

Good Health Depends on Good Digestion

Without good digestion, you get no benefit from the food you eat. Under-baked bread is heavy. Poor weak flours, poor yeast and careless handling of the dough, will cause heavy bread. Goetz's bread will bring good digestion. The best strong wheat flour and good yeast are used. Then the dough is handled carefully and is thoroughly baked. Because of its lightness and tenderness, perfect digestibility and its sweet nutty flavor, Goetz's bread is the most nutritious and appetizing of all foods.

TESTS REQUIRED OF BOY SCOUTS

Advanced First Aid to Injured Is Feature.
SEND AND TAKE MESSAGES.
Essential to Know Semaphore or American Morse or Myer Alphabet. Must Be Prepared to Cook Satisfactorily in Open and Read Map Correctly.
The Boy Scouts of America, after meeting certain requirements, are first enrolled as tenderfoots. Other examinations must be passed before they can be promoted to second class scouts and still harder tests must be met before they can graduate into first class scouts. Among the requirements of the tenderfoot, second class and first class scout are the following:

Know the scout law, sign, salute and significance of the badge.
Know the composition and history of the national flag and the customary forms of respect due to it.
The four of the following knots: Square or reef, sheet bend, bowline, fisherman's shoebank, halter, clove hitch, timber hitch or two half hitches.
He then takes the scout oath, is enrolled as a tenderfoot and is entitled to wear the tenderfoot badge.
To become a second class scout a tenderfoot must pass to the satisfaction of the recognized local scout authority the following tests:
At least one month's service as a tenderfoot.
Elementary first aid and bandaging; know the general directions for first aid for injuries; know treatment for fainting, shock, fractures, bruises, sprains, injuries in which the skin is broken, burns and scalds; demonstrate how to carry injured and the use of the triangular and roller bandages and tourniquet.
Elementary signaling: Know the semaphore or American Morse or Myer Alphabet.
Traverse half a mile in twenty-five minutes, or, in town, describe satisfactorily the contents of one store window out of four observed for one minute each.
Go a mile in twelve minutes at scout pace—about fifty yards running and fifty walking, alternately.
Use properly knife or hatchet.
Build a fire in the open, using not more than two matches.
Cook a quarter of a pound of meat and two potatoes in the open with a tenderfoot.

THE BOY SCOUTS IDEA

It Originated in America, According to National Scout Commissioner, Daniel C. Beard, national boy scout commissioner, in a letter to a New York newspaper contributes the following:
For the sake of historical accuracy allow me to correct a statement to the effect that the boy scout idea originated in England. The fact is that it was evolved here in America from American traditions and history and particularly from the lives of the backwoods men of the middle west—Daniel Boone and Simon Kenton, George Rogers Clark, Davy Crockett and George Washington. The distinguished general Baden-Powell was too good a sportsman to claim the idea. When he first visited this country and was introduced by Mr. Seton as the father of the boy scouts he said, "I am not the father, but I am glad to be called the father." He frankly acknowledged that he "cribbed" the idea from America. See also Colonel Roosevelt's letter to the boy scouts of Philadelphia in the book of their third annual camp-meeting in which he says that the boy scout idea was brought to his attention while he was president. This was before Baden-Powell's scouts were organized. Baden-Powell previously had a society of boys; so also had many other people and churches and welfare workers, but none of them became universally popular until the American scout idea was introduced to appeal to the boy's love of romance and adventure.
The gentleman in this movement are in it to help the boys and not for personal glory; hence we have agreed that none of us shall make personal claims to the honor of originating the idea, but we also agreed that it is perfectly right, legitimate, proper and a patriotic duty to state that it is an American idea, indigenous to this country.
The boy scout movement had its birth many years previous to 1910 here in America. It was, however, in 1910 that the different bodies and welfare workers, all working for the boys united and formed the present organization known as the Boy Scouts of America; hence the erroneous impression as to the date of the birth of the boy scout idea.
LAUDS THE BOY SCOUTS.
Secretary: Daniels Says Training Will Make Better Young Men.
Praised for the boy scout movement were spoken by men of national importance at his great public meeting held in the ballroom of the Raleigh hotel in Washington, as the closing feature of the fourth annual meeting of the National Council of the Boy Scouts of America. Secretary Daniels of the boy scout organization of the better type of young men which would result from boy scout training. Dan Beard, who will have charge of the united Baltimore and Washington scout camp in the Chesapeake bay this summer, related a number of his experiences and explained where he learned scoutcraft. Other speakers were Senators Nelson and Clapp of Minnesota, Verplanck of Maryland, Johnson of Maine and W. H. Greeley of the department of agriculture.
The boy scout movement was compared with the navy by Secretary Daniels. He pointed out that the navy was trying to build into the minds of the sailors just such principles and high ideals as were being put into the boys' minds by the boy scouts.
"I am and that you are adding a navy scout to the other and that the boys are learning to swim and learning the discipline and signaling and all those things. There is something about the water and about the navy that appeals to almost every boy's imagination. I hardly ever saw a boy who did not want to go aboard a battleship."

SPLENDID WORK OF BOY SCOUTS

Bringing Out What is Best in Youth of the Land.
LIVING CLOSE TO NATURE.
Taught to Keep Himself Physically Strong, Mentally Awake and Morally Straight—Lays to His Scout Leader, His Home, His Parents and Country.
Among the great movements that have done much to check the tendencies of drawing men down the boy scout movement stands out strongly.
The movement has spread like wildfire in America, and there are few cities that do not have their boy scout bands. The boy scout movement makes America a better America. It takes them out of doors and teaches them how to do things they never would learn anywhere else.
While the movement is of great benefit to the country and small value to the individual, it is of incalculable value. The aim of the leaders of the Boy Scouts of America is to develop the best of the type of the great men of history.
As the scout who willingly adopts as real and vital the universally accepted principles of life as set forth in the scout oath and law. This effectively influences the boy's nature and character so better to prepare him for that work which the church can best do.
A scout promises that upon his honor he will do his duty to God, his country, his parents and his home; that he will do his duty to all; that he will keep himself physically strong, mentally awake and morally straight.
The scout law, covering the twelve fundamental principles, requires a scout to be loyal to all to whom loyalty is due, including his scout leader, his home, his parents and his country. Furthermore, a scout is helpful, prepared at all times to save life, help injured persons and do at least one good turn daily. A scout is friendly to all—brother to every other scout.
A scout is courteous, especially to women, children and old people, and he must not take pay for being courteous. A scout is kind to animals and does not kill or hurt any living creature needlessly. A scout is obedient. A scout is cheerful, even when facing hardship and adversity. A scout is clean in body and thought, stands for clean speech, clean sport, clean habits, and travels with a clean crew. A scout is reverent toward God. He is faithful in his religious duties and respects the convictions of others in matters of custom and religion.
BOY SCOUTS IN A CLEANUP.
Boy scouts did great work during cleanup week in Philadelphia.
Besides the cleanup work done by other school boys on vacant lots, burning up rubbish and piling unburnable material in neat piles, the boy scouts did much to clean up the city. They were seen in every street and square. Steel outfit agents became interested in this movement and the steel outfit boys are now busy in beautifying their city.

RAU CASE DISMISSED

CHARGE OF MANSLAUGHTER IN FATAL ACCIDENT NOT SUBSTANTIATED
Practically All Evidence Presented Served to Exonerate Driver of Automobile for Killing of Antonio Zito in Unfortunate Collision—End of Criminal Case
The adjourned case of Walter H. Rau charged with manslaughter was heard in the local police court last Saturday morning and after listening to the evidence, Deputy Judge E. J. Holl dismissed the case. The charge grew out of an automobile accident on the morning of Monday, May 18, 1914, when Antonio Zito was struck with a machine driven by Mr. Rau and died at St. Francis hospital two days later. Rau was arrested the day that Zito died and after a preliminary hearing in the police court, June 17, the case was continued until last Saturday. Prosecuting Attorney Hyde had charge of the case for the state and Charles R. Hathaway appeared for Rau. Attorney Hathaway waived the reading of the complaint and the grand jury did not enter a plea to the charge. Chief Samuel G. Gordon was the first witness. He said he was standing on East Center street the morning of the accident and was within 50 feet of the place where it occurred. He saw the Rau automobile pass him and he judged it was going 18 or 20 miles an hour. The chief was not near the scene of the accident. He heard a crash and turning around saw the automobile on the sidewalk. He rushed up to the machine and found the injured man on the grass in front of Harry F. Hill's house. He questioned Rau regarding his license and found that he had an operator's license. The two had been near to the automobile was a witness of the accident. PUBLIC FORUM

Under this heading we shall be pleased to receive communications from any of our readers upon topics of general interest and especially upon questions touching our local affairs. Ed. News.

By Foresight Avoid Danger

That terrible auto disaster at the Center can be averted. The prophets of disaster predict that a crash will come, must come, not only once, but again, and again, and again indefinitely. They say it cannot be averted. As the Old Fellows new building has made the Center most hazardous, shutting off the view of Main street south from East Center street, and vice versa, and that it is now urgently necessary in order to prevent disaster to have a traffic director stationed there all day and every day. Even now there is one stationed there, part of Saturday and Sunday, and no person of sense will question the wisdom of this precaution, but with the increased and increasing traffic can no better and less expensive way of preventing disaster be found? Surely! We must shape ourselves citywise, and a city without a distinguishing Center both for ornament and utility is a bungle. As it is, to accomplish this, our selection have partially, though not entirely missed it. Stand at the Center, what do you see? A very constant traffic, congested tons, pushing into it the Old Fellows building in a convex semi-circle on the one side and the Center church laws in the same persons on the opposite side. All the traffic has to squeeze through between them. A year or two ago, the Old Fellows site could have been purchased by the town for a few thousand dollars, had the selection been far seeing enough to note its coming value as a public utility. Today a $50,000 building stands there, so that it is necessary the cutting off of that tonal. Last week, our selection purchased the Rutenburg hill on Main street and Middle turnpike a very beautiful hazardous spot. Now let them purchase another, which can be laid out at little expense to almost rival Picaresque Circus London.

To purchase the lawn of the Center church, is the one thing that is left to be done once the town a suitable center, dispense with a traffic director, and reduce the risk of disaster to a minimum. The lawn should be secured in a direct line with the west boundary of Main street, at the corner of the Center Park and carried to the opposite side of the street, the cutting in of that tonal. Last week, our selection purchased the Rutenburg hill on Main street and Middle turnpike a very beautiful hazardous spot. Now let them purchase another, which can be laid out at little expense to almost rival Picaresque Circus London.

The Railroad Company should be allowed to place its waiting room in the exact center, 12 or 15 feet in diameter, well light their rails encircling this waiting room as the railroad line. The waiting room should be placed in the center of the branch service to run to its present terminus. This will doubtless come sooner or later, when the government buildings are erected, and the main line of rails continues on to William line.

M. thinks I hear you say, but the church people might object to sell their lands. Surely, they would remain the same open space though incorporated into public streets. There would be the same free light and air, and the same view of the city. The exclusive use one night in a year, for a strawberry festival, that would be offset a thousand fold in its general beneficence. Besides, they would doubtless embrace with alacrity the opportunity of being so serviceable to the entire community right in the line with their desired calling, via. saving souls, for it is certain if the predicted disasters occur and life knocked out of bodies, the opportunity to save souls is gone forever. But with their bodies saved from preventable death by accident, the opportunity to pursue their work is continued to them. Why? Surely they never could nor would.

In any case I believe it is the path of wisdom for our selection to purchase and suggest to the town to be laid out at the earliest convenient moment, as a measure to our economical and valuable to the whole community.

FACTORY AND STORE CLEARANCE SALE

Starts Tomorrow 8:30

Those who have attended our previous Factory and Store Clearance Sales need no introduction to this one. They know it is the most sensational sale of its kind that takes place in this city. Experience has them that at no other store can clean, fresh, standard merchandise be bought at such savings and hundreds of customers anxiously await the sale each season. Prices quoted here are positively 35 per cent to 50 per cent less than the goods were made to sell at.

REMEMBER—There are three unmatchable features to this sale—all combined into one big twice a year event:

Our factory's entire surplus stocks, consisting of thousands of suits, many in complete lots, have been divided among the five Surprise Stores for this sale are now offered at less than actual wholesale cost.

Remaining unsold stocks of furnishings and hats from many leading manufacturers have been purchased by us at tremendous reductions, in some instances at less than half wholesale cost.

Remaining suits and furnishings from our own tables and shelves reduced to fractions of their regular prices.

It's the most gigantic assortment of summer clothing, furnishings and hats ever presented in any one sale.

Prices cut in half and more—and every dollar's worth of goods in the sale guaranteed, regardless of lowness of price.

HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATES

Twenty-Six Pupils Receive Diplomas—Interesting, Informing and Well Prepared Essays Capably Delivered—Pleasing Music and Rousing Gajors.

The twenty-first graduating exercises of the South Manchester High School took place at High school hall last Friday evening and most of the sittings in the auditorium were occupied. This was the first June graduation in the history of the school. There were 26 graduates. Places were arranged on the stage for the high school chorus and graduates. It was 8:15 when the members of the chorus emerged from the side and took their places upon the stage. The graduates advanced from the main entrance of the auditorium, the boys marching on the right hand side and the girls on the left to places on the enlarged stage. The girls graduates carried large bouquets of June roses. The young women were all dressed in white, with heads uncovered. Caps and gowns have not yet been adopted here, for high school graduates. An excellent musical program was arranged and led by Miss Person, the music instructor, with Miss Marjory Dunn at the piano. Each selection was well received with equally well merited applause.

Stuart Watson Finlay, one of the honor students, and the High School representative of The News, spoke as follows:

Industrial Research

The development of Scientific Research has been most remarkable during the past few years. Its progress has always been and must continue to be experimental.

The sciences when young behave like children. They delight in taking things apart to see what they are made of and how they work. The ability to put things together and to make them work comes later. Chemistry is fast outgrowing its childish disposition. It is surely passing from the analytic to the synthetic stage. It is now in a position to command direct and even to rival the creative powers of Nature. The laboratory is a true factor for economic processes in utilizing waste materials.

Formerly the smelting of iron ore in the blast furnace was accompanied by much waste. Immense quantities of dust containing part coke and part iron collected in the chimney flues. This was discarded as useless, but now earnings of the discovery. A short time ago $40,000 was raised in a movement to rid Pittsburgh of the smoky evil, to make smokeless Pittsburgh. You may even have made to your order gems that never were before. Let us see now how they utilize everything except the squeal on the Chicago packing house, everything from the horn to the last hair on the tail. From the last come the oils for making oleomargarine, tallow, soap, etc. The widely advertised "Old Dutch Cleanser" is nothing but a by-product. From the entrails, come the lard and sausage containers. The hides are tanned and from the by-products of this process material for glue are prepared. The bones furnish valuable fertilizer, as well as bone products. The hair goes to the mills in plastering materials. From the hoofs come your dainty gelatinine desserts which are chemically the same as those made from the hoofs of the Rhine. And now comes synthetic rubber.

At the last gathering of the International Congress of Applied Chemistry, thousands of dollars worth of specimens and chemical products were displayed. There was synthetic rubber in a creamy curd form, in a resilient form, and in an almost brittle form. Besides these there was an artificial rubber auto tire that had been made from some waste of a rubber tree. This Indian rubber is not yet a commercial success, the secret of its production has not been discovered, and the cheap process will come in the course of time.

The time is coming, if not already here, when the poor little silk worm will have to give up her life for the German hair for some time being. The German has now for some time been producing artificial silk from wood waste. He buys wood shavings or shavings left from squaring timbers, for a half a cent a pound or two. By converting this wood into artificial silk he can sell it for two dollars a pound, or more. The artificial silk for ladies hats or for the bristles of a hair brush he can sell it for four dollars a pound. "It's all in the process"—which is to make cellulose or artificial silk. Pass this through a small opening—8-100 of a millimeter in diameter if you like—into cold water. It congeals and the thread resulting may be seven times as long as the original wood waste. It is not so wonderful. Stick to your natural product. If you should get caught up in a rainstorm with an artificial silk dress on, the chances are that you would have to seek shelter quickly as in a rainstorm. The same does not apply to artificial rubber, however. They are not only as good as Nature's product, but better, for the artificial kind have absolutely not a flaw in them. The process of making synthetic gems started with rubies. Now you may have sapphires, emeralds, and in fact almost any gemstone. You may even have made to your order gems that never were before. imposed upon by the Manchurian, the forming of a republic comprising the 1,300 districts of the vast territory known as the Chinese republic. The abandonment of the numerous dialects for the real Chinese language taught in the schools. Mr. Finlay said that railroads are being built generally throughout the republic, and that the nations of the West, when their system of railroads becomes generally extended it will be possible for the Chinese nation to mass a million armed men in the field on short notice when occasion requires.

Beissie May Dewey spoke upon "Enthusiasm," saying it was the enthusiasm of Napoleon that enabled him to overcome the alliances of the Alps and make his passage across. She told of the enthusiasm aroused by the drummer boy giving the soldiers strength and courage to march to almost certain death. She spoke about the enthusiasm of youth, the enthusiasm manifested by the Chinese which ultimately brought them freedom from the thralldom of Laphazart experimenting, but of systematic research that has meant the expenditure of princely sums. She said that systematic research increases the productivity of labor by supplying more efficient processes.

America has not yet fully understood nor developed this most ingenious science of utilizing all the waste resulting from her immense industrial production. But industrial research is coming to her aid and must surely assist her in adding millions of dollars to the wealth already flowing in from her abundant natural resources.

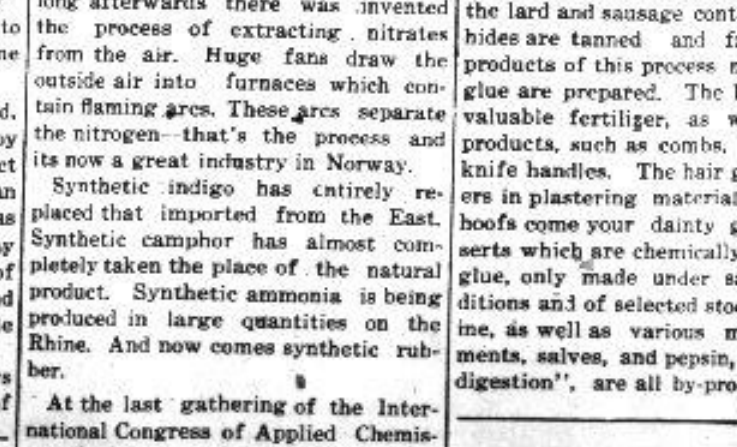

Miss Elsie Mildred Dougan, one of the honor students, had her discourse, "The Passing of the Indian." She told of the doubtful origin of the Red Man, of differences in opinion among the students as to whether the same came from Northeastern Asia six centuries before Columbus discovered America, and others believing that they are of Egyptian origin and advanced as evidence of this theory the fact that many of their art treasures, jewelry their their apparel, their tombs, and their mummies are of the same character as those of the ancient Egyptians. She directed attention, by quoting from the Indian's Legend, to the fact that the Indian gave away his hunting grounds to the Pale Face in exchange for drink. That intermarriage has reduced the number of full blooded Indians to an amazing degree. That Indians have adopted the white man's ways in dress, language, in education, in habits of the civilized civilization generally. That but little is left now of their own ancient science, architecture or painting. All these attributes of the primitive are disappearing and the little remains at the present time but a memory.

Pearl Evelyn Dougan was the first speaker and took for her subject "Their Places in History." Miss Dougan related an incident and modern political and social conditions of the American Indian American general, statesmen and patriots, including Washington, Lincoln, and Grant.

Herbert Benson Finlay had for his theme, "China—The Land of Promise." Mr. Finlay told about China's dominant attitude for many centuries and of the marvelous awakening it has had in the past few years. He pointed out that the victory of the Japanese nation over Russia was the chief cause of arousing the Chinese nation from its lethargic condition. He cited the fact that prohibition of opium smoking in the Chinese Empire had been an important factor in their recent development. Also the introduction of general railroads, the shaking off of the bondage of the attempt to make unshrinkable silk and etched the recent fate of the Titanic. She called attention to the fact that constructive work of man for ages may be eliminated in a single night by the eruption of a volcano. That no human contrivance has been able to withstand the destructive force of a tornado. That man's abject efforts fail before the destructive rage of fire. That nothing can stay the upheaval of nature in an earthquake. That the tidal wave accepts no man-made bounds. That man's utmost endeavors are like a child in nature's hands.

There came a time when this man was the crisis in his country's history, a period when just the right man and only the right one could save the nation. Then it was that Abraham Lincoln, trained by his father in the school of adversity, and giving a brief sketch of Mr. Lincoln's early life he said:

WALTER DENLOW WAY
Valedictorian

The true citizen thinks not of himself but of his fellowmen. He is ever willing to deny himself much for the sake of his family, his state, and his country. He is unselfish in great things as well as in small. He calculates his fellows and belittles himself. Self-denial has ever been a virtue, and in these days it is an ideal.

The chief desire of most of us is to be happy. To gain lasting happiness is to obtain a high ideal, a remarkable one, for it is so rare and so difficult to realize. True happiness is an art. To appreciate it is a wonderful accomplishment. It is most surely gained through forgetfulness of self, through devotion to one's duty, and in doing for others, no matter at what cost.

Elizabeth Margarette Daly discussed the topic of "The Supremacy of Nature." Miss Daly declared that the marvelous invention of man has been practically set at naught by the forces which overcome the Supreme Power of Nature.
