"Calls for Hupmobile fleet equipment are particularly gratifying to us for several reasons," says Mr. Hutchinson. "In the first place they are coming in almost un folicited. By that I mean that we have never concentrated on this said of sales work to any such extent as many manufacturers have.

"And in the second place I know of no better testimonial for those qualities which we claim for Hupmobile than demand for fleet replinaments. No purchases are made more carefully than those of large corporations for automobile equipment. Endurance and economy are the dominating factors in the selection of those cars and meet rigil tests are often applied before the deal is closed.

The Consequently, when we see the first orders coming in we know that the porformance of our product is making friends in business service just as it has won unusually high regard in the social life of the country.

"All in all, I think Harrington expressed the situation very starry when he said that as far as finnespolis is concerned the instanced demand for the cars is not in much because the country is manufally coming back as because humobile is getting such an everally high regard in the social life of the country.
