About midnight last Tuesday fire broke out in the beater room of the Peter Adams Paper Company mill at Buckland and within a few hours almost the entire plant was in ruins. John Murphy, the night watchman passed through the beater room about fiften minutes before the fire was discovered, but saw nothing unusual. The mill was being run 24 hours daily. Men were at work where the fire started but none know anything about its origin. There were ample facilities available for fighting fire and all were used to the best advantage but the fire could not be subdued. All that is left of the big plant is the rag room, the fire building and the brick walls of the main mill. The loss is estimated at $125,000. The property was insured for $175,000.
