

The Flow of Meat

Two-thirds of the live stock in the United States has to be raised in the West.

One-half of the consumers of meat live in the East.

In other words, most of the live stock is one or two thousand miles distant from most of the people who need it in the form of food.

Fifty years ago, when live stock was raised close to every consuming center, the country butcher could handle the job after a fashion.

But the job got too big.

Now millions of animals have to be moved hundreds of miles to millions of people. Somewhere on the way they have to be turned into meat.

The packers solved the problem. They set up plants where the "live haul" and the "meat haul" were in the right balance. They built up distributing systems-refrigerator cars, refrigerating plants, branch houses. They saved time, money and meat everywhere. The stockraiser benefited in better markets and higher prices; the consumer, in better meat and lower prices.

As the country grew, the packers had to grow, or break down. Because of its present size and efficiency, Swift & Company is able to perform its part in this service at a fraction of a cent per pound profit.

There is that everlasting appeal to people to get a hobby. It is all very well for the writer or speaker to prepare his hobby sermons, but, like Portia, it is easier to tell twenty what is good to be done than to be one of the twenty to follow their own teachings. A hobby is a most commendable thing. But most hobbies are expensive.

MAIN STREET BUSINESS SITES AT

On account of change in plans I have decided to offer at Public Auction, (unless previously disposed) the whole of the so-called Dougan Property located on Main street and lying between property of the Salvation Army and Pearl Street. Said property will be sold in frontages of twenty (20) feet or more, with a depth of about one hundred tourteen (114) feet.

Never before have the investing or speculative public of Manchester had an opportunity such as this to purchase property in the heart of the business section at public auction.

Business men with an eye to the future will do well to be prepar ed for this sale.

Very easy terms can be arranged.
