a Little Eccentric in Form,

Headgear Heavy-Extravagance is in Evidence With the Ultra Smart Dressers.

The new millinery models for early fringes made of "plumes mousselines" spring are charming. Just a little eccentric in form, but extremely becoming. More and more it becomes the fashion to tilm picture hats with very long and heavy feathers; the craze for "weeping plumes" has caught us again and when summer returns we shall find that our hats have grown top-heavy, notes a Paris fashion correspondent in the Boston Globe. It is a real pity that extravagance always enters on the scene when a really pretty style is in question, It is partly the fault of the great Paris milliners and dressmakers, partly the fault of certain amongst their clients; the idea seems to be that one cannot have too much of a good thing. But this is a great mistake. However, we must take the world of feshion as we find it, hoping always that individual women of fine taste will have a really good influence. Lewis continues to be a tremendous favorite with women who like to look ultra smart and out of the ordinary. I do not mean to say that this milliner goes in for intentional eccentricity, only that his models are nearly always unusual and sometimes very remarkable. Lewis has always depended on movelty of outline and of material for his best effects. He rarely goes in for elaborate trimmings, but always for unusual designs.

He is making some specially successful Chinese toques this senson. It is true that we have had the Chipese toque with us for many months past, but Lewis has succeeded in giving a new aspect to an old and cher-

It is Normal and Absolutely Nec essary That Youngsters Eat Hearlig.

Youth Uses Tremendous Amount of Energy and Often Requires More Food Than Moderately Active Man at Work

(Prepared by the United States Department The average boy between tweive and twenty is apt suddenly to develop extraordinary predatory habits toward the pantry and ice box, even when his mother fondly believes she has provided him with good filling meals, a properly balanced diet, and a few luxuries, besides. It becomes difficult to keep 2 box of crackers or raising or any easily pocketed fruits on hand-cake, doughnuts, or even plain bread. Rare is the home where the boy in his early teens does not come in from school clamoring for food, no matter how many sandiches and cookies were
