monkey fur is a combination found in many of the expensive afternoon gowns for fall. Fur is to be used extensively on street gowns as well as on afternoon and evening gowns.

Of especial interest to Manchester, as a silk-manufacturing town, is the fact that the Spring will see a large demand for silks, brocades and crepes being among the leaders.

With Anne, the wife of Charles VIII of France, who, at the death of her husband surrounded her coat-of-arms with black, and wore black in token of her widowhood. This was in direct opposition to the usual custom which was to wear white as a symbol of mourning. The royal fashion was adopted, and was kept up until in recent years, it is gradually being abolished.
