The Demand for Ties.

"The demand for men's ties this fall," said a New York manufacturer, "has some rather significant features in it. We have a customer located on Fifth avenue in this city who formerly wanted only the best we had to offer, and many rich and striking colors. This year he wants good quality and workmanship, but not the most expensive, and bright colors he will have none of, compared to former years. Compare with this some of our customers who are located in other communities which are more strictly manufacturing centers. They used to take the cheapest ties and most subdued colors we could furnish. Now we cannot get anything expensive enough or too brilliant for them."

Hats of White Beaver.

White, furry beaver, in the senson's newest shapes, is expected to find favor in millinery circles. Fligh-class manufacturers who are showing them have only the best to say regarding their sale. One attractive hat of this type was a turban with the effect of a tam. It was trimmed with large, flat flowers of white crochet wool. This combination is said to give support to the assertion made in the trade that the popularity of beaver is going to make for the popularity of flowers this season.
