in this direction and there seems no questioning the statement that Community Service is the best equipped organization to accomplish this tremendous task. It has the machinery and the leaders and it already has proved its worth in a number of cities. Neighborhood and community works are not new in this country, but there is a new promise of force through national organization in the nation-wide plans of Community Service. Roosevelt said that "no man could be part American and part something else" and truer words were never uttered. The citizens of this country must be all American or nothing. The program of Community Service calls for a great movement to make thorough-going Americans of all of our foreign born population. Americanization is the common term but higher and better citizenship are better words. Through various methods Community Service plans to instill into the alien born the ideals that will counteract unrest and place the disciple of unrest in the background.

For fall wear, following the summer eason of big more or less floppy picture hats, the chic little turban or toque is a welcome addition to the wardrobe. The draped turban is an especially popular bit of headgear and it is a hat quite within the province of the home milliner. The fact that hand embroidery is much in evidence on fabrics used for buts and for but trimming makes it possible for a woman to express great individuality in the derelopment of her headgear

The day of the large hat has by no means passed, and for later dressy wear many picture models are shown, with handsome ostrich plumes of great length and richness the favored trimming. Soft crowns predominate on the big buts, although some of the more tailored models show stiff crowns. A novelty shown by some of the leading milliners is a severe suffor

> Stout Persons. Maybe you think that the girl under one hundred or close thereto does not ingly as does her sister who weighs an other hundred pounds, says a writer to the Philadelphia Record. In some ways she is worse off, for correct consetting and very careful failuring will do much for the stout woman, while, unless the mode sponsors it, frills and the other first aids of the thin girl are apt to look passe; At present she should be in her element. She can build up so delightfully without recourse to ruffles, flounces or frills at all. Think what pounds the new stiff panniers of taffeta can add to the thin girl's appearance. There is a great deal to be done with skillful drapery, too. Large billowy folds of heavy satins will make up many deficiencies in the slim figure. Probably the best news is that if she has no hips she may simulate them in several ways. A very new Paris frock suggests one, for it rolls a piece of soft but heavy brocade turban fashion right below the normal waistline and then adds a tulle overskirt to soften the effect. Another frock that does much the same thing shows a skirt of heavy satin draped into a 2-inch frill at the waistline, held there by folded girdle. The frill was allowed to fall over the girdle, and again a tulle overskirt falling over the frill softened and added even more bulk to the freck. The ruffled chemisettes in vogue again play into the thin girl's hands, and if her ankles are overly thin the henvy wool stockings to be worn with the sport exfords all winter are an other feature in her favor.
