistaking it. The bright eye, the unclouded brow, the sunny smile—all of that which dwells within.
 Who has not felt its electrifying influence? One glance at this face lifts us out of the mists and shadows into the beautiful realm of hope.
 One cheerful face in the household will keep everything warm and light within. Ah, there is a world of magic in the cheerful face!

Divide Town?
 We are credibly informed that there is a strong sentiment gaining ground at the north end of town that Manchester should be legally separated from South Manchester and there is quite a likelihood that a petition to that effect may be presented to the legislature at the legislature session for a legal divorce.
 It is claimed on the part of many persons at the north end of town that South Manchester is displaying a disposition to dominate the legislature and is that is greatly displeasing and therefore they believe that it would be better for that section of the town to sever the legal bonds which unite it to South Manchester. This year's important question and one which is apt to enlist the serious thought of all the inhabitants of this goodly hamlet.

We do not know of any serious objection that is likely to be raised by the people of South Manchester to such a legal separation. It is the earnest desire of the majority of the inhabitants of the north end to sever their legal relations with South Manchester we believe that their wishes will be respectfully and that the people of South Manchester will be agreeable to the proposition. In so far as known here there is not likely to be any strong opposition developed to stay the progress of our neighbors of the north end in this matter. If they choose to have complete control of their local affairs without the intervention of a people of the south end the chances are that they will give all the opportunity they want in so far as South Manchester people are concerned.

Take the matter of permanently deep square and the subject of ground as a park at town expense they would be privileged to do this without any question being raised against it by taxpayers of South Manchester. It would be a purely local matter and they could adjust it to suit themselves.

Then too there is the question of the location of a proposed federal building and the probable degrading of the importance of the Manchester position by having such building placed at the north end. Given the separation which would be effected from any domination by South Manchester in this important particular. There would have their post office entirely adjust

By What Authority?
 A large number of voters here are asking the question by what authority Moderator Charles R. Hataway respected such a large number of ballots at the direct primary held here last week Tuesday on the ground of their being "marked ballots" and without making it a condition of their being counted that the names of the voters properly voted for. The total number of rejected was 114. Of this number 20 were deposited without having a single name written on them and all of such character as to make it impossible for the names of the voters to be ascertained. A number of the ballots which Moderator Hataway refused to permit being counted, DENNIS A. BLAKESLEE, of New Haven

Getting Ready To Build Men were set at work this week removing the soil from the site of the proposed new school building at the Center and the neighbors in that vicinity are availing themselves of the opportunity of securing a slice of the soil for building their houses. E. H. HOLL who is having a tenement house constructed directly north of the Pentecostal church on Main street has secured his portion of the soil for his lot and has also made arrangements to have the excavating and filling done at a very low price. He has secured a truck for the work and is busy in dumping the soil on his lot at the corner of Main and Center streets.

The amount of soil removed is very much needed there. The cost to bring in the soil from the site of the school building is comparatively light.
 The combination works well for all concerned. It is pleasant to be able to elaborate the fact that after much arduous work has been started in preparing for the construction of a school building at the Center.

The Dear Old Friends.
 Those old, pleasant, inexpressible friends of the circus are not practiced now-a-days. In the old days the circus approached their stables and the rings through which the signorina passed to leap, but which in reality were inflated over her by compliant attendants. And then there was that venerable jockey performance, the culmination of which was a leap from the ring to a standing position, albeit at an angle of thirty degrees, on the horse's back. In the old circus days the custom of the horseman to hiss the crowd once or three times in order that a fierce fence of the most magnificent being of the race. After two failures the hand would stop (against the pressure of a moment of strain upon the horse's back) and he would be urged to succeed. Then what a crash and burst of light in the building, several times in the expression of ecstasy! Those old, simple days!

Town Meeting
 The official warning for the annual town meeting as issued by the Board of Selectmen will be found in our advertising columns today and to the provision the most important of the voters and taxpayers of the town is hereby directed. It will be found that a number of provisions which are apart from the ordinary routine of such documents and to call for action by the voters which should be carefully studied before the official action is taken or before voting the necessary authority asked for in the warning.

Lower Tax Rate
 As the board of assessors are busily engaged in the arduous task of assessing property in the town of Manchester and will be able to finish the assessment for the year by the end of next week. It is quite likely that the increase in the rate will be deferred until the assessors close their labors. The result of their findings will form a basis for computing the tax. There is every likelihood that the rate may be materially reduced next year. The increased valuation of property will greatly enhance the amount of money raised by taxation and it naturally follows that the rate may be reduced by a substantial amount. The present rate is ten mills on the dollar but it is believed that the rate may be as low as six mills.

There were a number of extraordinary expenses to meet during the fiscal year just closed which will not have to be met by the town next year and this would tend to enable the town to get along with a considerably lower rate of taxation. Under the law the board of assessors are required to follow this rule of valuation: "The present true and real valuation of any estate shall be deemed by all assessors and boards of selectmen to be the fair market value thereof and not its value at a forced or auction sale."

It has been the custom in the past when a man erected a building upon a lot which he owned and upon which he formerly paid taxes to stop paying taxes on the land as soon as he erected a building thereon and limit his taxes to the tax upon the building. Under the new law the tax on the land is retained and that upon the building is assessed by the assessors as a separate item. This increases the amount of money to be brought annually into the town's coffers and will serve to maintain a low and steadily lower tax rate.

In as much as the town authorities claim to have saved the sum of $17,000 by economical administration during the fiscal year just closed this will add to the town's resources and make possible a still lower tax rate.

The assessors have visited every farm in the town of Manchester during the spring and summer months of the present year, have seen the farms where they were at their best stages of production and have consequently ascertained

Man and Woman.
 When a man gets into trouble the first thing he thinks of is, "How shall I get out of this fix?" When a woman gets into trouble her first thought is,
 "How shall I best bear this misery?"

Remarkable Instinct.
 "Every time I go shopping I think heaven that I have a good business head," said the woman who boasts that her quick wit always saves her from financial loss. "A saleswoman came very near getting into trouble once over a beautiful bonnet. The only thing that saved her was my business instinct. First I bought a belt for $1.25 and paid with a two dollar bill.
 In handling my change the girl dropped a quarter into the paper and boxes that I had left on the floor of the counter and could not find it. I counted her change and she had held her accountable, but she looked so tired and worried that I hadn't the heart to do so, so how do you think we settled it?"
 Her husband gave it up.
 "Why," said she triumphantly, "I just exhaled my $1.25 belt for it."
 "The husband, and she smiled over his approval.—New York Sun."

Bernard Shaw's Excuse.
 Bernard Shaw was invited to a banquet in honor of the sculptor Rodin. He sent the following letter as his excuse for not attending:
 "For me a banquet to Rodin is quite unnecessary. I have already taken measures to assure immortality for myself by attaching my name to that of Rodin. Henceforth in every encyclopedia you read 'Bernard Shaw, subject of a bust by Rodin; otherwise unknown.'"
 "If the bust is lost, broken or melted, so much the better for me," he continues. "They will speak of the 'lost Bernard Shaw of Rodin,' as today they speak of the 'lost Albert of Prussia.' Nothing can be more beautiful than the statues which no one ever saw.
 Therefore I will do all that is necessary to note before going to their work in the world. I can get along without banquets. I have to note Rodin's name.
 I have the honor to be his guest."

See Danger of Politics Entering

 Only Judicial Questions.

September 24, 1910.
 Messrs. Everett G. Hill, President, Arthur S. Barnes, Secretary, Connecticut Editorial Assoc., New Haven, Connecticut.

Gentlemen:
 I find your letter of September 15th awaiting me on my return to New Haven after a few days absence.
 The most vital question which underlies your inquiry is, in substance, whether I object in principle to the creation of a tribunal to hear and effectively pass upon complaints about railroad charges and railroad service.
FAYUS TRIBUNAL TO DECIDE CON-TROVERSIES BETWEEN PUBLIC AND RAIL-ROAD.

If I understand this question aright, I agree that it ought to pre-serve a frank and unequivocal reply. My answer is, categorically: No. I do not. But I respectfully submit through you to the people of this State—first that such a tribunal ought to have the independent, impartial and ability, which for many generations have characterized our courts of justice; and, secondly, that such a tribunal ought not to exercise any functions which are properly legislative in their nature, but ought on the other hand to decide without arbit-rariness between the parties to each controversy, according to justly-established principles and rules of law.

THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY.
 You invite a discussion by me of the trustworthiness of the General Assembly of Connecticut. If I may be frank without giving offense, I have to confess that in private I have exercised the American citizen's privilege of finding fault with American legislatures. I have privately said that there are so many individual members who are unworthy of the name of legislator that American legislatures who are more or less prejudiced against railroad corporations, that it is often extremely difficult for such a corporation to get a fair hearing before it.

Here in Connecticut a great disturbance is some time used because of what

NEW BALLOT TO BE VOTED HERE FOR FIRST TIME AT NEXT MONDAY'S ELECTION

Some Explanations That May Be of Service in Enabling Voters To Correctly and Legally Register Their Choice—Very Important.

Regarding the Australian Ballot which is to be used at the town election here next Monday for the first time Tuesday's Hartford Courant contained explanations which may be of assistance to our readers. We urge all voters to study these instructions as carefully as possible and then endeavor to arrive at a clear understanding of the new ballot. By so doing one stands a good chance to make his vote effective. Otherwise the receipt of a ballot is likely to be greatly enlarged over that appearing at the direct primary here last week Tuesday in proportion to ballots cast. We quote: All day yesterday the office of the secretary of the state was besieged by men who wanted to know the correct method of voting the new ballot, which the small towns will use next Monday for the first time. While Deputy Secretary R. J. Dwyer and Chief Clerk E. H. Lonsbury do not pretend to know it all regarding the new act, they are willing to give their opinion as to what the law means. It must, of course, be interpreted by the moderators of each town meeting and the outlook is that the moderators will earn their pay next Monday.

Of course voting a straight ticket is a simple proposition as the voter has only to mark an X in the circle above his party column, but even then the law is a bit fancy, because it requires that the 'X' not be marked with a pencil having a black lead, thus cutting out fountain pens or indelible or blue pencils.

But if the voter proposes to split his ticket he must mark one of the circles and mark it only with an 'X' as any other mark will render the ticket void though the voter may write in a name in the right hand column. The essential points of the law which must be heeded will be printed on the face of the stub attached to each ticket, the printer's matter being as follows—

This ballot shall be marked with a pencil having black lead. To vote a straight ticket, make a cross 'X' within the circle above one of the party columns. To vote a split ticket, that is for candidates of different parties, the voter shall make a cross mark 'X' before the name of each candidate for whom he votes, not appearing in the column which has been designated by an 'X' in the circle at its head. If the ticket marked in the circle for a straight ticket does not contain the names of candidates for all offices for which the elector desires to vote, he shall in addition to the cross mark 'X' made in the circle hereinbefore required, vote for candidates for such offices so omitted by making a cross mark 'X' before the name of each candidate for such offices in another column on this ticket, or by writing the name if not printed upon the ballot in the blank column, under the title of the office. Any other mark than the cross mark 'X' used for the purpose of voting will render this ballot void. If you tear, deface or wrongfully mark this ballot return it and obtain another.

The precincts where the voter does not wish to vote for anyone of a group of candidates for an office or desires to split his ticket. In the former case, though the secretary's office has not passed upon the question, the elector, after marking the X at the head of the party column, must, apparently, also mark one at the left of the name of each candidate for whom he wishes to vote.

If the elector wishes to split a ticket after having marked an X at the head of the party to which he thinks he belongs he must mark an X after the name of the candidates in the other columns for whom he wishes to vote. Assuming that there are three candidates he may vote for one or two. Thus, if he wants to vote for the first candidate on the democratic ticket and also for the first one on the republican ticket he marks an X opposite to the names of the men of his choice and he performs the same stunt regarding grand jurors and constables.

[As we have seven selections here under the special act, whereby we are doing business as a voter is permitted to vote for not more than five selections in the town of Manchester Ed. News.]

All the instructions the act gives relative to voting it appears at the top of the ballot, and is quoted in this article, but how the different voters will construe those instructions is a matter of conjecture. As you make more important than a thorough election has been held under the law, and it is an unchartered sea through which the voter must steer his course. A little study will show him how he can split a ticket, but it will need a good deal more thought to find a way by which he can refrain from voting for any of a given group of candidates.

Racing With Death

Edward Motin is hastening across the continent in a race with death. He is expected in Hartford sometime tonight and is rushing on from Los Angeles, California in the desire to see his mother, Mrs. Josephine Motin whose health at St. Francis Hospital is momentarily expected. He is making a five days and five nights race with the Unwelcome One. His brother, Fritz Motin of Paterson, N. J. came here with his family Tuesday evening to see his mother and they are here now awaiting the end. It will be eight years next month since his father, the late Joseph Motin died. Mrs. Motin and her three daughters kept house on Locust street. The young people have the profound sympathy of a large circle of devoted friends in the misfortune which has befallen them so much at the present time.

VOTERS OF MANCHESTER

THE LICENSE QUESTION AGAIN---REASONS WHY YOU SHOULD VOTE LICENSE ON MONDAY

All the important neighboring cities and towns have voted for license, Hartford, Springfield, Rockville, Thompsontown, Willimantic, in fact all the business centers of Connecticut voted for license, this spring or last fall.

It is a well known fact that no-license destroys business. It drives the commerce to towns where the citizens can purchase liquor. While they purchase liquor out of town they purchase at the same time other articles of necessity. These purchases amount to many thousands of dollars in a year, which is taken away from the merchants, business men and mechanics in general.

Liquor in no-license towns is drunk just the same only the sale of whisky or strong liquors takes the place of the light beverage as has been shown in all prohibition towns.

The prohibitionists, with enormous efforts, succeeded in the city of Worcester two years ago, but prohibition was short-lived. Last fall that city voted by a large majority back to license. Its many empty stores, the throwing out of employment of several thousand men, the loss of the license revenue to the city and the large loss of its mercantile business to Boston and Springfield was so great that Worcester quickly saw its mistake and voted back to license.

The well regulated licensed saloon is by far preferable to the illicit, non-revenue paying den. The property owner, the taxpayer, in fact everybody is the sufferer under no-license.

OPINIONS OF EMINENT CLERGYMEN ON THE QUESTION:

BISHOP POTTER of New York Our prohibitory laws, whether we put them in operation on one day only, or on all days are as stupid as they are ineffectual.

BISHOP CLARK of Rhode Island Prohibition has been disastrous to the cause of temperance.

BISHOP GRAFTON of Wisconsin I cannot see the benefit of compulsory abstinence.

CARDINAL GIBBONS of Baltimore I am persuaded that it is practically impossible to put prohibition into effect in any large community, and the best means, therefore, to promote temperance is to limit the number of saloons by high license.

BISHOP HALL of Vermont Prohibition drives underground the mischief which it seeks to cure, making it more difficult to deal with the evil, and imposes

MASSACHUSETTS PASTOR WHO FAVORS LICENSE

In October of last year, the Rev. Earl C. Davis, the working pastor of Unity church of Pittsfield, created a sensation in the No-License League and Berkshire Synod's Club by announcing that he was in favor of licenser, speaking substantially as follows:

"I believe in the licensed city from a moral standpoint. I was born and brought up in Maine. I lived in Auburn and Lewiston. What I saw in Maine prompts me to my action now and that is the reason I have taken this stand.

"From what I observed in Maine I believe that no-license in Pittsfield would mean the establishment of innumerable kitchen dives that would be followed or run in connection with houses of ill repute, and morally the effect would be infinitely worse than with the open saloon under a supervision of authorities.

"Auburn and Lewiston in Maine are about the size of Pittsfield. In Auburn alone there are 130 kitchen barrooms, and as many more in Lewiston under a so-called prohibition regime."

UNDER PROHIBITION There are instances without number in the five states where prohibition is supposed to be enforced, where property has decreased in value, where innumerable stores and tenements are vacant by reason of it, where taxes have greatly increased, and where the general status of towns and cities had greatly deteriorated. These conditions are especially true of Ohio towns where prohibition prevailed.

EX-GOV. RUSSELL of Massachusetts

Prohibition has been enacted in this state, thoroughly tried and repealed by its sponsors as a confessed failure.

ARCHBISHOP RYAN of Philadelphia I am in favor of total abstinence for all persons who desire or need it. I favor high license and every means consistent with true principles and due respect for individual liberty, to promote the practice of temperance.

LITTLE RHODY'S EXPERIENCE Step over the border to our little neighbor and you will learn that the depressing effect of the laws were so severely felt that after one year's trial the merchants, manufacturers and property owners united in a petition signed by the best men in Providence, representing $19,000,000 of property, asking the abolition of the law.

Burton's Luck

He Rode on the Back of an Angry Bull.

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

Anne Hilse started a harmless looking wild parrot that developed a bright red lining.

Neal Burton glanced at the rosy glow reflected on the girl's softly rounded cheeks, supported by Neal's willing arm.

"Anne lifted a shamed face. 'Has he gone, Neal?' she asked meekly.

"No; he's down there waiting. Perhaps he'll get tired after while and go back to his pasture."

"Can't you find a branch for me to sit on?" inquired Anne from her position, supported by Neal's willing arm.

"I'm afraid not, but you can take this place—here, stand so leaning against the trunk and brace your feet. Hold tight to this little branch on either side."

"Where are you going to stay?" asked Anne uneasily. "I've driven you from the only safe position, only you see—I couldn't!" She paused helplessly.

"How much farther to the river, Neal?" she asked hastily.

"As far as you don't know," he returned. "You must have been there three times enough with Fuller. You needn't be afraid. I'm going to propose to you again."

"I don't wish you to!"

"You've made that very plain on three different occasions. I may look at you sometimes, but I don't intend to throw myself at your feet and plead for a crumb of affection?"

His bitter sarcasm stung Anne to foolish tears.

"It would make me most uncomfortable if you did, as I haven't had a crumb to spare," she said.

Neal winced. "I don't wish a crumb, Anne. It's all or nothing as far as I'm concerned."

ARAB ENCAMPMENTS.

The Crowded Tents in Which the Shepherds Live.

Arabs are true nomads. Their life is a constant wandering. They live entirely on the produce of their herds. Their tents are quickly taken down or put up and easy of transport. They are made of camel's hair, loosely woven, supported on poles or long guy ropes. They protect the occupants from the hot sun, but not from the rain, and in winter the encampments are uncomfortable places.

The interior is crowded with all the belongings of these shepherd warriors—camels saddled and gaudy saddlebags, rifles and ammunition, hunting dogs and falcons. The women occupy one half; the men use the other, partitioned off by a brightly colored curtain. The whole of the front of the tent being open, there is no privacy.

VENETIAN WOMEN.

The Whims of Fashion Had No Force For Them.

The women of Venice are absorbed free from the rule which taxes Parisian exercises over their slender forms. With them the length of the skirt is always the same, neither long nor long, and they always wear dark dresses, black stockings and the heaviest slippers of the world.

The universal outdoor wrap, the long and all sizes is the black serge with a deep all round fringe. It is fastened at the neck and reaches down to the knee, and sometimes it covers the figure from head to foot. It is either fastened at the throat, and when it is short, and is gathered up with a long, and sometimes it makes the torso think of a big bird stretching its wings.

THE DIPLOMATIC ROOM.

One of the most interesting and most stately places in Washington is the diplomatic reception room in the department of state, where the secretary of state transacts his business with the envoys of foreign governments.

This room is close to the secretary's office and looks southwest to the Potomac. The Washington monument looms up with striking effect at the left. Thursday of each week is set apart for the diplomats, who are received in this famous room by the secretary of state or the official who may be acting in his absence. The room itself when not occupied by the foreign representatives is open to the public. In it most of our treaties of recent years have been signed, and many have been the notable assemblages which centered within its walls.—New York Press.

Not For Fashion's Sake.

The criminal law of England formerly punished by imprisonment. Theft of an article worth above 10 shillings was punished by death. In writing about the late H. H. Munroe and his associates, White records a pleasant thing that happened to him, and a fine old friend of his side of mercy. It was Lord Selkirk who directed a jury to find stolen trinket less in value than 10 shillings in order that the defendant should receive the lighter punishment of a fine and imprisonment.

"Gentlemen," replied the judge, "I have grave solemnity, 'we' convict you in need of mercy. Let us not have man for the fashion's sake!"

MAN'S WILL POWER.

Bismarck's Comment on Schopenhauer and His Theory.

In an entertaining account of a dinner party at Prince Bismarck's residence which is given in the columns of the Livonian Journal, the hard following, which was the talk of the table, shows the host to have been a most successful conversationalist. The conversation had turned on Bismarck's early days at Berlin, and Eckhardt asked what he had done for his first year. Bismarck answered: "No," said Bismarck, "I do not use for me nor I for him, nor over, I have never had time or opportunity to do anything for myself. While I was a student Schopenhauer was still unknown. I know nothing about his system."

THREE YEARS LATE.

A Train That Was the Behind Time Record Medal.

A train of the railroad system in the southwest once arrived at its destination nearly three years late. The circumstances were these:

The train, the Bolivar, just across Galveston Bay from Galveston, on Sept. 8, 1907, and was caught in the great storm that so nearly destroyed the Texas city. Bolivar is seventy-five miles from Beaumont, which was the point of the train's destination. Before the train had traveled far on its journey it was caught in the storm. Thirty miles of the track were washed away, and the train was left stranded on a sandy waste. Many persons who lived on both sides were saved from death by taking refuge in the train. After the storm subsided they walked to Bolivar with the passengers, and the stranded train was left on the prairie.

Identified.

William M. Chase, the artist, whose picture of a young girl in a blue dress had a certain originality, they contended more or less as prevailing fashions. On one occasion Chase on his way home stopped at a little wine shop and ordered a quart of claret of a special brand sent to the front door an hour after he had ordered it. The boy who brought the wine said: "Some wine," he said, "I should think that you would not remember the name of the wine you ordered it." At this moment the boy's spouse, Chase's famous picture, had a certain originality, they contended more or less as prevailing fashions. On one occasion Chase on his way home stopped at a little wine shop and ordered a quart of claret of a special brand sent to the front door an hour after he had ordered it. The boy who brought the wine said: "Some wine," he said, "I should think that you would not remember the name of the wine you ordered it."
