The Connecticut Company has passed through a most strong satisfies the storm of Permany 4th, and it has only been by reason of the loyal support and untiring efforts on the part of its amployees that trumsportation has been provided to the people throughout this section of the State.

In many instances for 72 hours after the beginning of the storm employees were or coastept Puty, some in an endeavor to clean the tracks and others in maintaining the rolling equipment, various units of which were constantly giving away under the strain to which they were subjected. The cleaning of the track areas provided a path through the streets which made possible all webicular traffic. This enabled the grocer, the milkman, the expressman, the parcels post and the newspaper agent of everybody. It also facilitated the operation of the competitive motor busses which did not appear on the streets until the day and night efforts of the trolley company's employees made their operation possible. The only streets that have been cleared for traffic are those through which there are our tracks, Upder these circumstances all traffic has been using the tracks. Stalled and broken down vehicles; delivery trucks left on the tracks until the attendant completed delivery of his mornhan lise and show moving teams have made it necessary to disregard schedules. It has resulted in bunching of cars, and the necessity for turning back cars and that their doct account to order to festivate the service which we have been able to operate as evenly as possible over the various lines. For this purpose there has been a man stationed on each line in order to accommodate the operation as nearly as possible to the service requirements.

Another serious difficulty has been the changes in temperature from one extreme, to the other. During the day a large a nount of water flows along the tracks; at night the temperature drops to considerable below freezing so that in the morning the ice on the rai's makes operation practically impossible. Cars are being operated on lines where this condition is most serious all night long but the drops in the tem . perature have been so rapid and so great that it has been impossible to avergome the trouble and the service is delayed notil the tracks can be dag out. To assist in the ice destroying process we have so far used over three million pocude of salt,

With the advent of heavy thawing conditions we will be faced with an increased number of disable loars, due to water gotting into the motors and burning them out, but every effort will be made to resture such cars to service as quickly as pos-

We realize that these conditions are no less trying to our patrons than they are to us, but we earnestly solicit your consideration until conditions are restoral to normal. We have felt that there was an obligation resting upon the trolley company to use every effort to maintain service during the period when no other means of transportation was available, and particularly at this time when rates of fare have just been increased. We would cill the attention of our patrons to the fact that service has been generally maintained while in other puris of Connecticut and adjoining states many lines have been abandoned by reason of the great cost required in the constant fight against snow, ice and floo!

Small Furs Are Varied. Small, funciful furs, however, are as aried as the days of winter. It is in this field that the designers are working like bravers. They are twisting and turning various petries that grow on beasts, wild or tame, in order to build up alluring little garments that will keep women interested in furs and provide them with an accessory that guarantees a new appearance to an old gown. There is quite a flash of imagination shown by individuals in arranging these small fur pieces. The majority of them are suggested by the women who buy them, who have arrived at the conclusion that a lengthy visit to the furrier often results in a new and amazing tride that lends distinction. The reason these small pieces of fur have their innings is the fashion for retaining bits of peltry over decollete gowns in the house. Now that some of us are thoroughly launched in the shortest of French skirts and sleeves, with a decolletage that extends to the depth prescribed for evening, we find ourselves willing to wear warm accessories that give becoming tones to the flesh.
