Park street bridge about 3 o'clock last Saturday morning resulted in the calling out of Hose Company No. 1 in response to an alarm being rung in from Box 24. The firemen discovered that a fire was blazing in the tailor shop of Benjamin Hilson at No. 9 Pine street and it was put under control in about 30 minutes time. The alarm was turned in by Carmelo Fazzino, who lives in the block and runs a shoe shop there at No. 7 Pine street. He smelled smoke and ran to ring in the alarm at Pine and Walnut streets, carrying his baby of nearly two years in his arms. to ring in the alarm at Pine and Walnut streets, carrying his baby of nearly two years in his arms. After turning in the alarm he returned and saw that his wife and baby were safe, following which he aroused the neighbors in the block. Saturday's fire was the second to take place there within a year, the previous one happening December 20 last, on a Tuesday night. At that time the fire was serious

The new Connecticut Motor Vehicle Register, "het off the press" three principles, Righteousness, Power and Love which explains has been issued by the Ryder Publishing company of New Haven. The reigster is quite the neatest and most complete ever compiled in this state. Ie gives the correct name of the owner of every carlicensed in this state up to July lst of this year, in addition to his license number and a description of his car.

The register sells for two dollars and it is said that advance or the resurrection takes place she in Ecclesiastes and enables us to agree with the inspired monarch who wrote the sentence, the day one's birth.
