Let Your Christmas Gift years took place at Cheney hall Wedneedsy evening when the famous McEnnelly Singing Drchestra provided To your home folks be one that will be enjoyed and appreciated by everymusic for the social and dance of the South End Lodge of Moose. It was the first public dance ever given by the local Moose and proved to be a winner from the start to finish. The Let'us show you our magnificent line of pianos consisting of the folnusic provided by this famous orchesta was a revelation to dance and music overs in this place and was one of he best treats of the kind that the ublic has been privileged to enjoy in this town. Persons who are fond of dancing and others who went only to hear the music speak in the highest terms of the efforts of the orchestry to entertain their patrons. The concert program which preceded the dancing was staged with a finish that marked the shility of every member of the organization and stamped each man as an artist. The players appeared The Standard of the world-A Steinway o enjoy their work as much as did hose who heard them. Have you, in this mind, ever considered the gift of home furnishings? Do you know its possibilities—are you aware of the comfort, the satisfaction, the responsive joy it inspires? If you are, there will be no need to urge you to visit this store at this time. But if you are not, permit us to invite your early inspection of our holiday assortments—in which the "gift of right giving" is to be found in abundance.

More keenly than ever before have home-loving people awakened to an appreciation of comfort and well-being within the family circle. It no longer suffices that our firesides be habitable, merely. For even as good dress betokens the character and achievement of the man, good furniture signifies the culture and contemment of the

Because in far too many cases the fallacy that superior furnishings are a luxury still endures, comfort and contentment often go a-begging. Yet in those homeswhatever their incomes-in which good farniture is regarded as an investment happiness, thrift and economy are the rule. As the "gift of right giving", good furniture prolongs for years to come the holiday happiness which marks the day of its presentation. It is significant of solicitude, of thoughfulness and of enduring affection. It associates, as few other gifts can, the most joyous of home festivals with the heart of the home itself.

That the gift of home furnishings may be as inexpensive as the gift-seeker desires is obvious upon even a casual acquaintance with those dainty, graceful novelties sometimes called "occasional" furnishings. Bookblocks, diner chimes, smoker's stands, sewing cabinets—but the list defies description. Such articles are decorative as well as utilitarian in purpose and offer a selection that is almost unlimited.

No Emergency Hospital

At the meeting of the Manchester hamber of Commerce held at the Orord Hose Parlor last Monday evening Doctors D. C. Y. Moore, C. W. Burl ingame, N. C. Burr, W. R. Tinker and W. S. Gillam were present to give their views on the advisability of this town having an emergency hospital The doctors were all of the opinion that this town does not need such an institution. They pointed out that a local emergency hospital would not e used all of the time and the ex. penses would go on just the same, Also that a local hopsital could not cope with the Hartford hospitals in equipment, care and cost to patients. They therefore were opposed to such an institution. The matter had been brought before the chamber at a previous meeting and following the advice of the doctors the matter was

The Personality of Christ

E judge men by their personality—the image they present to the world by their acts and words. So men are classified not by their stature or wealth or brains, but by the part they play in the affairs of life. About the individual that is back of the mask we know nothing save as he speaks through it.
Judged thus, is Jesus worthy to be followed? The message of the angels at his coming was a song of pence on earth, good will to men." Not a word that he spoke, not a command that he gave, not an ideal that he uplifted set his life at variance with the angel song. The cradle song of Bethlehem is applicable to every day of his life.

The child became a man-a man whose mighty voice was lifted in protest against the ill will that mars peace on earth. Listen while he gives utterance to the one formal address that he ever spoke. He is telling those qualities of mind that will make men blessed. They have been well named the Beatitudes. Are they less applicable to every day of the year than to Christmas? Purity of mind, meekness of disposition, fraternity of attitude, hunger for righteousness, mercy in the treatment of others and the genius of peacemakingwhen are these not applicable to our human life? Were these practiced by us every day, what black clouds of evil thoughts and more evil judgments would disappear from the sky of our mortal life! A great zest for right thinking and right acting would quicken our weary feet with the restlessness of youth. Our hearts would be sensitized to the cry of the hungry and the despairing. Social equality and economic justice would dethrone the gods of greed and selfish ambition. Every man, weman and child would have liberty and fair play-room to stretch arms and souls, the right to live and the right to work, the right to be happy and to look up at the stars .- Rev. George B. Van Arsdal, Denver.

A Tiny Christmas Tree

▲ TINY fir tree of symmetrical shape A and only two and half feet his was chosen for my little girl'. doll's Christmas tree, says a writer in the Woman's Home Companion. This was easily planted in a flowerpot and established upon a large table in the living room. Tiny candies were fastened upon the branches, a ten cent builth of tinsel was sufficient for draping and further outlay for the small colored glass ornaments added to the gorgeous

The main idea is to keep everything on a miniature scale while duplicating for the beloved doll children the gifts that usually fall to the small mother. So it was that tiny dolls were dressed; tiny fancy boxes were filled with tiny candies, others contained wee handker. The fir tree, generally used for the Christman tree, is one of the most behalfs; here hung a hand mirror, there

THE REASON

Owing to changes about to be made in our store and the conduct of the business, we are going out of the Toy Business and must clean out all toys by Christmas.

Toys will be higher priced this year as a rule, but for the above reason there will be no advance at our store, but reductions will be the rule.

Be sure to visit our store and see what we have to offer before making purchases elsewhere. Some of the things to be found in our Toy for all times, for all conditions of existence. Christ alone of all religious founders has the courage to say to his disciples: "Go teach all nations." "You shall be witnesses to me in Judea and Samaria and even to the uttermost bounds of the earth." Be not restrained in your mission by national or state lines. Let my gospel be as free and universal as the air of heaven. "The earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof." All mankind are the children of my Father and my brethren. I embrace all is my charity. Let the whole human race be your audience and the world be the theater of your labors. These, then, are in broad outline some of the grand truths and consoling experiences which "the -glad tidings of great joy" reveal in their unfolding. Only by stern adhesion to the principles therein contained can individuals and nations hope to share in that peace which has been promised to men of good will. To violate them is to reverse the order established by God, and disorder is the synenym for sin and strife. On the other hand, as beauty is the splender of order, so peace is the tranguillity of order or joy in repose.-Cardinal Gibbons.

The Message of Christmas Day

Roman Children's

OST popular on Christmas day in Rome is the Church of the Ara Coeli, which the children of Rome, for at least one week in the year, regard as their very own. In England, on St. Niekdas' day, boys used to masquerade in prereformation times as bishops and canons in cathedral choirs. Here in Rome in the twentieth century boys and girls pretend to be preachers. In the Ara Coeli, among the fluted columns which have come down to us from pagan days, is reared a pulpit for the children in sight of the "presepe," or reproduction of the cave of Bethlehem, arranged in a distant chapel. Mounting the stairs in quick succession, the little ones recite, with surprising self possession and perfectly natural pose, short sermons learned by heart, to the delight of proud parents and admiring friends. Occasionally two children will appear in the pulpit at once and sustain a dialogue which displays their mastery of the catechism. Arguments are illustrated by frequent pointings to the jeweled Bambino, or figure of the infant Savious, far away in the "presepe," where the diamonds on the little image glitter in the light of a hundred lamps. For unto you is born this day, in the city of David, a Savlour, which is Christ the Lord. And this shall be a sign unto you: You shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling cloths, lying in a manger.' And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly bosts praising God and saving, "Glory to God in the highest and peace on earth to men of good will." This is the first Christmas carol which, sung on the very hight of the Nativity, afforded a model for all the carols of the following gen-
