However, $2,000 a year isnt' so bad if one doesn't live in a large city where he is compelled to pay a hig rent for the luxury of living near many other people. In a small place, $2,000 a year may bring every reasonable comfort. But how many who earn $10,000 in a great city could earn $2,000 in a village? Somehow, it appears that one must come pearer to delivering value in a small place than in a big one. Cities are centers of much useless activities. Father Plunkett sailed for Europe last April and he has been in Germany, Belgium, France, Italy, England and Ireland and has given much time to the study of economic, political and social conditions in the various countries. He was especially interested in Ireland and he spent one entire month there and in returning said that he was onvinced that the! Irish people themselves could settle their own roblem and that friends in America should have confidence in the people over there. He talked of the various factions in Ireland and said that the leaders were all men of conscience and noble purpose. The Collins group he said wanted the treaty because they thought that its rejection would mean an nihilation and the Develera adher ents did not want it because they thought it meant suicide for Ire land as a nation of The best thing for the people of America and the friends of Ireland here; he said was to let the people of Ireland solve their problems without ou side interference.

The latter rewhich was organized but 12 year ago and which is now a well equipped institution. Father Flannery presented the gift of $1,000 to the paster on behalf of the parishioners and the pastor feelingly responded. Refreshments were served, there was dancing and th festivities continued until midnight, Father Plunkett being ex tended the "glad hand" by many parishioners and citizens.

Father Plunkett was for years assistant pastor of St. James Roman Catholic Creach in South Manchester. He mand and popularly known, kindly remembered and highly respected in this community. He left South Manchester some 12 years ago, or there-
