Chapeau That Is Larger.

With the great vogue for all white t is natural this should be popular for elt hats, and they are with us from trim sailor with ribbon trimming to the blossom-trimmed hat of larger proportions. The duliness and drab-ness of a plain white felt is more apt to be relieved, however, by a large wax flower, a pond itty, or gardenia, by silk fringe arranged in some novel eascade or cabochon. The flower trimming is strong on all felts, and unusual flower trimming at that, bydranges, dandellon, nasturtlums, wild oats, lacquered follage and so on. Some felt hats have felt flowers; one, n very soft black felt, has an odd mbination of little green velvet apples, pink silk apple blossoms, and

But if one hat in ten is white, eight of the others are gray. The gray vogue that is dying so hard has had a starconvalence in the gray felt It is to be found in these soft little rolled hats, close fitting and demure, that frame the faces of our bobbed-hair sisters, little hats with a sancy bunch of waxed blossoms laid on one side, three saucier lacquered quills thrust through a fold of the felt, or insinuating hunches of coque feathers brushing the wearer's cheek on one or both sides.

Black, brown or dark green, and cossibly bright green will be the colors or felts for later wear. The cloche is again a favorite, very broad of brim and rounded of crown. The felt brim is bound with ribbon, and a twist of ribbon with perhaps a small bow encircles the base of the crown. Smart is a Maria Guy shape of black velvet with the under side of the brim lined with cyclamen velvet, a fold of cyclamen velvet twisted about the base of the crown. The new shapes are large rather than small-the broad, slightly drooping brims shading the face

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

Flame-colored fabrics and all the shades of red are smart for evening. The French heel has taken on straighter lines and, like the Cuban heel, is now covered in leather. Transparent sleeves of a figured fabrie are used in frocks of dark blue serge or poiret twill or taffeta. Most of the large bats roll up softly at the back, and there is naturally a corresponding tendency to droop slightly at the sides.

of fur, is of soft silk spikes of brown, and is so like soft, weepy, shiny seaweed that it has been given that name. The high collar at the back of the fress is a feature of the latest models, and many of the long lines of the onepiece dresses are accentuated with half-inch wide pipings of color or Black stripes in plaid ginghams make clever designs and are especially attractive when combined with yellow shades. Vivid green and lavender with black create delightful effects, and there are many tiny pin-checks ponsored by fashionable women.

Taploca Snow. Soak one cup of tapioca until soft and then cook until clear. When clear, add the well-beaten yolks of four eggs and sweeten to taste. Cook for three minutes, dissolve two tablespoons of gelatin in one-half cup or boiling water and cool by adding to one cup of cold water. As soon as it begins to set, beat in with the stiffly beaten whites of four eggs. When sufficiently duffy, beat in the tapioes and the juice three lemons. Pour into a mold or solds and set away to harden.
