THE SPECIALTY SALESMAN

There are no more peddlers, canvassers and agents. At least those engaged in the business of selling from house to house would have to believe. These gentlemen prefer to call on the specialty salesman, and the custom today is to call on an individual specialty salesman who does not sell for himself in other words, who sells directly to the consumer.

The specialty salesman of today sells from house to house. He is not the canvasser or peddler of yesterday. In fact, there is a vast difference in the methods employed by the characteristics of the individual and the method of selection of the individual. In some remote and more or less isolated cases, however, the old style of selling is still used to some degree. As a general rule, however, the specialty salesman better educated, better equipped and a far more clever salesman than the agent of a decade ago.

Not that some of the old style agents and canvassers were dishonest or unscrupulous. As a matter of fact, many of the old-time very honest, earnest and worthy men, their individual worth was not recognized by the public. The National Bureau of Investigation, which has been in existence for many years, has been successful in exposing the dishonesty of many of these old-time agents and canvassers. It has been found that many of these men were not only dishonest, but also unscrupulous. They were willing to do anything to get their goods sold, and they were not above using force or threats to accomplish their ends.
