GEORGE H. ALLEN SELLS BUSINESS

C. W. King of Meriden New Owner of North End Coal Yard

O. Winfree King of Meriden has bought the coal, lumber and cement business owned by George H. Allen at the North End of the town. The sale includes the stock on hand, auto trucks and other equipment but not the real estate. Mr. King has an option on the real estate and may purchase that. Mr. Allen has been in the coal business for the past fourteen years and has built up a successful trade. In recent years he added lumber and masons supplies to his holdings and he also enjoyed a large patronage in these lines. Mr. King resided in Meriden and was formerly associated with the H. Wales Lines Company of that city. He was with that concern for twenty-five years. Five years ago he was made manager of the Central Brick Company with offices in New Britain. As soon as he can close out his affairs with that company he will move here and assume personal control of his new interest. The Meriden Journal of Saturday had the following interesting account of Mr. King and his wife: "Win" King, as he is generally known, came to Meriden as a small boy in an early youth associated himself with the H. Wales Lines Company, with which company he remained for over twenty-five years. He was purchasing agent for the contracting and supplies department and afterward manager of the wholesale building material department. He resigned about five years ago to become manager of the Central Connecticut Brick Company with offices in New Britain and he holds that position now as well as being secretary of the Connecticut Brick Manufacturers association.

Mr. King has been thirty years in the building material business and feels that there is a splendid opportunity for him in such a thriving and progressive community as Manchester. He believes that Manchester is bound to grow and he wants to grow with it.

He is a prominent Mason here, a member of Meridian lodge, St. Elmo commandery and a life member of I yramid temple, Mystic Shrine. He is also a member of the Home club and an ex-president. He was treasurer of the emergency hospital when that organization did so much to combat the recent influenza epidemic.

Mr. King resides now on Willow avenue and a large number of friends will regret that he and Mrs. King are to leave. Mrs. King has been a most capable and able Red Cross worker and when in charge of the Emergency hospital did excellent service.

Representative Willard B. Rogers SUES HARTFORD COURANT FOR $50,000 LIBELOUS PUBLICATION CLAIMED

A suit for libel claiming damages of $50,000, has been brought by Representative Willard B. Rogers of South Manchester against the Hartford Courant Company in his complaint, Mr. Rogers maintains that the account published in the Sunday Courant of March 16 of his activities in Washington while attending a federal conference on unemployment was "a false, malicious, disparaging article" published "for the purpose of exposing the plaintiff to public disgrace, contempt, ridicule, aversion, or hatred, and to induce an evil opinion of him in the minds of right thinking persons." The suit is returnable to the superior court for Hartford county on May 6.

Mr. Rogers went to the conference in Washington, which opened March 3, carrying with him credentials signed by Governor Holcomb. Before he left, there was a controversy as to who Governor Holcomb's personal representative really was, both Mr. Rogers and Leo A. Korper having credentials signed by the governor. Mr. Rogers asserted at the time that the governor had led him to believe that he (Rogers) was going to the conference both as chairman of the legislative committee on unemployment and as the personal representative of the governor.

The offending article upon which the libel suit rests is as follows: "Rogers from Connecticut" was a reply that rang out in the room of governors and mayors several times during the conference. It began primarily as a "governors' conference," and probably in view of the fact that Rogers said nothing about being from Manchester, the reporters assumed that he was the chief executive of the state. And so it was not surprising that the "Washington Star" referred to him as "Governor Rogers of Connecticut."

The "gentleman from Manchester," as he is recognized on the floor of the Connecticut House of Representatives was seen to be hurriedly thumbing the pages of a Washington newspaper in a hotel lobby one morning. The curiosity of an observer was satisfied when he heard Rogers turn to the delegates sitting next to him and ask in a voice easily audible: "Say, can you find anything in the paper about my seconding that motion?"

Representative Willard B. Rogers of Manchester evidently didn't have altogether clear sailing at the conference. He accepted the invitation of other officials that was held at the White House in Washington two weeks ago, according to reports that have drifted back to Connecticut. He actively in overcoming the difficulties in the way of gaining entrance to the conference and other functions was second only to his spiritfulness in jumping to his feet to "second the motion."

It will be remembered that Mr. Rogers at his own request received credentials from Governor Marcus H. Holcomb merely to permit him to attend the conference, which was called by Secretary of Labor Wilson, Leo A. Korper having been the governor's personal representative there. Before leaving Connecticut he endeavored to create the impression that he was the governor's personal representative. Others from Connecticut who attended the conference were Mayor Joseph F. Dutton of Bristol, Mayor John J. Treat of Stamford, Lieutenant Governor Clifford E. Wilson, as representing the state, and Charles E. Jolin representing New Britain, and Edward E. Fitzgerald of New Haven.

Difficulties began on the threshold of the White House. He accompanied a part of the Connecticut delegation on the morning of Monday, March 3, when the various delegates reported and took their seats in the executive mansion, until Rogers was reached. Apparently there was some question about admitting him, because he was held up at the door, while the other Connecticut men continued into the conference room. Later however, he bobbed up inside the building all aglow at his success in securing admittance.

Things went along smoothly enough until the delegates received perfunctory invitations to attend a banquet that was to be given by the chamber of commerce Tuesday night at the Hotel Washington. Rogers merely looked on at the Chamber of Commerce men read their invitations. He had none, and although he asked the other delegates from this state to help him they were not in a position to do so. However, he went over to the hotel and stood outside the banquet hall until all were seated. One delegate noticed that there was a vacant seat near the rear of the hall which the banquet began. When he looked again it was occupied by Rogers.

It is said that Rogers held the record for seconding motions made by governors and mayors from all parts of the country, who he definite ideas on the problems before the conference. Rogers never failed to hear the newspaper men who while present, "Who is it?"

Mr. Rogers was not surprised that the "Washington Star" referred to him as "Governor Rogers of Connecticut." The "gentleman from Manchester," as he is recognized on the floor of the Connecticut House of Representatives was seen to be hurriedly thumbing the pages of a Washington newspaper in a hotel lobby one morning. The curiosity of an observer was satisfied when he heard Rogers turn to the delegates sitting next to him and ask in a voice easily audible: "Say, can you find anything in the paper about my seconding that motion?"

VOL. XXVII NO. 5 ESTABLISHED 1893 SOUTH MANCHESTER CONN., FRIDAY, MARCH 28, 1919 $1.50 YEAR THREE CENTS COPY

LOCAL BOY AN INVENTOR

A clipping from a Worcester, Mass. newspaper contains information regarding R. W. Hicking of that city, but a native of South Manchester and in his boyhood days a resident of Eldridge street, that will interest many people hereabouts. The article is as follows: Worcester will be the scene of experiments which may be as momentous as the Wright brothers' attempt at aviation with gliders, if plans of two Worcester machinists are carried out.

John J. Sumner, 3 Irene street, an employee of the Curtis & Marble Machine Co. and R. W. Hicking, 16 Glenwood street, an employee of the Osgood Bradley Car. Co. are the patentees of a device for aerial navigation known as the paraplane, which they say combines in large measure the advantages of the spherical balloon and the heavier-than-air machine or the ordinary airplane type.

Working models of the paraplane have already been operated with some success and the inventors hope to construct a machine this summer sufficiently powerful to lift a man. An attempt will be made to fly the machine from the Cole farm off Jane street and if the device is successful Worcester people will have the first opportunity to see the paraplane in actual operation as the paraplane is the first advantage claimed by the inventors for the paraplane is that it will render a long farewell to rising and alighting unnecessarily. This result will be attained it is hoped by the use of a propeller operating on a vertical shaft which will cause the machine to rise directly upwards into the air from the place of departure from the ground.

When sufficient elevation has been reached the vertical propeller will be thrown out of gear and a horizontal propeller will drive the machine in any desired direction parallel to the ground. The second advantage of the paraplane is to be secured by the use of a peculiar type of wing structure. When operated in the ordinary fashion in a horizontal direction the single plane of the machine will be flat, but on arising or descending the plane will be deflected by means of guy wires into the form of an umbrella.

The Manchester section will be suitably decorated so there will be no mistaking what part of New England the Manchester section is supposed to represent. In addition to providing grandstands the Manchester section committee has also made hotel reservations for 150 persons in different hotels in Boston. The headquarters for the Manchester soldiers will be at the Parker House. Hotel rates are $1.50 to $3.00 per room for two persons. Grandstand seats $2.00. Plateau banquet $2.00. Railroad fare $7.00. The banquet for the Manchester soldiers will take place in the crystal dining room of the Parker House. It may be necessary to run the banquet in two days. The army officials will not attempt to transport the entire division from Camp Devens to Boston in one day. The present plan is to ship about one-half of the division on the day preceding the parade. After the arrival of this section the soldiers would be given a twenty-four hour leave. During that time relatives and friends could entertain the boys. On the day of the parade the remaining half of the division is to be brought to Boston and the parade held in the morning. The first half of the division can return to the camp in the afternoon and the second half be given twenty-four hours of liberty following the parade.

All local persons making the trip to Boston must pay their own expenses. There will be no exception to this rule. Local soldiers who were with the 30th Division and have returned home will be taken to Boston at the expense of people here. A fund is being raised for that purpose. The local committee has made up a budget to estimate expenses for the welcome home celebration and it is figured that it will cost about $3,000. This fund will be raised by popular subscription.

At a meeting Monday evening of the general committee which is arranging for the welcome home celebration to be given the local men who served during the war the sub-committees made reports concerning the celebration and the part Manchester is to take in the big parade to be held in Boston following the return of the 30th Division to this country next month. The local committee was early on the ground and relatives of Manchester men in the 30th Division will have an opportunity to occupy a prominent place in the big grandstand to be erected. Frank H. Anderson, R. La Motte Russell and Frank D. Cheney took to Boston last week to arrange accommodations for the relatives of local men in the division and were able to secure choice reservations.

Company G was the first unit of the division to take over a section of the front line trenches. Company G led the attacks at St. Mihiel. "Manchester had 148 men in the 30th Division according to the records at the War Bureau. They were not only in Company G but were assigned to other companies of the division. Just how many of the local men are in the division now is not known for certain but it is estimated there must be upwards of one hundred.

Manchester wants to honor her heroes not only at home but also in Boston and for that reason the sub-committee of the War Bureau made ample preparations to care for the relatives of the local men of the 30th Division who will want to attend the big Boston parade. The Manchester section will be suitably decorated so there will be no mistaking what part of New England the Manchester section is supposed to represent. In addition to providing grandstands the Manchester section committee has also made hotel reservations for 150 persons in different hotels in Boston. The headquarters for the Manchester soldiers will be at the Parker House. Hotel rates are $1.50 to $3.00 per room for two persons. Grandstand seats $2.00. Plateau banquet $2.00. After the arrival of this section the soldiers would be given a twenty-four hour leave. During that time relatives and friends could entertain the boys. On the day of the parade the remaining half of the division is to be brought to Boston and the parade held in the morning. The first half of the division can return to the camp in the afternoon and the second half be given twenty-four hours of liberty following the parade.

Local soldiers who were with the 30th Division and have returned home will be taken to Boston at the expense of people here. A fund is being raised for that purpose. Boston Celebration FOR 26TH DIVISION TO ASSUME MONSTER PROPORTIONS--DATE NOT YET DETERMINED

Manchester has appointed Frank D. Cheney, N. B. Richards and R. G. Rich as a committee to select the town's honor roll which is kept at the War Bureau. Relatives of local men in the service are asked to cooperate with the War Bureau in getting the names of such local men who served during the war on the town's honor roll. It is the desire to have the name of every man who served in any capacity inscribed on a permanent honor roll. Names of those not already on the honor roll should be handed in at the War Bureau at once together with necessary data.

League of Brass Bands
An attempt is being made to have a league of brass bands here by merging the City Brass Band and the Italian Brass Band into an active organization which will be a great credit to the town. At the present time neither band gets many offers for their services, except to play "free" music during patriotic parades and on other occasions. Some of the local citizens believe that a capable band will be supported and that end have taken lead of the project and will see that uniforms, instruments and music are furnished. With a capable leader an organization of at least 50 members could be secured. The plan meets with the approval of the bands and they have appointed the following representatives to investigate the matter: Arvid Weisman and John Crawford of the City Band and Frank Diana, John Galasso and Ignazio Ottone of the Italian Band. Frank H. Anderson, R. La Motte Russell, Robert V. Treat, William C. Cheney and William S. Hyde are on the citizens committee. It is planned to give a musical concert and ball the latter part of April to raise funds for the undertaking.

He had been seeking a recreation for the past four years in the "Land of Flowers."

Thomas and Mrs. Symington returned to their home in Paterson, N. J. They had been spending an extended visit with William and Mrs. Frank McCall in Hartford. The funeral took place Monday afternoon from the home of Mrs. McManus, 7 Chapin place, Hartford. Rev. J. S. Neill officiated. The body was brought to the East cemetery in this place for burial.

LETTER FROM DANZIG

GERMAN POLAND Sent By Boatwain Mate First Class John H. Rody of South Manchester. A letter received in South Manchester from Boatwain Mate First Class John H. Rody of the U. S. S. Aylwin, bearing date of Danzig, German Poland, February 29, 1919, gives some interesting observations which we reproduce for the pleasure of our readers. Boatwain Rody states that the Aylwin arrived at Danzig January 2, 1919, in company with two other ships, bearing food supplies for the Polish people in that place. The Americans were detained there as a guard for the suppression of any form of disturbance that pertains to the night area.

Milk As Fuel

Children are little steam engines while at play. The active, fresh life for boys and girls for health calls for energy giving foods. In fuel or energy value one quart of milk is equal to 1 1/3 ounces of violin steel, 1 1/2 ounces of round steak, nine eggs or 4 1/2 ounces of fuel. Who would think of feeding a child nearly a pound of round steak in a day? Milk is the choice of all energy foods because it is easily digested and can be served so many appetizing ways. Milk, too, is rich in protein and minerals that build up tissue.

Forests of the Caucasus

The forests of the Caucasus in Russia are estimated at 12,000,000 acres, chiefly in the Black Sea territory, which is at the rate of nearly 20 acres to each inhabitant. The forests of western Siberia have not been so carefully explored, but they are estimated to be 200,000,000 acres in extent, more than half being in an absolute state of nature.

COGNONS ARE IN FAVOR

SOME STYLES FOR THE SOUTH

Well, Mrs. Parkhurst is not the only woman who wanted to be butterfly in so ardent a way that she burst from the chrysalis as soon as the aristocrat went into effect and turned herself out into the sunshine in radiant colors.

There is nothing startlingly new in the silhouette that need frighten one away from the clothes one possesses.

There is nothing startlingly new in the silhouette that need frighten one away from the clothes one possesses.

There is one frock in red, green and gold brocade that shines like some of the pieces of medieval armor found in European museums.

The Fokker series is interesting. First, there was the monoplane Fokker, so long a menace at the front.

Boxlike Effect. It is obvious that the Americans will try to exploit the boxlike silhouette.

On-piece frock of gray jersey, embroidered in dark-blue wool, with a sash of crepe de chine.

But it is there. Have you ever known a woman who said that she cared nothing for good-looking clothes?

It is foolish to deny the pleasure which is imparted to the eye by care for clothes.

WINTER TRAVEL IN ALASKA

Archdeacon Stuck Tells of Some of the Sufferings to be Encountered in the Frozen North.

Archdeacon Stuck, already famous for his ascent of Mount McKinley, made a remarkable journey into Alaska last winter.

His route extended around the whole arctic coast of Alaska, beginning at the west side, and thence inland to Fort Yukon.

Strange Place, Well Authenticated, Chosen by Nature to Produce the Best of Life.

For several weeks farmers on the Lane road observed a green substance on the roof of an abandoned house on the Gale farm.

The stalks were removed and brought to town. They measured 9 feet in length, 2 feet being beneath the roof.

The elephant is a large animal, even so is the subject of the elephant. For years he had studied them, their habits, their relations, their mental development.

Bankers Say They Lend More Money on Property When Buildings Are Well Painted.

AN INDICATION OF THRIFT. One Concern Advances 25 Per Cent. More if Repainting is Done Every Five Years.

Does it pay to paint carefully farm buildings? Does it add to the selling value of a farm when buildings are properly kept up and regularly painted?

Some of these bankers make interesting comment. A Michigan concern says that while not especially prepared to advise definitely in response to this inquiry, the officers would be pleased to point out that where they had been asked that where they were asked.

The Temperamental Boob

By H. B. KNIGHT

"Top, that's right; I want to see the editor in chief of the Courier, and want to see him quick!" To the utter amazement of the little boy in knickerbockers who sat in the hallway leading to the editorial office of the giant publishing house a tall and lean visitor, with a general appearance, minus the above mentioned, in an indifferent and even bored sort of tone.

"What d'ya think you are?" scoffed the little ruffian, "man or half a man?" The boy went on again with a grin, but first knew his name 'a' learnin' his business."

"Oh, I'll see him somehow!" With a pity resolution in mind he had a view of the untidy hall, in to the water, down into the dirty street, and in a few minutes found himself in Times square, deliberating by what route he might get farther away from what in his opinion were narrow-minded, hated, exclusive journalists who set their watchdogs in person of the boys who try to bring young talent like himself from proving their "art."

Not Really Sardines. A large proportion of the so-called sardines that come along the Atlantic coast of this country and Canada are not true sardines but are the young of the herring and mackerel. They are prepared in about the same way as true European sardines, however, and it would puzzle some of the most experienced epicures to distinguish the sardines from the genuine.

berited for it. Now she's going to marry a Hindu! You thought you'd become a wince in New York. You spent your last ten bucks for a typewriter. Now the lady's fired you out into the street. Bill Whitlock, I agree with you, you're an ass!"

"Downheartedness his only sense of feeling, Bill's mind soon became exhausted with all he sorrowed and grieved over his hard luck. His words had prevented him from sleeping well nights and he had not eaten just as much as his young and ravenous appetite required. Then, too, he felt weak and tired. Before long himself welcomed his disconsolate slumber.

Sweet dreams came to him, as they come to all the creation, weary and sad. He dreamed that he was home, and the Singer millions his. And the Hindu, too, had not won his sweetbed, but had gone to where he belonged, in the East. His first and childhood love was his wife. Once more he was thrumming and chanting songs of love to the girl who had been his inspiration and caused him to come to the great, writing Babel and strive against fate. He had reached his goal—realized his ambition. Love had almost as trifled with him; it had made him and the mate whom he so fondly adored happy. But the detectable, beautiful vision did not last long.

He was soon awakened by a sharp, stinging rap on the skin-thick soles of his shoes. His beautiful vision was soiled by a billion pigeons in a neighborhood. The blood no longer tingled in his veins. This seems likely enough, when one recalls Audubon's estimate of well over a billion pigeons in a neighborhood. Their resistance would be a true return of the native, and would be widely welcomed.

Pigeons May Come Back. When they hear the current report that a member of the Connecticut state game commission has seen several passenger pigeons, persons who know the story of bird life in North America are almost as surprised as if he had said he had seen specimens of the great auk. The passenger pigeon has been considered equally extinct not last long.

Politics and Hairspring. In ancient civilizations a distinctive style of hairspring had sometimes had its origin in politics, as for instance the zigzag hairspring of the Chinese, which was named after the soldier class of old Japan shaved their heads except for a topknot of hair. Absolutism, so far as its origin is concerned, has many imitators, some of whom tried it with ribbon like a schoolgirl of today. The "topknot" of the English is a cloud passing beneath as fully as any woman's, no doubt to emphasize the difference between the wearers and their enemies, the "cropped" Puritans.

Better Yet. A woman's way is all her own. Her skill is her own. She cannot learn to throw a stone. But she can catch a vote. Signs of It. "I am sure that man is coming to me present a bill." "What makes you think so?" "He has such a collected manner."

GUNMEN'S FATE RESTS WITH JURY

The arguments of counsel in the Madden murder case closed in the Superior court at Hartford yesterday afternoon, after both sides finished presenting witnesses and evidence. On re-assembling at 10:15 this forenoon Judge Donald T. Warner began his charge to the jury. The judge concurred with State Prosecutor Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn, and so stated to the jury, that all the accused were equally guilty. He reviewed the evidence at length, explaining points of law involved. The reading of the charge closed at noon. The jury then retired for deliberation.

NEW THEATER IN SOUTH MANCHESTER

John F. Sullivan, proprietor of the Park and the Club moving picture houses in South Manchester has ambitions for further development in the entertainment field. He feels that there is real need of a larger and more complete theatre in this community. To that end he is endeavoring to interest business men in the project of erecting such a structure at a cost of $100,000. It is Mr. Sullivan's intention to have the new theatre erected on the lot located in the heart of the business section on Main street in South Manchester. He deems the present limits for the building to be within the confines of Bissell and Oak streets. There are several sites which are available for the purposes of the new amusement enterprise.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS EASTER MONDAY BALL

The officers, committees and members of Campbell Council Knights of Columbus are all agog over the arrangements for their forthcoming Easter Monday night concert and ball. It is to be their eighteenth annual and is to be staged at Cheney Hall. Hatch orchestra is to furnish music for the concert and dancing. The date of the event is April Twenty First. The membership of the council has almost doubled during the past year. In view of this fact the officers and committees are looking forward to an immense ball. They will make a high water mark in the annuals of the council for attendance at the annual concert and ball. To that end every detail is being carefully planned and will be executed in the most approved fashion.

Get-Together Club

A meeting of the Get-Together Club took place at Cheney Hall last evening. A roast beef supper was served. An entertainment of vocal and instrumental selections was given by the club members. Captain Philip Cheney gave a talk on the topic "Organizing and Training a Rifle Company." Captain Cheney is a man of considerable military experience. He served for a number of years in the Connecticut National Guard. He also did service in the late war, being sent overseas where he served for several months. Returning to his home town he was elected to the position of Captain of the local rifle company. He has varied knowledge of the art of military training and is in a position to speak by the club on the activities of the Get-Together Club were suspended. They have been resumed and will now pursue the regular course as in days of yore.

HOWE CALLS HEAR YE HIM

The town tax of eleven mills or the dollar of all property in town was collected by the collector and Tax Collector George H. Howe at his office in the hall of records waiting for you. He will be there every week day during the month of April. The work will be done at the immediate direction of John A. Kotler, formerly successful retail meat dealer of Chicago, who for a number of years was national secretary of the United States Fish and Game Commission. The results of these inquiries will be published from time to time, and the bureau anticipates that significant improvements will be suggested and made possible by the studies of this phase of the meat industry, in which the producer as well as the consumer and the trade are vitally interested.

Origin of Lace Making

The origin of lace making is so far lost in the dark ages that it is impossible to know in which country the process began. It is certain, however, that the knowledge was making more elaborate and beautiful lace soon after America was discovered.

ENTERTAINERS GOING TO ROCKVILLE

The Modern Woodmen's Degree Team of this place will stage an entertainment and dance at Torr Hall, Rockville tomorrow evening. Under the auspices of the Turner Society of that place. The entertainment will consist of a musical sketch entitled, "A Sign in Charlestown" which will be put on with a cast of local young men and women. The sketch was given in this place a few weeks ago and made a big hit. Several of the local stage artists will follow. The dancing will follow the entertainment and it is expected that a big crowd of amusement seekers will accompany the local actors to Rockville tomorrow evening.

"Bill" Thornton On Mt. Vernon

William J. Thornton, son of Hugh and Mrs. Thornton of 15 Spring street, is a passenger on the Mt. Vernon, which docks here tomorrow afternoon. He will be in town with the first troops of the 35th Division to return to this country. Thornton is a member of the 101st Engineers. He enlisted in Troop B of the Machine Gun Battalion, which is returning on the steamship Agamemnon, due in Boston Tuesday morning. It is possible that there are other Manchester men on board the Mt. Vernon. Dr. C. E. Heselgrave, of this place who has been doing Y. M. C. A. work in France expected to ship on the Mt. Vernon and called the War Bureau to that effect. Heselgrave has since been received stating that Dr. Heselgrave is aboard the Agamemnon.

Johnson-Johnson

Clarence W. Johnson, son of John William and Mrs. Johnson of 33 Sunset street, and Mrs. Helen E. Johnson of Main street were married at the rectory of St. Marys Episcopal church yesterday afternoon by Rev. J. S. Neill. They were attended by Eloy and Mrs. Johnson. The couple left last evening on a wedding tour and on their return will make their home at 33 Sunset street. Mr. Johnson is the well known insurance solicitor employed at the local branch of the Prudential Insurance Company in this place. Mrs. Johnson is the widow of the late Clarence A. Johnson, a brother of her present husband.

Another Straw Ride

"The Three of Us" announce another of those popular auto straw rides to Williamstown on Saturday evening, April 12. At Williamstown the party will attend a jazz dance. The auto ride will leave Depot square at 7:15 and the Center at 7:30. Mrs. Eleanor McCann has been taken to the St. Francis hospital for treatment this week. For some time past she has been ailing with neuritis and sciatica. The trouble continued to increase in intensity and it became imperative that she be given expert and constant attendance. She is receiving electrical treatment day by day. Her daughter, Mrs. Henry E. Phelan has been caring for her. The burden became too heavy for Mrs. Phelan and a change had to be made. Mrs. Phelan is employed as a stenographer and typist in Hartford. She had to quit her clerical work in order to care for her mother. She has resumed her former position again.

Encouraging Policeman

Patrolman John Crockett of the local police force has received a letter from officials of the New Haven road commending him for his action in notifying headquarters that a feed wire on the Interurban line had fallen from the poles recently. His curiosity was aroused to such a pitch that he walked up the tracks about a mile and discovered the fallen wire. He immediately notified headquarters and the dispatching "fireworks" one morning while crossing the tracks at Depot square.
