many fine food articles in sanitary glass jars and also in cans-foods already prepared for the table. During the hot summer weather it behooves the housekeepers to conserve their strength and one way to do this is to do away with the drudgery of standing over a hot stove cooking the necessary articles for the table. Our line of pure food products in jars and cans is most complete and we ask the housekeepers of this town to make liberal purchases in this department during the hot weather.
