stimulus to public interest in mu-sic, is the aim of Alf Klingenberg, director of the Eastman School of Music at the University of Roches-ter. Mr. Klingenberg would have the chorus occupy the same posi-tion as, for example, the Philadel-phia orchestra, which is considered a genuine civic asset; and as ina genuine civic asset; and as instances he points to the Mendelssohn choir of Toronto and the Bach choir of Bethlehem.

There is a wealth of material available, particularly in universities. But Mr. Klingenberg does not want the usual college music club, give club or instrumental club at the Eastman school. "Such a chorus as I have in mind would mean hours of serious at the college music club.

Of course this gracious gentleman passed to his reward a few centuries ago, but he has had some pretty able descendants in some of the designers of fashionable shoes.

Nevertheless, he is good and dead now and all his progeny along with him. Foot-killing shoes with extreme heels and narrow toes are out of date, and the graceful swinging lines of Nature's own design have the call.

The Grover Foot Arch Shoe today does double duty. It has the beauty of today's style with the addition of a strong, highly tempered spring-steel shank designed to give a springing support to weakened archies and bring shoe-wreeked feet back to health.
