Haines Pianos, $297.50

EXTRAORDINARY OFFERING FOR OUR ANNUAL MID-SUMMER PIANO SALE

THE FINE OLD HAINES PIANO secured through special concessions from the manufacturers is offered at this sale for $297 50

This is just 15 per cent. less than the regular price which is $350. THE STORY of our fortunate purchase is this.

During the past winter, the Haines Company made up the usual number of pianos for spring. But, owing to backward trade conditions, these did not meet with the ready sale of previous seasons. On June 1st, the Haines Company found themselves with 125 too many pianos on their hands, their available cash tied up in these instruments. The salesmen were instructed to sell them in carload lots at 15 per cent. discount. We were fortunate enough to secure a carload just in time for this sale. We place them on sale tomorrow at just 15 per cent. less than the regular price, $297.50.

The Haines Piano is one of the oldest and best known makes in the country. For years this name has been familiar in every household. Just as the Steinways have handed down the piano industry from father to son; the descendants of the original Napoleon Haines are today making one of the most reliable of pianos.

To buy a Haines Piano at $297.50 is like finding money. Can you afford to let this opportunity pass, even if the weather is hot?

Squirrel Was the Messenger.

The occupants of a house at West
Medway, in Norfolk county, Virginia, were astonished at finding continually in the fireplace small pieces of paper that had been dropped down the chimney from some mysterious source. When the owner began watching outside the house he saw a squirrel run up the roof and enter the chimney. It was concluded that the messages had been sent down by the squirrel.

Rub over liberally with but-ter or clarified drippings, but do not salt, and put into a bag, which has been thickly buttered, along with half ones, peeled and chopped, one minced a can of tomatoes or three large fresh onion, one small red pepper, three cloves and six grains of alspice. Score the beef lightly on top so as to press the spices into it. Cover it with the tomatoes, onlon, etc., and lay on them a lump of butter or dripping rolled in salted flour. Add a tablespoonful of vinegar and water mixed. Seal bag tight, and cook very slowly for three hours. A gas jet turned half down gives about the right heat. Take from the bag, pour out the gravy—in a saucepan if you want it thickened with browned flour; otherwise, in the boat. The meat will be very tender and delicious.

lutely demand cooking underneath a roast. To go with this round roast, you can make it thus. Beat two eggs separately very light, then add to them alternately a cup of sweet milk a teaspoonful salt, and a teaspoonful baking powder. Mix smoothly, pour into a very well greased bag, seal, allowing room for rising, lay flat on a wire mat and cook for twenty-five minutes in a fairly hot oven. Meat roll is a good end for cold lean roast beef. Mince or grind it fine, season with sait, pepper, tiny hits of but-ter, a little lemon juice and a pinch of powdered herbs. Roll out puff paste to less than a quarter inch thickness. Make it in long strips. Spread the meat thinly upon them, roll up, pinch the ends together tight, put in a buttered bag with a little stock or water of bitter, seel and cook till the pastry is brown—the time depending some what on the size and number of the

BELINDA'S WAY

By CLARISSA MACKIE

Howe, Jack Owen determined that the charming girl should become his wife. On and after their tenth meeting he resolved to ask her the all-important question that must precede an engagement, but his courage was not equal to his desire.

"I'll ask her tomorrow," was always his desperate promise when his courage failed, and many tomorrows had become todays and yesterdays, and still the question was unasked, yet he almost knew, without being conceited about the matter, that Belinda cared and that her affirmative answer would be forthcoming when he saked her.

Belinda came in then—a wonderfully radiant Belinda in pale pink sating the relief with white lace and with pearls about her throat. She included Jack in her swift survey of the room, and he saw that a resy wave of color stained her cheeks from brow to chin and left her pale.

His own heart did not leep in response to her passing glance as it had been wont to do. It felt quite cold and still. It did not throb even when he found that he was to take Belinda in to dinner. He was positive that Mr. Brompton had been a dark horse in the race for Belinda's heart and hand and he was very much as a Sioux Indian might be sure that gentleman had won out, and that the engagement would be announced tonight.

He hoped it would not be announced at the dinner table—he was positive to the manufacture of safety. "Come here."
