MORE CURRENCY

Washington, July 10.—Business property has brought $236,000, 600 additional currency into circulation in the past year, the Federal Reserve Board said today. The demand for new currency has been increasing at the rate of 11,000,000 a day.

Larger pay rolls and full time employment for labor is one of the chief reasons for the larger currency volume. One-half the increased money in circulation represents growth in the circulation of gold and gold certificates. One-third of the increase is due to additions to Federal Reserve notes.

Of the total increase in money only $42,000,000 represents a net addition to Federal Reserve currency.

The inflow of gold, which amounts to $227,000,000 in the past 12 months, largely accounts for the growth. Two-thirds of that sum was added to circulation and one-third was credited in reserve against the reserve system.

Officials of the board said heavy gold imports enable banks to expand a period of rapidly growing business activity credit and currency demand, without making use of a larger volume of Reserve Bank credit, as measured by total earning assets of the reserve banks.

Increased demands for currency generally follow the growth of bank deposits, the board said, which reflects increasing business activity and of bank credit.

"The growth of money in circulation, however, generally lags behind the growth in deposits, which begin to increase as soon as the volume of business activity starts upward, and is reflected in growing demand for bank accommodations by manufacturers and wholesalers whose credit requirements increase with the growth of their operations."

Increased demands for currency in turn follow advances in retail prices and in pay rolls, which generally lag behind expansion of business and wholesale price increases.

Currency of all kinds now in circulation includes $146,000,000 in gold; $170,000,000 in silver; $206,000,000 United States notes; $2,225,000,000 Federal Reserve notes; $22,000,000 Federal Reserve Bank notes; and $734,000,000 National bank notes.

BILL MCKEE HAS SPEEDY 'LIZIE'

There's been famous races in history. For instance Paul Revere. But Paul's was not a walking match. He was a running match. To the one recorded here.

The cop worked hard all winter on his own time so he said. He had nearly finished Lizie. He had nearly finished Lizie. He had nearly finished Lizie.

Now Mack was but a farmer's lad

With hayseeds in his hair. But when he turned old Lizie loose. The cop he wasn't there.

He was certain that he had him as they raced up Foster street. They just about the time Mack got busy with his feet.

For evidently Mack had had other things in mind. He simply stopped on Lizie's tail. And this cop was in the lead.

They say when Mack went through the park. He was riding through the air. Was home and had the cows all milked.

But I must and now Mr. Cop. This is the advice from me. You'll have to buy an airplane if you hope to catch Mack. Do you my little is under. I'm wondering in what I am wondering in. Of what use is a traffic cop if he cannot catch a kid.

The dry weather has cut short the crop of raspberries, blueberries, cherries and other small fruits of that order and has also stunted the growth of early potatoes, corn, cabbage and other garden products.

Housekeepers will be glad to learn that feed has been reduced to $6.00 the barrel. Present indications are that it will fall still lower as there is a prodigious crop of wheat now being harvested in the west. It is said to be one of the largest ever raised in this country.

Potatoes are getting almost out of reach of poor man's mouth in this locality. Owing to the drought the early crop is almost a failure and late potatoes are not due yet for some time. They are selling 40 cents a peck for potatoes here at the present time.

Most people manufacture their own food—be it good or bad.

For More Than A Generation Hartford Has Been the Magnet For Saturday Afternoon Suburban Shoppers

Shall We Close Our Doors to the Throngs Our City Has WELCOMED MANY YEARS?

Thousands of Dollars have been expended to make Hartford the Recognized Shopping Center of Southern New England. What Benefits One, Aids All in this connection.

There Are Three Parties to Retail Merchandising
The Employer
The Employee
The Trading Public

When will the worker in our great industrial establishments find opportunity to trade if the leading stores are closed Saturday afternoons?

Factories run to 5 p. m. every day but Saturday. Can our industrial operations be served in one hour—from 5 to 6 P. M. daily?

Shall Hartford deny these deserving men and women chance to trade at home on Saturday afternoons? Shall the merchants turn keys in their doors and deprive the thousands in our factories their only chance of buying in the city where they earn their money?

SHALL THE GREAT TRADING CENTER HARTFORD HAS BECOME BE TRANSFERRED ELSEWHERE? ALL BUSINESS INTERESTS ARE BEST SERVED WHEN THE CITY'S PRE-EMINENCE IS MAINTAINED.

WE ARE OPEN FOR BUSINESS WHEN THE PUBLIC DESIRES TO TRADE.

LOCAL "KIDS" TELL OF COMMUNITY CAMP LIFE

The Open Air School Camp committee has received the following letter from two of the "kids" who took in last year's camp and hope to attend this year when the project is opened at the Community Camp at Lake Coventry:

"Only last year's generosity will be able to attend the Camp at Coventry this year. We are very fortunate to be among those children who enjoyed the Community Camp last year, and we want some of our friends to go with us this year who were not allowed to go last year on account of illness."

"The camp has been renovated and I hope will like to have Tony, Mike and those who went with us last year. We all appreciate the wonderful time you gave us. We had fun to eat and drink, and we had lots of fun in swimming, fishing and playing all kinds of games. We know it is only through the efforts of some kind hearted people that we are able to enjoy this wonderful trip to Coventry, and we will never forget it."

A benefit performance is to be given at the Park Theater this week Wednesday, July 11th, and we hope to see a large attendance at the theater on that night.

Your truly, Paul and Joe Rosetta.

AMERICANS HUNG UP RECORD BUYING LUXURIES LAST YEAR

Internal Revenue Bureau Figures Show Tremendous Increase in Business—Even Out-Distanced War Years Spending Automobiles Alone Hit Three Billion Mark.

Washington, July 11.—Americans hung up a new record for free spending, especially for luxuries, during the past year, the Internal Revenue Bureau said today.

The Bureau's records, classifying receipts for the eleven months ended May 31, latest date available, showed an unprecedented increase in business by manufacturers and merchants.

These figures, linked with those of the Federal Reserve Board and the Commerce Department, revealed that the past year's business was one of the best in the country, not even excepting the war years.

The Revenue Bureau estimated only certain groups of more fortunate taxpayers are the beneficiaries of the boom.

These groups, which include the wealthy, the middle class and the lower class, are the beneficiaries of the boom.

FRANCO-BRITISH SMASH

Premier Benes of Czechoslovakia Conferring Today With Lord Curzon—Not Expected to Swerve England From Course at This Late Stage—Allies to Be Invited to General Conference in Baldwin Note.

London, July 11.—Premier Benes of Czechoslovakia conferred today with Lord Curzon in final effort to avert the threatened rupture between England and France over the Reparations and Ruhr issues.

Benes, leader of the Little Entente and admitted to be one of the ablest statesmen in Europe, has been in Paris and has consulted with French officials on the questions involved.

While it was considered likely he might send some message from Paris to the British foreign secretary, it was not expected his mediation will be able to swerve England from her course at this late stage of negotiations.

A draft of the note that Benes plans to send to the Allies, in their participation in a general declaration of intent to withdraw from the Ruhr, was expected to be the subject of a conference in London.

One of the important features of this statement is the fact that it is a general declaration of intent to withdraw from the Ruhr, which is expected to be the subject of a conference in London.

The British Cabinet met again today to discuss the statement. It is expected that the British cabinet will be able to reach a decision on the statement today.
