26th DIVISION CHAPLAIN AND "Y"

Chaplain Ray Anderson of 103rd Inf., Most Popular of "Sky Pilots," says "Y" Was Soldier's Best Friend

"What do I think of the Y. M. C. A.?" It was Chaplain Ray Anderson of the 103rd Infantry speaking--one of the most popular "sky pilots" in the whole army.

"I know that without the Y. M. C. A. my own work over there would not have been possible. The Y. M. C. A. but was the only place where I could gather the boys around me and hold a service."

"The huts, by the way, were established as near to the trenches as possible--sometimes only three or four miles in the rear, and well within shell fire. Not infrequently the canvas workers would motor up to within a few kilometers of the front line. At Chateau Thierry two or three "Y" men ran a canteen only six kilometers from the German lines, serving hot stuff to the boys at night till the day before the attack. I mention this because many have accused the Y. M. C. A. of playing safe and serving their canteens well in the rear. It is true that the Y. M. C. A. did not serve hot chocolate to the men as they went over the top--the idea itself is absurd, but the "Y" did its work as near the front as it was practicable to go.

"As for the accusation that "Y" men were all able-bodied soldiers, let me say that of the 42 secretaries employed in the 26th Division, not one was liable to service in the army. Many were over age; of the last four "Y" men to leave the regiment, one has only one eye, one has a leg two inches shorter than his other, and the other two are well over age. They are all Christian gentlemen, some of them served without pay and remuneration. I believe none of them received over $25 a month. Most of them had been under shell fire, and some were wounded. One or two were killed.

"Perhaps the Y. M. C. A.'s best recommendation was given, quite involuntarily, by some of the boys who had been the loudest "knockers" and who on reaching new quarters after a long day's hike, shouted out to someone: "Here's the dam 'Y. M. C. A.!"

"It was the Y. M. C. A. that fed them when their own supplies had run out, when the tents they had pitched had been sacked by the Hun in the last day of bread. It was the "Y" that saved the boys from starvation, when the food had been taken from them by the Hun, and when they were left with a broken foot, a hand, or a leg, and no one to care for them.

"I finally extricated my aids from this mess, and having received permission to pass, I went on to where the Canadian field artillery headquarters were located, and where I obtained permission to show my supplies. The Canadian field artillery headquarters were located in a trench across the road with a direct threat from the guards to shoot, were they brought up behind me.

Keep Money in Town.

Plant your town so as to discourage the movement of the people into outside uncontrolled areas for purposes of buying supplies, so that the man who wants your people's trade must establish his store on your land and come with his family and clerks to live in your town. Make it, in other words, a self-contained and self-sufficient town by every legitimate device.

If possible, make shopping attractive by the provision of a good store center, lights, amusements, etc., so as to draw trade from the neighboring villages and farms. Your commercial village will be your "puller," and you can make your Main Street frontages worth $500 a front foot.

The reason so many people fail to get on in this world is because they're not headed for any place in particular.

The rich man who has left his umbrellas at home gets just as wet as the poor man who doesn't even own an umbrella.

HOME TOWN HELPS

Two Essentials for the Wellbeing of Every Town, and All Too Often Neglected.

In the majority of towns there are now efficient drainage and sewerage systems, and proper means of disposal. There are yet many towns without an efficient system. Many large country villages also have no system, and the conditions are most unsatisfactory. These places do not bother about it; they seem content to go on in their own "sweet way." They will not hear of any scheme. Those responsible look upon themselves as economists; their economy is but a false, and their interest a "pocket one," the welfare and wellbeing of the people being the last consideration.

A pure and efficient water supply is another essential for all places, yet we have many small towns and villages without it. "Water is taken from defective and impure sources, which wells are close to cesspools and drainage from cattle yards, and other fouled surfaces, have access to them. This is often due to the faulty construction of the well or cesspool. What appears to have happened is this: The holes were dug, and lined with dry laid bricks, one being called the well and the other the cesspool. Can we wonder at disease being rampant? We also find the water supply taken from an open pond, full of mud and growth, and open a drain pipe discharging its contents into it. Many small towns and villages view with disfavour and are up in arms if an efficient system of sewers, sewage disposal, and water supply is suggested. They will tell you that their arrangements have sufficed for the past and no ill results have occurred; the inhabitants, they say, live as long as they like; and yet facts prove otherwise. In places where proper systems have been installed the death rate is lowered, infant mortality reduced, infectious disease eradicated, or nearly so, and the general health bettered. ### SENSITIVE INSTRUMENTS.

There are instruments made by the hands of men which surpass the eye in keenness and rival the nose. The spectroscopic is generally considered one of the most perfect instruments. It will detect the presence of one hundred-millionth of an ounce of sodium. The electroscopie, however, is more than a million times more sensitive than the spectroscopic, and will detect one thirty-five thousand-billionth of an ounce of radium, or one millionth of a millionth of a milligramme! The bolometer will register the heat of a candle a mile and a half distant.

FEW NEW FABRICS

No Distinct Changes in Materials for Spring Wear.

Gabardine, Tricot, Serges, Tricotine, Tweed, Homespun and Broadcloth and Variety of Silks.

As social life returns to its normal course more and more thought is given to dress. It is too early in the season for any very radical change in fashions to be established, but it is most interesting to watch the development of the individual ideas of the designers.

There will be no distinct change in materials, since as yet very few new fabrics have been made. A little of everything, tricotine, tweed, homespun and broadcloth. Among the silks one notes a great variety and also fabrics of American make that are composed of silk and wool with a predominance of silk. Many new colors will make their appearance this spring, and there will be a wider variety to choose from than in recent seasons.

The new silhouette is a matter that is uppermost in the minds of the designers at the moment. It is predicted by a few of those in a position to note the trend of the times that the mode will gradually emerge from the extreme simplicity of the last few seasons and once again the more complicated silhouette will be evident.

The advance models, however, give no indication of this change. A majority of the tailored suits of summery aspect are built upon severely plain lines, slim and straight as those of this winter. The coat, for instance, may be built without the slightest curve at the waist line and the front left open to show a long sweater-like waistcoat which has no visible fastening. The skirt is also straight and slim, and while there is a slit at the back to give its wearer more comfort in walking the material crosses over so that the slit is not visible.

Very pretty simple one-piece frocks of silk, tricotine or wool in light colors or all white are noted.

A smart little model was fashioned from a lively, soft creamy white gabardine with large collar and cuffs of white silk. The frock was caught in loosely at the waistline by a white silk cord which tied at the back and extended half the skirt length, the ends being finished with tassels. The back of the skirt was made with four deep folds slightly gathered in flounce effect.

There are numerous cape models of light weight, woven shawl and self-sufficient of the southern trade. They are made in various styles and of various materials.

SOME FASHION NOTES.

The new vest collars are made of blue.

Tailor-made suits are almost classically plain.

Iridescent embroidered tulle is popular for evening robes.

The spring hats display brims wide at the sides.

The best waist hats have their collar idea represented in their cuffs.

The deep oval neck line is filled in with a tiny vest of sheer material.

Organdie is still excellent for frocks, but little trimming is used.

STRICTLY TAILORED SUIT

LATE FASHION FROM PARIS

This is a straw hat entirely covered with embroidered satin ribbon, with black velvet ribbon around the crown, and is regarded as an exquisite creation.

APRON IS A BECOMING AFFAIR

Tricky Thing of Pink Striped Gingham Donned by Many of the Happy Little Brides.

An apron is really a pretty and a charming thing when its artistic possibilities are considered, and it may be made a becoming affair. Usually it is the little bride who wears aprons that have charm; her morning aprons are tricky affairs of pink striped gingham, with a smart flare in the skirt part and a cognoscent little hair above the waist line--and very crisp stripes that tie in the big bow behind. An elderly housekeeper would feel a little foolish in such an apron--even though when she goes to a matinee she wears a dainty blouse quite as youthful as any the little bride would select.

The house apron of the average good housekeeper is made of checked gingham with a narrow belt band that ties at the back. This beautiful but extremely practical affair is done when household labors demand protection of the gown--but you never catch the housekeeper at the front door in it, as, sometimes you catch the little bride in her wedding gown, but not the housekeeper at the front door in it.

Verdure on China's Great Wall.

Trees and shrubbery planted in the soil that has been accumulating for hundreds of years on the great wall of China are in thriving condition, some of them having grown to a height of 12 to 18 feet. This method of beautifying the great wall was an outgrowth of the movement for the reforestation of the country started some time ago with government sanction under the direction of foreign experts. The driveway on the great wall is considered very much improved with the addition of trees.

Best Work at Seventy.

Rosa Bonheur finished at seventy her "Horses Threshing Corn," the largest animal picture ever painted, and which was sold for $20,000. In 1868, on her seventy-fourth birthday, she finished a painting representing the historical combat between two stallions to which Lord Godolphin invited his friends in 1734.

Spiritual Princes.

There were Christians in Treves as early as the second century, and it had a bishop as early as 814. The archbishop of Treves became one of the leading spiritual princes of the early German empire. The Treves of today is a rich and active city of possibly 75,000 souls, a show city, a shrine city, and one in which the Yankee tourist should find much to interest them.

Shakespeare Law Unto Himself.

A correspondent wonders how such a phrase as "piping time of peace" could originate. One might think it referred to the Indian's peace pipe, but Shakespeare was rather unfamiliar with the customs of American aborigines. However, Shakespeare did what he pleased with English language.
