In all our experience—and we've been in the clothing business for years—we never before saw such quality of material, such critical workmanship, such absolutely correct style in garments made by a manufacturer to retail at $25 as you get in the "American Standard 15."

Yet, we understand the reason for it. The "American Standard 15" is made in Baltimore—"The City of Economy"—where living expenses are extremely low and expert labor costs much less than in any other clothing center. The manufacturers, too, are satisfied with a very small percentage of profit.

You are sure to be satisfied with your purchase because every "American Standard 15" is sold under a guarantee of absolute satisfaction or a new garment in exchange free of cost.

WELCOMED HOME

Friends Give Fred H. Wall Reception At Oxford
Twenty-five covers were laid at the Oxford Inn Wednesday evening in order to extend a cordial welcome home to Fred H. Wall who has been recuperating in the Adirondack Mountains for the past three years.

It will be recalled that Mr. Wall was one of our prominent and energetic young newspaper men having a position in the city staff of the Hartford Daily Times and doing a noble job of it. He set too strenuous a pace and finally broke down and was forced by physical disability to retire. His three years of practical inactivity have apparently restored to him to vigorous health and he now looks so well as to be ready to "Come Back."

A course dinner was served by Landlord Michael J. Moriarty. When the inmates from the Evans were drawn to attend by Harry M. Burke as time-master opened the past-practical exercises with sundry remarks of a complimentary and welcome nature. He then called upon the guests to do likewise—welly indeed they did. Songs and choruses were added to the pleasures of the occasion. The opening number was Home Sweet Home and the closing number Auld Lang Syne.

Prior to the final exercises, Trustmaster Burke, on behalf of the assembled friends presented Mr. Wall with a sum of money as a token of esteem and good-fellowship. Mr. Wall gratefully acknowledged the gift. It was near the witching hour of night when the last notes of the merry makers died away and left the banquet hall deserted.

Shall Curfew Ring?

From various sources comes evidence that the Connecticut people are waking up to the need and value of a curfew law. Already it has been suggested in the town, and in others the people are eager to learn more of what is being done and thought by their neighbors. The revival of interest in this movement to save the children from the perils of the street is only one more evidence that Connecticut is taking a lively interest in all that pertains to civic improvement.

NONAGENARIAN DIES
Norman Loomis Ends Long and Useful Life
Norman Loomis died at his home opposite DeWitt square last Saturday evening following the effects of a shock. October 18. After the shock Mr. Loomis rallied for a time and it was thought that he would recover but two weeks ago a second shock came from which he was unable to rally. Mr. Loomis was sixty years of age and his career was a long and useful one. The funeral services were conducted from his late home Wednesday afternoon by Rev. O. M. Calloway. Interment was in the East cemetery.

States of Connecticut
By His Excellency
SIMMON E. BALDWIN
A PROCLAMATION
Pursuant to venerable custom, originally in 1680, the first year of the history of this commonwealth, I appoint Thursday the thirtieth day of November, as a day of

THANKSGIVING
To Almighty God for the blessings of the year.
While during its course, other calamities have been and are the seat of war, and of all the evils and afflictions that war involves, our own land has been in perfect peace. For this, for the strong foundations of civil government that our fathers laid; for the long life of republican institutions in Connecticut as Colony and State; and for free America, I recommend that on the date above appointed, our people gather in their homes and churches to render reverent praise and thanks to the Giver of all good.

Given under my hand and seal of the State, at the Capitol in Hartford, this first day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and eleven, and of the independence of the United States, the one hundred and thirty-sixth.

THE REASON WHY
Too often we are too quick to accuse our neighbors of doing something that is wrong; it would be well for us to first look around and see if we are doing all right at home before we speak.

Some people kick because the newspaper man refuses to print the facts about everything that is reported to him as if he were doing of others. Usually the fellow who delivers the news to the printing office wants the newspaper man to print his story in red ink with big type and every sentence is willing to stand hitched up long enough to help prove his statement if called upon; he wants the root little feather-weight editor to run the risk of a libel suit and the chance of being kicked out of the back door of his own office. These are some of the reasons why the newspaper man neglects to print everybody's grievances.—E. K.

Choose Ye!
Every young man should remember that his income is just a little above expenses every day he will accumulate a little wealth. If his receipts daily lack a little of meeting his expenditures he will in time become a candidate for public favor at the poor house. How to work at any calling, and such economy as the case requires, is honorable; while idleness and squandering habits are a disgrace to anyone, young or old.—R. P. WOODBURY playing the stellar role. The Bachelor's Baby which will be seen at Parsons this evening and twice tomorrow is a break in action and the lines are bright, the situations exceedingly funny, and there is also at times the gentlest touch of pathos. The theme of the play is the victory of a little girl over her old crabbed uncle a bachelor who hates children. Her father has been wrecked and she has been left to the uncle by his will, and converts him from a water of children into a steadfast champion. In the transformation, Mr. Wilson has given himself pretty touches of pathos. The scene in which the child asserts the mastery wrought with delicacy that reaches the hearts of the on-lookers. The play blends laughs and war in abundant measure and the audience respond to both.

Parsons Theater
MAYO ADAMS IN CHARACTERS
The long-heralded Characters will appear at Parsons Theater, with Miss Mayo Adams in the title role, November 17 and 18. The play is an absorbing mixture of interesting and picturesque novelty with its gigantic scenery and fantastic animal costumes, with its penetrating satire on the extravagance of modern life, with its powerful and obvious symbolism and its wealth of verses. Yet always, of course, it is when the human bond strikes through the fantasy that Characters becomes a member of the board of relief from 1800 until 1900. Mr. Loomis is survived by two sons, Charles B. who is employed as a bookkeeper for George H. Allen and Norman M. who is employed as a salesman for the Royal Typewriter Company of Hartford. Mrs. Loomis died in 1891.

ADMISSION TOO HIGH
Price of Tickets Keeps Crowds at Football Games Small.
Legislators Just Starting Work Cannot Afford to Patronize Games at $3 Each—Eastern Stadiums Are Crowded.

The way to popularize football is to popularize the prices of admission. The comparatively small crowds that have climbed the bleachers at the Yale stadium to watch the Maroons during the last season, football players to have lost its vital appeal to the masses who used to follow the game, says a writer in the Chicago Journal. In the east, however, 30,000 spectators jam into the stadiums to watch two colleges play and there is as much riot and joy in the stands as there was in the "good old days of the mass play," says the writer. In the east, the game is the game, the eastern college charges $1.50. In the west, particularly at the University of Chicago, $2.50 is demanded as an admission fee from each spectator. The game is now a snappier, faster exhibition than it ever was, but aside from the greatest body who are given 50-cent tickets, not many go out to see it. There are thousands of college graduates in Chicago to whom the game is still the only game. Many of these warm out and could not be barred from witnessing the familiar men in business hammer away at each other and cover the field by the most important of prices. But the others, those to whom an expenditure of $2 to $3 for two tickets is an item of considerable importance, confine their interest to the perusal of the plays as set forth in the newspapers the day before the game. The part that is the crowd that the ball park in the summer are accustomed to observing the national heroes in the national pastime is an outcast of 75 cents. It is the arithmetic difference between 75 cents and $3 that keeps this same part of the public from the Yale football fields.

Those who overcome their scruples and dig up the necessary funds required by the gridiron ticket office, football still furnishes the thrills and spirit that it did in its palmy days. People, influenced if not awed by the size of admission, restrain themselves from populating the college stadiums and in justice to their sportslike natures circulate the sentiment that football isn't any good any more and hardly worth going to.

The new rules are quoted as having raised havoc with the game and in the manner those who would have seen are deterred. All of which is to estimate that the same ones who decried the new rules and other so-called sentimental features of football would have seen out and enjoy the pastime were the football tickets labeled $1 instead of $3.

Should the university power lower the admission fee, football would come to the front and inspire the same joy and admiration and it did five years ago. It might be said for the sake of argument that the general public, a climate consumer and representative of public opinion, would attend the game, become impressed by the uncertainty and when he acquired of springs send them thither for education. Many other things of this helpful nature might occur, and undoubtedly would.

In the university there is still the same manifestations on the part of the students regarding the game.

INTERESTING PRACTICE ON YALE FIELD
Holiday Philbin and Walter Camp, Jr. in the Yale team. The backs do not work well together, and Dr. "Bully" Bull, "Brink" Thorne and Fred Morphy, three of Yale's most famous football players, will devote all their time from now on to developing the back field.

Place kicking, in which the three coaches were masters, will also be the subject of drills in off hours.

GREAT RACERS AT SAVANNAH
Flat Drivers for Vanderbilt Race Announced—Teddy Tetzlaff is Among Quinets.

The Flat drivers for the Vanderbilt race to take place in Savannah on November 27, have been announced. David Bruce-Brown, who will drive one of the Flat cars in the Grand Prize Race on November 30th, will lead the Vanderbilt Cup team. The other drivers will be E. H. Parker and Teddy Tetzlaff.

These with Felice Nazario, who has been definitely engaged to drive a Flat in the Grand Prize, and Caleb B.

Frank Schulte earned all the honor he received. Even figures are more interesting than pennant baseball. The rush for the ticket office is a good thing for football candidates. The Bible class athletes are beginning to burn their bridges behind them. Coach Stagg doesn't believe in tipping his hand any more than necessary. According to reports, $100,000 has been returned to Philadelphia baseball fans.

Now is the time when all good bowlers come to the aid of the legless. There are three "Americans" on the Cub team—Frank Chance, Graham and Good. "I believe me," says the expression "Believe me." Even the great have their weaknesses. Minnesota appears to have too many stars to have a real football team this season.

In New York mere mention of money is vulgar—but if one has none is more vulgar still. Northwestern football men are learning that indifference does not appear to be a virtue. "That person who first sang about melancholy days was not thinking of the football candidate list either. "Packey McFarlane's ability to get matches counterbalanced by his lack of luck in carrying them through. In the midst of the local four-day football season, the champion three cushion billiard player.

"This has been a big year for the legless, but it has been the passing of Dick Cavill, Alie Metzer and Frank Sullivan. The big legend turned good light shining, but for substantial winter fare there's nothing like Triple Lamp controversies.

WOMEN TO ADOPT AEROPLANE
Helene Dutrieu of France Comes to Fly in America—Never Injured in an Accident, She Says.

At last, after much heralding, the United States is visited by the world's greatest "lady-bird," Mile. Helene Dutrieu, champion woman aviator of France, who holds the best records for high and long-distance flying. She arrived on the Le Provence at 10 o'clock in the morning. "I am so glad to be here for a visit and to do some flying," Mile. Dutrieu said. "I feel certain that women as well as men will use flying machines to travel from town to town."

Mile. Dutrieu is 39 years old, 160 kilometers in two hours and forty-five minutes. This year she best her own record by flying, on September 22, 200 kilometers in two hours and thirty-two minutes. Her highest flight was 800 meters or about 2,600 feet. Before she became an aviator she held the world's bicycle records for time and distance.

Asked if she had ever been hurt, Mile. Dutrieu said: "Never. I have had three accidents, once falling from a height of 200 feet with a passenger and landing in a ditch. At Odessa, Russia, I fell into a house, but escaped injury. She believes that married people should not fly singly. If the wife flies, her husband should fly with her, or in another machine. "And the man who wants me, must catch me in the air. Hal ha!" she added.

Mile. Dutrieu will compete with Mathilde Molant and Harriet Quibb at American eyes.

TRouble With Olympic Team

SEATS FOR TWO
By Jean Dickerson
(Copyright, 1911, by Associated Literary Press.)
It was a popular play and Alice Ludington had hastened her shopping and luncheon in order to secure a seat before the curtain arose on the matinee performance. "We have seats for two," said the man in the box office as he ran over the tiny pigeonholes and then placed his pencil point on the chart. "Seven and eight on the vacant chair. 'I do want only one,'" said Alice, feeling rather forlorn and wishing she had asked Maud Fenwick to accompany her. "We the second act went swiftly to its end a new terror assailed her. What if he should leave after the first act? He would then drop out of her life forever—nothing but the merest chance had brought them together in the matelotage of the big city, and such a current does not serve twice in a lifetime. Once more the lights sprang up and the stout woman at her left hand turned a radiant face to Alice. "I guess it's coming out all right in the end," she said. "That girl loved him right along, didn't she?" "I suppose she thought she was doing right," went on the woman. "You know, the Bible says, 'Children obey your parents.' I wonder if he brought the best she could? There, the curtain's going up—now, we'll watch it come out all right in the end!" The crowd gathered herself to a bolt upright position the better to enjoy the performance. Alice, sitting in the front row, was the first to see the woman, merely caught glimpses of the girl as the love story drew to a close. Once she stole a glance at Dale and she thought his eyes bright on her face, instead of the stage. Then, as the mimic ranchman of the stage once more declared his love to the girl, she felt a broad, warm hand covering her own cold little fingers in a familiar grasp. They sat thus as the play ended amid a burst of applause, and as the curtain rang down Dale leaned over and whispered close to her ear. "Yes," her lips trembled in reply. "And the emotional stout woman never knew how much she had done for him, bringing about a happy ending to a romance that found its climax in the two seats beside her."

PRICES UP ON THE BOWERY
Food and Coffee in Famous Section of Manhattan Cost More Than Ever Before.
Sugar costs more today than it did six weeks ago. Therefore coffee on the Bowery has been increased from one and two cents per cup to three and four—and in some exceptional cases even to five cents. And it isn't apt to return to the former price. There is a good reason for this. When one could get a "golden stein" on the Bowery—always provided that one wanted a golden stein and had the price—for five cents, it was a bargain. Now it is eight cents, and ten, and now the real gilt article commands 15 cents in the hands of the Bowery. It is also true that a dish of golden stein is apt to satisfy hunger for a considerable period. There are men who keep quite fat upon it, from one year's end to another. The pinch of the penny is being felt throughout the East Side. During the summer just past the five-cent piece of coffee was smaller than ever before known. On the authority of the buyers, the ten-cent dish of coffee has shrunk to a pocketful. Not long ago a stick's worth of bacon was a sizable bit in any shop east of Madison avenue and along the Bowery. Now it is barely enough to slip in the old man's dinner bucket. Even garlic has been booted in price. A year ago Antonio, who fills the interior of a loaf of hard baked bread with garlic by way of lunch, and on that diet sticks a pick in Manhattan's bosom ten long hours a day, could get enough for a dime to scent up a subway express train. Now he can hardly scent subway local for the same price. Rent and milk and flour and all the other necessities of life have been increased in price here in the city—New York Letter to the Cincinnati Times-Star.

Two Trains Daily

By Claudine Starn

When the family doctor, called in at the request of a too solicitous mother, had felt Miss Besse Gaylord's pulse, had he run out her tongue and answered about forty questions, he sat back, shook his head in a way doctors do when the fee is to be paid, and said:

"Then you see symptoms?" asked the mother. "Yes, but we are in time. She can be cured. The plan is to have her go to that house to wait." "No, I think not." "And I can't walk up and down here."

"And you don't care a cent?" "The young man had a strong but good-looking face, and the girl had set him down as far out of his class at this hamlet station. He had a half-mile all the time, and yet he was not the kind to be amused over her situation."

"Your Uncle Jacob was to meet you at Red Elm?" "Yes, of course. Who else was to meet me?" "With the green and wagon."

"I don't think he has a flying machine!" "No! I was thinking, he won't likely be there until the five o'clock train, but you don't want to wait here. I have a railroad velocipede and can run you over to Red Elm. Then you can walk the three miles. It's a plain road."

"But won't your great truck line of a road run under while you are gone?" "He muttered a half laugh and got the machine out of a shed and on the track. It was a two-wheeled affair, and as Miss Besse gazed beside it she said:

"It's down grade most of the way and you'll have to hang on tight." "You needn't be concerned about me." Perhaps that velocipede started off at the rate of a hundred miles an hour, and chased that up to a thousand within a mile. At any rate, the girl was screaming within ten minutes and showing signs of wanting to jump out. An arm went around her and held her fast and a voice ordered her to keep quiet, and when she was finally landed in Red Elm and in the arms of Uncle Jacob, who had intended to walk her home, she came over Sunday. Off revenge on him by falling in love and marrying him."

Uncle Jake is "reaching things" and smiling to himself. "You kin, dearie," replied Uncle Jacob. "He's Tom Blake. Been to college—got a rich dad—is learning the railroad business—bound to be some position. I invited him to come over Sunday. Off revenge on him by falling in love and marrying him."

"I know him." "Well, does that fact get me to Red Elm any sooner? This road is surely an old ramshackle. Any man that amounts to putting together to be abandoned to be connected with it?" "I came out here to beg your pardon for my share in it, but one can't always—"

WALL STREET IS INTERESTED

Fancy Job of Trucking That Takes the Minds of Financiers Of Money.

Finance is what engages it mostly, but Wall Street can spare a moment for other things that are interesting, as it is doing occasionally just now to look on at some exhibitions of fancy trucking.

The structural steel for the new building going up on Wall and Nassau streets is hauled from lighters at a South Street wharf at the foot of Wall street, so it is only a short haul from the wharf to the new building, though it's a heavy one.

Some of the supporting columns on pillars going into this building weigh from 25 tons to 30 tons each, but they are handled easily. They back one of those long and ponderous trucks with low, broad-treaded, heavy, solid tires, which run on the wharf, alongside the lighter, and then the lighter's steam derrick lifts off its deck one of those 30-ton pillars and lays it gently on the truck, doing this quickly and easily.

To haul this load they have hooked to the team seven pairs of big horses, a team of 14 horses all used to the business and all pulling ably.

All ready, the driver mounts to a seat on the forward end of the big pillar on the truck, which puts him high in the air, and gathers up his lines. There are three other men scattered along the team as leaders and guides for the horses, and then with out summary or ceremony they get away, starting at the broad load end.

There's a broad, easy sweep from the wharf into the broad lower end of Wall street and the outfit makes this, describing a great arc, and then it straightens out for the run up Wall street. It's an up grade all the way from South Street to Broadway, but the team takes it easily on a steady tread.

It's as good, if not better, than a circus, and primarily interesting enough to be financed. Wall Street finds time to look when one of these great outfits sweeps by.—New York Sun.

RAINBOW IS A BACK NUMBER

It is Put Out of the Running by the Varied Coloring in Men's Socks.

"The rainbow isn't in it now with the socks worn by men," said, looking to his neighbor on the platform, and he continued:

"Just glance in there, will you, and let your eye run along at the men's feet. Purple, green, yellow, blue, red, gray, pink and black socks, and socks of one color with spots of another and socks with stripes in 'em and cross-bars and socks of various colors mixed, and I'll bet with all those colors that knock back out of the rainbow you see that one pair there with no color in 'em glances at it. Sure, it's that pair of white socks, the only pair in the car; and you might travel here day after day and not see another pair."

"They tell me, and I can just remember a little of it myself, that there was a time when men didn't wear anything but white socks. White socks, and maybe some gray, and then they came to black, but who'd have thought they'd ever come to this? I tell you, and be broke off to yell: 'Empty-rump street—! Empty-rump street—!'"

"The rainbow's a back number now," he added.

Boy Who Knows How

Whether the "three F's"—frits, frills and frivolities—have displaced the "three R's"—reading, 'riling and rithmetics—in the education of the child, it is nevertheless true that teaching the boy or girl to be more self-reliant and quick-witted has certain advantages. In Brooklyn the other day a man was injured and a woman appeared severed. One of those who hurried to the scene was a boy on roller skates. The man was blown to the death. The boy removed one of his skates, took off the strap, and with a stick somebody picked up the youngster made a tourniquet, stopped the bleeding and held the tourniquet in place until the ambulance surgeon arrived, thus aiding materially in saving the man's life.—Chicopee Democrat and Chronicle.

PROPOSITION IS TWO-SIDED

City Girl and Country Lad View the Farm Life From Different Angles.

"I have often wondered, Mr. Clover-top, if the people living on these dear old farms amid scenes of such peaceful and quiet rural beauty, have as true an appreciation of the wonderful beauty of field and hill and meadow and sky as we dwellers in the city have when we catch our all too fleeting glimpses of them when we're hitherward for our brief midsummer holiday," said Miss Annabelle Gushington to Adoniram Clovertop when he was taking her from the station out to his farm.

Then she added: "O, I am quite sure that you must be sensible of all the charm and beauty of your quiet, happy, peaceful environment. Are you not, Mr. Clover-top?"

"Well, it's this-way," said Mr. Clover-top—"when a fellow has pulled out o' bed at three-thirty in the morning 'an' has milked the cows in mornin' 'an' 'tyes an' the 'kew orters' to a couple o' hours an' maybe 'kicked yer' over a horse an' then ye have to give a drows o' screechin' haws their feed an' a hundred ole hens is chasin' ye all over the barnyard 'seekin' for their breakfast an' a call yer 'kew orters' all over the barnyard while ye air tryin' to git them away from their mouths an' the thermometer shoots up to a hundred in the shade an' ye have to dig weeds or bug taters all day or git in hay or chase ten or a dozen miles after some 'snow critter' that has got out o' the pasture an' then ye have all that milkin' to do over again at night an' ye finish up yer chores by lightin' the longest day in the year, when all that happens, ma'am, ye ain't in no condition to git sentimental over 'lights an' shadows' an' 'peaceful scenes' at all like that. There's two sides to ev'ry proposition an' I reckon my side o' this beauty business ain't the same as your 'Glowin' sunset' an' 'rosy mornin'' don't appear the same to me as to you!"—Judge.

PAY FOR THE FRENCH NAMES

Fastidious Restaurant Patrons Could Get Game Dishes in "American" For Much Less.

Frank P. Ward, writing for Harper's Weekly, declares that the man who cater to the hunger and thirst of the wealthy in New York make a profit of anything up to 100 per cent. For this condition he blames one class of restaurant patrons who he describes as "Parisian snobs" who order up eggs with grated cheese, 35 cents, but go into restaurants over omelets a la reine, $1—exactly the same dish.

To descend a little to the middle class, Ward, "best and" establishments are highly profitable: a fish which, as he points out, goes to show that if these can only afford to eat a "throw," the others can do better. There is undeniably a deal of sound sense in Mr. Ward's arraignment of ultra-fastidious persons who ecclesiastically pay 25 cents for food and 75 cents additional for a French name to go with it. The person that temperate is evidently convinced that grub by a more genteel name would taste as sweet, and is determined to eat it by the other name, cost what it may. Why eat "vittles" when, by merely paying a quadruple price, one may have nothing but "vittles," indeed, French names for Yankee dishes serve best to keep in circulation the money of the fatal rich, by all means put them up in French.—Manchester Union.

An Oregon Woman's Confession.

Confessing that she had told a train ticket agent her child was handicapped, she says she was over six years of age, when in fact she was over six years old, and under such pretence succeeded in securing free transportation for herself and a woman appeared at a local Southern Pacific ticket office this morning and tendered the ticket $2. She said the incident occurred about three years ago, and that she had since been troubled by her conscience.

"I do not think I could right myself with God until I had paid the debt," declared the woman as she hastened from the ticket office.

The woman refused to give her name. Southern Pacific officials here declare that today's donation is the first "conscience" money ever received at this office.—Hartford correspondence, Portland, Oregon.

THE STANDARD SUIT VALUE OF AMERICA

In all our experience—and we've been in the clothing business for years—we never before saw such quality of material, such critical workmanship, such absolutely correct style in garments made by a manufacturer to retail at $25 as you get in the "American Standard 15."

Yet, we understand the reason for it. The "American Standard 15" is made in Baltimore—"The City of Economy"—where living expenses are extremely low and expert labor costs much less than in any other clothing center. The manufacturers, too, are satisfied with a very small percentage of profit.

George W. Smith

You are sure to be satisfied with your purchase because every "American Standard 15" is sold under a guarantee of absolute satisfaction or a new garment in exchange free of cost.

MEETING OF SELECTMEN

ELECTRIC LIGHT PETITION CAUSES DEBATE. ED. MUNDUS SUPERNUMERARY.

To Borrow Temporarily Sum of $12,000—Superintendent of Town Farm Resigns—Board Votes to Install Twenty-Six Additional Street Lights.

The evening session of the board of selectmen last Monday did not bring out many petitioners or spectators, because of the inclement weather, but one petition for electric lights in Lydallville caused a long discussion in which it was apparent that the board of selectmen were divided on the question.

The matter was brought to a head when Selectman Cowles presented a petition from seventeen residents of Lydallville asking that electric lights be placed on Lydall street between the village and Woodbridge street. The board had already received a petition for lights from Lydallville by Manchester Greenman to be placed on Vernon street.

E. A. Lydall arose in favor of the placing of lights on Lydall street and said that in his judgment it would accommodate the greater number of people if the lights were placed on that street. There are seven North End employees who work in the needle shop which but two come from the village. The selectman Cook asked Mr. Lydall as to the opening and closing time at the mill and was informed that the mill opened at seven in the morning and was closed at 3:30 in the afternoon. Mr. Cook said that electric lights would be of no advantage to the employees going and coming from their work.

Mr. Lydall thought that they would be of advantage to the residents of the winter months. Mr. Lydall thought that most of the residents of Lydallville transacted their business at the North End and they also attended church and socials at the North end in the evening.

Mr. Cook was of the opinion that the people of Lydallville sought entertainment they came to the South End and did so more by night. Mr. Lydall said that electric lights would be of no advantage to the employees going and coming from their work.

Notice the Two Hods in the Base of the Crawford Ranges

One is an Ash Hod into which the ashes fall through a chute—all of them—and are easily emptied. The other Hod is for Coal. This feature saves lots of trouble and is patented.

Then there is the wonderful Single Damper (patented); slide the knob to "kindle," "bake" or "check," the range does the rest.

The Oven has cup-joint heat flues that heat it all over alike.

The Patented Grates save coal and trouble.

WHEN IN DOUBT—

A Pretty Pincushion is a Very Useful Christmas Present. When in doubt makes a pincushion an excellent advice for the Christmas gift giver.

EMBROIDERED PINCUSHION.

When you cannot do better than copy the one photographed here. The center consists of a circular piece of linen worked in satin stitch with a spray of flowers and foliage.

Still Time to Make It. If you are still trying to think of a gift that you can make for some one and it will have to be something at this late day, that is soon put together, perhaps you can get a valuable suggestion from the recent Vogue for pretty things of tapestry or silk brocade.

These are dainty and distinctive and hark back to the French empire period. To further ornament them an old medallion print may be cut and pasted to the material, being framed with the beads.

A Gift Easily Made. Women who like to make dainty things for their friends may be interested in the little gifts that one woman is making with these small books of stamps which are issued by the government and which are so useful to carry either when traveling or in damp weather.

Homemade Christmas Cards. Why not make Christmas cards for your friend's Christmas gift? Take a sheet of any pretty writing paper and draw a square the size of a small visiting card at the head, ribbon-like piece to allow new books to be put in as the old ones are used.

Hand Embroidered Belts. Hand embroidered belts cost so much in the store and are so easy to make that they are well worth taking up when one approaches the question of what to give one's friends for Christmas.

Hand Embroidered Hats. Christmas. The hat illustrated here was of white georgette washable ribbon, adorned with sprays of foliage.

URGENT NEED FOR A NAME DRESSES FOR EVENING WEAR. If the Beaded Skirt is to Be Generally Worn Let It Have Feminine Appeal.

It is thought by some in Germany that the name "trouser skirt" or more horrible still "trouser dress" is the only thing that prevents the spread and general use of this much talked of article of wearing apparel.

BOUDOIR COMFORT. Comfort for tired feet is suggested by the dainty bedroom slippers or mules photographed here.

CHILD'S SIMPLE FROCK. This pretty frock is of gray blue cashmere embroidered in the same shade.
