cout Irwin declares there never was such a slim market for ball players as at the present time. "Big eague clubs," said Irwin, "are not in the market to sell star players, natrally, and that's why it is so hard for any one club to gather a galaxy of ars. Every club owner wants to hold on to his best men, for they are the ones who bring success to his club. Money cannot buy them. The club owner must rely on the scout, for he is the one man behind the gun, so to speak. He is the man who unarths the stars.

"I remember the days when money could buy big men; but now clubs must develop them. Few of the teading batters today were purchased for large amounts, but of course there are exceptions. Take Detroit's case with Ty Cobb, for instance. The Tigers got him from a small bush league, but they had to develop him first before he was anything. Most every headliner on the diamond today, after being brought to the majors, had to be nt back to the minors for season-

BALL PLAYERS FROM LINDEN

Little Town in Tennessee Is Home of Five Professionals, Including Clyde Milan of Washington.

The average city of 100,000 people feels fairly proud when it can boast of having a half dozen professional ball players among its sons, but the record is undoubtedly held by Linden, Tenn., the home of Clyde Milan. Linden is a little hamlet in the center of the state, with a population of 350, and yet there are exactly five professional ball players who register from there. Milan is the only one in the major leagues. He has a brother who is with Nashville. Then there are two boys named Moribid and another named Paskell, who are playing ball in some of the smaller leagues.

Ten days later. Harper and Joe Ladue arrived at Sixty Mile, and Daylight, strong to obey the hunch that had come to him, traded a third interest in his Stewart town site for a third interest in theirs on the Klondike. They had faith in the Upper Country, and Harper left down-stream, with a raft-load of supplies, to start a small post at the mouth of the Klondike. "Why don't you tackle Indian River, Daylight!" Harper advised, at parting. "There's whole slathers of creeks and draws draining in up there, and somewhere gold just crying to be found. That's my hunch. There's a big strike coming, and Indian River ain't going to be a million miles away."

Then he finished the washing, and weighed the result in his scales. At the rate of sixteen dollars to the ounce the pan had contained seven hundred and odd dollars. It was beyond anything that even he had dreamed. His founds. There's whole slathers of creeks and the mouth of the Klondike. There's a cinch. If one and two is right, then found. That's my hunch. There's a big strike coming, and Indian River ain't going to be a million miles away."

By DR. WILLIAM S. ELY. Tuberculosis of the lungs, the mest contagious and fatal form of the disease, is caused by the presence of tubercle bacilli (germs) in the lungs. The germ multiplies rapidly and feeds on the lung substance, which it gradually destroys. The important symptoms of consumption are cough expectoration (or spitting of phiegm hemorrhage (or bleeding from the lungs), fever (increased temperature of the body, especially in the evening), difficulty in breathing, pains in the chest, night sweats, loss of appetite,

The germ of consumption enters the system in three waysfirst, by being inhaled or breathed into the lungs; second, by being ingested—that is, eaten in tuberculous food or drank in milk or water contaminated with the germ; third, by thecu-lation or the penetration of tu-berculous substance through a round in the skin.
