Manchester it is noted that all the character of the Passamaquoddy tribe will be in evidence. They will be decorated in the full costume of their tribe; they will be in full regalia, and they will have an impressive band of drummers and dancers.

First in Town
This is understood to be the first time an encampment of Indians has ever been brought to Manchester, in fact, it will be the first time that part of Connecticut will have a large assemblage of real Indians from this to be seen and well known tribe as the Passamaquoddy Indians.

The Indians will be seen with the first of August, and they will be introduced with the Indians in the afternoon of the 14th, and they will be an extremely spectacular feature of the Centennial celebration. It is estimated as well. Much valuable information will be obtained from the Indians as to their life and customs. And when they appear to the public through the Passamaquoddy Indians, they will be a source of interest and pleasure to all who see them.
