He resolved it all the way home. The next morning he still resolved it. But hew?

A happy thought struck him. John had a penchant for happy thoughts. He would make a spech at a Fourth of July celebration. It would be so grand and so eloquent, couched in such rich appreciate and so ledger.

"Did I rise—" he began.

"There—there," soothingly, "Yes, you did. Now, lie quiet."

Comforting News.

A minister who preached for many years in a suburb of Cincinnati retired and went to Florida to live. After a year or so there he paid his first visit to New York in 20 years.

four weeks, he labored almost incessantly, night and day, on his effusion and finally he had it completed.

An obstacle that John had not reckoned on now loomed up. John was a member of the program committee, and he doubted the propriety of having himself included among the list of speakers. But he remembered his penchant, and called it into play again, with good effect.

The morning before the celebration he called around to see the chairman of the committee.

"You see—ahem!—Mr. Grubbs."
John began, "being one of the committee, i should regret to see any part of the program fall flat."

"Just so," answered the chairman.

"I feel the same way."

"Well, as a matter of precaution, Mr. Grubbs, I think I shall prepare a few remarks myself today. Should any of the speakers be tardy, or fall to respond, you might call on me."

"Fine idea, John. I'll do it."

He wandered about for two days, the and then went to see an old Cincinnati friend.

"I have been watching the people in this city," said the dominie to his friends, "and I wonder and grieve at the money-madness I see everywhere. This rush and hurry and eagerness for money abashes me. It is autonishing! Why, down in Florida one can live in comfort for $2,000 a year, but here they think and talk and act in terms of millions!

"It is all so vast and so complex!" he sighed. "Why, this afternoon I walked down by your tallest building. I stood on the curb and looked up and up and up, and tried to comprehend the immensity of that structure. My mind recied. I felt faint and dizxy. Important Change in the Ownership of the Goetz Bread Company

Mr. Fritz Mohr, who has so successfully managed the Goetz Bread Company for the past ten years will acquire a controlling interest. The style of the firm name will not be changed but there will be a constant effort to make the very most dependable quality of Bread and Cakes that skill and care can command.

Mr. Mohr, who has worked faithfully for the late Mr. Goetz for the past 25 years, ten years of which has been as manager for the Goetz Bread Company, needs no introduction to Manchester people. His modest, quiet, unassuming manner has won for him many friends. This is well attested by the constant growth of the Goetz Bread Co., the increased quality of its products, the care and supervision which they receive at his hands. That this condition will continue in the future is vouched for by his work in the past, for it cannot be gainsaid that anyone knows how to make a better loaf of bread than Fritz Mohr, or knows how to handle flour any better than he, or can be more careful or more cleanly in his methods. Knowing him as well as we do, we bespeak for him your

That Huerta regards as probable intervention by the United States is evident from an order sent by the state governors to report immediately how many solidiers they can have ready on abort notice. The official explanation of this is that it is merely part of the plan announced in a recent decree increasing the army to 150,000 men.

Owing to the meanting of the town of Orizaba by the rebels and the consequent threatening of communication between the federal capital and Vera Cruz, foreigners are flocking to the meanting of the state of the possibility of being bottled up in Mexico City. Every train to Vern Cruz is loaded to capacity. Colonel Ramires, in command of the garrison at Orizaba, is fortifying the strategic points about the city.

That the United States, fit is succeeded in desired the converted into transports without very number of easier would make the state of Vern Cruz, which contains the v stand without making life unpleasant "I don't suppose you would give me thirty-three," said the editor, referring to the number of the constitutional provision for the exile of "undesirables."

"Oh, nothing so bad as that," Huerta replied quietly, "but we might give you thirty-thirty," which is the caliber of weapons used in the army. There have since been no cartoons printed on Huerta, even good natured ones.

Huerta's soldier guards have been chosen from Blanquet's Twenty-ninth battalion. As contrasted with the princely glitter of Dias's retinue the Huerta men are not pretty to look at or speckless in uniform or equipment, but they are all fighters, and it would but they are all fighters, and it would be suicidal for any one to try to break through their defense with fell designs on their chief. These smeary warriors chaffer with barefooted poon women for bananas and other fruit in front of the president's house, litter the side-walk with akins and cigarette ends and play tricks on one another all through their watch when there is no urgency for them to act otherwise.
