Drawing To A Close

The new famous battle for a seat on today have between the plan and Hartford is drawing to a close today when lawyers for both sides are making their arguments before the Public Utilities Commission at the Capital in Hartford. Attorney William S. Hyde and Harry M. Burke are arguing the people's side of the controversy and Attorney Benjamin I. Spook of New Haven represents the Connecticut Company. Messrs. Hyde and Burke have the privilege of arguing in rebuttal at the close of Mr. Spook's argument. It is expected that the commission after hearing the arguments will reserve their decision and take the evidence and arguments into consideration and announce the result of their deliberations later.

Choir Entertained

B. J. and Mrs. Bettlett of Pine street entertained about thirty members of the St. Mary's choir at their home last Saturday evening. The event was planned in order to fitly observe the birthday of the organist, Joseph Adams. In the early evening the regular choir rehearsal was held and two candidates, Miss Alice Dillgo and W. E. Gardner were initiated into the mysteries of the choir organization. Joseph Adams, Walter Gardner and B. J. Bettlett comprised the characters in a farce which was much enjoyed by those present. Mr. Gardner also entertained with a light of hand tricks. In behalf of the choir, Thomas D. Faulkner presented Organist Adams with a silk umbrella as a birthday gift. Tea evening closed with a tea which was served in Japanese style, the waiters appearing in Oriental costumes.

STATE EDITORS AT HARTFORD

Connecticut State Editorial Association's Annual Banquet.
PRAISE COUNTRY PUBLISHER
Editors Foregather from This and Many Neighboring States to Dinner and Exchange Views About the Publishing Business and Politics.

Hartford—The Connecticut Editorial association at its business meeting in the Garden Hotel here elected these officers: President, E. G. Hill, New Haven; vice-presidents, E. H. Crosby, Hartford; W. J. Jones, Westport; L. O. Williams, Putnam; W. C. Barnard, Seymour; J. McLoughlin, Stamford; E. L. Pratt, Deep River; H. R. Jones, New Hartford; secretary-treasurer, A. H. Barter, Bristol; and auditor, F. W. Lyon, Greenwich.

That newspaper men at large aren't so very different from ordinary mortals was quite apparent at the annual banquet, which followed the business meeting. Among the fifty-four newspaper men who sat down at the table in the Garden were representatives of almost every newspaper in the state, and some from other states. The menu for the banquet was four-page pamphlets called "The Editorial Bulletin" which printed the history of the affair from the time the invitations were sent out to the toast-list. Five speakers' names were on the toast-list, with one added starter. Frank W. Bolande of the "Bridgeport Post" was toastmaster. He was introduced by President E. G. Hill of New Haven. Rev. William A. Bartlett of the Farmington Avenue Congregational Church, was the first speaker. "We have just had a week of community extension work in Hartford," he said, "and the advice went out to take the message to the people if the people did not come to church. That's one of the reasons that I'm here." Rev. Mr. Bartlett said he believed that a tremendous advance had been made in journalism during the past few years and during his talk told of the power of the press and how at times it fell into the hands of the wrong man. The editor of the "Boston Magazine" of Boston, gave an address on "The Editor's Duty" and called a "colloquial talk to the boys," when he was called by the president. The editor of the "Hartford Post," J. C. Hopkins, also gave his life story, and how he chased his ambitions from his early youth to the present time. Harold Mac.D. Anderson, of the "New York Sun," an editorial staff, said he was glad to see the Hartford representative had penetrated as far as Hartford. "You have changed your mind about the Hartford," he said. "That shows the influence of Coey Island. And I understand you have a white slave campaign on in your city. We New Yorkers live in a perpetual state of white slave campaigning, for every political office seeker realizes that one of the best methods

Twining Plans

One of the peculiarities to be noted in connection with the twining of plants is the fact that the twining of the stems of the plants is in the opposite course to the movement of the arms of the hands of a watch. Such twining is the normal growth, while in the opposite direction the twining is abnormal, as in the case of the grape vine and the climbing nasturtium, as familiar examples—Harper's Weekly.

Primitive Race

In the more inaccessible parts of the Sierra Madre mountains in northern Mexico lives a curious people called the Tarahamara. Many of them dwell in caves. They have also small villages, but they are not so advanced as the people of the Sierra Madre. Their language is called Tselhina from the same word. Their language is limited to about 200 words, and they cannot count beyond ten.

Rep. on English Language

Mr. Ruskin was once asked if it would not be well to have an English language to be used by the people of the North American continent. He replied: "The English language is the language of the world. It is the language of the North American continent. It is the language of the South American continent. It is the language of the European continent. It is the language of the African continent. It is the language of the Asiatic continent. It is the language of the Australasian continent. It is the language of the world."

We Spoke It

A German who had come to America to master our language was being shown behind the scenes of a vaudeville theater by one of his American friends. "That," said the American, "is the English language. The English have got all the poetry and the Irish all the wit, and how the English will get Shakespeare I do not know."

New Series of Articles on the Latest System of Cooking That Will Appeal to Housewives & Cooks

PAPER

Martha McCulloch Williams.

BAG COOKING

As worked out and perfected by M. Nicholas Soyer, one of the World's greatest living chefs, with recipes by M. Soyer and Martha McCulloch Williams, one of America's best known cooking Authorities.

M. Soyer's system of Paper Bag Cooking has created a furor throughout the country. Wherever it has been given attention it has won hosts of followers. Many advantages are claimed for this new cooking method by those familiar with it. On account of its cleanliness it is hygienic, and because it eliminates waste it is the most economical mode of cooking—an important consideration in the present day of high cost of living.

Realizing the importance of the cooking question to the average American housewife, we have arranged to run in the columns of The News a series of 48 articles on the Soyer System of Paper Bag Cooking, explaining the system in detail and giving recipes by two noted cooking authorities. Here is something that will create a distinct sensation among the women readers of this paper. The bags are on sale at local stores. Get a package and try some of the recipes. We will be glad to publish the result of your experiments with this system of cooking. Try some recipes of your own and tell the other housewives how you succeeded. We will gladly publish your experiences. Don't miss a single article. Combined they make a valuable cookbook.

Some of the Proved Advantages of Soyer's Paper Bag Cookery

It does away with the cleaning of greasy pots and pans. As bags are sealed when contents are cooking, it keeps odors from filling house or apartment. It conserves the health giving juices of meats and the life-giving salts of vegetables that escape wholly or in part under the present system of pot-and-pan cooking. Because of this fact, it makes every dish more savory and nutritious, and it is economical, the food weighing practically the same when drawn from, as when put in the oven. It saves time and anxiety—you don't have to keep looking at the food from time to time as it cooks to see if everything is all right. You just put the food in the oven, shut the door, and at the set time take it out, done to a turn. If food is left in the oven five or ten minutes longer than time called for, it will not be harmed in the least, as is likely to be the case under present system of cooking. A housewife, intelligently employing Soyer's paper bag cookery, can put an entire meal in the oven, and then, secure in the knowledge that it cannot burn or come out underdone or overdone, go about other duties, or pleasure, until the minute arrives when the meal is to be served.

FIRST ARTICLE IN THE SERIES WILL APPEAR FRIDAY, FEB. 2

FANCY FEATHERS

VERY season brings out many things new and strange in fancy feathers. As a rule these feathers or pieces are beautiful because the feathers from which they are made are beautiful, to start with, and because the designers of feather trimmings work with great enthusiasm. A successful piece means a great demand, which spells profit for the maker. Then, the variety and beauty of the markings in natural feathers, and the wonderful changes which can be made in them by process of bleaching, dyeing and piecing make possible an inexhaustible variety of design. Makers of fancy feathers govern themselves, in a measure, by the hat shapes which prove to be popular. They follow the lead of fashion in the matter of color because they must. Great quantities of white, and black and white, pieces are designed and are salable every season. A well made fancy feather is a very satisfactory trimming. When hats must stand constant wear, there is nothing to be preferred before them. They stand wind and weather and many of them may even be successfully cleaned with soap and water. The making of feather pieces is a great industry. All domestic fowls and many wild ones contribute plumage for this purpose. Feathers are so changed by clipping, bleaching, dyeing and by combination with other feathers that only the expert can tell what the original "raw" feathers came from. JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

Use for Starch Away From Less Has Been Found—Most Acceptable Presents.

For a new purpose girls are turning out their stores of pretty lace and looking them over or buying silk net and allover lace remnants, to say nothing of Chrys and Mochila edges. They are making caps. And not for any mythical grandmamma, either. It is the dainty coiffure of the bonnie maid who makes it that is to be crowned with this charming bit of vanity. If she has learned the art of making fine and always new needle-point lace it is probably a theater cap that she is fashioning of the black silk lace braids which one sees her tacking deftly to a stamped pattern.

When finished it will be drawn up with a cord of the palest pink tea rose silk, and on the left side will be a spray of rosebuds of the same delicate shade, unless, indeed, she is a brunette, in which case the cap may have the completing touches of deep, clear, cardinal cord or ribbons and blossoms. Another girl is making her friends the most delightful little morning or boudoir caps. These are usually of allover lace, like the quiet caps of Colonial times, but with frills turning up and more airy little frills turning down against the wearer's soft hair, and these, too, are of lace. For a bride of tomorrow she is setting loving stitches in a most coquettish little affair to be worn at breakfast, adorned with a single round neck of red satin, and the yoke and stock are of white lace. There is a red label over a jabot of white lace, and the short blue sleeves have unders of the red. Pom buttons and red buttonhole effects are the only trimming.

Waist With Jacket Effect. One of the smartest ready-to-wear waists in a dark tone with a vivid color in striking contrast is navy blue satin with a jacket effect. The waist is made with a jacket effect that has sharp-shouldered at a high waist line, the front being lined with a vest of the red satin. This dark blue jacket has a low round neck, above which there is another round neck of red satin, and the yoke and stock are of white lace. There is a red label over a jabot of white lace, and the short blue sleeves have unders of the red. Pom buttons and red buttonhole effects are the only trimming.

Straight Line Coats. There is little chance of novelty in the cut of long heavy coats made of double-faced fabrics, says the Dry-goods Economist, as the material does not lend itself favorably to fancy cut-line; therefore, the dominant style is the straight line, full-length cut with large collars, revers and cuffs, with low left-side fastening. The buttons are very large and usually have a suggestion of color in harmony with the trimming effects of the coat.

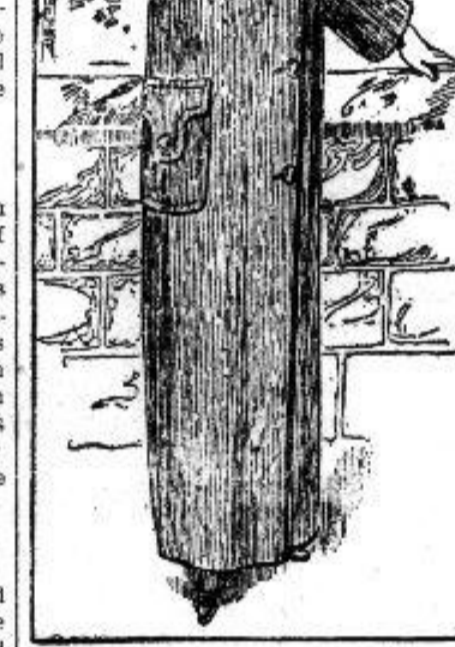

Gloves Loosened. Kid gloves that are too tight should be folded for a short time in a piece of woolen cloth that has been dipped in hot water and wrung as dry as possible. When the gloves have become warm and damp, they can easily be drawn on the hands. Gloves that have shrunk in cleaning respond readily to this treatment.

Holiday Bags. Many of the fancy work bags exhibited now in preparation for the holidays have their draw strings pulled up through fancy rings of brass or celluloid. These rings cut, bought in all the dainty colors at the notions counters.

Dainty Woman Will Be Careful to Have Separate Receptacle for This Most Necessary Utensil.

The absolutely dainty girl is especially careful of her face cloth. She uses it but one day, and in order that it may not accumulate germs and other impurities she is particular to keep it out of the way of them—in a bag. This bag, like all of the other toilet belongings of the dainty girl, is a fetching affair of cretonne, shaped like a correspondence card envelope and about twice the size of such a receptacle. To make one of these face cloth bags, cut a paper pattern of a correspondence envelope, enlarge it doubly and lay it upon a piece of cretonne. Then cut a similar shape from rubberized tissue cloth, place the edges of the two materials together, bind them with ribbon and join three of the points together under a fancy button, leaving the fourth edge for the flap, whose point should be equipped with a loop large enough to go over the button.

The rubber lined envelope is really the only sanitary receptacle for a face cloth, and it is the only one in which a damp rag can be placed safely. Even this should be permitted to become water soaked, as it inevitably will do unless frequently spread out flat and lying in the sun.

SMART BIG COATS

1—A smart coat and skirt of pewter grey cloth, with a sailor collar of black and white striped satin.
2—Another costume of grey cloth. It is trimmed with grey soumbre and wide black and white striped silk.
3—A long coat for present wear, in champane cloth. The graceful cape collar is of white velvet with champagne pin stripes. The cuffs are trimmed with the same. The hat is of black straw, turned up with green silk, and with green quills.

MUST HAVE, CONSTANT CARE

Too Much Pains Cannot Be Bestowed On the Hair That Is Not One's Own.
If your glory crown is not what the rose-growers call "root grown," extra pains must be taken to keep it in condition. Neglected, the most costly hair is soon worthless; worse—disease-breeding. The postiche, switch, transformation should be brushed as carefully as the real hair and as often. The best way to do it is to put a towel on lap or table and, spreading the "piece" on it, brush with a rubber-backed hair brush, first one side, then on the other. This removes tangles and does not tear the hair as does a comb. Without natural oils "bought" hair soon loses lustre. It should be "brushed" frequently with brilliantine. A few drops in the palm of the hand, then rub the brush over it. Be sure to get a brilliantine that is not greasy. There are several makes that give luster yet do not have the hair sticky. False hair can be washed in thick soap made from pure white soap. Only the latter should be used, and rinse in several waters. Dry between chamis cloths or press almost dry in a handkerchief, then hang in a current of air, and when dry shake and brush until fluffy. Occasional washing with gasoline is good for false hair. Do not use ammonia or borax on false hair, as it discolors it or, if the hair is dyed, will react on it. Do not throw your "bought" hair down carelessly when not in use. It quickly becomes tangled and catches dust.

GOOD THINGS TO TRY.
The culinary architect is keenly alive to anything new in combination or serving, and a few recipes of new dishes are always hailed with delight. Here are a few to tickle the palate: Bohemian Pear Dainty—Dissolve two heaping tablespoons of gelatine in a cup of boiling water, add six ripe pears that have been peeled and rubbed through a sieve, four tablespoons of sugar, a teaspoonful of vanilla and two cups of whipped cream. Fold in a wet mold and turn out when set. Decorate with sweetened whipped cream and peeled pears. Chocolate Sponge—Take two and a half squares of chocolate, melted, add two tablespoons of powdered gelatine, and two cups of milk, three tablespoons of sugar. Stir over the fire until melted and smooth, then strain into a basin. Add one cup whipped cream and the white of egg beaten stiff. Pour into a mold and let stand to set. Lamb Chops With Cucumbers—Cook the chops until brown on both sides. Peel a good sized cucumber and cut into small dice; simmer in boiling water until almost done, drain and season with butter and cook until quite tender. Add salt, chopped parsley and pepper. Arrange the chops around the edge of the platter and heap the cucumbers in the center. Orange Pudding—Scald a pint of milk in a double boiler, add a tablespoonful of cornstarch which has been mixed with a little cold milk, then add the yolks of two eggs and a cupful of sugar. Cook until smooth then remove from the heat. Peel and slice thin two oranges, sprinkle with sugar, then pour over them the chilled custard. A meringue may be added and browned in the oven. Chill and serve cold. Nellie Maxwell.

Printing in China.
If reports are to be relied on, they had the art of printing in China 22,400 years ago. It was black printing, however, though it is said that they had something very like movable type in the middle of the tenth century. There may be some doubt as to the exact period, but there is no room for questioning the fact that for many centuries before it was known in Europe the art was well known in China.

WINTER COSTUME

Striking Novelty Shown in This Most Approved of All Colors for the Winter.
Among the most striking novelties of the season are the gowns and tailored costumes of white corduroy, cloth or serge. While corduroy gowns are made with little trimming other than buttons and clever manipulations of the material itself. Little panels in which the thick ribs run horizontally make surprisingly effective decorations. On the cloth costumes corduroy is often seen in collars, cuffs and trims. Among the more unusual white cloth suits is one with bands of wide black silk braid running straight around the skirt and sleeves, and adorning the large collar and revers. One of the handsomest of the white cloth gowns has a plain skirt, with a row of buttons on the narrow material down the left side. Although the lines of the skirt are of the straightest and it has the appearance in front of being almost extremely narrow, there is a single big pleat in the back that gives it considerable actual width. The waist of the gown is of a coarse hand-made lace, with a wide collar and cuffs of the cloth. There is a rather wide, shaped, stitched cloth belt, which is broken in front by the lace of the waist coming over it. A little satin vest and a stock, cascade and underleeves of fine creamy lace complete the dress.

Tailored Suits.
The skirts of tailored costumes continue decidedly narrow, although sufficient fullness is allowed to give ample room for walking. The new jackets, with slightly eulaway fronts, extend just to the hips at the sides and a little longer in the back. The advent of longer jackets, cut half and three-quarter length, is rumored from abroad, but for the remainder of this year at least hip-length jackets are considered the correct length. Silk velvet is used for facing the deep collars, wide revers and cuffs, in many instances forming simulated pocket effects at the lower edge of the skirt. The regulation coat sleeve, trimmed with a three to five-inch turn-back cuff, is the rule. The kimono sleeves being confined to the extremely dressy type of suit—Harper's Bazar.

WHITE HAVING GREAT VOGUE

Many of the fancy work bags exhibited now in preparation for the holidays have their draw strings pulled up through fancy rings of brass or celluloid. These rings cut, bought in all the dainty colors at the notions counters.

Dutch Cap

Nationally in caps is one of the striking features of this season's fashion. This quaint Dutch cap is made of the mesh net, embroidered in half's blue. The roses at the ears have no foliage, but on the left side there are ribbon pendants to match in color. Photographed by Underwood & Underwood, N. Y.

DAINTY BOUDOIR SACK

A suggestion for the Christmas worker is shown in this drawing. The fetching little "combing" jacket, as these small boudoir sacks used to be called, is made of thin India silk or such strips of printed Dresden ribbon in shades of pink and blue are sewed. The India silk sack is square in shape, with a circle in the center for the neck opening and a slash from this circle half way down one corner of the square for a front opening. This neck opening and slash are finished all around with a double binding of ribbon and under the arms the neck is caught together to form loose sleeves.

High School Notes

The basket ball team lately has had a run of hard luck. There has been several changes in the team and all these were made just before the last game, the last to New Britain can as far as to account for it. A little practice will make the five as good as ever. Tomorrow evening they will play against Waterbury and although the latter are good players and a very fine game is expected, there is no doubt that the locals will win. The game will be called at eight o'clock at the Armory. Admission 15 cents. The annual Junior Promenade will be held at the High School Hall Wednesday, February 31. Final arrangements are being made and invitations sent out to the many friends of the class. Under the able help of Miss Sheehan, teacher of modern languages, a better success of the event is to be expected than in other years.

Everyone is looking forward to the contest to be held this afternoon between the Girls Glee Club and an outfit of boys. Each group will try to give that, it can sing the best. The losers will set the winners up as a spread. The contest is composed of Russell Dyer, Ethan Johnson, Stanley Cummings, Ray Johnson, Clarence Gould, Steven Finley, Thomas Finley, George Dwyer, Herbert Finley, pianist. The judges will be Mrs. Anderson, Miss Lura Watkins and Noah Logan. The contest will take place in the time regularly devoted to basketball. The speakers' assembly hall Thursday afternoon were Ruth Chapman who spoke on The World's Loftiest Telephone Line, and Lincoln Woodhouse, Military Powers of the Aeroplane.

Cupid At Vassar

The first night dances are being put on the rehearsal for the musical play "Cupid At Vassar" which will be presented at Cheney Hall Wednesday and Thursday evenings, Feb. 7 and 8 under the auspices of the Orford Tennis Club. This production promises to be one of the best things of the kind that has been attempted by local talent in some time. The cast is being trained under the direction of Miss Harriet Treat of this place and Fred H. Bydon of Hartford has charge of the chorus work. Members of the club are selling reserved seats for the two productions. After February first A. T. Dewey & Co. will have entire charge of the advance sale for the two performances. The reserved tickets are being sold at 30 cents each.

TITCHING HUMORS

THERE IS NOW A WAY TO ESCAPE THESE SKIN TORTURES. Try This Remedy at Our Risk. People sometimes say, "Well, that may cure my case," Baxton Salve. I doubt if it will help me for I have had eczema a long time and I have seen it cured many times, but I am equally effective, though usually the chronic cases are more stubborn. Numbers of cases have been cured here could be cited, showing that Baxton Salve is exactly the remarkable soothing and curative remedy for skin diseases that we claim.

Child Pleasers

Do not throw away colored pictures if you have no children in your home. Save a contributor to the Ladies' Home Journal. Keep a big envelope in the drawer of the library table and slip into it any pretty picture that comes into the house. Often a very divertissement is being saved after the type matter has been cut off. When an envelope is filled address it to some child you know.

Her Father an Authority

Little Nellie told smaller Anita what she termed a "till fib." "Anita—A fib is the same as a story, and a story is the same as a lie. Nellie—No, it's not. "Anita—Yes it is, because my father said so, and my father is a professor at the university and he knows.
