Lost First Game

The basketball season was officially opened in the Armory last Tuesday evening when the G team of this place and the Hartford Independents clashed. The visitors carried off the honor of the first game by a score of 22 to 25. The Independents had it on the G team in the second game, but the local team, as expected, got their stride soon. Johnson of the G team played a first game at forward, scoring half of the points made by his team. Seefeldt played the second half in Crockett's place and did some fast floor work.

CHARTER REVISION

COMMITTEE HOLDS ANOTHER IMPORTANT MEETING

Special Meeting To Take Place At Town Hall Next Monday Evening To Consider Proposed Changes Presented By Committee

At another meeting of the charter revision committee took place at the Hall of Records Tuesday afternoon and a number of questions relating to the general subject were discussed and suggestions prepared to be brought before the voters at a special meeting of the committee to be held at the town hall next Monday evening.

This meeting is for the purpose of giving the views of the voters upon the several questions to be presented in order that suitable bills may be prepared by the committee for presentation to the legislature at the next session as all changes in the charter must be made through that body.

Chairman William S. Hyde of the committee had made a rough draft of the work accomplished by the committee at its two previous meetings and also outlined matters which are to be further discussed and determined. The question of automatic representation was acted upon by the voters and if they approve of such a bill, seeking to bring about that result will be tried next to the legislature. Other matters agreed upon by the committee at their previous session will be brought before the voters for approval, change, amendment or rejection.

AS TO CONSTABLES

The committee favored the proposition of having the constables appointed by the Board of Selectmen with a view to shortening the town ballot. This question will be presented to the town voters next Monday evening in order to secure an expression of opinion regarding the advisability of making this change.

AGENT OF TOWN DEPOSIT FUND

Chairman Hyde consulted with the Attorney General of the state in order to ascertain whether the Town Deposit Fund was a national or state gift, and was informed that the money comprising this fund was presented by the state of Connecticut. This being the case, it is entirely competent for the Legislature of the State of Connecticut to make any change regarding the handling of this fund in any town in Connecticut. After discussion it was deemed advisable to have the agent of the Town Deposit Fund appointed by the Board of Selectmen, hereafter, but that a person other than the Town Treasurer should properly be agent of the fund.

AS TO SILENTS

The committee discussed at length the advisability of a strict selection regarding of any party affiliations whatsoever. The plan proposed was that all candidates for office be placed upon the ticket in alphabetical order without any political division or heading on the ticket, and that the five persons receiving the greater number of votes comprise the board of selectmen, never mind to what political faith these persons adhered. The idea of this action is to eliminate politics as far as possible in the matter of selecting town officers.

AS TO SILENTS

In order to assist voters at the Direct Primary in the matter of choosing the proper number of candidates for the respective offices, the committee favors placing the number of candidates to be chosen for any particular office upon the ballot at the heading of the office indicated. It is believed that this system will be of much interest to the voters and tend to further reduce the number of incorrect ballots caused by voting for more candidates than the law requires.

VOTING MACHINES

The committee favors the introduction of voting machines in the Town of Manchester and the members of the committee are of the opinion that three machines will be necessary to meet the requirements of the voters here at the present time. Manufacturers of voting machines will be asked to give demonstrations of their respective voting appliances in this place in order that voters may have an intelligent understanding of their operation and desirability. After such a demonstration the comparative merits of the several machines can be determined and choice made of the one deemed to be the best.

TOWN OWNERS LAND

Investigations made by the committee revealed the fact that the town has no suitable vacant lots to build on, and to give deeds for highways that have been abandoned or to accept deeds for highways that have been opened. The committee recommends that the legislature be asked to grant such power to the Town of Manchester. It is brought to the knowledge of the community that the Town of Manchester

A Virginia hussarman, alarmed by the hideous performance of an ornamental milk and gentle cow after munching a rather large quantity of fermented cornstarch and had simply got drunk on the raw bourbon whiskey.

Practical Men To Be Lashed To.

A journalist talked recently with a struggling talker. He inquired whether the words of the great masters did not inspire the musician. The musician granted that they did, but that they do not inspire confidence in landholders when the rest was due, an occasion that was so often repeated that "bores" were fastened on revealed cornstarch and had simply got drunk on the raw bourbon whiskey.

His Best Friend.

Many great writers besides Cleo and Emerson have written on friendship, but it may be doubted whether any ever stated it more definitely than a small boy who was recently asked what he meant by "best friend." "My best friend," he replied, "is a person who knows me and yet likes me."—Olliver.

Montessori Method Defined.

Probably you have heard vague rumors in the publications of this country—daily, weekly and monthly—of the "Montessori Method." Have you ever wondered just what this phrase means? Well, here is the answer, simply and directly expressed. After you read it, the Montessori Method will be as plain as the nose on your face. It is the method of differences and dimensions, in children of pre-indergarten age. That's all there is to it.

Our Advertisements

In the sixteen pages of this issue of The News will be found the advertisements of our leading merchants in many lines. They are putting themselves to considerable labor, trouble and expense in making their stores more and more attractive for the Christmas holidays and are displaying their stocks to the best possible advantage.

They extend a cordial greeting to everybody to call and see them. They have devoted much careful thought and study to the preparation of their Christmas advertising, with a view to giving the public information at four hands regarding the many tempting offerings they are making for Christmas shoppers. These plans are the result of the commendable foresight in the assembling of such attractive merchandise in their several lines at the circumstances warrant, and their advertisements are well worthy of your most earnest consideration.

An Unusual Sale

There is no other time of the year when you count dollars and cents like you do at Xmas time and what you can save most when you buy. You ought to know there is a big difference in prices of merchandise at Xmas time. Merchants try to get the top notch prices for everything, and that is where this live store differs from all others. You are especially invited by Title & Rich, Hartford's different clothing, who are having a sale in every department to reduce your Xmas expense. January prices will prevail from now on, the men and boys who buy their clothing, hair, shoes and furnishings at this store will pay only half price of what they would pay elsewhere.

Come here if you find you don't have money don't fail. Sale starts tomorrow with 1,000 overcoats and 2,000 suits, all the latest styles, chambray, plain and fancy overcoats, formerly sold at $10 to $20 now $3.95 to $7.95; suits for standard extra big men $10.00 are hard to find but we'll find it easy here. Norfolk suits for the young fellows, $7.50 to $15, worth $12 to $20. Other suits for all build of men $2.25 to $18. Hats for men and suit styles $2 values at $1.00, save low prices on boys' suits and overcoats, shoes and furnishings. The large advertisements in today's paper will give more news details.—Adv.

Lasting Gifts

C. Tiffany, our old and reliable jeweler, is placing before the public of South Manchester and vicinity for their selection and approval during the holiday time, the largest, most varied, most expensive, and most attractive exhibit of jewelry he has ever had at his disposal. He is showing his wifeliness in the requirements of the holiday, putting forth unusual efforts to serve the public.

His advertisement will give you some idea of the several lines of goods he is offering, but not by any means can he do more than give you an outline of his stock. It must be seen to be appreciated.

He has secured extra help for the holiday season and will be glad to give all necessary information to any one interested in the question of jewelry. His store will be a delightful place in which to spend a few moments seeing the attractive jewelry he is presenting.

The young ladies will be especially interested in the charming display of bracelets, chains, lockets, finger rings, etc., which he has. It certainly is a lovely assortment.

Mr. Tiffany is not lacking in brooches or stick pins, or in handsome gold and silver plated to see them. These popular pins are sure to be in your Christmas demand. Ask to see them. They are the prettiest ever. Every young lady in town would be glad to have one. Shaving sets with mirror, sanitary brushes, silver smoking sets and many other novelties in the world will be at Tiffany's.

WE MUST MOVE.

THE CHURCH MOUSE.

HE stood in the deserted vestry of the church, facing each other angrily for the first time in their lives. They were looking at each other, the diamond from the third finger of her left hand and the ring on his finger. "You will oblige me by taking this back," she said bitterly.

He stood looking into her eyes, growing graver of face as she stared at him. "Which means that our engagement is broken, and that I may not hope for its renewal," he replied very low.

For an instant their gaze met as the floor register. Faintly he heard it go bounding far down the stairs, and as he released it and before his slip of a nervous finger and with a table the ring fell upon the iron grate of the floor register. THE EXPRESS WAGON IS LOCKED TO THE grocery store entrance and the driver, assisted by the grocer's boy, begins to unload Christmas trees. Soon the lady is clustered with them and the assembly, catching the spirit of the season, smiles at the children gathering round. A light snow is falling and the green of the spruce is inviting, say nothing of the reason it has come to town.

What a lot of Christmas trees the grocer has ordered—and yet how few compared to the many thousands that grow in Christmas Tree Land, away to the westward. There are full of Christmas trees and the snow is so deep that snowshoes may be necessary. And in Christmas Tree Land there are vast stretches of nothing but evergreen trees and white snow—and in the snow, if you are versed in woodscraft, you might find the track of a deer and innumerable trails of other animals.

What a lot of Christmas trees the grocer has ordered—and yet how few compared to the many thousands that grow in Christmas Tree Land, away to the westward. There are full of Christmas trees and the snow is so deep that snowshoes may be necessary. And in Christmas Tree Land there are vast stretches of nothing but evergreen trees and white snow—and in the snow, if you are versed in woodscraft, you might find the track of a deer and innumerable trails of other animals.

Huntsinger Business School

The Opinionated Person

Learn advertising, observation and reading. He will tell you that some advertising is paid.

But there is other advertising that is not made up with black type usually, and foggy type.

Almost anyone can blow a bubble, but it is only a bubble after all.

A school carefully organized and regulated like this one is a school of everyday advantages, changing its course and appliances as the chances occur in the business world, thus keeping the pupil right up to the minute in business practice.

"Thrill" advertising is not difficult. It is not so much with the training observed at Huntsinger's where a good school is the sole idea, training the kind of office assistant the business man wants.

PREPARING FOR HIS ANNUAL JOURNEY

Charles Gees of No. 120 Spruce street died Monday morning of pneumonia. He had been sick less than a week. He was a native of Germany, was 54 years old and had been a resident of the United States for the past twenty-eight years. He came here about fourteen years ago having at first settled in Pennsylvania. Since living in Manchester he has been employed in the silk mill. Besides his wife he leaves five children, Mrs. A. Vincent of Hartford, Max, Henry, Albert and Miss Gertrude Gees, and a brother, Friedrich, all of the United States. The funeral was held Wednesday afternoon at the home, Rev. Otto Rappoldt of the German Lutheran church officiating and the interment was in the R. A. cemetery.

DANIEL SULLIVAN
Daniel Sullivan, aged 84 years, died at the home of his parents Mr. and Mrs. John B. Sullivan of No. 2 West street Sunday night of tuberculosis. He had been employed in town in various places previous to his illness. Besides his parents he is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Maria Hunt of Monaca Mass., and Miss Mary Sullivan of this city, also a brother, Michael. The funeral was held Wednesday morning at St. James church and interment was at St. James cemetery.

MRS. LOUISA WITKOWSKI
Mrs. Louisa Witkowska died suddenly Tuesday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Albin Wolfram of School street, heart disease being the direct cause of death. The funeral took place yesterday afternoon, Rev. Otto Rappoldt, pastor of the German Concordia church officiating. Burial was in the East cemetery. Mrs. Witkowska was a native of Germany, was 61 years old and for many years lived in this place making her home on Gardner street. For some time past she had been living with her daughter on School street. She seemed to be in her usual good health Tuesday morning. She ate her breakfast with rest and without complaint. Her daughter went out to hang up some clothes and to her great surprise on her return found her mother dead upon the floor. Besides her daughter she leaves two sons.

CHRISTMAS FOR TWO
By AGNES HOWARD BUTLER.
When the big house was reached there was a delightful holiday smell in the air of evergreens, oranges and freshly burning driftwood. Lily was freshly upstairs to come down later, her blonde beauty radiant in the white lawn and blue ribbons in which Miss Mattie had dressed her. With a child's adaptability she seemed to fit in perfectly with her surroundings in contrast to Thomas in his coarse blue gingham and heavy shoes. She would bring the spirit of youth to a house, long accustomed to the dreary ways of sober middle age. THAT TWO DOLLAR BILL.
Or, Lost on the High Road to Happiness.
By HARMONY WELLES.

Irma came hurriedly out of the big department store and glanced along the street. She looked at her small timepiece and her brows puckered.

"It is late already!" she said to herself, and made straightway for the motor car which stood at the curb. Irma supposed it was a taxi.

"Drive me quickly to 99 Riverside drive," she commanded the chauffeur. "The man who has taken her for a taxi driver."

"Did you hear what I said?" inquired Irma, half impatiently.

"Yes—ma'am." The man touched his cap, and with another odd smile that irritated the girl, stepped out to crank his machine.

Irma settled herself with a little flutter of exhaustion into the corner seat and took out her list of purchases. So intent was she upon making out her rather large expense account that she did not glance up until she realized that the motor had swung in to the curb at 99 Riverside drive.

She glanced quickly up to see, from the indicator, what her fare was. Her blood seemed suddenly to rush over her being in a hot wave. Had she deliberately stepped into a private motor? There was no indicator and no "For Hire" ticket on the front of the taxi.

Irma stepped out and faced the chauffeur. "Did you hear what I said?" she asked, trying not to lose your temper. "I told you to take me to 99 Riverside drive. The indicator is not there."

She stood there, her lovely eyes seeming to challenge him to tell her what he made a mistake of. She looked within her a desire to return the smiles that still lurked in the man's eyes. Because of that desire Irma repeated the word "Will you kindly tell me how much I owe you?"

"Because of the growing wrath in her eyes the driver fabricated quickly and returned to her the repair shop. Since I have no idea of the distance we will forget the fact."

"Do you wish to hold the kind?" Irma asked. "The man opened her great Cavalier bag and drew forth a $2 bill. "That is about what I generally pay," she said, and extended the money.

"I refuse to take it," Irma looked back at him for a moment, conscious that her cheeks were flaming and her eyes sparkling. After a second she opened the door of the motor and stepped out. She looked at her watch and saw that it was ten minutes past five. She stepped into the repair shop. Since I have no idea of the distance we will forget the fact."

NEW MODES IN FUR

Great System Perfected by J. Soyer, Famous London Chef.
BOON TO THE SLENDER PURSE.

By Martha McCulloch Williams.

It is as true as the proverb that "the poor is destroyed by his poverty." Strength and competence, the high roads of escape from poverty, depend primarily on health, which, in turn, depends so much upon food.

These many years it has been patent that many of our fellow-men have been handicapped in the race of life by improper food or the improper preparation of cheap food that would be health-giving in ample quantity if prepared properly for the palate.

There is opening now an avenue of possible escape. I mean the paper bag, my help, the cheap cuts which alone are within the compass of slender purses, may be cooked in such fashion as to yield the last grain of nourishment they contain, and be bettered in the process. Further, they will cause and season much other cheap food-stuff, thereby doubling or trebling its dietetic value.

This can be accomplished through the medium of sieves.

Meat for stiring may be bought at the lowest current prices—flank, neck, scrag, shank—it is all the same to the bag. Have a care in cutting it up. Wash clean, but very quickly, after cutting up, dry with a damp cloth—this is a paradoxical, though it sounds so—season lightly with salt and pepper and let lie for an hour in a cool place. Wash the vegetables carefully, cut them up, and put in cold water.

Grease a roony bag very well, stew of all things needs not to be put in a hot oven, after ten minutes reduce the heat one-half, and cook from two to three hours, depending on the bulk. Take up in a deep dish, be sure to have a little salt and pepper if needed, and serve very hot.

The proportion of vegetables to meat may be three to one, or even four to one, if there is plenty of extra fat.

Stew Without Meat—Try out two pounds of fat, the roughest fat you can get, the tallow, but try to get brown, put in enough toasted bread crumbs to absorb the fat entirely, stir them with a wooden spoon, add a little salt and pepper, then put in a bag in layers with sliced tomatoes, sliced carrots, white potatoes cut as for frying, onions sliced and soaked half an hour in salt water, also pieces of art apple—peeled of course. Season each layer lightly as you put it in, remember that always that salt and pepper can be added, but can not be taken away. Add bits of butter also if you want the best. Add a little milk and water, seal bag tight, put in a hot oven, slack heat after five minutes, and cook for three-quarters of an hour.

AMERICANS FIRST IN TALK
Statistics, Notably of the Telephone.
Prove the Pre-eminence of This Country.

We Americans are the greatest talkers in the world. It might be hard to demonstrate that fact beyond the reasonable limits of a doubt, so far as ordinary conversation is concerned, but when measured in the short-haird furs, such as seal, ermine and chinchilla.

Statistics carefully compiled for the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, based on actual figures of the number of instruments and wire mileage in use in all quarters of the globe and other exchange, have returned an estimate of 22,000 million talks transmitted by telephone in the year 1911, of which 14,500 million were in this country.

Of every 100 telephone talks we Americans perpetrate 66, so that we furnished nearly two-thirds of the total number of talks in the world.

Our facilities for talking is also illustrated by the relative use we make of the telephone. In Germany, by telegraph and letter mail. Taking only Europe and the United States, European letter talks in 1910 were three times as many as the telegraph talks in this country; the telephone messages were half again as many as those that went by mail—Omaha News.

Moisture Resistant to Health.
The bloom on the cheeks of British maidens is said to be due to the fact that they live amid a moist atmosphere all the year round. Conversely, the pallid and sallow tint of the average American complexion is, to a very great extent, the outcome of the heated and stifled apartments in which fashion and business condemn us to pass our days and nights.

It would therefore seem that there is a real need of a radical revolution in our system of house-heating. Our theories, as they are generally held, are that we are to be kept warm by the use of our stoves. Until we exchange our unsanitary and health-destroying methods for those in which the air is moderately warm and constantly sweet, consumption and other bodily weakness will be a constant attendant, and premature decay of womanly charms is inevitable—Physical Culture.

The Line of Astor.
The first John Jacob Astor was born in the village of Waldorf, Germany, in July, 1764, and died in New York, March, 1848. His son, John Jacob Astor II, who was weak mentally, was born in 1796 and died in New York, July, 1848.

HAVE A NOVELTY IN GLOVES
Something Decidedly New That is a Welcome Addition to the Fashions.

To discover a novelty in gloves is a feat worth chronicling. The newest gloves bear the name so familiar to this season—Robespierre. They are made of a fine, soft material, and are very pretty with a Nile green shade or a soft lavender tint.

For very dressy wear, these turnover cuffs may be lined with lace, just as the gloves of the fashion of the late XVIIth time. To complete the velvet suit when calling or "teasing" these new gloves are most attractive.

Dried Herring with Fine Herbs—Few people know how very nice smoked and dried fish can be when cooked in a paper bag and seasoned in the French fashion. Take four dried herrings, bone them, fill the cavities with a little (about half a teaspoonful) of each fat. Fry in a little minced shallot, or chives, and parsley. Add a few fresh breadcrumbs and stir this mixture. If liked, a little more butter may be added as well as a good dust of pepper. Put into a well greased bag and bake in a hot oven for ten minutes. Dish up and serve as hot as possible. Other dried fish are excellent prepared in the same way.

THE WHOLE STORY IN A NUT SHELL
The whole story in a nut shell. Nothing is so interesting as to read the whole story in a nut shell. It is a perfect solution for the problem of a running water lavatory without plumbing.

1. Sealskin Lined With White Velvet.
2. Ermine Scarf.
3. MoleSkin Trimmed With Chinchilla Squirrel.

erence is now given to tallies of white ermine, with the black tips applied as fringe or in ornamental clusters.

Entire coats of ermine are frequently seen. Sometimes they are trimmed with the black and white tail; again black and white ermine is trimmed with black fur, such as the finest breuschwanz, silk, carnal, black fox, etc. These fur coats are ample, luxurious and full length, the right front crossing far over the left, but so that the coat is drawn in toward the bottom to give the approved narrow silhouette. Of fine seal, bottschwan, mole-skin and sable coats, there is apparently no end, and these furs are made up into coats ranging from the conservatively practical coat for street wear to the sumptuous evening wrap.

Sealskin is perhaps the smartest fur for street or evening wear, and one of the most durable. It is made up in salt water, also pieces of art apple—peeled of course. Season each layer lightly as you put it in, remember that always that salt and pepper can be added, but can not be taken away. Add bits of butter also if you want the best. Add a little milk and water, seal bag tight, put in a hot oven, slack heat after five minutes, and cook for three-quarters of an hour.

GERTIE'S REAL NEED
It Was True Love Which Came in Due Time.

BY JOANNA SINGLE.

It came at the last mail delivery, when the girl was closing the desk and wishing she were dead. Stevens, the bookkeeper, handed it to her and said, "When do you get home?" She had been asked to call her Miss King, but the boss had gone, and she had no time to go. She had a letter, but she had no time to read it. She had a letter, but she had no time to read it.

GOOD THING FOR FRANKIE
Stout Man Was Probably Right in His Characterization of These Who "Chipped In."

A small boy was pushed into a Subway train at Borough Hill. The woman who did the pushing shouted something to the guard, but he could not make out what it was. He questioned the boy, but the replies received were fragmentary. There was a notion of sending to the boy's jacket, however, but the mother intervened. "Frankie is an orphan. He is going to see his Aunt Kate. Please see that he gets to Van Cortlandt Park all right."

LEFT-OVER WHITES OR YOLKS OF EGGS.
If eggs are washed in cold water before breaking, the shells are ready for clearing soup, jelly or coffee. If out of salt dressing, take equal quantities of beaten egg yolks and mild vinegar; cook together until thick, add a little oil, and season, and set away in a cool place for salad dressing. Add any desired seasoning to a portion, and with a little whipped cream an ideal salad dressing may always be had.

FITTING JOB TOO WELL
OVERMUCH SATISFACTION FREQUENTLY IS A DETRIMENT.
Danger That Such a Worker Will Get into a Rut That He Can Not Escape From.

Means Accuse of Care.
Hurry of mind, in the form in which it attacks the strong man, is in one sense a tribute to capacity. It comes in the chains of work, and comes from without. It is part of the temptation to anxiety and burdening care against which Jesus warned his followers: "Take no anxious thought—that is a call to the self-mastery which is only won" by faith. He would be the last to deny that work is often hard, that claims on one's strength crowd in, as the multitude often thought him, that the night brings restlessness of mind. But the help brought was the good news that we do not work alone. His is the message of the father who concerns himself with the needs of his children, and of the man who is a touchstone of the claims that urge themselves upon us. It is a secret of that rest of heart which keeps us from being overcome when all is turmoil and confusion around about. His was the example of the effective life that showed no trace of hurry or anxiety. That is the paradox of the faith, that the way of self-mastery that leads to ease and peace is the way of self-surrender to the power of an eternal and unchanging love.—Boston Evening Transcript.

GODFREY'S CHRISTMAS FUND
DOROTHY DOUGLAS

HE spirit of Christmas was everywhere in the great house on the hill. Bridget, the cook, emboldened by that spirit, had come up from her domain and stood in the doorway of the drawing room with one large red head and one small red head.

"I was rather findin' this in the turkey, mam," she said. "It might and it might not be anything."

The family, busy on ladders and chairs, with Christmas greens, turned questioning eyes on Bridget.

"What is it, Bridget?" Mrs. Stone demanded the cook.

"A bit of purple glass with some pictures on it, mam." Bridget having done her duty returned to her realm below.

"What is it, mester?" Godfrey Stone asked lastly.

After a moment of close inspection, by the window, Mrs. Stone spoke in tones of excitement.

"It is a rare amethyst with an initial engraved on it!"

"I scent a mystery!" laughed her son, rising to inspect the stone. "The initial is E. Does your butcher happen to—?"

"Oh, mamma, is this the turkey you got from the farm I told you off-chimed in the eldest daughter, 'because if it is—we could easily trace the owner of the stone. Godfrey can run over today—'"

"Not on your life! Christmas Eve is not the day to chase around all the turkey farms in the village."

His sister's eye twinkled. "You would be out of the house by the time if you had just seen the 'turkey girl'."

"Pretty?" Godfrey's tone was indifferent.

"So much so that I had fairly to drag Jim away when I took him with me to select our turkey."

"Perhaps," Godfrey suggested, "it would make the girl's Christmas more happy if the stone happened to be hers and was returned to her."

"The Christmas spirit is very communicable," Mary put in dryly. "Godfrey laughed and took the stone from his mother. "Where is this turkey farm, then?"

"On this old farm road—you can't miss it."

Nor did Godfrey miss the little farm that stood like a fairy picture among groves of fir trees. The tiny cottages and outbuildings were of pure white and with their heavy thatch of snow there among the crystal hung branches of giant fir trees that were wonderful. Godfrey felt like a trespasser in the realm of fairies.

The impression was not withdrawn when the door of the cottage swung open. The Fairy Queen stood there, but she was not the sprite-like vision of dream; instead, she was the embodiment of life and thrills and joy. Godfrey was decidedly disconcerted, but the girl's smile, together with her words, drew him within the tiny cottage. Outside all was white; inside all was suffused by the red glow from an open fire.

The girl's gentle voice broke Godfrey's very evident confusion.

"Did you want to inquire about turkeys?" She mentioned him to the big low chair by the fire. In so doing, Godfrey caught sight of her left hand.

"I have entire charge of my turkeys and it must have been in the mixing of their food that my amethyst dropped out. I mix it always with my hands. I hope the turkey Mrs. Stone paused in confusion.

"Mrs. Stone—my mother," Godfrey spoke her out. Then because there seemed nothing more to say and because he seemed strangely depressed, Godfrey made his departure.

"What?" demanded Mary Stone when her brother again sat by his own fire. "Isn't she lovely, and did you not notice that red look in her eyes? I thought in the village that the reason she took to raising turkeys is because she was engaged to some skate of a man—"

"Mary! What language!" expostulated her mother.

"Was?" Godfrey tried to keep the tone of his voice normal. "The amethyst was the setting from her engagement ring—she must be still engaged!"

Unaware of the tension with which her brother awaited her answer, Mary said lightly, "Well—maybe she still is—but the story in the village is that she broke off with him."

During dinner Godfrey remarked casually: "Mother—do you think Dad has done enough for his factory hands this Christmas? Wouldn't it be rather a good idea to send a basket to each of the families?"

Mrs. Stone, rejoicing that the philanthropic spirit was being made manifest in her son, smiled happily. "It would be lovely, dear—I will just send Perkins over to that very little farm and—"

"No, no—Perkins knows nothing about turkeys!" Godfrey said without glancing in his sister's direction. "I will go over tomorrow for some birds for the New Year."

"Christmas is not the day to chase around all the turkey farms in the village," quoted Mary.

Christmas day was crisp and sparkling when Godfrey again approached the tiny farm. The fairy queen opened the door and a tinge of color came swiftly to her cheeks when she recognized her visitor.

Godfrey, using all his common sense, first mentioned the factory hands and the turkeys that he wanted for them.

"You know," Eleanor told him, "that the birds have to be taken away when they are living—I can't bear to have it otherwise. I seem to love every bird." She looked appealingly up at Godfrey and laughed tremulously. "I have a good weep after each goddier's departure."

Godfrey turned swiftly away, then impatiently back. "Why do you—"

Eleanor smiled wistfully and a little slow shrug crept over her shoulders. "If you care to hear why—I will tell you," she said.

"I scarcely much," Godfrey returned, and kept the tenderness out of his voice.

"It was essential—that I do something," she said. "I have been an orphan for many, many years and for almost as many years I have been engaged to a Mr. James Vane. Jimmy and I grew up together and have been sweethearts always. I never saved any money—because Jimmy always had plenty and it hadn't occurred to me that I would ever want—with him."

She paused and Godfrey watched silent longing for yet fearful of the "Well—Jimmy was one of the little rich and in looking for a pastime took to gambling. He has been gambling ever since."

Godfrey turned his eyes from the sorrow in Eleanor's face; then he spoke almost the words his heart was asking: "Do you—love him—now?"

"Yes, I love Jimmy and always will love him—but not—"

"She found it impossible to go on with Godfrey's eyes fixed in so disturbing a way upon her.

"Not now!" he demanded.

"As a husband," Eleanor replied faintly.

"Then why wear his ring?" Godfrey again demanded.

"I told Jimmy, when he asked me, to that I would wear it out of sentiment until—"

Eleanor knew she would have to Byron her sentence, so she hurriedly did what his eyes asked, "until—I loved some one better than I loved him."

"Well," Godfrey decided slowly, "you won't mind so much now that the setting is out—will you?"

"It is my birthstone and it means—"

"Eleanor returned demurely.

Godfrey laughed happily and Eleanor's throaty spirit was being made manifest in her son, smiled happily. "It would be lovely, dear—I will just send Perkins over to that very little farm and—"

HERE WITH FACT Worker's Thoughtlessness That Last Good Money for Man Who Employed Him.

Just a Little Careful Consideration Would Have Saved the Situation, and Satisfied Both the Restaurant Proprietor and the Customer.

"Jerry," said the restaurant keeper to his counter man, "come over to the cigar counter a moment. I want to give you a little talking to."

"Sure," said the counter man. "He asked for another nickel to play the thing with, saying that he hadn't had a fair chance, and I wouldn't give him one."

"More than that, he's been telling everybody all over town that I am a stingy, grasping old codger, that I'm running a skin game here, and that this is a fool place to keep away from. The result has been that I've lost ten regular customers."

"Why, no," said the counter man, "I come along and play and get mad more than ever. I thought so, I'm afraid, Jerry, that your place isn't in an establishment where the money is required. Take of your apparatus around Saturday for your money."

Little Men of Business. The wholesale and retail business districts of every large city are full of little men of business, and business as a whole could not well be conducted comfortably without them.

Late Invention. An English potato digging implement has a revolving brush to clean the tubers of earth as they are dug.

HUMAN LIFE AN ASSET FACT THAT EMPLOYERS ARE BEGINNING TO RECOGNIZE.

Human life is gradually becoming recognized as a business asset. This is a new fact in the development of the modern life insurance companies.

"This isn't charity," says one firm: "we want that clearly understood. This is simply good business management."

"I told him that it wasn't my fault that the nickel didn't turn the machinery and that I would give him a nickel for the nickel, but that I couldn't give him another chance on the machine."

SCIENCE NOTES. Bombay gets its water supply from two artificial lakes that depend upon the rainfall in the monsoon season for their replenishment.

Motorists of the traction system of the English city of Birmingham are advised to wear their seat belts.

Child Labor in New York. To an official window in one of the city departments of New York a man came recently, leading his little daughter.

Keep A-Working. When either clock or working. Forget worry in work. When you look up from the completed task the sun may be shining again.

WHY NOT A HERO? Why? Because Miss Mildred Detested Them.

By GRACE KERRIGAN. Jimmie Fargo, gentleman, clubman, society man and travel agent, had been in the room.

"I was out of his auto and on that Raffell back before one could say 'Jack' or 'Bobby'."

him date. He had blushed the eyes and blooded the nose of the youth he finally hoped to call his brother-in-law some day.

"Oh, it's you, Mr. Fargo? Fine day, isn't it? Do you know I'm off to the country in a day or two? No! Go down to Chiffon to stop with my married sister."
