With the next draft call, men of draft age will be rushed to army camps. The government to get them there, and as the boys in Class 1A are called there may be going into in many a big league lineup on July 1.

Such players as Benny Kauff, Al Munnax, Ray Chapman, Red Faber, Grover Cleveland Alexander and George Burns may be wearing khaki instead of big league uniforms by mid-summer.

Should the Giants lose Kauff, McGraw's outfield would be practically wrecked. Dave Robertson's determination to quit the game was a hard enough blow, but the dashing little centerfielder of the league fame would be missed even more than Robertson was to go.

BEST BACKSTOP RECORDS

A catcher who works in at least 100 games each season is worth a liberal salary. Last year's major league records show that these men passed the century mark behind the bat:

JAMES PURDY KILLED
UNDER LOAD OF LUMBER

Such sympathy is felt here in the news of the death of James Purdy of Polaris, Mont., in the fact that Mrs.
Purdy, the widow, was a native of South Manchester, better known as the late Mary Maddox, daughter of the late Patrick and Mrs. Maddox.
Mr. Purdy met his death when a load of lumber overturned and crushed him. He was driving the lumber to Polaris where he was constructing a home for his happy little family.

HOW FIELD PEAS ARE HARVESTED AND UTILIZED AS FEED FOR FARM ANIMALS

Mowing Machine Equipped for Cutting Field Peas—Attachment to Cutting Bar Automatically Removes Hay from Peas and Places it in Windrows.

Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture. While all breeds have the general form and characters of the type in which they are classed, all purebred sheep possess certain distinguishing features which are inherent in the breed and which receive the attention of breeders.

Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture. The proper time to cut field peas for hay is when most of the pods are well formed, since considerable of the nutrient value of the plant is contained in the seed.

Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture. Its high protein content. It makes a better balanced ration and keeps better when stored than any other type of feed.

Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture. When used for green manure the peas should be plowed under until they have reached their maximum growth, unless other conditions connected with the main crop require that the plowing be done earlier.

BLACKLEG CAUSED BY GERMS

Highly-Bred Calves Should Be Vaccinated Before They Pick Up Little Organisms. Blackleg is caused by a small germ, an organism about one-thirtieth of an inch long.

CHEAP SOURCE OF PROTEIN. Leguminous Pastures Act as Mild Laxatives and Keep Hopes in Condition. The forage, especially from leguminous pastures, furnishes the cheap source of protein, supplies ash for bone making, adds to the ration, and acts as a mild laxative.

PRODUCTION OF GOOD CREAM. First Essential is Cleanliness in Handling Milk Utensils—Second is to Keep Cool. Milk and cream will contain germs (or lactid acid) bacteria no matter how careful we are in its production.

Several kinds of Millet. Millet is of several kinds, which is somewhat confusing. The first essential is cleanliness in handling the milk utensils, particularly the separator.

GOSLINGS RAISED IN THE EARLY SPRING

Fowls Should Be Allowed to Make Their Own Nests. KEEP EGGS IN A COOL PLACE.

Some Breeders Prefer to Use Hens for Hatching, as Geese Sometimes Become Difficult to Manage—Incubation Varies.

Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture. The successful raising of goslings should begin with feeding the geese an egg-producing ration during the latter part of the winter or early spring.

Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture. The period of incubation of goose eggs varies from 28 to 30 days. The geese are usually hatched in incubators, although this is not a common practice.

OVER THE TOP AN AMERICAN SOLDIER WHO WENT WITH ARTHUR GUY EMPY

MACHINE GUNNER, SERVING IN FRANCE. "There are twelve rifles, one of which contains a blank cartridge, the other eleven containing ball cartridges."

"Men, you are here on a very solemn duty. You have been selected as a firing squad for the execution of a man, who, having been found guilty of a grievous crime against his country, has been regularly and duly tried and sentenced to be shot at 3:28 p. m. this date. This sentence has been approved by the reviewing authority and ordered carried out. It is our duty to carry on with the sentence of the court."

"There are twelve rifles, one of which contains a blank cartridge, the other eleven containing ball cartridges. One maning his rifle was realized. Sure enough, there stood a policeman with the fatal paper. Taking it in his hand, he looked at it and then he looked at the man. He looked at the man and then he looked at the man. He looked at the man and then he looked at the man."

CHAPTER XXIV. The Firing Squad. A few days later I had orders to report back to divisional headquarters, about thirty miles behind the line.

"I had a pass which would allow me to go anywhere at any time in the sector of the line held by our division. It was my authority to stop and see any ambulances, motor lorries, wagons and even officers and soldiers, whenever my suspicions were aroused."

"I was a good companion, and very entertaining. He had an utter contempt for danger, but was not foolhardy. At swearing he was a wonder. The cavalry regiment would have been proud of him. Though born in England, he had spent several years in New York. He was about six feet six, and as strong as an ox."

"We took up our quarters in a large dugout, which was built into the side of a hill. It was a very comfortable place, and we were very well looked after. The food was excellent, and the water was pure."

"The day after the execution I received orders to report back to the line, and to keep a still tongue in my head. Executions are a part of the day's work, but the part we hated most was the one which was the most unpleasant. The British war department is thought to have many people to be composed of right men, but in which the execution is concealed and reported to the relative of the unfortunate. He is listed in the bulletins as among the 'accidentally killed.'"

"I was in the line for several days, and I was very well looked after. The food was excellent, and the water was pure. I was very well looked after, and I was very well looked after."

them, and he used to crouch in a corner of his boarding-house cellar, whimpering like a whining puppy and calling upon his mother to come down to breakfast. "Even his landlady despised him, although she had to admit that he was 'good pay.'"

"He very seldom read the papers, but one morning he found the paper at his bedside. He picked it up and read it, and he found that it was a newspaper. He was very much interested in it, and he read it every day."

"There was a knock at the door he trembled all over, imagining that a policeman who had come to take him away to the army. One morning his fears were realized. Sure enough, there stood a policeman with the fatal paper. Taking it in his hand, he looked at it and then he looked at the man. He looked at the man and then he looked at the man."

JOHN F. SULLIVAN BOUGHT CIRCLE THEATER

John F. Sullivan, proprietor of the Park Theater has bought the Circle Theater and will take possession of same at the close of tomorrow evening's entertainment. He will place his brother, James Sullivan, in charge. Harold Germaine is to remain the chief operator of the machines. This fact will be well pleasing to many patrons of the Circle as Mr. Germaine is very popular and people like his work.

Mr. Sullivan informed a representative of The News that it is his purpose to maintain the same high standard of pictures as he has had in the past. He stated that the present owners have furnished the public. Patrons of the Circle who have their film favorites are to be considered by the new management and their desire to be met in this important particular.

While Mr. Sullivan may introduce some novelties he will not permit the high standard of pictures or performers to be lowered. He asks the patrons of the Circle to feel quite at ease upon that question and he is in a position to answer them to their every desire in this particular will be met.

Mr. Sullivan will be pleased to receive any suggestions which patrons of the Circle may choose to offer with reference to their stage favorites and he gives every assurance that every effort will be made to satisfy the demands in so far as in him lies.

James Sullivan, the new manager will also endeavor to enter to the needs of Circle patrons and to do all he can to ensure continuation of their patronage at their favorite theater.

CLARENCE R. ASPINALL
Clarence R. Aspinall died at the home of his mother, Mrs. Amelia Aspinall on Walnut street Saturday morning following a lingering illness. The funeral took place Monday afternoon, Rev. J. J. Nell of St. Mary's Episcopal church officiated and interment was in the East cemetery. Manchester Lodge of Masons, of which the deceased was a member, had charge of the committal service. Mr. Aspinall was a native of South Manchester and was 85 years old. For a number of years he was employed in the silk mills. A few years ago he started a butter and egg store in the Johnson block but sold this business to enter the employ of the state highway department as a road inspector. For the past year he has been engaged in road building. He was taken ill last fall at his home in New Haven, and as his condition did not improve he was brought to his mother's home a few weeks ago. He was very popular with the young people of the town and particularly among the baseball fans of a few years ago, as he was a baseball player of ability and for several seasons was the star of the Manchester team.

Besides his mother and widow he is survived by two brothers, James and William Aspinall of South Manchester; also three sisters, Mrs. Howard I. Taylor, Mrs. Albert Behrend of South Manchester and Mrs. William Starkie of Hartford.

MONSTER RED CROSS PARADE TAKES PLACE HERE TOMORROW

Start Will Be Made From Center at Two O'Clock--Procession Will Be Nearly Two Miles Long -- All Bands in Town Will Play--There Will Be Fifty Floats in Line.

At this writing it is a certainty that Saturday, May 18, will go down in the history of Manchester as one of the biggest days in the annals of the community. Thousands of marchers all available hands half a hundred bands decked in national colors and symbols of Red Cross work in field and hospital, scores of entries such as only the ingenuity and patriotic fervor of earnest Red Cross workers could devise will combine to make one of the biggest and best parades that Manchester has ever seen. The procession is scheduled to move at two o'clock. It will be nearly two miles long.

An idea of the magnitude of the parade may be had from the fact that the line when once formed and without advancing one foot will extend from the Center to Depot square and half way back to South Manchester again. Contrary to custom the march shall take place in the parade but will be stationed at the intersection of the main street and the parade.

As is already understood by the public, the parade will be a magnificent demonstration of patriotism and loyalty of the work and ideals of the Red Cross. Feature after feature of surprising beauty will characterize the whole procession. The parade will be led by the general marshal Austin Cheney and his police escort. They will follow the ministers of the community. Next will be the Salvation Army Band. Following the band will be an inspiring and impressive sight the colors of the six nations with the Red Cross emblem in the center of the detachment. The colors will be carried by members of the military and naval service who are in town for the occasion. Following the colors will be the executive committee who will have charge of the Red Cross drive next week. The committee will be on foot and will be assisted in their duties by the Red Cross workers. After the executive committee will be ten regular teams of the drive, also the industrial team which will convey the manufacturing plants.

After the captains and their teams will come the most beautiful features of the entire parade, sections representing the various departments of the Red Cross organization right through. There will be the surgical dressings section, the comfort bag section, the garment section and other departments. Workers. Next will be the Holton and Marlborough branches of Manchester Chapter followed by the thirteen auxiliaries of the Red Cross chapter. Then will come two handsome floats for the home service and section sections.

Next in line will be the motor corps, the organization of local women who hold their automobiles in readiness at a moment's notice for service in the Red Cross.

THIRDS FROM SCHOOLS

From the schools alone the number of marchers will number 1400 figures. The Army and Navy League of the High School will march. Next will be the Junior Red Cross. Then will come the marchers from all the local schools, including the eight district schools, the Harvard School, the Lincoln School and the High School.

Miss Marlow Taylor, daughter of Howard I. and Mrs. Taylor of South Manchester, expects to be graduated from the Anderson School of Gynecology next month. She has already had several offers of positions as teacher of gynecology. There is an extraordinary demand for teachers of that branch of physical development, and generous wages await those who are competent.

Would Combine Property

There are many who believe that it would be advantageous to move the town barns from East Center street to the abandoned property on Middle turnpike. Considerably more shed room is needed and the present barn is not as modern as it might be and will soon need repairs. It is considered altogether too valuable to be present town barn property. It is suggested for this purpose and it is argued that if the barns were in the institution could take care of the horse job for which the town now pays $20 a month. The only objection that has been heard to removing the barns is the slight increase in distance from the Center. If cut into building lots the East Center street property probably would bring a good sum of money for the same. It will use it at this time.
