And The Great Hoosier KITCHEN CABINET CLUB Opens For Members MONDAY

"The Hoosier Special Saves miles of steps for tired feet"

We have heralded the coming of the Hoosiers for some time, and much interest has been shown in their arrival. Now they are here, and Monday we begin enrolling members in the Manchester Kitchen Cabinet Club.

These clubs are formed in all the leading cities by the Hoosier representatives, for the sole purpose of allowing people to buy one of the celebrated Hoosier Kitchen Cabinets—exactly like picture—at the club rate of One Dollar at the time of entering your name, and for a few weeks. In other words, until the full price of the cabinet has been paid.

This club should not be confused with the installment plan, as it is under the direct supervision of The Hoosier Manufacturing Company, New Castle, Ind., the largest manufacturers of kitchen cabinets in the world.

Anyone upon entering her name in the Hoosier Club receives the immediate delivery of the cabinet to her home where it will begin at once to save hundreds of steps each day.

Next week only the club will be open to members and is limited to 25 members, so if you wish to secure one of the cabinets at the club rate of One Dollar a week, you should enter your name at once.

The Hoosier has a separate place for everything used in the preparation of a meal, and will earn its cost many times over in the hundreds of steps and material it saves.

If you wish to know more about the Hoosier Cabinets or the Club plan, our demonstrator will be pleased to give you all information.

SELECTMEN MEET

MATTERS NEEDING ADJUSTMENT PRIOR TO TOWN MEETING

License Question To Voted Upon. School District Lines Discussed. Appropriations Asked For New Almshouse, Post House, Barn, Prospect St. Bridge

The board of selectmen held a meeting in the Hall of Records last Wednesday evening to discuss the question of a new almshouse and the location of same in another part of the town was taken up. The board was unanimous in their opinion that some action should be taken to have the present structure removed from its present location. The building and barns are now on the water shed of the reservoir located early and the board was of the opinion that it is a great menace to the public health. The building and equipment were never what they should be and there has been little to improve the old conditions. As the town is constantly growing and the town charges are increasing year after year it was thought that this matter should be settled at once. The post house too, should not be in its present location and action will be taken at the town meeting for its removal.

Charles R. Hathaway appeared before the board at the request of Chairman Cheney to explain about the boundary lines of the different school districts of town. Mr. Hathaway said that he had looked into the matter considerable of late and he was of the opinion that the boundary lines of the several districts were in a very hazy condition. He cited the fact that when the Ninth district was incorporated the incorporation papers said that the district limits would be the same as those now occupied by the said district. But there was no record before that to show just where those lines were. He informed the board that the assessors and collectors in the several districts are put to considerable trouble in making up their tax lists and he thought that the line should be defined.

When asked as to the proper procedure in such a matter he read from the statutes which placed all the power for defining the district lines in the hands of the selectmen of the town. The law says that it is the duty of the selectmen to have the school lines entered on the records of the town. He suggested that the selectmen collect all the data they can find and make a digest of same with an engineer and in that manner they could arrive at a solution of the matter.

Superintendent Ulrich was present with the maps of the proposed change in the highway on West Center and Clout streets. The selectmen signed the map and also an explanation of same and they will be kept as official records. The secretary of the board was instructed to mail a copy of the definition of the lines to each of the adjoining property owners. The property owners have an opportunity to appeal from the action of the selectmen in defining the highway in these two streets provided they make their appeal within ten days after a copy of the papers defining such highway are mailed to them. It is not thought however that any of the property owners will appeal from the decision to improve the highway as they have all signed their acceptance of same.

Superintendent Ulrich said he would like a vacation before the old board returns from office. He said that he had a written order from Highway Commissioner McDonald to survey the road from Le Lane to McKee street in preparation for the proposed state road that is to be built there. Mr. Ulrich said that he would be paid by the state for the work and he wanted a vacation to do it in. Then people could not say that he was being paid by the town for doing state work. Chairman Cheney asked Mr. Ulrich how he was getting along with the work for the Prospect street bridge and he was informed that he would be able to order the steel work for same in a day or two. Mr. Ulrich was granted a vacation which started yesterday morning and will continue until October 2nd. Mr. Ulrich said that making the survey now of Chapman road would probably mean the starting of the work this fall.

Selectman Alvord called the attention of the board to the fact that the term of the present examiner of records expires this month and that action should be taken on same. Charles R. Hathaway, the present incumbent, was reappointed.

The selectmen and the town clerk will be at the Hall of Records tomorrow for the purpose of making voters and selectmen Keesey and Cowley were appointed to represent the board at the joint meeting of the board and selectmen called for the annual town meeting.

The no-license advocate had presented a petition to the board asking that a vote be taken at the town meeting to determine by ballot whether any persons should be licensed to sell alcoholic and intoxicating liquors in the town during the coming year. The list contained 300

FOR NEW ALMHOUSE

Action To Be Taken At Annual Town Meeting For Same

At the special meeting of the board of selectmen held in the Hall of Records last Wednesday evening the question of a new almshouse and the location of same in another part of the town was taken up. The board was unanimous in their opinion that some action should be taken to have the present structure removed from its present location. The building and barns are now on the water shed of the reservoir located early and the board was of the opinion that it is a great menace to the public health. The building and equipment were never what they should be and there has been little to improve the old conditions. As the town is constantly growing and the town charges are increasing year after year it was thought that this matter should be settled at once. The post house too, should not be in its present location and action will be taken at the town meeting for its removal.

Several years ago a committee was appointed to look into the conditions of the almshouse and the property connected therewith and the committee made a report to the town meeting. In the report the conditions as they were found were presented to the voters. The committee were very thorough with their work and their report was most complete and showed a condition that was not creditable to any town. In fact it was shown that our almshouse and facilities were about the worst to be found in the state. In its report the committee recommended the construction of a new building in some other part of the town and they had plans prepared for a suitable structure the cost of which would be in the neighborhood of $40,000. The voters however would not listen to an appropriation for any such amount and the matter was dropped. Now that the agitation is started again it is hoped that some action will be taken at the town meeting to have the building removed from the water shed and suitable buildings erected elsewhere that will take care of the town charges in a more healthful and sanitary manner.

Base Ball

The Lauris of Hartford will meet the St. Marys team on the Hollister grounds tomorrow afternoon at 3:15 P. M. The Lauris will play the St. Marys Saturday, but the latter team are coming to town tomorrow with a strengthened line and hope to reverse the tables.

The St. Marys team will close the season next week from tomorrow when they will meet the Crusaders of Hartford. The Swastikas will play the Royals of Hartford on the Nebo grounds next Sunday afternoon. This game should be a good one as the Royals are some ball players.

Local merchants are offering special inducements to early buyers. Robb's Specialty Shop are showing in their windows ladies' black serge coats with guaranteed satin lining, and actually worth $10, for only $5.98.

Names and Towns Clerk Benton said that all were voters with the exception of two names which do not appear on the voting list. However there were more than enough names on the list as the law requires ten per cent. of the voting list to sign such a petition. The clause covering same will be inserted in the call.

The other usual sections of the call for the town meeting will be found in the call for same.

Among the appropriations to be asked for are those for a town barn and also for the Prospect street bridge. These were authorized last year but the money has not been expended and the appropriations have to be renewed.

In the annual report of the selectmen this year they recommend the purchase of a steam road roller and an appropriation for same will be asked for. If the town votes to erect a new almshouse and a post house, as noted elsewhere, that will mean additional appropriations. Petitions for electric lights on Holl and Clouton streets will also be inserted in the call. The official call for the town meeting will be drawn next Monday evening when the board will probably hold its last session of the year. If there are any persons about town who desire to have action taken at the annual town meeting on matters upon which they are interested, they are requested to hand petitions for same to the board on or before next Monday night, so that they can be incorporated in the official notice.

His Castle on the Rhine.

And How He Sold It to a Descendant of Its First Owner.

By F. A. MITCHEL.
Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

On the left bank of the Rhine is the ruin of one of those old castles which have stood in that region for centuries. This particular castle some years ago was bought by Carl Bischoff, a German-American who had made a lot of money brewing lager beer. Bischoff bought the castle a few pieces of furniture, pictures and other curiosities that were several hundred years old and had been handed down from one purchaser to another. With the decay of the castle and the gradual breaking up or loss of these relics all that remained was finally been concentrated in one room, which, when the owner was there, he used for a living and bed room. In this apartment was an antique fireplace big enough to roast an ox. Over the chimneyplace hung a picture that was especially prized by Carl Bischoff.

Bischoff was an admirable amateur chess player. Indeed, he had on several occasions tackled professionals with fair success. The reason he prized the picture that hung over the chimneyplace at his castle was because it represented a curious position between chess players. They were in a medieval dress. The one on the left, with a black beard, the other stocky, whose beard was very red. The dark man wore his beard at a point, while his mustaches were turned upward, giving him a malignant expression. The red bearded man was in a plain, common dress. The picture represented him looking on the board, evidently troubled at a prospect of being checkmated by his antagonist, who was regarding him with an expression of triumph. On a plate attached to the frame was the name of the picture in German, "Checkmate in Six Moves." There was a legend connected with the painting that the man who had built and owned the castle would some day return to repossess it. When he would checkmate in six moves he would checkmate in the name of the man.

Bischoff checked at this legend, saying that any one could get his castle in that way he would do so. He had studied for hours trying to discover a method by which the short man could checkmate in six moves. He considered the problem insoluble, and several chess experts who had seen the picture had agreed with him.

One autumn Bischoff, who had run over from America to Berlin, concluded to pay a visit to his castle to see that all was ready for the man with water. A caretaker lived in a room that had been repaired and furnished for him and his wife. The caretaker told Bischoff that he had a visitor who was very rich and who was staying in the room at the castle. He was a man of great wealth and he was staying in the room at the castle. He was a man of great wealth and he was staying in the room at the castle.

It was a lowering afternoon when he reached the castle, and he was hanging low about the battlements. After making an inspection and talking over the conditions with his caretaker Bischoff, who had directed a fire in his chamber, died there, and when he had finished pulled a big armchair up before the blazing log. Not feeling especially happy in his room, he directed his caretaker to make him a hot punch. This was set on a table beside him, and as the hour of his death drew on he lay on his back, his hands and feet crossed, and he died.

Presently he fell into a dose. How long he slept he didn't know, but the first thing he did know the door was opened and a man came into the room. Bischoff looked up, expecting to see the caretaker. He was mistaken. The person who entered was one he had never seen. He approached Bischoff with outstretched hand and with a cordiality that seemed more appropriate for a host than a guest. Then he drew a chair before the fire, warmed his hands, and taking a pipe from his pocket, began to smoke.

"Well," he said to Bischoff, "this is a dismal night without, but pleasant within. I'm glad you've made your self comfortable."

Bischoff had never been very clear in his statements about this man, and he was not sure he was sure he was awake and so explicit about some circumstances. He would be warranted in assuming that he was dreaming. At first, he says, it only struck him that the man was very queer, looking at him in a queer way, dressed and wore a red beard. But at his entrance Bischoff did not connect him with the picture.

Bischoff was so astonished, that for some time he made no response. Instead, he couldn't think of anything to say. Finally he broke silence by asking: "Whence come you?"

CHARMING WEATHER BUT LIGHT VOTE. NOT MUCH INTEREST MANIFESTED

Large Falling Off As Compared With Last Year. Renominat-ed Selectmen Showed Greatly Reduced Votes. Cook, New Man Has Large

Tuesday was primary day in Manchester. The weather was perfect but the vote was light, only eight hundred ballots being cast. There were contests for two of the offices. For selectmen on the Republican ticket were George W. Corwin, Henry L. Vibbert, and Horace B. Cheney. William E. Alvord and Arthur B. Keeney of the old board were nominated and the new nominees are Arthur B. Keeney, George W. Corwin, Robert E. Cook and George H. Howe. Robert E. Carney, Alvin W. Greene and Thomas McRoberts were also in the running.

The principal contest of the day was for the nomination of an assessor on the Republican ticket. Henry L. Vibbert, who has held the office for several years was opposed by Alexander Trotter. Friends of both candidates were doing considerable quiet work for their respective favorites. Vibbert was elected and the result was in doubt until the ballots were counted. It was a pretty race at the counters with Vibbert leading by a narrow margin. First one candidate would be in the lead and a pile of ballots would be counted and then the other would be ahead by a few votes. On the final count it was found that Mr. Trotter had come out the winner, leading Mr. Vibbert by 61 votes.

The total votes of the Democrat and of the Socialist were counted but on the Republican ticket only the votes for selectmen and assessor were counted. For the rest of the offices on the Republican ticket only the votes for selectmen and assessor were counted. For the rest of the offices on the Republican ticket only the votes for selectmen and assessor were counted.

Upset of Oriental Rug Prices

The traditional prices for oriental rugs are being upset at the great sale which is in progress at Wise, Smith & Co.'s. Thousands of dollars worth of choice oriental rugs on sale at prices never before quoted in Hartford, including Persian, Mosul, Shiraz, Iran, Belo chairs, saroks and other famous goods of the Eastern rug market. #### THUNDERSTORMS.

They Kill Over 300 Persons a Year in Madagascar.

Thunderstorms never occur in the Arctic region, and even the north of Scotland very seldom suffers from such a visitation. The nearer you get to the equator the more frequent and severe are the storms. In parts of Central Africa the average of thunderous days rises to the astonishing total of 260 per annum.

Yet there are curious exceptions. In Java and Sumatra, both intensely hot climates, there are but ninety-two storm years, and in Buenos Aires fifty.

The Gold coast of Africa has only sixty a year, which is less than occur in the States of the latter country is outside the tropics.

In Jamaica there is a thunderstorm every day during the rainy season. These storms almost always occur between midday and 2 in the afternoon. Perhaps the most interesting fact with regard to thunderstorms is that the island of Mauritius, which is only 500 miles east of Madagascar, has, on an average, only one thunderstorm in eighty years. Yet in Madagascar the lightning is more destructive than anywhere else in the world, the annual death toll being over 500—Ferson's Weekly.

Costly Privacy.

Although a writer, he was very human, so when he perceived that the young couple who had been assigned to his table had many matters sacred and confidential under consideration he retreated to a respectful distance and stared at the opposite wall of the restaurant proprietor's approval of that humanitarian attitude.

"Don't stand away back there," he said, "sit up and be close over that fellow's chair back for awhile."

"Oh, no," expostulated the human writer. "They want to talk."

"But couldn't they do the proprietor's bidding? That is why I want you to butt in. Every time you come near they will send you to the kitchen for a fresh order to get you out of the way."—New York Times.

Grim Fates.

A prison slave is held annually in Paris. The articles offered for sale are the clothes of murdered people, the instruments used in the crimes, and have been committed and the effects which have belonged to the deceased prisoners. Articles which have been taken to the prison and which have not been claimed are also sold. The proceeds go to the Paris almshouse. Unclaimed jewelry is usually bought by ordinary brokers, but the articles which have belonged to criminals, especially those who are notorious, are bought at high prices.

Dodging a Difficulty.

"Are you going to send the Sparkie girl a wedding present?" "No, old Sparkie and I had a squabble yesterday!" "That's too bad. What was the cause?" "I really can't afford his friendship. He has five marriageable daughters."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

FELL AMONG THIEVES.

And the Old Man Didn't Know Which Set Was the Worst.

An old man from rural England with his wife was on a holiday in London and decided on an evening at a theater. He looked up the advertisements in the papers and selected a house where "All Gains and the Forty Thieves" was being played. It was a "cheap" house, the price of stalls being given as two-and-sixpence. The farmer was surprised, however, on arriving at the box office to be met with a demand for 6 shillings for the two tickets. The extra sixpence per seat, it was explained, was for booking. Then he was called upon to pay attention to a program, and the female attendant who showed him to the seats also asked for sixpence, in addition to which there was a shilling to be paid for hats and coats being taken care of in writing on his program that they could take care of them themselves. A footstool was brought for his wife and another for the man, but the attendant who brought it demanded another sixpence, and finally opera glasses were handed to them and payment of another sixpence requested. Then the farmer went in search of the manager and, finding him, said in a tone of deepest disgust: "You may do what you like with these tickets. There are so many thieves in front of the house that I don't think I can afford to give you any more. You may do what you like with these tickets."—London Answers.

SENATORS FLAY THE LOBBYISTS

Connecticut River Matter Re-news O.d Trouble.

THE GOVERNOR'S VETOES.

Senator Spelly gets a Call-down. About a Loving Cup—Governor's Peculiar Position on Constitutional Question.

Hartford, Sept. 20.—One of the most amusing situations that have arisen in the state senate so far in this projected session was the one that arose yesterday afternoon.

It was then the tables were turned. When it got to the senate for action the friends of the company were not out in force, and the few that remained saw the point at once.

Senator Spelly said that he would talk until the snow flew before he would let the company get what it wanted without some modification. They filibustered, and they were proud of it.

seated in another recess. When the senate reconvened a quarter of an hour later an agreement had been reached to make the matter the order of the day for today at 11:30 o'clock.

The New Haven Judgeship. The general assembly is again engaged with the affairs of the city court of New Haven, a matter that was thought to be done early in the session.

It simply means that the two houses are going to develop a disagreeing action that cannot be over-ruled, and after the general assembly adjourns Governor Baldwin will have the privilege of settling the New Haven scrap by appointing a judge for the city court there.

Highway Commissioner's Office. Governor Baldwin's expected veto of the rider to the appropriation for the office of Highway Commissioner James H. Macdonald was in the house yesterday.

Another Veto. Governor Baldwin did not get his veto pen working until late in the session, but it has worked enough since that time to make up for any losses.

While the enemies of Highway Commissioner James H. Macdonald were pinning their guns to open a broadside on the commissioner at the first opportunity they got a decided job that came down from the state of Massachusetts.

Colonel William H. Bolger of the Massachusetts highway commission was present at the dinner, and he was the one who, unlooked, sprang the surprise.

The assembly was once practically through its work, and then the veto message began to come in, and to present the two houses at the rate they are proceeding have enough business to last the rest of the week and probably have over into the next week as well.

Work Shoes

WHETHER you work up in the air or on the ground you want your shoes fitted perfectly. Because the work is rough and the worker is strong is no reason why the question of fit is not just as important as in the case of a dress shoe—they should fit snugly, as a big shoe is just as much an evil as one not big enough. Our store is where you get fitted just right.

About Voting

The Annual Town election will take place next Monday, Oct. 2. The polls will be opened from six in the morning until four in the afternoon. The Australian ballot will be used again this year with some slight changes as made by the present legislature. Pink sample ballots may be had from the town clerk. These ballots show the form and arrangement of the official ballot that it is to be used at the town election next Monday. It should be borne in mind that the pink sample ballots must not under any consideration be used in voting. They are only employed for the purpose of permitting voters to study the arrangement of the ballot and to familiarize themselves with the method of voting.

It will be observed in studying the ballot that the democratic party in the state of Connecticut cast the largest vote at the last general election in this state. Hence they are assigned the position of honor on the ballot. This is a very unusual occurrence, the state of Connecticut as the republicans lead nearly all the time.

If you wish to vote your party ticket straight all you have to do is to place an X in the circle at the head of your party column. Voting a split ticket requires the placing of an X in the space at the left hand side of the name of every candidate for whom you wish to vote but do not in this case place an X in the circle at the top of your party column.

Every voter is entitled to vote for two members of the board of relief, five selectmen, three grand jurors, four constables, two library directors, one school visitor for full term and one school visitor for unexpired term and for one nominee for every other office regardless of whether his party has a larger or smaller number of nominees. If your party has not made complete nominations you can vote for another others up to the number named above by placing an X in front of the other names. Do not understand that in places where the number named above as doing so would invalidate your ballot.

Provision has not been made on the Australian ballot for voting for the two constitutional amendments which are to come before the voters at the town elections next Monday. One of these amendments has to do with limiting the date of adjournment of the general assembly and the other pertains to the powers and duties of the lieutenant governor. These constitutional amendments are to be voted upon by special ballots which have been provided for same. In many quarters there is but very little interest manifested in these constitutional amendments. It is optional with the voters whether they vote upon these amendments or not.

Trolley Fare
An official notice by the Public Utilities Commission appearing in another column of this paper sets forth the fact that a public hearing will be held before that body at Room 31 State Capitol Hartford, Tuesday, October 10, at 11:15 in the forenoon in order to discuss the trolley fare charged by The Connecticut Company between this place and Hartford.

This is an interesting bit of information for people of this town generally. The contention for a reduced trolley fare to and from Hartford has formed a bone of contention between our people and The Connecticut Company for several years past. It is the one leading contention that the people of this place ask from the company. It has been urged by our representatives at two sessions of the state legislature. It has been ardently advocated by the people generally. Columns of newspaper space have been employed setting forth the question in detail. Many cogent reasons have been earnestly advanced to show why this request of the people should be granted. This is the first opportunity presented to have the case heard before the Public Utilities Commission.

The opening chapters of that thrilling and deeply absorbing serial story The Mac Higher Tip appears in our issue of today and will be continued week after week until ended. All are earnestly requested to read it. It is certainly a good one and is sure to prove highly interesting. It throws side lights upon some phases of public life that are well worth knowing.

Caroline Colburn Lyman, teacher of voice and piano will be at the House & Hale block Room 11 this afternoon from 2 to 5 and tomorrow afternoon from 2 to 5 in the evening from 7 to 9. Voices tried free.
