

JUNIOR RED CROSS HAS NEW PLANS OF HELPFULNESS

Membership Campaign to Be Held in the Schools—Program Prepared for Relief of Child Sufferers Abroad

The enlarged scope of the plans of the Junior Red Cross, whose campaign for a greatly increased membership will be conducted in the schools at practically the same time that the third roll call is in progress—November 2 to 11, Armistice Day—are described in a report of the Department of Junior Membership, which has just been made public.

Although there are thousands of children holding regular memberships in the Red Cross in the Atlantic Division, there are other thousands who, through the Junior Red Cross, are helping war weary children and foreign activities of the Junior Red Cross reveals the splendid aid to the children of France, Belgium, Czechoslovakia, Italy, Serbia, Palestine, Roumania and other of the Balkan countries and Poland which the pennies and dollars of the Junior department are making possible.

During the summer months hundreds of children in the industrial districts of France were sent out into the country, where they might regain their health. War orphans and mutilated children were cared for in large numbers in homes and clubs, and in western Europe clothing and food were supplied to hundreds of boys and girls who were experiencing misery.

Yet through the winter months that are ahead there is even greater need of the work of the Junior Red Cross, for with the coming of the cold weather there will be a great degree of suffering among those who are living in the ruins along the old battle lines of Belgium, France and Italy.

To mitigate that suffering the Junior Red Cross is preparing to take 1000 or more children from those districts down into the southern climates, where they may be cared for during the winter at Belmont, a "garderie" is to be established. A "garderie" is an institution somewhat similar to a day nursery, where the younger children are cared for during the hours that their mothers are at work and where the older children may have recreation under proper supervision out of school hours.

In Belgium and in Serbia hundreds of school children and youngsters who are without parents or homes are being fed and cared for in the work of the Junior Red Cross are planning the assistance that must be had to rebuild and re-equip the schools which were destroyed or stripped of all furnishings during the war.

Major General O'Ryan, commander of the Twenty-seventh Division and chairman of the Red Cross Roll Call Committee of the Atlantic Division, has asked his co-workers in the organization of 500,000 volunteers while he is bringing into a state of organization for the drive in November to keep continually in mind that while the Junior Red Cross will conduct its own annual membership campaign, it is to be coincident in many communities with the drive of the parent organization and deserves every assistance the parent organization can extend.

The Junior work in the interest of suffering children abroad will continue indefinitely.

Guarding the Health of the Family

This Polish mother, 34 years old, has borne ten children, eight of whom are living and in the best of robust health, thanks to the care of the nursing during the visits of the American Red Cross Public Health Nurse. The nurse calls regularly to instruct the mother in the proper way to protect their health. She is here shown demonstrating to the mother the best way to bathe the infant one of the broad based and happy youngsters. The extension of this activity is one of the features of the peace program to back which a record membership for 1920 is being secured in the Third Red Cross Roll Call.

HEALTH CENTERS TO BE OPENED BY RED CROSS

Projected service to communities to be financed by Third Roll Call

Very soon after the signing of the armistice, the American Red Cross made it clear that the central feature of its peace time program would consist of activities in the field of public health. Perhaps the most important consideration of this peace program is the plan for the mobilization of the Red Cross, which has been in the establishment of public health centers in every community through out the country where conditions make this desirable and possible.

The working plan will be discussed at the annual meeting of Red Cross Chapters to be held at Chapter headquarters in the near future.

"In planning thus to enter the field of public health, the Red Cross has no idea of attempting to encroach upon the fields of the already existing health agencies," said Major General John F. O'Ryan, chairman of the Third Red Cross Roll Call for the Atlantic Division. "It has no thought of superseding any of the accredited volunteer health agencies. But the Red Cross sees clearly a great opportunity to advance the public welfare by existing alongside of these agencies. By mobilizing the reserve forces, its universal presence, its democratic and non-sectarian ideals in a new and mightier national effort for public health, the Red Cross plans a great campaign against unnecessary sickness, poverty and death now caused by preventable diseases. And this campaign is to be made possible by the Third Red Cross Roll Call, Nov. 2-11.

A Militant Campaign. "That a militant general campaign to promote physical welfare in this country is needed," General O'Ryan said, "is made clear by the experience of the draft examinations, in which approximately one-third of all candidates were rejected for active service on account of physical disability. The first step to be taken is the extension of the public health nursing program. The establishment of public health centers is another step.

"The Red Cross health centers, which are to be established, will be the physical headquarters for the public health work of a community. As such, it will be the practical and concrete expression of the interest of the community in the health of its people. It will constitute the business-like way of associating health activities, both public and private, under one roof. In daily touch and in mutual understanding. Thus, it represents the latest step in the evolution of community health work, and answers the demand for efficient conservation of effort in bringing together independent health campaigns against preventable diseases.

"In the larger communities, the health center will be the focus which brings together all community agencies both public and private, which deal with the health of the people. In the smaller community, the health center will often take the form of a community house, or social center.

The two fundamental elements in the modern public health campaigns are the war on tuberculosis and the conservation of child life. In the latter category may be included the whole range of pre-natal supervision, the advice and instruction of mothers in the care and feeding of babies, the exercise of influence for the portion of clean, pasteurized milk, the supervision homes and surroundings of boarded-up children, the hygiene of children before and during their school years, and all the other usual activities associated with the conservation of child life."

The Connecticut Company had three means of meeting the situation brought about by its inability under the six-cent fare system to earn enough money. They were: 1—An increase in the flat rate fare to 8 or 10 cents, as has been done in Boston, Pittsburgh and other cities. In 182 cities in the United States electric railway fares are in excess of six cents. 2—Dividing the property into a greater number of six-cent zones; that is, shortening very materially the distance one has been able to ride for six cents, so that many who under the distance fare system will pay 8 or 10 cents would have to pay 12, and those now paying 10 or 14 cents would be called upon to pay 18, and so on. This has been done in Springfield and Providence, and many other cities throughout the country. 3—The distance fare system, by which one pays according to the distance or miles.

The company chose the latter system. It is for the public to decide whether it prefers one of the other two means. Large patronage—low fares. Small patronage—high fares. Insufficient patronage—less service. GIVE THE ZONE SYSTEM A FAIR TRIAL. It is inaugurated in the public interest—that the public may continue to have street railway transportation at a rate of fare least burdensome to all.

The Zone System is the Suggestion of the Public as the Best Means to Increase Trolley Revenue

The distance fare system, effective on lines of The Connecticut Company on Sunday, November 2, is put in operation as a result of suggestions from the public, whose representatives have declared it to be the one logical and fair system of charging for electric railway service.

To be successful in operation, this system requires the help of the public. The Connecticut Company is well aware that the introduction of such a system, changing as it does the riding customs of passengers, will be attended with delays in the service until the passengers and the crews on the cars become familiar with the new methods.

The Company therefore urges the patience and helpfulness of the public in this attempt to give the people exactly what they themselves have said they want—a system of fares based on the distance the rider goes, a system declared by all unprejudiced, fair-minded persons to be fair to all, logical and reasonable. Very quickly passengers will realize that the inconvenience of the new system is less than they may at first imagine; that the advantages of the lowest, fairest possible fares which it offers more than offset the possibility of temporary delays during the inauguration of the system.

The Alternatives

The Connecticut Company had three means of meeting the situation brought about by its inability under the six-cent fare system to earn enough money. They were: 1—An increase in the flat rate fare to 8 or 10 cents, as has been done in Boston, Pittsburgh and other cities. In 182 cities in the United States electric railway fares are in excess of six cents. 2—Dividing the property into a greater number of six-cent zones; that is, shortening very materially the distance one has been able to ride for six cents, so that many who under the distance fare system will pay 8 or 10 cents would have to pay 12, and those now paying 10 or 14 cents would be called upon to pay 18, and so on. This has been done in Springfield and Providence, and many other cities throughout the country. 3—The distance fare system, by which one pays according to the distance or miles.

The company chose the latter system. It is for the public to decide whether it prefers one of the other two means. Large patronage—low fares. Small patronage—high fares. Insufficient patronage—less service. GIVE THE ZONE SYSTEM A FAIR TRIAL. It is inaugurated in the public interest—that the public may continue to have street railway transportation at a rate of fare least burdensome to all.

Arriving at one of the most critical stages of the war, when the Teutons were forcing the Italian army back to the Piave, the American Red Cross rushed emergency relief from Paris and received the drooping spirits of the attention to the fighting men, the American Red Cross instituted 42 soup kitchens, 36 children's hospitals, 10 children's dispensaries, 14 artificial limb factories, five homes for refugee children, 20 rest stations for refugees. This photograph shows a group of Italian refugee children being fed by the American Red Cross at one of the numerous relief stations.

SENATOR BOWERS CRITICIZES COMPANY OPPOSES ZONE SYSTEM SAYS DOOMED FAILURE

Continuing he said "The trolley employees can't handle this system and if they do consent to it, they will demand more money for doing it or threaten strike; and if the company has to increase its wage scale again, that will mean about $250,000 more."

Furthermore, here's a company claiming to be in financial straits that has money for a number of unnecessary items. It is positively foolish for the trolley company to start collecting money on top of what it is already paying for its operation.

It was the duty of the selectmen to prevent the greed of any corporation to impose on the trolley patrons. He said it was about time that three or four men found out they will not be permitted to run the whole state and especially that they shall not run Manchester at any rate.

TOWN ADVERTISEMENT BOARD OF SELECTMEN TOWN OF MANCHESTER

Of the Selectmen of the Town of Manchester, Conn., upon the petition of Wm E. Gleason et al for the establishment of building lines on the west and Spruce Street on the east and presented to the Board of Selectmen October 22, 1919.

On a drizzling, foggy night, our way lay down a side street toward home. Several rods ahead there was a shaft of light and when we reached the spot we found a window with the shade half-way up. Wickedly, but not maliciously, we hesitated, stopped—and we peeped.

LEGAL OPINION GIVEN BY TOWN COUNSEL ON AIDING COMMUTERS WITH TOWN FUNDS

As the commuters' committee which attended the meeting of the board of selectmen by invitation Friday evening had asked the town fathers to contribute $1,000 to the town's money and the officials had replied that they would ascertain their legal limitations regarding the town's funds, Chairman Aaron Johnson was asked to report.

Mr. Johnson said the board of selectmen held a special meeting on Friday evening and again at 7 o'clock Monday evening to take up the commuter's case and that the following opinion from Town Counsel Alexander Arnold should be read:

In answer to the first question, would you say it is my opinion that the money appropriated by the town for automobile licenses should only be used to pay legal claims against the town other than those for which a specific appropriation is made.

The regular monthly public meeting of the board of selectmen will take place at the Hall of Records next Monday evening at eight o'clock.

TRUE LOVE LAUGHS AT AGE

Ordinarily, we would curse to the limit a "peeper," an eavesdropper. But we have a confession to make on the first count, and we would plead mitigating circumstances. Here is the story:

There sat an old man and his wife. They must have been well up to the allotted three-score of years. He was smoking and she was knitting. Still we peeped. Then she looked up at him and smiled and said something. He laid down a book, struggled up from out of his comfortable seat and kind of hobbled out of the room, shortly returning and carrying a glass of water, which he handed to her.

And as she drank she held the wrinkled old bony hand of her lover. Then, as she finished drinking, she released his hand and the book she gave back to him and he gave her some like sheets of sunshine breaking through the murky clouds after days of rain.

That picture has haunted us in a long time. Somehow she seemed beautiful in our eyes, and yet we did not get a "close-up" of her features. And he, why as we keep thinking of him, our back hick in the days when we once visited a fine old Southern gentleman who possessed the graces of a Chesterfield and the courtesy of a Don Juan.

Then we recall the words of a poet which fit the case precisely: "Let Time reach out with his sickle as ever he can; although he can reach a ruddy cheek and the lips and flashing eyes, he cannot quiet reach love."

When a man really loves a woman she will never grow old, and when a woman loves a man he is neither decrepit nor bowed nor tremulous. She is the same lass who wooed and he is always the same gallant young fellow who won her heart and her hand. They are absolutely happy, equal and free. These two lovers are traveling toward the city of Silence, and they are leaving behind a picture never to be forgotten.—Fremont Herald.

Mysterious Light Even more mysterious than the appearance of the faint moonlight glow in the sky exactly opposite the sun, is a still less familiar luminous feature of the night. This is a star which is never visible when the moon is absent.

Prof. E. E. Barnard of the University of Chicago finds that it differs from ordinary stars in that it is in appearance in all parts of the sky, and that it is not probably any form of cirrus or cirro-stratus cloud. It seems to woman love a man, she is in appearance in all parts of the sky, and that it is not probably any form of cirrus or cirro-stratus cloud.

For and by order of the board of selectmen of the town of Manchester, Town vary truly, WILFRED B. ROGERS, Secretary.

In answer to the first question, would you say it is my opinion that the money appropriated by the town for automobile licenses should only be used to pay legal claims against the town other than those for which a specific appropriation is made.

TOWN WILL FIGHT RAISE IN FARES AND ZONE SYSTEM Selectmen Instructed To File Written Protest With Public Utilities Commission.

The voters in special town meeting last night instructed the selectmen to file a written petition with the Public Utilities Commission alleging that the charges made by the Connecticut Company for transportation in the town of Manchester are unreasonable, and that the service furnished by the company through its zone system is inadequate to public necessity and convenience.

John Cairns said there was one point regarding trolley fares which he did not think had entered into the discussion at the meeting. He said that the full charge of carrying passengers should not be placed on the people who use the cars. He contended that by some means or another passengers should pay only a portion of the fare and the balance should be charged to taxation.

Mr. Taylor stated to the meeting that his position on that matter was clear. He favored the idea of placing the entire cost of the bridge and of the overhead wires on the state and if that was not possible, he would favor placing the cost of the bridge and of the overhead wires on the state and if that was not possible, he would favor placing the cost of the bridge and of the overhead wires on the state.

Manchester News COMMUTERS PETITIONS PRESENTED TO UTILITIES COMMISSION Petitions Have 500 Signatures, All Former Trolley Patrons--$1,200 Raised to Carry on Battle--Request Early Hearing.

It was a busy night last night for the Manchester Commuters Association. The members assembled in the town hall at 7:30 and held a meeting previous to the calling of the special town meeting. After the town meeting to perfect their plans for presenting their petitions to the public utilities commission. President Isala Symington presided. It was announced that the petitions contained the names of 500 commuters. No effort had been made to get any names on the petitions other than the regular trolley commuters. It was also announced that the finance committee had collected the sum of $1,200 to carry on the battle.

President Symington was in favor of carrying every commuter to and from Hartford by jitney or automobile. He said the only way to beat the trolley was to take away its patronage. He believed the commuters should cooperate with the selectmen in their efforts to bring about a reduction in trolley fares.

It was announced this morning that the petition of the commuters and also of the town would be placed before the Public Utilities Commission this afternoon. Judge Alexander Arnold, town counsel, and Guy Town of the board of selectmen, will have charge of the presenting of the town's petition. Harry M. Burke, counsel for the commuters, and Estabrook, president of the commuters association and some of the other officers will present the petition of the commuters. An early hearing will be asked for.

Angelo Bosco, assistant superintendent of the local branch of the Prudential insurance company for the past several years, has submitted his resignation to become effective November 15. He will be succeeded by Isaac Jackson, who has been with the company for some time. Mr. Bosco has been very successful in his insurance business. The company was slow about accepting his resignation.
